Predict Pact On U. A. Sale During Week

with the authority from the executive committee on operations to pledge the insurance company's money.

Prudential, it is said, invests approximately $250,000,000 annually. The company is the prime backer of London Films, Korda's producing company. While here, Lever has been spending most of his time on business other than the U. A. purchase.

Meanwhile, reports persist Hemphill, Noyes & Co., in which Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, is a partner, will participate, either directly or indirectly. Griffis has had numerous meetings with Korda, not only during the current negotiations, but also when the London Films' head was here on his last trip.

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the 20th Century-Fox board, also has been consulted several times on the deal by interests involved, it was learned authoritatively yesterday. However, Schenck's interest has been out of friendship for the parties concerned and he will in no way participate in the deal, it was stated.

Schenck Goes West Today

Schenck spent the weekend at the Long Island estate of Nicholas M. Schenck. He will leave for the coast today, accompanied by Lew Wertheimer, his executive assistant; Jay Paley, uncle of William, president of CBS, and Ike Levy of Philadelphia. Schenck had planned to remain several weeks longer, but cut his stay short because of business matters on the coast.

Reports continue that David O. Selznick, who has been discussing an extension of his current U. A. pact, will not participate in the financing. However, he may get a revised distribution deal to his satisfaction. Admitted within the U. A. ranks is the fact that his pictures have been setting new records, not only in this country but abroad as well.

To put it briefly, one of the men sitting in on the discussions said yesterday:

"Although it was expected the deal would be concluded sooner, its scope requires more time, but the interests concerned now see eye to eye."

Maurice Silverstone, head of U. A. for England, plans to leave for Hollywood on his yearly trip in about two weeks. While on the coast he will attend the annual stockholders' meeting, which is to be held about the middle of November.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Manhattan Merry-Go-Round"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—Mark "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" down as a definite money-maker, one destined, judging by preview audience comment and reaction, as perhaps one of the best grossers in Republic's history. It has everything—well-woven story, neat production, skilful direction, good music, brisk comedy, excellent spacing of situation—treated by distinct novelty in filmusical plots and variety of marquee names.

There is a potpourri of talent—Phil Regan, Leo Carrillo, Ann Dvorak, Tamara Geva, James Gleason, Ted Lewis and his orchestra, Cab Calloway and his Cotton Club orchestra, Kay Thompson and her ensemble, Henry Armetta, Luis Alberni, Max Terhune, Smiley Burnette, and a fellow who really draws them in with westerns—Gene Autry—in a special sequence which throws the spotlight temporarily upon him.

This first production effort of Harry Sauber, veteran film writer, who wrote the original screenplay based on a musical revue of the same name by Frank Hummert, is literally a knockout as a picture.

Interspersed with musical numbers which run from opera to hi-de-ho, and sprinkled with comedy, the Sauber script and Charles Riesner's direction avoided situations which could have tripped the easy flow of the story and spotted musical numbers, supervised by Harry Gray, as subordinate to the plot.

Carrillo, more or less a racketeering money-lender, takes over a recording studio on which he has foreclosed following the plant's failure because of inability to get known performers for platters. Carrillo has his henchmen, headed by Gleason in a grand character, "Danny the Duck," bring in name people by force. He complicates the lives of Regan and Miss Dvorak, who are in love, by forcing Regan to court Miss Geva to influence her to make records for the firm. Everything turns out all right in the finale which presents Autry singing "Round-up Time in Reno," written by Autry and Jack Owen. The tune appears to be set for great popularity. Other songs are by Jack Lawrence, Peter Tinturin, Jerome Jerome, Richard Byron and Walter Kent.

The only complaints to be heard from patrons is that there isn't enough of Autry and that Armetta and Alberni merely have bits. The entire cast does well, and, properly plugged the production should satisfy exhibitors.

Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Swing It, Sailor"

(Grand National)

There is weak, reasonably pleasant entertainment in a minor key in "Swing It, Sailor," and the film is entirely acceptable as double bill material. There are flashes of battleship maneuvers and the takeoff of a flying squadron from a ship to engage in bombing practice, all of which serve to establish an interest-holding background to the comedy romantic affairs of a couple of sailors on shore leave.

Wallace Ford and Isabel Jewell have the leads, with Ray Mayer and Mary Treen in support. Ford is the idol of Mayer, and the latter, bigger than he is smart, does all Ford's dirty work. Consequently, Ford is interested in having Mayer re-enlist instead of marrying Miss Jewell, and does his best, by two-timing Mayer, to prevent the marriage. He succeeds, rather, in getting himself into hot water romantically, as Miss Jewel makes a play for him, and his scheme appears to be a boomerang.

But it is straightened out when Mayer is accidentally left aboard the target when he is knocked out, and Ford goes back to save him. Much in the way of suspense action might have been made of the rescue sequence, but the opportunity is ineptly handled and completely lost.

Raymond Cannon directed from an original and screenplay by Clarence Marks and David Diamond.

the latest in the Odeon Circuit and seats 2,300. The tally, U. A. officials claim, would be the largest of any film for seven days in England. The picture will continue indefinitely.

Following its runs at the New Odeon, "The Prisoner of Zenda" has been booked into G. B.'s West End theatres. It will also follow into the John Maxwell houses and then into Odeon units in January. U. A. sales executives state that this will be the quickest playoff ever known in England for a picture and they add it will shatter the six months' release plan. Ordinarily, a picture is not released to subsequent runs until six months after a first run showing.

"A Star Is Born" is now in its ninth week at the Tivoli and will continue for three more weeks. After the Tivoli engagement, U. A. has booked the film for six weeks at the Marble Arch Pavilion.

"Dead End" in a week will start a six weeks' run at the Gaumont, ace G. B. house. "Stella Dallas" is now in its third week at the Regal. "Knight Without Armour" is currently enjoying a seventh week at the London Pavilion. "Stand In" will succeed "A Star Is Born" at the Tivoli. The booking for "Stand In" calls for four weeks. When "A Star Is Born" leaves the Tivoli it will begin an immediate engagement at the Marble Arch.

Local U. A. offices have been in daily touch with Maurice Silverstone, in New York, by telephone. Silverstone has approved the bookings in this manner. He is not due back for some weeks, probably around Christmas.

"Marco Polo" Sales Aim at Scale Rises

statement on the sales policy for the Samuel Goldwyn picture, the company's publicity release declared that "the long anticipated advance in admission prices throughout the country will be inaugurated with the nationwide first run engagements" of the picture. With no general exhibitor movement for the increase of admission prices under way, the inference is clear that United Artists plans to make first run deals for the picture on the basis of a price increase in the houses to which it is sold. The picture will be booked simultaneously in all key cities during Christmas week, according to George J. Schaefer, United Artists vice-president and general manager.

The company reported at the same time that "a new record in played and earned figures resulting in the largest gross intake since the company was founded in 1919" was achieved during the week ended Nov. 5, last.

Skouras, Rosenberg West

Charles P. Skouras, operating head of F. W. C., and Mike Rosenberg of Principal Theatres, will leave Thursday for the coast via Union Pacific. Film Authors Seek Control In the League still others. The entire program, however, remains in a state of discussion between the guild and its parent organization and, pending its final determination, action will be postponed on the guild's initial move to obtain local autonomy, which was approved by the Authors' League council three weeks ago, but has not been submitted to the memberships of the organizations for ratification yet.

Under the plan for screen writers' autonomy, the guild would become an "affiliate" of, rather than a member of the Authors' League and would have as great or as slight a tie with the parent organization as it chose to effect. It would, however, have the benefit of joint action with other affiliated guilds in the event of emergencies. The move was admittedly undertaken to placate the Screen Playwrights, who have charged that the guild heretofore has been under New York domination.

The guild's present overtures, if local interpretations are correct, would appear to reverse the dominant roles in Hollywood's favor.

The screen writers' moves closely parallel the development of the Screen Actors' Guild to an already realized position of importance, if not of dominance, in the administrative affairs of its parent organization, the Associated Actors & Artists of America. Where Actors' Equity Ass'n once dominated the Four A's by virtue of membership strength, the younger Hollywood organization has succeeded to that position by the same means.

Exhibition in Holland Shows Heavy Decline

By PHILIP de SCHAAP

Amsterdam, Oct. 29.—Dutch exhibition is experiencing a steady decline, which is attributed in part to the general economic situation in the country, but chiefly to the Government admission tax of 20 per cent, in addition to other taxes.

Exhibitors in Holland, through the Dutch M. P. Federation, claim that they have no opportunity of showing a profit as a result of the heavy burden of taxes. The Government has shown no disposition to reduce the admission tax. Dutch exhibitors are paying approximately 4,000,000 florin per year in admission taxes, which amounts to 11,000 florin per year per theatre.

At the same time gross receipts are experiencing a continuous decline. In Amsterdam and Rotterdam receipts are off approximately 18 per cent. Also, since 1930, the average admission price has dropped about 34 per cent in Amsterdam, Rotterdam and the Hague.

In spite of restrictions on new theatres, the fixing of minimum admissions, the prohibition of coupon books and like measures undertaken by the federation, the federation claims the exhibitor's chances of profit are remote. The only hope for the exhibitors of the country, the federation insists, is a drastic reduction in the admission tax.

Cinesound Budgets $500,000 on 5 Films

Sydney, Oct. 13. (By Air Mail via London).—During the next year, Australia's almost lone producing unit, Cinesound Prod., will deliver five features. The company has voted an expenditure of £100,000 for production costs. Cinesound executives state that their new policy of almost continuous productions will reduce the studio's overhead.

Their confidence in local production arises out of the success achieved by "It Isn't Done." Indications of a repetition of that success are given by "Tall Timbers," which has clicked in Brisbane, the scene of its world premiere. Lloyd Hughes, who was brought from Hollywood to star in "Lovers and Luggers," now in the cutting stage, will be retained to play the lead in "The Broken Melody."

Says Children Work 60 Hours in Houses

London, Oct. 30.—Viscontess Astor asserted in the House of Commons, during questions as to the progress of the Ministry of Labor's inquiry into hours of film employes, that hundreds of children work 60 hours a week, and some of them 15 hours a day.

Ernest Brown, for the Ministry, replied that details of labor conditions in 4,800 theatres were being obtained with the cooperation of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n and that it was impossible to form any definite opinion until the investigation is completed.

White Sues on Radio Skit

Roger White filed suit in the U. S. District Court on Saturday for alleged infringement of his radio skit, "Fun in Swingtime," against Charles Dallas Reach, Tim Ryan, Irene Noblette, Fred Norman, the Bamberger Broadcasting System and the Mutual Broadcasting System. He claims to have originated the program in February, 1937, and to have created an audience of 5,000,000 listeners for the program.

On Oct. 17, he says a program using the same title, employing his artists and "consisting of the same material and general pattern" started on WOR and affiliated Mutual stations. Besides damages for alleged infringement of his copyright, an injunction restraining Tim Ryan, Irene Noblette and their manager, Fred Norman, from breaking an alleged contract with the plaintiff is asked.

Trophy

Oklahoma City, Nov. 7.—Ever since Gayle Grubb, WKY station manager, and Edgar T. Bell, WKY general manager, brought back several seven-foot sailfish from a fishing trip, M. H. Bonebrake, WKY advertising manager, has had to look at them hanging on the walls of WKY offices.

Now he has his own display. Over his desk is a specimen stuffed and mounted on a board. The inscription:

"Caught by M. H. (Deep Sea) Bonebrake. Hooked at 12:11 P. M., landed after terrific struggle 12:12 P. M., 12-ounce rod, 80-lb. imported Japanese silk line, piano wire leader, worm bait."

The fish is a three-inch perch.

Advertising Plugs San Diego Headache

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 7.—San Diego station bosses are nursing a number of prime headaches over the apparent shortsightedness of prospective sponsors.

Local accounts turn thumbs down on programs unless every other line of dialogue is a plug for the product, plus long-winded commercials at the start and finish.

Listeners find even the Mexican programs easier to take—and the result is that the local broadcasters' best creative efforts go out as sustainers, and usually die for lack of sponsorship, all because prospective time-buyers feel every second between plugs is just wasted.

WHN Gets New Contract

WHN will broadcast spot announcements for five weeks starting Nov. 15. The Caples Co. is the agency. Also, the Bernard Perfumers of St. Louis, starting Nov. 16 for 52 weeks will broadcast a program titled "Arthur Chandler—Organ and Chats." The program will be heard over the WLW line. Sel Johnson Co., Chicago, is the agency.

Ayers, seeking a 1,420-kilocycle, 100-watt daytime station at Anniston, Ala., and Michael J. Mingo, planning a 1,400-kilocycle, 250-watt daytime station at Tacoma, Wash.

WOPI in New Quarters

BRISTOL, Tenn., Nov. 7.—WOPI today will establish permanent studios in the Homestead Hotel, in Kingsport, 20 miles west of Bristol. The opening of the new studios will be celebrated with a gala program, in which salutes will be given to the large manufacturing concerns.

New Wave Length for CBS Station, W2XE

A new wave-length schedule for CBS international station W2XE, will be placed in effect Nov. 15, in order to insure efficient short wave operation during the winter months. The transmitter will be heard on antennas directed either at Europe or at Latin America from 7:30 A.M. until 12 Midnight on weekdays, with a slightly different schedule for Saturdays and Sundays.

There is to be one intermission in addition to several short periods of silence when W2XE's technicians will be changing wavelengths and antennas.

San Diego Stations Fight Interference

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 7.—J. Clark Chamberlain, executive manager of the local Bureau of Radio and Electrical Appliances, in a wire to the Inter-American Radio Conference in Havana, is protesting the opening of the new 100-watt XERB, scheduled to start transmitting soon at Rosarito Beach, Mexico. Chamberlain has pointed out that the interference difficulties already existing here will become much worse when the new station cuts in.

News Program Opens Today

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 7.—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. are the sponsors of a new morning news period over KFSD, local NBC-Blue outlet, effective tomorrow. Titled "Your Sunup News" and narrated by Dick Cutting, broadcasts will be heard daily. The contract is for three months.

New Milwaukee Station Opens

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7.—The new 5,000-watt W. E. transmitter, the last step in a $100,000 modernization program for WTMJ here, is now on the air.

New Shows On the Air

"Melody Puzzles"

Something really new and novel in the way of an audience participation program is "Melody Puzzles," the American Tobacco Co. series now undergoing a test on the Mutual network.

Short dramatic skits are enacted in which are given the title of a song. Members of the studio audience who are able to detect the song title nestling in the dialogue are rewarded with $5 in cash and a carton of Lucky Strike cigarettes. For listeners-in, the sponsor offers a like prize for acceptable melody puzzle skits. The program should catch on nicely, but shorter skits would remove the lag which was manifest during the opening broadcast.

Featured are Richard Himber and orchestra, Stuart Allen, vocalist, and Fred Uttell as "em cee." The orchestra and Allen supplied the music and chorals of the puzzle tunes.

"Melody Puzzles" is broadcast Tuesdays from 8 to 8:30 P.M. over Mutual under the sponsorship noted above. Lord & Thomas is the agency.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Thrill of a Lifetime"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—Produced by Fanchon, this light and tuneful fancy has about it a touch of the Fanchon & Marco "idea." There is a formal story, but it is of less importance than the individual performances of numerous exploitable personalities engaged, if but slightly in its narration.

These include the Yacht Club Boys, who go Ritz brothers without apology or need of any; Ben Blue, at his constantly better best in everything from pantomime to his classic ice skating routine; Dorothy Lamour, in an interpolated song number; Judy Canova, playing a part and also hillbillying with Zeke and Ann; Tommy Wonder, doing his familiar dummy dance; Larry Crabbe, Leif Erikson, Betty Grable, Franklin Pangborn, and Johnny Downs and Eleanore Whitney as the frequently forgotten romantic leaders. This collection of talent contrives to put by a lot of singing, dancing and comedy during the proceedings, the outcome being a screenworthy product of general usefulness.

The story, by Senna Owen and Grant Garrett, with added dialogue by Paul Gerard Smith, concerns a playwright who owns a summer resort and stages his own play in that setting with the aid of various unemployed professionals among his guests. Of course, everybody falls in love with somebody and the play is a hit, but the plot is never treated as more than an incidental background.

George Archainbaud directed with manifest intent to give the talent free rein. Frederick Hollander, Sam Coslow, Carmen Lombardo and the Yacht Club Boys collaborated variously on music and lyrics of the five original song numbers, the Canovas swinging a couple of ditties of obscure and possibly folk origin.

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—Paramount is apparently dropping its plans to co-star BOB BURNS and MARTHA RAYE, following their success in "Mountain Music." The studio has announced that MISS RAYE and BOB HOPE, new contractee, currently in "The Big Broadcast of 1938," will be co-featured in their next two pictures, "College Swing" and "The Wall Flower."

FRED MACMURRAY's next at Paramount, to follow "Men with Wings," will be "Vacation from Love," story by HARLAN WARE and PATTERSON MCNUTT. . . . ANN SHERIDAN has replaced JUNE TRAVIS in "The Mystery of Hunting's End." MISS TRAVIS is ill. . . . WILL JASON, songwriter at M-G-M, has been made a director in the short subjects department, drawing "A Canary Comes Across." . . . JULES LEVINE has joined Warners publicity department.

Casting—ERIK RHODES, VIRGINIA GREY, TOM KENNEDY, OSCAR O'SHEA, GEORGE COOPER, JOE CAITS, GEORGE TAYLOR and HARRY TYLER in "A Canary Comes Across," M-G-M short. . . . PRISCILLA LAWSON and LEO CARRILLO in "The Girl of the Golden West," M-G-M. . . . FERDINAND GOTTSCHALK and TORBEN MEYER in "Romance in the Dark," Paramount. . . . HENRY ARMETTA in "Everybody Sing," M-G-M. . . . JANE DARWELL, HALLIWELL HOBBES and GRANVILLE BATES in "More Than Love," Universal.

Music—WALT DISNEY is putting eight songs in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The titles are "The Wishing Well Song," "One Song," "With a Smile and a Song," "Whistle While You Work," "Hi-Ho," "The Washing Song," "Some Day My Prince Will Come," and "Isn't This a Silly Song?" They are by FRANK CHURCHILL and LARRY MOREY of the Disney music department.

Contracts—WADE RUBOTTOM has been signed as art director at M-G-M.

Writers—JOHN WEXLEY is working on the screenplay of "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," Warners.

Simmons Signs Pact

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—Michael L. Simmons has signed a year's writing contract with Columbia. It comes on the heels of five scripts for that studio in the last year: "Wonder Child," "American Legion," "Murder in Greenwich Village," "All American Sweetheart" and "Mayor for a Day."

"Barrier" Has Opening

SEATTLE, Nov. 7,—"The Barrier," Harry Sherman production for Paramount release, had its formal premiere Friday night at the Paramount here. Jean Parker and James Ellison, the film's stars, appeared, and the opening was broadcast from the lobby over the Mutual system and KOL.

Fields Leaves Republic

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7. — Leonard Fields, Republic producer, has settled his contract with the studio amicably, and has left the lot. He will take an extended vacation before announcing new plans.

Short Subjects

"Playing with Danger"

(Vitaphone)

The second of the "Your True Adventures" series with Floyd Gibbons is a thrilling film that will find good acceptance in all localities. It concerns a group of boys who go swimming in a railroad water tower while the stationmaster is away. A train draws up and lowers the level of the water making it impossible for the kids to get out. One of them almost drowns from exhaustion before they finally manage to get out. The other boys give him up for dead and load him on their donkeycart. The ensuing jolting forces the water from the unconscious one and he is later brought around. The incident is dramatically and realistically acted. The author of the yarn is also on hand to get his check. Running time, 13 mins. "G."

"From the Minuet to the Big Apple"

(Paramount)

Will Hudson's and Eddie De Lange's band provides the musical setting for this demonstration of the current dance craze which has been done better. Of course, the two band leaders manage to inject a few popular numbers they have composed and the dancers offer the insane gymnastics of the dance in the expected style. It will manage to hold interest. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"The Sitter Downers"

(Columbia)

The Three Stooges build their comedy around matrimony. But before they are wed they go on a sitdown strike against the girls' father who finally consents to the matches. They learn to regret it. What follows is a melange of slapstick activity interspersed with rather clever comedy lines as the trio attempt to erect a house that was given them as a publicity stunt. The comedy, which borders on the sadistic, is good for many laughs. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"The Foxy Hunter"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

Where Betty Boop cartoons provide a few minutes of animated merriment, this will fill the bill. It is the usual cleverly drawn stuff that pleases the entire audience. The theme is the hunting exploits of a youngster with Pudgy. The chase eventually concludes with an irate duck spanking the naughty hunter and his hound. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"The Clock Goes Round and Round"

(Columbia)

This Scrappy cartoon is different and imaginative stuff. Against photographic backgrounds Scrappy gets an idea to stop clocks. Everything else also stops. The plight of his dog makes him start the timepieces again and things finally are normal. Trick camera effects are used and one sees runners, automobile racing, explosions and whatnot in stop action. A good novelty. Running time, 6½ mins. "G."

Reflections

ON SHOWMANSHIP PROGRAMS

After all, nothing takes the place of variety . . . it's elemental showmanship . . . without good shorts, it just isn't there . . . and good shorts give a showman so much to "play with" . . . for example, just a few new releases of The Showmanship Shorts . . . there are big star names . . . Willie Howard, for one . . . there's smartness, cleverness . . . Jefferson Machamer and his "Gags and Gals" . . . music and romance . . . Niela Goodelle and Lee Sullivan in "Who's Who?" . . . a touch of goofy fun in Tim and Irene's "Heir Today" . . . youth and pep, with Herman Timberg Jr. and Pat Rooney Jr. hot-stepping in "Meet the Bride" . . . and the first sepia-toned cartoon, "The Dog and the Bone" . . . the year's funniest Terry-Toon . . . all excellent materials with which to build fine shows.

C.E.A., Labor Seen in Deal On Films Bill

Plan Reciprocal Support On Amendments

LONDON, Nov. 8.—With Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, believed open to persuasion on the idea of providing for a film commission in the new Films Bill, now in House of Commons committee, the legislative committee of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, is expected to ask the cooperation of the labor groups opposing the present bill in pressing for the commission, in return for support of labor's demands for revision of the measure.

Already more than 25 amendments have been offered by the opponents of the bill in its present form, and considerable revision of the measure is forecast. The major amendments thus far offered include: the employment of not more than one foreign technician on each film, the inclusion of a fair wages clause, employe representation on the administrative council, establishment of a film commission and a committee to view films for determination of quota eligibility, the deletion of clauses providing minimum

Makeup Row Curtails Columbia Production

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 8.—Production was curtailed today at the Columbia studios when the I.A.T.S.E. called out a number of men in a dispute in which the studio assertedly had attempted to have stars and featured players apply their own makeup. There were no picket lines but I.A.T.S.E. craftsmen failed to report for work and the players were paid off after a few hours of inactivity. The reason for the walkout, according to officers of the makeup union,

Spitz Delays on Briskin Job; May Stay on Coast Some Time

Hollywood, Nov. 8.—Leo Spitz is proceeding carefully in the search for a successor to S. J. Briskin as head of production at RKO. It is probable that the new appointee will not be named for some time.

In the meantime, Spitz is temporarily at the helm of the studio and is reported to be prepared to remain indefinitely.

While the president of RKO, it is understood reliably, has neither the intention nor the desire to switch his base of operations from New York to Hollywood, he is ready to stay until the executive reorganization at the studio is completed.

"Truth" Heads for $95,000 First Week

"The Awful Truth" is heading for a $95,000 first week at the Music Hall, it was indicated yesterday. The take for the first four days was $64,000. The picture will be held a second week with a third probable. "Heidi," at the Roxy, garnered $25,300 for the first three days and will do better than $50,000 for the week.

"Ali Baba" and "Wedding" Week's Box-Office Leaders

"Albi Baba Goes To Town," "Double Wedding" and "The Life of Emile Zola" were the highlight box-office attractions of last week at the nation's key city theatres.

The Cantor comedy took a strong $14,000 to lead at the Albee in Cincinnati, also led in Milwaukee, where it took a good $10,000 at the Fox Wisconsin, was outstanding, with a gross $5,000 over average, at the Fox Tower in Kansas City, and was a smash hit in Montreal, going over average by $2,500 at the palace, while the rest of the city's theatres were weak.

"Double Wedding" brought the biggest gross of the year. The Penn in Pittsburgh, with $22,500, was good in Minneapolis and St. Paul, took the lead in Oklahoma City, with $7,300 at the Midwest, held up well in its third week at the St. Francis in San

Alger Prunes Rockefeller's Claim on RKO

Reported He Favors Cut To $5,100,000

A tentative recommendation for a drastic reduction in Rockefeller Center's $9,150,628 claim against RKO highlights the preliminary report on the RKO reorganization plan issued over the weekend by Special Master George W. Alger.

The report, it is understood, recommends the reduction of the claim to $5,100,000. If treated as an unsecured claim under the provisions of the reorganization plan, Rockefeller Center would receive 38,250 shares of new RKO preferred stock and 76,500 shares of new common stock, in place of the 500,000 shares of new common which the plan originally proposed to issue to Rockefeller Center in satisfaction of the claim. The special master's recommendation, it is reported, is based upon the expectancy that RKO common stock will have a market value of $10 to $12 per share at the time of consummation of the plan.

The tentative report approves the reorganization plan in its basic principles in practically all other respects. Drastic reductions in claims against the company are proposed, however, with indications that the

Turtle Love

Warners last night used Western Union to send around town small live turtles as a gag for "It's Love I'm After." Trade paper editors' names and the title of the picture were penned on the inoffensive turtle's shell.

It was all designed, no doubt, to capture mention for the picture. This demonstrates how well the idea succeeded.

was the discharge of five men and the studio order to actors to apply their own makeup. Teamster Union members walked out in sympathy.

It was reported late this afternoon that the studio was attempting to contact the I.A.T.S.E. for the quick settlement of the walkout. The union move was the climax of the growing resentment of the attempts of other studios than Columbia to establish schools to instruct players in makeup. Difficulties over this practice on other lots have been settled.

It was estimated that 250 men were out. Sympathetic action by other crafts swelled the total to 500. The men all reported to work and walked out at 9 A. M. About 200 actors appearing in four pictures which were currently shooting on the lot were kept until 2:30 P. M. and then paid a full check. The I.A.T.S.E. headquarters here sent out wires to projectionist locals throughout the country informing them of the strike call.

allowable claims against the company, now amounting to slightly in excess of $21,000,000, may be scaled down to approximately $14,000,000.

The report, on the whole, is regarded as highly favorable to reorganization factors and is regarded in the main as auguring early completion of the reorganization on a basis favorable to the new company. While approving the plan's provisions for the treatment of the secured and unsecured creditors, as well as the holders of debentures and common stock, the preliminary report is said to recommend that no dividend be paid on the common stock until debentures are fully taken care of, presumably through retirement or conversion into common.

The report is understood to favor the proposed new capitalization set up in the plan, consisting of an authorized $18,000,000 of sinking fund convertible debentures, $11,000,000 of cumulative convertible preferred and 4,000,000 shares of common.

The report was issued by Alger for the primary purpose of permitting attorneys of record in the reorganization to familiarize themselves with its contents prior to the scheduled hearing on the RKO reorganization plan next Monday. On the basis of the tentative report they are expected to be prepared to argue for or against the indicated recommendations which Alger will make in his final report to Federal Judge William Bondy on the conclusion of the hearings. The plan is also subject to further hearings and changes before Judge Bondy.

Sale of Kromocolor Ordered Cancelled

the property, made known today that a new $60,000 bid has been made by the Border Realty Co., through a Newark attorney. The sale Nov. 16 will be open to the public and other bids are expected. Kromocolor, according to Krimsky, is the only fully equipped color laboratory in the east and is open for inspection.

Interests behind Border could not be learned. Vice-Chancellor Lewis has issued a show cause order, due Nov. 16, why the $60,000 should not be accepted.

With the collapse of the deal for the purchase of Kromocolor Laboratory, Paramus, by Joseph O'Donnell, it was reported yesterday that William Fox is not longer identified with British Chemicolor, for whom it was reported the O'Donnell bid was made.

Majors to Ask Stay On Dallas Decision

Erhard said the Government would oppose such an application.

"It may take a year or more to get this case through the Supreme Court," he said, "and we certainly do not want to hold up the victory we won in this case by having the judgment set aside and left inoperative until the higher court acts."

Attorneys for defendants did not agree that it would take "a year or more" to have the appeal determined. Pointing out that the case was brought by the Government and is entitled to a preference in the Federal courts in consequence, they estimated that the Supreme Court's decision might be expected by next March or April.

The defendants have until Dec. 13 to file their appeal. Some believe that the application to supersede may be made at the time of the appeal.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Last Gangster"

(M-G-M)

If "The Last Gangster" by any chance brings to a conclusion the long cycle of films of that nature, it does so in a melodramatic and thrilling manner that will register effectively at the box-office. Here Edward G. Robinson portrays a super-egotistical and self-styled underworld Napoleon. He is a racketeer first and a convict later. His hard-boiled characterization, at first, is entirely without restraint, but later, when he is helpless in Alcatraz on an income tax evasion rap, he gives a memorable portrait of near-insanity. The story mingles the reliable hokum with a domestic problem. It is also heavily shadowed with the underworld. The casting of the principal and supporting players permits Rose Stradner, James Stewart, Lionel Stander, Douglas Scott and John Carradine the opportunity to deliver first-rate characterizations. The story is a timely yarn, gruesome, realistic and as uncompromising in action as many of its characters.

The narrative opens in 1927. Robinson returns from Central Europe with a bride from his home town. A few weeks later he is arrested on the tax evasion charge. The Federal government finds him guilty and he is shipped to Alcatraz for 10 years. Meanwhile, Miss Stradner, his wife, becomes the mother of his son. The publicity attendant with being the wife of a public enemy opens Miss Stradner's eyes to the type of man she has married. When she brings her baby to see his caged father the visit brings her into contact with James Stewart, a newspaperman. Stewart takes her and the baby away from the Robinson ego and the yellow press to Massachusetts where he marries her.

The years pass and the child grows to know Stewart as his father. The domestic scene is one of utter peace and tranquility until time draws near for Robinson's release. Robinson, out of jail, meets his double-crossing former associates who fairly torture him into telling where he had cached his great racket lucre. Only when they bring young Douglas Scott into the scene and proceed to hurt the child does Robinson agree to talk. Later the pair return to the boy's home, where Robinson, full of fatherly anguish, remorse and heartbreak, finally sees the true state of things. He leaves the house and goes to his death at the hands of the brother of three of his victims whom he also manages to slay.

Edward Ludwig directed the picture with an eye to capturing heart throbs and dramatic value. He achieved this in good form. The story is based on an original by William A. Wellman and Robert Carson.

Running time, 81 minutes. "A."

"Trouble at Midnight"

(Universal)

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 8—Gangsters, forced from more lucrative rackets in the big cities by vice raids and the repeal of prohibition, have turned to rural areas, according to "Trouble at Midnight," and are not above purloining the dairyman's cattle and selling them to his neighbor at good prices.

Low price action and western policy houses will be the place best suited for this one, a story drawn from the Kimball Herrick yarns, "Night Patrol." It's one of the hasty make with generous action.

Noah Beery, Jr., top feature, is a dairyman who is fond of Catherine Hughes. She's Charles Halton's daughter, and he's a banker. The gang boys are Frank Melton and Ernie Adams, and it looks a bit shady for a while where Bernadene Hayes, counter hopping blonde, and Larry Blake are concerned. Earl Dwire is the town's newspaperman. Dwire must make an average of a picture a week viewing the number he's in.

The wartime friendship of a dead man for Larry Blake finds the dead one's brother, Beery, carrying on, even though the story indicates Blake is a yegg. Raids are made on dairy barns and losses are high, always with suspicion pointing to Blake, but he's shielded by Beery. The latter's judgment is finally vindicated.

Ford Beebe did dual duty, directing and co-authoring the screenplay with Maurice Geraghty. The associate producer was Barney Serecky.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Porky's Double Trouble"

(Vitaphone)

Humorous burlesque of The March of Time and a takeoff on a hit film of a few years back go to make a very satisfactory cartoon starring the comic pig. Porky, a bank teller, is kidnapped by a vicious gangster who also looks like him. The latter uses his resemblance to rob the bank. The piece concludes with a great deal of shooting and the eventual capture of the outlaw. It is good stuff. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Tuna"

(Paramount)

The commercial fishing for tuna off the coast of Lower California is vividly pictured here. The camera rocks all over the place with the motion of the sea, but, nevertheless, catches the big moments. These are the scenes where the 200 and 300 pounders are hauled in. The narrative is good and the film should be found an interesting departure from regular short subjects. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Frolics"

(Vitaphone)

A fair assortment of vaudeville acts is offered here. The performances move quickly and are topped off by the L. I. M. E. Trio, a comi-acrobatic turn that pleasantly ends the short. Also seen are the Stanley Brothers, dancers; Jack and Loretta Clemens, radio singing act, and Zeb Carver and his Cousins, a hillbilly troupe. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Little Match Girl"

(Columbia)

The well known fairy tale is treated to kaleidoscopic color in this new version and it screens as a pleasant bit of cartoon that will find great favor with the young audiences, particularly on those Saturday morning shows. The tinting and execution of the reel is clever and at times achieves beauty. It has the air of being thoughtfully produced. Running time, 8½ mins. "G."

"Land of the Kangaroo"

(Vitaphone)

Although the color is not quite up to what it might have been, this E. M. Newman Colortour Adventure proves interesting. The scenes on the continent "down under" reveal the modern and primitive aspects of life in Sydney, the interior and finally the big event of the Australian year, the Melbourne Cup Race. It also gives glimpses of government buildings, boomerang wielding and the main attraction in the menageries, the kangaroos. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Examinations Barred

An examination before trial in Los Angeles of Bradford Ropes, author of the original story of "Go into Your Dance," and Earl Baldwin, author of the screenplay and script, also Hal Wallis, in charge of production for Warners, was denied by Federal Judge John C. Knox in the U. S. District Court here yesterday in the $1,000,000 libel suit of Yermie Stern and Casino Prod., Inc., against Warners.

Judge Knox refused to allow the examination by written questions because he felt that an oral cross examination might be necessary. Stern and Casino Prod. are each asking $500,000 for alleged damage to their reputations as a result of the Warner picture.

New Chopper Times Deposit of Tickets

After working on the device for three years, Ralph Budd, personnel director for Warners, has developed a new type of ticket box designed to prevent collusion between cashiers and ticket takers in the re-sale of tickets. The new machine is called the Newman-Budd Chopper Box and is manufactured by Newman Bros. Mfg. Co., Cincinnati.

Eight removable compartments are provided so that each can be mechanically adjusted to the hour designated by a time disk. The disk is in black and white, the former for afternoon and evening sales and the latter for morning tickets. The time clock is set by the theatre treasurer and a connecting bell rings simultaneously in the box-office and ticket box when the hopper moves to a new compartment. Tickets are not mutilated by the hopper and can later be checked against time sheets made out by cashiers, or for tax purposes.

The device is now being installed in de luxe Warner houses. About six have them now. The exteriors are finished to suit colors of lobbies. Cardboard containers are being made up for the compartments so that inserted tickets can be shipped to New York, or other points, for double checking.

over the management and operations of Snider & Dean. Charles Munro, managing director of Hoyts, made the deal with Snider & Dean and Dan Carroll, the latter a partner in the independent circuit. Snider & Dean has three first runs in Sydney which will come under Hoyts management Jan. 1, when the deal becomes effective.

Last week, at a meeting of Hoyts' board of directors, an announcement was made to the shareholders that no new deal had been made with Greater Union and none was contemplated. The five-year alliance between Hoyts and Greater Union will expire Dec. 31.

With the addition of the Snider & Dean group, Hoyts will boost its total units to more than 70. It is also likely that further expansion will be undertaken at a later date.

Hutchinson was away three months and spent most of his time in Australia and New Zealand. No other foreign theatre expansion is planned, he said. After the first of the year, he will make a trip to the South American territories.

Melbourne Paper in Film Space Donation

SYDNEY, Oct. 15. (By Air Mail via London).—Victoria's leading national daily, the Melbourne Herald has made a practical gesture towards the industry in the form of a donation of space for institutional advertising to the value of approximately £400. The industry is using the space by taking 10-inch by three column advertisements each alternate day over a month's period.

The Herald's action is the aftermath of an application by the Victorian Exhibitors' Ass'n for a reduction of advertising rates for such time as children under 16 are banned from theatres during the infantile paralysis epidemic.

costs of £7,500 and £22,500, free admission to exhibitors at all pre-trade show openings.

Observers familiar with Parliamentary opinion are of the belief that the amendments most likely of success are the fair wages clause, employe representation and the establishment of a film commission.

An agreement on quota policy is expected between the labor interests and the producers, who will meet jointly on the situation. Concessions from both sides already have been achieved in preliminary conversations. The joint policy, when determined, will be presented to the Board of Trade, and probably will be incorporated in the measure during committee consideration. The joint policy will cover a separate quota for exhibitors and distributors, a minimum cost clause for the exhibitor quota, provision that no film registered for more than three years shall be available for quota, reciprocity on the Empire quota, and an increased quota for distributors.

Agreement on Policy Expected

Labor is understood to be opposed to the reciprocity schemes as concerning the United States especially, espoused by John Maxwell and the Ostrers. A demonstration by labor interests yesterday was attended by technicians, directors, electricians, actors, writers and theatre employes, with members of Parliament and Lord Strabolgi present. The speakers agreed on making representations to the Government asking increased quota percentages, a fair wages clause, the exclusion of alien interests and labor representation on the proposed advisory committee.

Best in 20 Weeks

M-G-M, in the midst of considerable excitement, yesterday reported "Conquest" is doing the best business at the Capitol in the past 20 weeks.

"Firefly," stated the company, is running 22 per cent ahead of "Maytime" at the Wisconsin in Milwaukee.

Francisco, and led the parade in Omaha, with $8,800, over par by $3,300 at the Omaha.

"The Life of Emile Zola" was a smash at the Madison in Detroit, where it more than doubled the house average, and doubled par in its second week at the Minneapolis Century.

"Something to Sing About," on a dual with "Madame X," was second best to "Double Wedding" in Omaha. "Lost Horizon" and "The Perfect Specimen," the former at the Fox and the latter at the Michigan, were strong in Detroit. "Stage Door" led in Seattle, with $8,100, and was moved to the Music Box. "Life of the Party," aided by stage show, was strong, but the rest of the Seattle houses were under average.

"High, Wide and Handsome" went $2,000 over average at the RKO Palace in Cincinnati, where "Double Wedding" and "Heidi" did fair business. "The Perfect Specimen," plus a stage show at the Stanley, was excellent with $20,250 in Pittsburgh, where the week was generally dull. "Life Begins in College" on a dual with "Borneo" in New Haven, took the lead at Loew's Poli, the rest of the houses showing little.

"The Awful Truth," dualled with "Counsel for Crime," was second to "Ali Baba Goes to Town" in Milwaukee. "Breakfast for Two," plus Fred Waring's band on the stage, took the lead at the RKO Palace in Cleveland, with $26,000, over par by $6,000. "Heidi" held up well in its second week at the Fox Uptown in Kansas City. "Stage Door" led the way in Philadelphia, going over average by $7,500, while the rest were weak. "The Awful Truth" took a strong $9,400, over average by $5,100 at the Metropolitan in Washington, where the Earle was the only other house to reach par, showing "The Perfect Specimen" with a stage show. "Stage Door" and "Dead End" were strong in Oklahoma City, with "Double Wedding" in the lead. "Breakfast for Two" was fair, behind the leader, "Double Wedding" in a generally weak stanza in San Francisco.

Pathe News Takes On Modern Dress

By CHARLES S. AARONSON

IN 1910 the famed Teddy Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, displaying his toothy smile, returned to this country from his much-heralded trip to Africa—and Pathe News took pictures of his arrival. That was 27 years ago. Today, Nov. 9, 1937, that same newsreel, revised, whipped into a new and brighter style, in news treatment, commentators and a wealth of those appurtenances, in the physical and technical aspects of production, which are a part of the making of the newsreel, will go to the theatres of the world.

The old rooster is gone! For these many years a symbol of Pathe News, which name came to have for the public the all-embracing connotation denoting all newsreels—and is still today—the proudly overbearing cock of the roost, is no more. In the RKO Pathe reel which emerges from what used to be, he may be discerned, amazingly reduced in size, perched in a corner of the end title, and seen, as a large, but extremely dim shadow, flitting across the world in the main title, merely a memory of yesterday.

Only a memory, for Frederic Ullman, Jr., vice-president in charge of operations of Pathe News, Inc., and the guiding spirit in the change that has come over the reel, does not like to think of that which happened yesterday. He is concerned exclusively with today, plus an ample consideration for tomorrow. Practical, vigorous and alert, he has plans and visions for Pathe News, and is beginning to translate those ideas into concrete form.

That transplantation of ideas into facts has taken the form of a new group of commentators to give the reel its voice, a completely rejuvenated physical makeup, in Pathe News' old 45th St. home, to bring the most modern and convenient facilities to the production of the reel, new ideas in treatment of the news, new tieups to make its contents of wider interest and greater authority.

Ullman has unbounded confidence in his charge, which has a lengthy heritage of names as executives and editors. Emanuel Cohen and Terry Ramsaye were among the heads of the reel in years past. "The responsibility of newsreels increases as they reach for larger audiences," says Ullman. "Its influence grows as it develops improvements in the technique of newsreel presentation. The spectacular and the superficial are the obvious sources of its material. To evaluate it fairly, to emphasize the important elements of the passing show, become the prime task of a newsreel producer."

"This is no simple task," Ullman declares. "The management of Pathe News realizes that entertainment is the first function of theatres. Hence its newsreel will be geared to entertain in the sense that its presentation of news will be lively, fast paced and attractive in appearance. We are prepared to keep alive the significant phrase, 'I saw it in Pathe News.'"

For the rejuvenation of the reel Ullman has arranged a tieup with Vogue, the fashion criterion, whereby the editors of that august style magazine will collaborate with Pathe News editors, reproducing the highlights of each issue as it appears on the newsstands. Adelaide Finch, assistant editor, will be the fashion director and contact with the magazine.

In his treatment of news, Ullman has the idea, and intention, of attempting to "get behind the news" to a greater extent than has been done in the past. He plans to be dissatisfied with the superficial, and, where that is possible, to look through it.

Something of an innovation in the field will be the human interest story. Among the new commentators will be David Ross, long in radio. Clem McCarthy will continue with his vigorous, peppy description of the sporting events which the reel will film. Andre Baruch, Paris-born, with years as a radio commentator behind him, seven of them with CBS, will handle the "voice" on general news stories. Arlene Francis, slated for a role in George Abbott's next play, "All That Glitters," who has spent the last three years on the radio, will be the "voice of fashion." Sidney Walton, once commentator and dramatic director of WBAL, Baltimore, now "m.c." for numerous air shows, will offer the vocal material on foreign and similar news films.

New titles have been designed by Albert Binder, the artist who has done work for Fortune Magazine in the past few years, and David Ross, Commentator, long known as radio announcer.

Clem McCarthy, Commentator, many years in the sporting field.

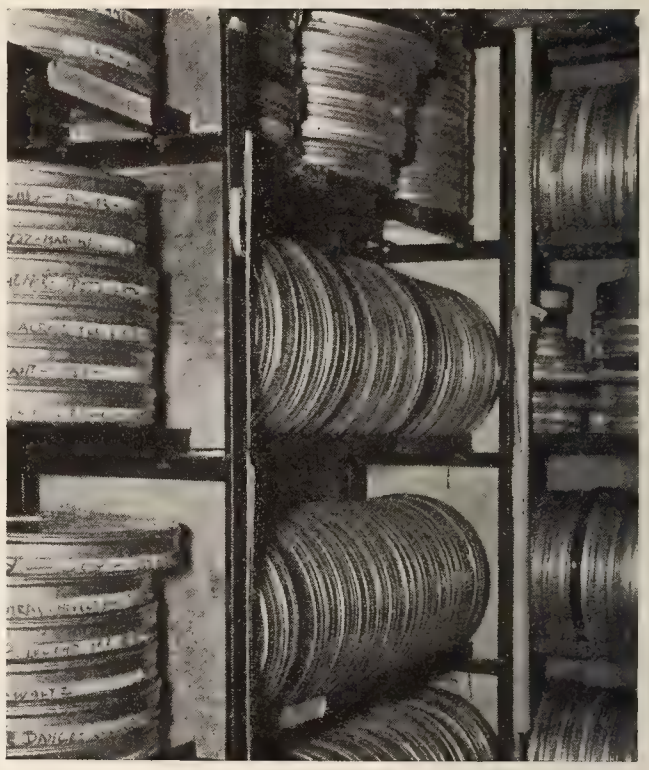
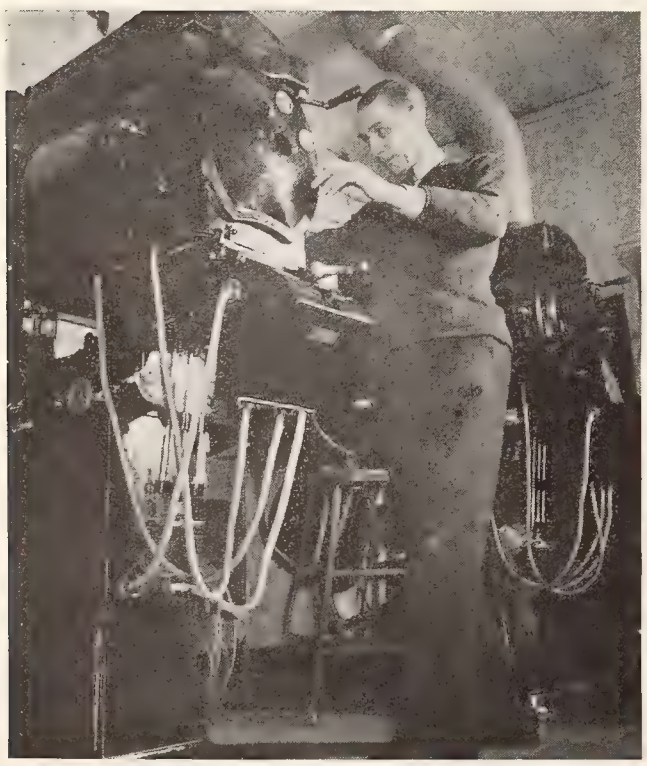
The Men Behind The Main Title

Recording the News. Cameraman and sound recorder train their apparatus on the passing show, making an indelible record for the edification and entertainment of the world at large.



The Reel's Voice. The commentator, with a script man in close cooperation, amplifies, explains, describes the screen's pictures, for transplantation to celluloid, to make the story complete.



Cutting the Reel. From the thousands of feet taken for every big news event, only the best must be culled, for the essence of the newsreel is brevity, commensurate with clarity.

The Film Vault. Wherein is stored finished reels, making a record for posterity of the news of today, and including, as well, recorded music for background and enhancing of news reproduction.

Projection. The finished reel, complete, is threaded into the projector for all the world to see, into projectors from Racine, Wis., to Rangoon, and spreading over all the space between.

The Title Frame. (Right) That which the audience first sees on the theatre screen, accompanied by a fanfare of distinctive music, foretelling of the reproduction of the world's news.

PATHÉ NEWS

Engineers have long realized the inherent difficulties in recording sound for news reels. Speed and portability have made demands not easily fulfilled.

The problem of combining rapid recording, easy portability and high fidelity sound has been solved by the joint efforts of RCA engineers and Pathé recordists.

As a result, Pathé has placed orders for all new RCA sound equipment, convinced that it's the finest for portable recording. New RCA equipment has also been installed in the Pathé studio.

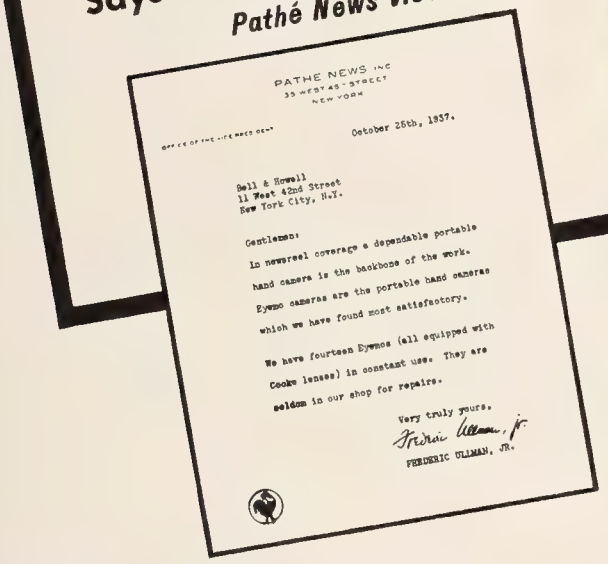
"BEHIND THE NEWS"

PATHE NEWS in spite of its twenty-seven years of useful existence does not stand still. Its management felt the need of new quarters, a modern plant to produce a modern product.

BUT the News had to continue uninterrupted production—in spite of the fact that its premises were to be rebuilt.

ERWIN S. WOLFSON, INC.
are undertaking this job, working nights and Sundays—adjusting their schedules so that the News can be compiled twice a week without delay or interference.

AT 35 West 45th Street, New York a modern plant will house Pathe News. Other space in the building will be available through Erwin S. Wolfson, Inc. Pathe News has seen fit to let us solve its building problem; it has also named us as rental agents of the Pathe Building.



NO film building in New York is better located; few offer such interesting opportunities for modern and reasonable space.

"Eyemo CAMERA THE BACKBONE OF NEWSREEL WORK"

PATHE NEWS, INC
35 WEST 45 - STREET
NEW YORK

October 25th, 1937.

Bell & Howell
11 West 42nd Street
New York City, N.Y.

Gentlemen:

In newsreel coverage a dependable portable hand camera is the backbone of the work. Eyemo cameras are the portable hand cameras which we have found most satisfactory.

We have fourteen Eyemos (all equipped with Cooke lenses) in constant use. They are seldom in our shop for repairs.

Very truly yours,
Frederic Ullman, Jr.
FREDERIC ULLMAN, JR.

Bob Donahue, ace Pathé News cameraman, with the Eyemo—his indispensable companion

Bob Donahue, veteran newsreel reporter of Pathé News, voices the opinion of camera newsgatherers when he says, "My Eyemo camera is an indispensable part of my equipment. Its small size makes it easy to hide, enabling me to take it into places where the taking of motion pictures is frowned upon."

He continues: "I always carry it on trips with the President of the United States for emergency use where time would not permit setting up tripods for large cameras. It is particularly adaptable for making reverse actions, which is done by simply turning the camera upside down while taking the picture. And I use it a great deal in making crowd pictures, such as cut-in shots of sports spectators. The uses of the Eyemo are unlimited."

THE EYEMO IS INDEED VERSATILE...

The new Eyemo is made with typical Bell & Howell precision—with a sturdiness that gives it unmatched dependability for the strenuous work which it is so often called upon to perform. Such features as three-lens turret, focusing and diaphragm controls visible through the spyglass viewfinder, interchangeability of auxiliary electric motors and external film magazines, standard S. M. P. E. sound aperture, and vibrationless governor assuring accurate speeds, make the new Eyemo even more perfectly suited to newsreel requirements than the popular earlier Eyemo models.

Write for literature describing the new Eyemo in detail—it will be mailed without obligation. Bell & Howell Company, 1801 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago. New York, Hollywood, London. Established 1907.

Pathe News in A Modern Dress

a completely new music library has been devised for the reel. A 50-piece orchestra will supply the musical backgrounds for the heavier material, martial music and the like, while a 28-piece group will furnish the accompaniment to the lighter stories.

In the old quarters of Pathe News on 45th St. the carpenters, plasterers, electricians and painters are falling over one another. The 15,000 square feet of space Pathe will occupy in the building, thus far, represent a complete rebuilding. Working from the top down are 14 entirely air conditioned film vaults on the 13th floor. The 12th floor will be occupied chiefly by a modern, automatic laboratory, with chromium and glass in abundance, wherein, if necessary, as many as 50 release prints an hour may be turned out. Specials will be finished in the building's laboratory, although the regular release printing will continue to be done at Bound Brook, N. J. All this will be ready by January.

Executives on Ninth

On the 11th floor are to be the editorial offices, screening room, cutting rooms and the like, the ninth will contain the executive offices, while the fourth floor will be for cameramen, with a camera repair and construction shop. An amazing innovation will be a shower for tired cameramen working late. Eventually the lobby of the building will be renovated and even the elevators are scheduled for a modern retouching.

New cameras, new lenses, new sound equipment, new commentators and virtually new working quarters are the backbone of what Ullman plans to do with the revised RKO Pathe News. The rest is a matter of ideas, and people to put them into execution.

"Future issues will bring additional improvements," Ullman promises.

The executive has drawn heavily from the ranks of radio for his new commentators, and Ullman declares that "Pathe is determined to adhere to a policy of editorial fairness. Its news pictures will speak for themselves. Its announcers will describe rather than philosophize. When it presents controversial material, every attempt will be made to present both sides of the story."

First Edition Ready; A Midnight Preview

Out of a welter of sound mixing, vocal rehearsals and "takes," negatives flashing off and on the small screen in the similarly small projection room of Pathe News, before renovation, as the hour of midnight and the shadow of the deadline loomed closer, there emerged the new Pathe News, a revitalized newsreel—and the result was good.

Imbued with a snap and sparkle vocally and pictorially which the reel definitely lacked in recent years before this rejuvenation, it is good enough to stand with the best. Subject matter may differ from issue to issue, from week to week, in inherent interest and popular appeal of one sort and another, but the basic materials of voice, camera work and technical facility were readily apparent, and they promise well for the future of the revised newsreel.

This particular issue, as the audience will see it, is interesting, diversified and intelligently handled, and the inclusion of the voices of the commentators is all to the advantage of the finished product. Each one knows his work and does it well. There is no attempt at coloration, as rightly there should not be, nevertheless the descriptive material, where that is called for, is punchy, clear and effective.

Green Addresses Windsor

This first issue of the reborn reel opens with a newsworthy clip, as William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, at Washington, officially invites the Duke of Windsor and his American-born wife to visit the United States, to make any sort of social or economic study he sees fit, and assures him of a hearty welcome should he come. The record-breaking attempt at a new land speed record by the English racing driver in Utah is a well handled shot, with the description of Andre Baruch clear and strong.

The celebration of the 15th anniversary of the Black Shirt march on Rome makes a significant and spectacular picture, with the vocal work of Sidney Walton especially good. Walton is likewise effective in an interesting clip of the return of the Pope to the Vatican from his country home.

In the fashion review, for which Pathe News has established an imposing contact with Vogue Magazine, and which Arlene Francis describes clearly in an attractive voice, the reel is especially effective. The material, and particularly the manner in which it is presented, should find full favor with the feminine contingent of the audience. Outstanding in its presentation is the use of mirrors, behind the model as she is seated, which enables the audience to see the back and front of the gowns at once.

A particularly effective, and likewise nationally significant clip, beautifully photographed, pictures the migration, under government auspices, of the poor mountain folk of the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia to more productive areas, while their shacks come down. David Ross handles the descriptive material effectively. Clem McCarthy is his usual peppy self in his descriptions of the Purdue-Fordham and Notre Dame-Pittsburgh football games, of which the highlights are shown.

A word for the clip titles, clear, printed in a modern faced type, neat and specific, without background news material, they are extremely effective. Also the musical scoring, much of which comes from an entirely new musical library compiled for the new reel, adds much to the effectiveness of the revised newsreel.

Running time, 11 minutes. A.

Westland Theatres In Shift of Policy

LINCOLN, Nov. 8. — A complete about face in policy of Westland Theatres here has been made. The Kiva, 440 seats, has been operating at a 15-cent top and carrying on with second run, while the Varsity, 1,100 seats, has been the class spot at a 25-cent top.

Under the new plan, the Varsity is running Westerns at 15 cents anytime, the Kiva being closed for remodeling and to open as the first run house, at 30 cents. City Manager Milton Overman will handle the operation of the Kiva and Ed Burke will take over the Varsity, replacing Alvin Hendricks, who goes to Colorado for Westland.

To Take Hartford House

HARTFORD, Nov. 8.—Proven Pictures, Inc., a newly organized Connecticut corporation, will take over the Cameo in mid-January from Hartford National Bank & Trust Co., which has taken title formerly held by Abraham Goldberg. The new operators plan to spend $25,000 renovating the house.

Hartford's first new theatre since the depression, the Webster Cinema, will open Nov. 19. It is a neighborhood house owned and operated by Maurice Shulman.

ARTA Cables Toscanini on NBC Layoffs

The American Radio Telegraphists' Ass'n, C.I.O. affiliate, has asked Arturo Toscanini to protest discharges of numerous employes by NBC. The cable to the conductor, who is in London, stated that NBC is giving the expense of the forthcoming Toscanini series as the reason for the discharges.

The cable reads: "NBC discharging employes citing cost of your engagement necessitates budget slash. This organization confident that you, as an artist and a liberal, will not tolerate this misuse of your name and urges that you take immediate steps to force NBC to admit these discharges part of vicious open shop policy and stop attempting to conceal anti-labor activities under the cloak of the expenses due to your engagement."

The cable was sent by Kendall E. Davis, vice-president of the Broadcast Division of the A.R.T.A., with the approval of Mervyn Rathborne, head of the A.R.T.A.

Apprised of the A.R.T.A. cable to Toscanini, Lenox R. Lohr, NBC president, cabled the following message to the maestro:

"False," Says Lohr

"Cable to you from Kendall has come to our attention. The statements are entirely false. The A.R.T.A. are members of the CIO and their message seems to be motivated by some inter-union controversary as the musicians belong to the A. F. of L. NBC has not cited your engagement as reason for discharging anyone, but, to the contrary, your engagement has resulted in the employment of 55 additional union musicians. The few people released some weeks ago were in no way connected with your engagement, but were due to readjustment of departments motivated by sound business practice. That there were any anti-labor activities involved in this is preposterous and we deplore this unjustifiable annoyance to you."

A.R.T.A. President Rathborne, informed by this publication of the nature of the Lohr reply, said that there was no question of rivalry between the A. F. of L. and the CIO in this particular matter. He said he was glad to hear that musicians had been added to NBC's payroll as a result of the network's engagement of Toscanini, but that at the same time his organization was in sympathy with those who had been let out. He said that many of those discharged had approached A.R.T.A., stating that NBC had given as its reason for their discharge the high expense of putting on the Toscanini broadcasts.

No official estimate of the number of employes recently discharged by NBC has been given, but their number is reported to be approximately 75 in New York, with additional discharges in other key cities.

Spears, Brown to Hollywood

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8. — Harry Spears and James Brown, KPO technicians, have been transferred to NBC's technical staff in Hollywood, according to A. H. Saxton, western division engineer.

Higgins Leaves CBS To Form Own Firm

Don Higgins, acting director of publicity of CBS, has resigned to form his own public relations bureau. Pending the designation of his successor, he has been replaced by Luther Reid, news editor.

Higgins has been with CBS for the past six years, the past year as acting director of publicity. He succeeded Jap Gude to the post when Gude was advanced to serve as assistant to the head of the station relations department. Prior to his CBS affiliation Higgins was with NBC, and before that was with the United Press as a Washington correspondent.

P & G Buys 5 Hours Weekly on CBS Web

Procter & Gamble, greatest buyers of radio time, yesterday purchased five hours weekly on CBS, beginning Jan. 3. It is one of the largest bulk time orders ever written by CBS and marks the end of the virtual monopoly NBC has enjoyed with P. & G. Last year P. & G. spent approximately $3,000,000 for radio time, all with NBC save for spot and recorded business.

The order is for four quarter-hour strips, Mondays through Fridays. The schedule is as follows:

9:30 to 9:45 A. M., "Road of Life," for Chipso. The series will originate in New York and will be broadcast coast-to-coast.

10:45 to 11 A. M., "The Goldbergs" for Ivory Soap from New York to Chicago, and "Ma Perkins" for Oxydol from Chicago westward to the Pacific coast.

2:15 to 2:30 P. M., "The O'Neils" for Oxydol from New York to Chicago, and "Kitty Keene" for Dreft from Chicago to the west coast.

4:30 to 4:45 P. M., "Guiding Light" for Naptha, coast-to-coast.

Three agencies are involved in the transaction, Compton & Co. for Ivory and Naptha; Pedlar & Ryan for Chipso; and Blackett-Sample-Hummert for Oxydol and Dreft.

The dramatic serials mentioned above all are currently heard over NBC networks. It is not known yet whether they will be duplicated over both NBC and CBS or will be cancelled over NBC. The order, however, is definitely marked as an "expansion of P. & G. radio activities," therefore it is presumed that the company will not curtail its current expenditures over NBC, but will supplement its schedule with the CBS time.

Two More for NBC

Two Canadian stations will become affiliated with NBC Nov. 14. They are CBM and CBF, both in Montreal. NBC already has CFCF as a Montreal member.

CBM will take the Red network programs. CBF, a French language station, will be available either to the Red or the Blue and may also be used in combination with either CBM or CFCF. CFCF is a Blue network affiliate. CBF is a new station which will go on the air officially for the first time Nov. 14 with a power of 50,000 watts. CFCF and CBM each has 5,000 watts power.

With the new additions NBC will have 144 affiliates.

New Canadian Radio Policy Irks Dailies

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—The program expansion of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. from six to 12 hours daily on a continuous basis has had an unexpected development that may bring a reconsideration of policy on the part of the Government-owned network.

The lengthening of the daily broadcasting period from noon until midnight under the supervision of the new general manager, Murray Gladstone, who was brought from England by the Dominion Government to reorganize the Canadian system along the lines of the B.B.C., was accompanied by the practical elimination of commercial programs which had been sponsored by business enterprises or large industries.

Comment Curtailed

The immediate result was that Canadian daily newspapers chopped down current radio comment to a negligible quantity, little or no space being devoted to references to individual programs each day. The obvious reason is that, without commercial sponsorship, the daily broadcasts now hold little prospect for advertising tieups or support for the newspaper in exchange for news mentions. Thus the radio department of various important dailies has become largely a log of the current broadcasts in the briefest possible form as a matter of news and service to readers.

Officials of the C.B.C. had emphasized that fans would be entertained by 12 solid hours of radio programs entirely free of commercial advertising. Later it was said that it was too early to make any statement with regard to how the new schedule was being received by the listening public, but they were certain it was successful from an entertainment viewpoint. There was also the promise that the Government network, which includes nearly all stations in the Dominion on an owned or controlled basis, would increase the number of broadcasting hours as time goes on. But there may be repercussions, political or otherwise, regarding the shutting off of commercial features during the C.B.C.'s lengthy schedule each day.

New Music Contract Is Signed with WGN

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—WGN has made a three-year contract with the local musicians' union effective from Jan. 16, 1938, to and including Jan. 15, 1941. The contract calls for a 40-hour week of five days with eight hours availability per day and five hours rehearsal and broadcasting each day. This places the staff musicians of WGN on the same five day week basis as all other workers.

No changes will be made in the present weekly salaries of the musicians until the year 1940, when the scale shall be increased $10 per week for both sustaining and commercial broadcasting.

Increases were also granted in the solo and single engagement services, and slight increases were granted in the salaries of staff arrangers. The minimum number of musicians required was raised in the present contract from 15 to 20, but WGN has long since exceeded that number of staff musicians.

New Shows On the Air

Pepperell Fabrics Show

Dr. Karl Reiland's inspirational talks, presented by Pepperell Fabrics, make a welcome addition to the network fare. Dr. Reiland in his opening broadcast spoke forcefully and entertainingly on the need of people opening their minds to new ideas and urged all to conduct their affairs with less selfishness and more sacrifice, citing as examples the careers of Dr. Louis Pasteur, Galileo and other famous scientists.

Prior to making his debut on the networks, Dr. Reiland was "tested" on southern stations by his present sponsors where his talks rapidly won favor, resulting in the network bid.

Copies of his talks are offered gratis to the listeners. George Cook, at the organ, provides incidental music. The period is broadcast Fridays from 7:15 to 7:30 P.M. over the NBC-Blue network. Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn is the agency. BANNER

Academy Asks Guild Aid on Annual Awards

Actors Asked to Vote; Others May Follow

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—For first time since inauguration by the Academy in 1927 of the system of annual awards for achievement the organization of producers and creative talent this year will turn to outside organizations for support in its yearly poll. The Academy has sent a letter to the Screen Actors' Guild, which has supplanted the Academy in economic relations between actors and studios asking the Guild to select award recipients in the acting division.

The senior guild board, meeting Monday, will study the proposition with all probability that favorable action will be taken. Other talent groups such as the Directors' Guild, whose membership is more representative of their craft than the Academy branches also will be asked to designate award recipients, it is understood.

Designation of the Screen Playwrights or the Screen Writers' Guild, now engaged in a jurisdictional dispute as the writers' voting unit may await a decision by the National Labor relations Board or the Supreme Tom D. Cochrane, one of the industry's real pioneers, and for the past 15 years general manager for Paramount in the Orient, died yesterday morning at St. Luke's Hospital of cerebral thrombosis. He had arrived from Japan, where he made his headquarters, three weeks ago in ill health and for observation. He was seized with a paralytic stroke on Sunday evening and never regained consciousness. He was about 65 years old.

"The Hurricane" Gets Gala Premiere at 2-a-Day Astor

The fur and white shirt brigade turned out en masse and as usual last night for the opening of "The Hurricane" at the Astor Theatre.

The police were good-natured, but also insistent. They kept the crowd moving, but they were also pretty swell about those who waved the magic tickets that opened up travel lanes from curb to lobby.

Samuel Goldwyn held sort of unofficial court in the rear of the orchestra. Hard by the ticket chopper was Ben Washer, his eastern press representative, greeting the arrivals. George Schaefer smiled from his aisle seat and behind a huge expanse of boiled shirt. A few minutes after nine o'clock in walked the David O. Selznicks and, although it had nothing to do with it, that appeared to be the signal to go.

Against a drawn curtain, a sound track played "The Hurricane" overture, written by Al Newman, with

Deny a Hitch In U.A. Sale Negotiations

Conclusion Is Forecast For This Week

Despite reports to the contrary, the Samuel Goldwyn-Alexander Korda deal for the purchase of control of U. A. is progressing "smoothly" and conferences "will probably wind up this week," it was stated yesterday from an official source.

Reports yesterday had it that the deal had been called off as those interested could not get together on some of the details. These, however, were denied with the rebuttal that there is a "a complete understanding" between the interests involved in the negotiations.

Attending the closed sessions are Goldwyn, Korda, E. H. Lever, secretary of Prudential Assurance Co. of England, and David Rose, financial adviser and vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc. An official announcement is expected either late this week or early next.

Discussions on the extension of David O. Selznick's pact have not been held for a few days, it was stated. Joseph M. Schenck, who has been consulted on the negotiations, is slated to leave for Hollywood today.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sh! The Octopus"

(First National)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—This was probably produced with a tongue-in-cheek attitude as a detective story to end all detective stories, and resulted in a hilarious farce, which had the preview audience completely captivated. The first of a series of possibly four pictures in which Hugh Herbert will get top billing, "Sh! The Octopus" is as mad a combination of laughs as has been placed on celluloid. Herbert shines in his familiar characterization which has made him quite popular. Supporting him are Allen Jenkins, Marcia Ralston, John Eldredge, George Rosener, Brandon Tynan, Eric Stanley, Margaret Irving and Elspeth Dudgeon.

Herbert and Jenkins are policemen who become involved in an investigation to find "The Octopus" after tracing it to its lair in an abandoned lighthouse, where they meet the other seven characters. They suspect all of them of being "The Octopus," which is never exactly defined except as some sort of master criminal attempting to steal the death ray of a scientist. During the course of the probe, huge tentacles reach through mysterious doors of the old building and encircle one or more of the characters and carry them off, never killing anybody, however. Then, as the climax is reached, each of the suspects identifies himself as some sort of officer, each seeking to prevent "The Octopus" from obtaining the ray, with the exception of a woman, who discloses herself as the villainess.

Just as the discovery is made, the story breaks suddenly and the next scene shows Herbert being awakened in a hospital where he had been dreaming all of the foregoing, following his fainting upon the news of the arrival of a baby to his wife. Jenkins is there with him, and all of the players seen in the dream are doctors and nurses attending Herbert, with the exception of his mother-in-law, who, in the dream, is "The Octopus." The finale has Jenkins fainting as he discovers that his wife has borne him twins.

This unbelievable story, the original screenplay for which was written by George Bricker based on the plays, one by Ralph Spence and the other by Ralph Murphy and Donald Gallagher, is offered by Producer Bryan Foy and Director William McGann in such a convincing manner that the preview audience seemed inclined to look upon the planned impossibilities of the story, such as the huge tentacles appearing in the mysterious doorways and Herbert's underwater fight with an octopus, as plausible occurrences, and then enjoyed the denouement as a hoax.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Second Honeymoon"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—Few write the Philip Wylie type of light fiction and almost nobody gets it from page to screen without at least partial sacrifice of the verve, lilt and rebound that make such stories as "Second Honeymoon" sell out editions of such magazines as the Red Book. Yet this is the neat and extremely worthwhile trick achieved by associate producer Raymond Griffith, director Walter Lang and by screen playwrights Kathryn Scolla and Darrell Ware, with the distinguished cooperation of players Tyrone Power, Loretta Young, Stuart Erwin, Claire Trevor, Lyle Talbott, J. Edward Bromberg and (an upper case AND) a Marjorie Weaver who appropriates every scene she's in to her imminently stellar uses. A cast like this in a picture like this is the thing exhibitors and producers stay in business for—and by.

A synopsis is not indicative. In a word, Power and Miss Young meet in Miami a couple of years after she has divorced him and married Talbot. They discover they still love each other and another divorce and marriage are in prospect at the fadeout. That could be a drama, melodrama or preachment. The picture is none of these. It's bright, contemporary, clean, glib, logical, legitimate comedy, touching now and again the edges of satire and veering away from emotionalism whenever the drift is in that direction. Smart is the magazine term for Wylie fiction and for this filming of it.

Power is splendid and Miss Young equally so in the principal romance, but Miss Weaver's performance opposite Stuart Erwin in the secondary love story captured the preview audience so completely that hers was the name heard above all others in the clogged aisles and foyer after the screening. Talbot, Bromberg and Miss Trevor give sparkling portrayals. The result of singularly harmonious effort by all hands is an all-purpose, all-audience, all-occasion picture of quality.

Educational Signs With Actors' Guild

Educational Pictures yesterday signed a contract with the Screen Actors' Guild covering all of that company's production activities in the east, Mrs. Florence Marston, eastern representative of the guild, stated. Educational has been complying with the guild's contractual provisions since the "guild shop" was placed in effect here during September, but delayed signing a contract until arbitration provisions were clarified.

The signing of Educational will be followed within the next week or 10 days by a vigorous guild drive against the remaining non-signatory eastern producers, it was learned. The principal non-signatories now are March of Time, whose petition for classification as a newsreel has been denied by the guild; Mentone and Pathe commercial film division. Indications are that the guild will set a deadline for the signing of these and any others not now signed up, upon the expiration of which non-signatories will be placed on the guild's "unfair" list.

Court over which shall be the collective bargaining agency. However, in the event the dispute is not settled by the time the awards machinery has been set up each group may be asked to participate and then the total membership vote tallied.

Decision to ask other organizations to participate in the awards voting came as a result of raids made upon the Academy branch membership by various talent organizations such as the actors,' writers' and directors' guilds.

Academy leaders seeking a representative vote of each branch of the industry feel that the move will avoid any criticism such as has happened in the past of the voting procedure. Inasmuch as the Academy has withdrawn from all economic fields in connection with talent and producers no opposition from craft organizations is expected.

Inquiry Is Started Into Coast Unions

as committee chairman, told Bioff, "We plan to scrutinize the records of the I. A. T. S. E. We have heard of conditions bordering on a racket, with men coerced to join unions in which they have no voice or vote. We want to know just how that organization is being conducted."

Bioff, on the witness stand at a short session yesterday, admitted that the Columbia strike was called not by a vote of the local unions, but by orders of the president of the I. A. Questioning brought out that four I. A. studio locals held no meetings and have had no election of officers during the last three years, and that they are run under the general direction of I. A. officers.

Outside Readers Not Employes, Is Ruling

the meaning of the Social Security Act under a ruling made public today by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

It was explained that the outside readers call at the offices of the companies and literary material is turned over to them for the purpose of preparing a synopsis before a certain date. The individuals are not under contract and are paid upon the submission of the completed work at a fixed rate for each separate item. The company exercises no control as to the place of work or the hours during which the reader performs service, and the latter is accordingly held to be an independent contractor and exempt from the taxing provisions of the Social Security Act.

"The Hurricane" Gets Gala Premiere at 2-a-Day Astor

lyrics supplied further along by Dorothy Lamour, the feminine lead of the picture, for a number, also specially written and called "Moon of Manukura." It was a two hour show, less a couple of minutes and it broke promptly at 11 P. M.

United Artists was represented by virtually its entire list of executives Glimpsed in the audience were many circuit buyers, including Charles and George Skouras, upholding the family tradition while Spyros is vacationing abroad. Y. Frank Freeman of Paramount was prominent among those in attendance as were John D. Hertz, Moss Hart, Jules Glaenzer, Walter Wanger, David Rose, Ernest Lever, Mary Pickford, Buddy Rogers, George Balanchine, Fannie Hurst, Ben Hecht, W. G. Van Schmus, Leon Netter, Joseph Bernhard, William T. Powers, Nate Blumberg, John O'Connor, Gus Eysell, Barney Balaban, Nicholas M. Schenck, Mike Rosenberg, I. J. Hoffman, John Nolan, Clayton Bond, Joe Vogel, Charles C. Moskowitz, Rufus Le Maire, George Arliss, William Powell, Margot Grahame, Max Gordon, John Hay Whitney, William Paley, James A. Mulvey and a flock of others.

Heavy Publicity Campaign

An unusual feature of the United Artists exploitation and advertising campaign for the New York run was the use of a coupon arrangement in the ads spotted in suburban and regional newspapers in the metropolitan area. Special copy of this character was spotted in papers in Westchester, New Jersey and Long Island. The coupon, designed to facilitate seat reservations, enables readers to reserve seats by mail.

Donahue & Coe, Inc., which developed the campaign in collaboration with Monroe Greenthal, United Artists director of advertising and publicity, and Ben Washer, publicity representative for Samuel Goldwyn, producer of the film, is making a careful check of the results of the experiment with the coupon reservation idea.

A second interesting feature of the campaign, in addition to the regular use of large-sized ads on the amusement pages of the dailies, was the spotting of ads on other special pages. The woman's emotional angle of the picture was stressed in copy appearing on the women's pages of the papers, the book page ads were a direct tieup with the book by Nordhoff and Hall, from which the film was adapted, and sporting page ads emphasized the elemental conflict, with appeal designed for the attention of men.

Metropolitan Ads Large

Ads in New York dailies ran as large as 1,050 lines, with full pages in the tabloids. The campaign is claimed to be the biggest, in terms of money expended, in the history of the Astor, and probably the biggest since Goldwyn's "Nana," five years ago. The total cost of newspapers, posting and electric signs will be well over $50,000.

Drama Guild Attacks Bureau of New Plays

An attack on the Bureau of New Plays, which was founded by film companies for the discovery and encouragement of new playwrighting talent at the time of the companies' withdrawal from Broadway play financing, was launched by the Dramatists' Guild at its annual membership meeting at the Lincoln Hotel yesterday.

Resolutions were adopted by the meeting calling upon the council of the guild to investigate the possibility of amending the constitution of the organization so as to deny active membership in the guild to any one identified with the Bureau of New Plays as an officer or participant in its playwrighting contests; to require the resignation of any active member of the guild so associated with the bureau at present, and to launch a legal investigation of the propriety of an officer of an organization using the guild's contract serving as an officer of the Bureau. The last named resolution apparently is aimed at Theresa Helburn, an officer of the Theatre Guild, which uses the Dramatists' Guild contract, and who is also an officer of the Bureau of New Plays. A resolution also called upon the Bureau to eliminate mention of the Dramatists' Guild from its prospectus and other literature.

No Pact Change Discussed

It was the sense of the meeting that associate membership in the guild could not be denied to associates of the bureau or participation in its contests, but that active membership may be. Associate members of the guild are not entitled to a vote in any organization affairs.

There was no discussion at the meeting of any change in the guild's contract for the sale of film rights to plays. It was the terms of this contract which brought about the withdrawal of film companies from Broadway play financing.

All of the guild's nominees for officers and councillors were elected. The slate consists of Robert Emmett Sherwood, president; Edward Childs Carpenter, chairman of the council; George S. Kaufman, vice-president, and Richard Rodgers, secretary. New councillors are Rachel Crothers, Phillip Dunning, Paul Green, John Howard Lawson, Melvin Levy, Elizabeth McFadden, Eugene O'Neill, Arthur Richman, A. E. Thomas and Sophie Treadwell. Ten councillors are elected for three-year terms annually.

The annual elections of the Authors' League are scheduled for today at the Lincoln.

Settle Mexico Strike

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—Employes of the eight leading theatres in Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city, decided it would be cheaper to compromise on their demands for higher wages and other economic benefits than to put into effect a threatened strike. They were coldly told by other labor organizations that they would get no sympathy if they struck. Without support, the film workers figured their strike would be fruitless. So they pared down their wage boost demands to five per cent of the 30 per cent asked, waived other requests which had been filed and returned to the job.

Kuykendall Ready For Industry Meet

reactions to a proposal for a national meeting in New York to discuss fair trade practices.

In his wire to Brandt Kuykendall said: "Will gladly participate any discussions sponsored by you, or anyone else, pertaining to fair trade practices in the industry, if they have sincerity of purpose and all parties involved are invited to participate. My present trip prevents my being in New York before early December."

A. F. Myers Is Silent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied, today referred all inquiries on the New York meeting for a discussion of trade practices to Nathan Yamins, president.

Nathan Yamins recently advised Harry Brandt, head of the I. T. O. A., he would attend the New York session on trade practices, but could not promise action without the Allied national board. He said that anything agreed upon at the meeting would have to be submitted to the Allied board for action, adding that the organization would not drop its legislative moves.

Allied-ITOA Will Confer Bi-Monthly

Starting next week, committees of five from Allied of New Jersey and the I. T. O. A. will meet twice monthly to discuss mutual problems, it was stated yesterday, following the appointment by Irving Dollinger of Maury Miller and Lee Newbury to the Allied committee. Dollinger, Morris Marks and Louis Gold had previously been named to the committee. Under arrangements agreed upon, five members from each organization are to be represented at committee meetings.

The annual boat ride yesterday was postponed by Allied from Nov. 30 to Dec. 16. Instead of the Queen of Bermuda, the new boat will be the Monarch of Bermuda.

The local Allied organization has taken no official action against Paramount's sales policy, Dollinger said yesterday. While the unit went on record some time ago in support of an action taken by Allied directors in Chicago, members of the New Jersey group have not been advised to act concertedly, Dollinger added.

The M-G-M air shows were not discussed yesterday and members showed no concern over the program, it was stated. The next Allied gathering will be held at the Cochrane House, Newton, N. J., Nov. 23.

Advance Ohio ITO Meet

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9.—The annual convention of the I.T.O., Ohio, will begin on Monday, Dec. 6, and continue through Wednesday, instead of opening on Tuesday, as heretofore planned. This is the first time that more than two days have been given over to the convention.

Form Exhibition Unit

DOVER, Nov. 9.—Northio Theatres Corp., listing 200 shares of no par value, has been formed here to conduct theatres.

Officials Reelected By Oklahoma MPTO

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 9.—Morris Loewenstein, president of the Oklahoma M.P.T.O., today was reelected president for the eighth year along with all other officers and directors, including Leonard A. White, vice-president, and Orville Enloe, secretary. Directors reelected are Max Brock, Harry Loewenstein, Homer Jones, Ralph Talbot, L. C. Griffith and Fred Pickrel.

The features of today's program were talks by Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, on the 10-point plan and Col. Harry A. Cole, president of Allied of Texas.

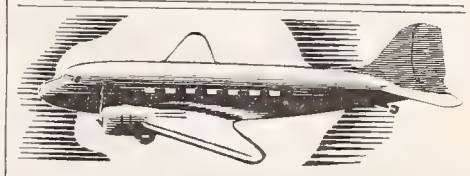
Another feature, at noon today, was the appearance of Colleen Moore.

"Methods of selling pictures will have to be changed," Kuykendall said in his address. "The time is coming," he added, "when a picture will have to fit the requirements of each house in which it is played. A, B and C pictures will have to play houses needing each type, and a commensurate price should be asked of the exhibitor. Only 15 per cent of the pictures of any one company produce 80 per cent of the revenue received by an exhibitor and the other 85 per cent of the films are charged for at prices on a par with the 15 per cent."

Col. Cole Talks Competition

Colonel Cole said that he had yet to know of any one exhibitor who had been driven out of business by taxation but knew of many who had been driven out by theatre circuits. "In one theatre," he said, "we had to run a one-reeler nine times. We couldn't run double features because we couldn't get enough to go around. Scores come to me in Texas with the same problem. Unity of all exhibitors cannot be achieved unless exhibitors clean their own houses. I don't want government regulation but would rather be regulated out of business by the government than by my competitors."

Kuykendall will go to Dallas Wednesday and from there to Beaumont to finish his conferences.



Set Warner Short Titles

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—Warners has set "Out Where the Stars Begin" and "John Paul Jones" as the release titles on the final short subjects of its 1937-'38 program. Both will be made in color with Bryan Foy as producer and Gordon Hollingshead as supervisor.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Big Town Girl"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—Here's a well-founded film in which are combined the elements that make a strong audience and exploitation picture. The ingredients blended into it are romantic love interest, comedy, music, melodrama and adventure. The story told in "Big Town Girl" revolves about a talented singer who seeks to elude her killer husband who has escaped from prison. Actually, however, it tells four stories, all of which are blended into a coherent whole.

One is about the dangerous killer. The second concerns the girl catapulted from a five-and-ten-cent store to radio fame. Another concentrates on a glib press agent who introduces the girl to radio as "the masked countess." The fourth, in which romance is wrapped up, concerns a newspaper reporter who endeavors to reveal the truth of this bit of faking. Claire Trevor, rising to fame, fears the menace of her murderous husband, Alan Baxter. The antics of press agent-manager Alan Dinehart and prying reporter Donald Woods make her career an unceratin thing. She seeks to escape from all, but Woods catches up with her and when his car, in which she is riding with him without her mask disguise, bogs down, Baxter catches up with both, after he has committed another robbery. But before he can revenge himself on them the State police arrive. After the melodrama has been completed, Woods is subjected to an intriguing ribbing before he realizes "the masked countess" and the girl he gave a lift are one and the same.

Miss Trevor sings; Dinehart, Baxter and Woods give convincing performances and are capably supported by Murray Alper, Spencer Charters, Maurice Cass, Irving Bacon and George Chandler. Adapted by Lou Breslow, John Patrick, Robert Ellis and Helen Logan, from orinigal stories by Darrell Ware and Frances Reid, the picture effectively merges dialogue, action and situations and permits the songs prepared by Sidney Clare and Harry Akst to be worked in logically. In handling his material and players, Alfred Werker's direction displays a showmanship flair. "Big Town Girl" should have no difficulty pleasing average audiences.

attended school there and at Toledo to which his family moved. He entered the film business in 1909, when Carl Laemmle, heading the old Imp Co., engaged him in a position which now would be called producer.

When Universal began to expand in 1911, Cochrane became one of its first foreign contact men, developing the company's organization in the Orient, with headquarters in Tokyo. He opened offices in Shanghai, Hong Kong, the Philippines and the Federated Malay States, and as far west as India. His work as a virtual ambassador of good will was aided by his wife, who represented American newspapers in Japan. She died there in 1924.

Joined Paramount in 24

In June, 1924, Cochrane joined Paramount at the invitation of E. E. Shauer, then in charge of the foreign department. He remained in the Orient, established Paramount's offices and weathered such tests as the devastating earthquake of 1923. He was injured then in the collapse of a building, but rushed to Tokyo, more than 40 miles away, to care for injured Paramount employes. At the same time, he scored a scoop for the company by obtaining the only film record of the disaster. He won unprecedented favor with the Japanese of all classes. For several years he was president of the American Chamber of Commerce in Tokyo.

He remarried in 1933, wedding Dora Piper, sister of the Paramount general sales manager. Two children, with Mrs. Cochrane, are in Tokyo. Besides the five brothers, one sister, Mrs. George L. Chapman, survives.

Funeral services will be held at the Columbus Circle Chapel, 43 W. 60th St. at 2:30 P. M. tomorrow. It is expected that the body will be cremated and the ashes sent to Tokyo.

Union Cinemas Pass Preferred Dividend

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Union Cinemas, Ltd., will not pay the quarterly dividend due on the preference shares on Dec. 31. The decision implies that no dividend will be paid on the ordinary capital.

The announcement that the preference dividend would be passed followed a meeting of the reconstructed board of directors. The resignations of C. Fred Bernhard, managing director, and of L. J. Clements, a director, were handed in earlier. Succeeding them on the board are W. D. Scrimgeour, a director of Associated British Picture Corp., and Eric Lightfoot, secretary of Associated British Cinemas, A.B.P. theatre subsidiary. Both are nominees of John Maxwell, who recently acquired, for A.B.P., a 51 per cent control of Union.

It is generally expected that Maxwell himself will join the Union board after the early publication of the balance sheet and report of the company, up to March 31, prepared by the old board. A capital reconstruction of Union appears certain. The present capital is £3,265,000 in £1,314,812 preference, £1,950,214 in ordinary and "A" ordinary. The latter are at present quoted on the market at 1:9d and 1:10½d.

and Government spokesman, has sent a message declaring that he is ready to meet again the same deputation which he heard last Wednesday, with the object of discussing the commission proposal. It is known that he is sympathetic toward the suggestion for a commission, as is indicated by his expressing his willingness to receive constructive suggestions during the House of Commons debate on the measure originally. The second meeting will be held probably on Friday.

The exhibitors are understood to be ready to join the deputation and it is believed certain that the other branches of the industry will collaborate. Every hope for the adoption of the film commission clause is seen now. No action has been taken on rentals.

Harris and Walken Are Again Partners

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 9.—The Harris Amusement Co. has just taken over management of the State and Grand in Salem, O., from N. I. Walken, who will remain in charge and also become district manager for Harris-directed houses in Ohio.

The deal marks the renewal of an old partnership. Walken was a partner with John H. Harris in Washington and Etna, Pa., before the original Harris circuit was sold to Warners in 1929. He remains as a partner in Salem, at the same time acquiring an interest in other Harris enterprises.

London Sees Spain Film

LONDON, Nov. 9.—"Spanish Earth" has finally been given permission to be shown at a West End house. The film for which Ernest Hemingway wrote the narrative has been drastically cut by the order of the censor. The film has been well received by the newspapers, however.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20 No. 17
(20th Century-Fox)

The key event in this issue is the clip of James Roosevelt addressing the Catholic Youth Organization in Chicago. The Chief Executive's son is practically a carbon copy of his father both in mannerism and speech. Lowell Thomas asks the audience to shut its collective eyes and thereby more vividly to appreciate the comparison.

The World Events division also includes sequences of Il Duce celebrating the 15th anniversary of the march on Rome and the decoration of the widows of dead volunteers in the Spanish war, the intercollegiate sailing dingy racing on the Charles River at Boston and finely filmed scenes of the weather observatory on Mt. Washington as it undergoes its first frigid assault.

Names in the News offers brief glimpses of Pope Pius leaving Castel Gondolfo for the Vatican, King Boris of Bulgaria in London, Capt. George Eyston and his racing car and Osa Johnson showing African natives how to do their stuff before the cameras.

Lew Lehr ably acquits himself with comic comment on a wrestling match in New Orleans where the contestants horse around in a mud ring. In the sports division the camera and Ed Thorgersen on the sound track give the highlights of last weekend's more important football games.

Running time, 9 2/3 mins. P.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 215
(M-G-M)

One of the most exciting rescues on the high seas is pictured in this issue. A neutral vessel is shown picking up 291 Spanish refugees from a sinking trawler in the Bay of Biscay. The plight of the near-starved victims is something that is not caught by the camera in the usual course of the news. The films are stirring and convey only a paltry idea of what is going on in Spain.

Rounding out the reel are a series of highlights which include the arrival of Mlle. de Fontages, who refuses to discuss stories linking her with Il Duce, a wrestling match in a mud-soaked ring at New Orleans, Pope Pius at Castle Gondolfo, Premier Mussolini bestowing medals on war widows and then later attending ceremonies at the grave of Italy's Unknown Soldier, and the Pitt-Notre Dame and Fordham-Purdue football skirmishes.

Jean Paul King does a swell job in the narration.

Running time, 9 mins. O.

Paramount News
No. 28
(Paramount)

The pigskin games over the weekend save the day for newsreels. Excitement is supplied aplenty by Army defeating Harvard at Cambridge, Dartmouth outscoring Princeton at Princeton, Fordham romping home to victory over Purdue and Pittsburgh toppling Notre Dame at South Bend.

In commemoration of Paramount's 10th anniversary for its newsreel, clips are taken from the 1927 reels showing U. S. Marines patroling Nicaragua, army fliers smoke screening the Ile de France and flapper fashions which will make you shudder in retrospect.

Other items include a husking contest at Marshall, Mo., the Duke and Duchess of Windsor in Paris; Charles Bedaux, engineer, who withdrew as escort on the originally planned visit here of the royal couple; and Ernest Simpson window shopping in New York. Pope Pius XI is shown on his return to Rome after a six months vacation for his health, Crown Prince Michael of Rumania being made an army officer on his 16th birthday, and the stoppage of railway traffic at British Columbia as the floods hit Canadian rivers.

Running time, 10 mins. O.

Universal News
No. 613
(Universal)

Universal has a novelty number called Punch Wins Sweepstakes in the latest issue. It's a classic. The films were made in the rain. Spectators without umbrellas use newspapers over their hats. The long shots are almost lost in the fog.

By the time the spectator is beginning to wonder why the films were made, R. E. Jeffrey, the commentator, has dropped a couple of "h's" from his slow drawl and the chuckles have started. Suddenly it dawns on the listener that the commentator is speaking in rhyme and is doing a burlesque on these high speed elocution experts that is a riot. By the time he gets to the point where he says a Frenchman called the losing 'orse an offspring of a dog, the audience is rocking. Jeffrey ought to be a regular feature.

There's variety in the other numbers—a train wreck at Lovejoy, Ga.; Pope Pius at Gandolfo, Italy; Captain Eyston, the English auto racer, at Bonneville Flats, Utah; frost feathers at Mt. Washington, and Mlle. de Fontages arriving from Europe. She is the woman who shot former Premier Chambrun. An expert makeup man would help her in front of a camera.

Mussolini does his stuff at a celebration of the anniversary of the march on Rome. The Italians will probably like it.

Some fine football footage is presented on the Pittsburgh-Notre Dame, Army-Harvard and Dartmouth-Princeton games.

Running time, 9 mins. J.

Judgment Refused in Lina-Principal Case

Justice Edgar J. Lauer refused to grant summary judgment in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday and ordered the case of the Lina Pictures Corp. against Principal Exchanges to go to trial. Justice Lauer ruled that certain questions of facts could not be decided on affidavit and would require a formal hearing. Both sides have asked for summary judgment on affidavit.

Lina is suing for the return of approximately 100 films which were delivered to Principal in 1933 under an exclusive distribution contract and $5,000 damages. Principal contends that the contract gave it the right to destroy the prints after termination of the contract. No date has been set for the trial.

Grisman Sues Theatre Firm

Sam H. Grisman field suit for $10,000 in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday against Jack Benny, Bert Wheeler, George N. Burns, Robert Milford, George Jessel and Glory for All, Ltd.

Grisman charged that in January the corporation, acting for all the defendants, leased the 48th Street Theatre for a year for the proposed production of a play, "Glory for All" at a minimum rental of $1,500 weekly. He contends that the defendants breached their contract by failing to produce the show. Burns will ask Justice Salvatore Cotillo to dismiss the complaint against him today on the ground that the contract was made with the corporation and not with the individual defendants. Burns stated that his only connection with the corporation was to lend it $2,500 which has not been repaid.

Naval Film Service At $315,000 in Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Film service for the Navy during the fiscal year ended June 30, last, cost $315,000, it was reported to the Secretary of the Navy today by Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, chief of the Bureau of Navigation.

The report explained that duplicate copies of approximately 300 programs are leased annually from commercial producers and circulated to the various ships and shore stations for exhibition and then returned to the producers.

The cost of the service is met in part by an appropriation of $85,000 made by Congress in the naval supply bill, with the remainder obtained from the profits from ship's stores and by contributions from ships and stations.

Trial Is Ordered in Barney's WNEW Suit

Justice Charles B. McLaughlin refused to dismiss the $105,000 damage suit of Barney's Clothes, Inc., against the WBO Broadcasting Corp., operators of WNEW, in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday.

Barney's is suing for the return of $105,000 which is the total amount allegedly paid for broadcasting time on the ground that its programs were shortened and that not all the spot announcements contracted for were delivered.

Justice McLaughlin upheld Barney's contention that if it can be shown that programs were shortened deliberately, all payments made under the contract must be returned. "The question as to whether the defendant did actually filch some of the plaintiff's allotted and fully paid radio time and devoted it to others is a question for the trial court and must be fully litigated," Justice McLaughlin ruled.

To Ask Contempt Citation

The N. Y. State Tax Commission will ask Justice Aaron Steuer in N. Y. Supreme Court today to punish the Italian Educational Broadcasting Co., Inc., for contempt of court. The Tax Commission contends that the corporation failed to appear for examination in summary proceedings in connection with a judgment of $624 against it for alleged unpaid franchise taxes for the years of 1927 to 1933. Fortune Gallo was named in the papers as president of the corporation.

Principles Agreed Upon for Radio Use

HAVANA, Nov. 9.—The Inter-American Radio Conference now in session here has unanimously adopted a resolution recognizing the right of every nation to use every broadcasting channel, but cognizance was taken of the need for regional agreements to prevent interference. Also, the rights of every government to assign any class of wave frequency that causes no interference in other countries was recognized.

Additionally, all stations may carry on emergency communications during an exceptional period of interruption, such as floods, hurricanes and earthquakes. These actions pave the way for a series of regional agreements throughout North, South and Latin America by which the neighboring or adjacent countries may solve problems of interference.

Amending an application for change of frequency and increase of power previously filed, WHBF, Rock Island, Ill., has asked the commission for authority to use 1,000 watts power at night. The original application provided for a change of frequency from 1,210 to 1,240 kilocycles and an increase of power from 100 watts night, 250 watts day, to 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day.

Parkerson Heading Facsimile Company

John T. Parkerson, business manager of Transradio Press Service, has been granted an indefinite leave of absence to assume active general direction of the Fultograph Co., Transradio's facsimile broadcasting unit.

Expansion and development of the Fultograph system is foreseen as a result of the Parkerson appointment. Plans now in operation call for manufacture of equipment on a large scale which will make it possible for anyone who can afford an ordinary radio set to have a facsimile receiver in his home.

Fultograph pictures have already been broadcast over a distance of 1,500 miles. The outstanding feature of Fultograph is its portability and the fact that it produces complete half-tone pictures comparable to those found in magazines.

Parkerson is well known in radio, picture and newspaper circles. He was a correspondent during the World War; later he organized the Fox newsreel in Europe; and before he joined Transradio, was business head of the European edition of the New York Herald-Tribune in Paris.

Center Plans No Fight on Cut in Claim

Alger Fixed Claim Value At $5,500,000

Rockefeller Center will not contest a reduction of its $9,150,628 claim along the lines proposed in Special Master George W. Alger's tentative report on the RKO reorganization plan, which was issued to reorganization attorneys last Saturday, Center officials told MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday.

The statement was predicated upon the belief that Alger's report, in fixing the value of the claim at approximately $5,500,000, does not effect a reduction of the claim to that amount. That figure, in the opinion of Center officials, merely represents Alger's estimate of the probable value of the claim in relation to the reduced amount of stock which the Center will receive in settlement. The spokesmen stated that, according to their views of the Alger report, the actual reduction proposed will amount to not more than 39,000 shares of new RKO

U.A. Deal Near, Korda Declares

"The deal will be closed in a few days," Alexander Korda told Motion Picture Daily yesterday afternoon in reply to a direct query on the status of the United Artists' sale. Korda was asked whether it was not true that the deal actually had been consummated.

The direct quotation, believed to be the first to be made by one of the two principals — the other is Samuel Goldwyn, of course—in the negotiations, followed.

It was learned authoritatively that despite numerous conferences by Korda and E. H. Lever of Prudential, London, with Stanton Griffis, which have been held recently, Hemphill, Noyes & Co. will have no interest in the deal.

Conn. MPTO Votes For Ten-Point Plan

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10.—The Connecticut M.P.T.O., at a meeting held here yesterday, approved the M.P.T.O.A. 10-point trade practice program with the reservation that an effort be made by the sponsors of the plan to devise a type of conciliation board which would have power to enforce its findings. If this proves impossible, it was the sense of the meeting that the plan be affirmed in its present form.

Mayer, Rubin, Bernstein Contracts to Expire Next Year

Preliminary negotiations have been started by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, for the extension of employment contracts of Louis B. Mayer, production head; David Bernstein, treasurer and vice-president, and J. Robert Rubin, vice-president, it was learned yesterday. Each executive has a five-year pact which expires the end of next year. Options for the purchase of Loew stock at stipulated prices are included in the three agreements.

Schenck, at the last annual stockholders' meeting of Loew's, Dec. 8, 1936, was voted a five-year service contract, the first he has ever signed, effective Jan. 1, 1937. The pact provides for a percentage of the profits in addition to $2,500 a week.

The Loew head yesterday left for the coast, accompanied by his brother, Joseph M., to talk over contract terms with Mayer. Schenck described his trip as his annual one and said he would be away about three weeks.

Asked about reports linking David O. Selznick with Loew's, Schenck

Schenck asserted again that he was

G. B. Matter Is in Abeyance—Schencks

"We are letting the matter lie in abeyance," is the way Joseph M. and Nicholas M. Schenck yesterday described the G. B. situation. Reports have been around that Al Lichtman has been conferring with Isidore Ostrer on a renewal of the deal whereby Loew's and 20th Century-Fox would acquire the Ostrer's voting stock in the English company. They were denied unequivocally by both Schencks.

More British Groups Asking A Commission in Film Bill

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Further bids were made today by various film interests for the adoption in the new Film Bill of a provision for a film commission. Among the 25 amendments offered to the measure, several ask the adoption of a commission clause. The proposed powers of such a commission were clearly defined in an attack on the bill today.

The Lord Strabolgi group was lectured today by an exhibitor deputation to the House of Commons headed by Charles P. Metcalfe. Present were Theodore H. Fligelstone, Ken Nyman, W. R. Fuller and A. J. Gale. They argued the case for a film commission to the group, which was non-committally sympathetic.

The labor groups and producer representatives informally talked to Snoppyquops Spread

Hollywood, Nov. 10.—It couldn't happen any other place. The town has the "snoppyquops."

Shirley Temple got the first one some time ago. Then Cora Su Collins, Jane Withers, Sybil Jason and Hal Roach's gang acquired them. Recently Glenda Farrell phoned Fay Wray late at night to ask what they were. Now they're spreading.

Feg Murray is their inventor. They're fantastic fable animals which Murray draws. Some are ants with alarm clock ears, elephants with vacuum cleaner trunks, or golf bugs with niblick noses.

Connelly Elected As Authors' Head

Marc Connelly was elected president of the Authors' League at a poorly attended annual membership meeting at the Lincoln Hotel yesterday. Annual reports of officers of member guilds of the Authors' League were presented at the meeting, most of which had been submitted earlier to the annual meetings of the individual guilds. This fact was cited to explain the small attendance at yesterday's meeting.

Other officers elected, all of whom were regular nominees, were Elmer Davis, vice-president; Inez Haines Irwin, secretary, and Luise Sillcox, treasurer.

There was no discussion at the meeting of the Screen Writers' Guild proposals for autonomy and a dominant position in the league's council.

Signs Writ in Suit Against Universal

An alternative writ of mandamus directing the officers and directors of the Universal Picture Corp. to exhibit their books and records from 1930 to date to the Murita Trading Corp. or to show cause before Nov. 30 why they should not be compelled to do so was signed by Justice Samuel I. Rosenman in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday.

Justice Rosenman had previously denied a peremptory writ on the ground that Universal questioned the right of the petitioner to see the books. Under the writ as signed, Universal may go to trial to determine whether Murita is acting in good faith or whether it is a stockholder under the Delaware law. Universal Pictures Corp. is a subsidiary of the Universal Corp. Murita claims to be a stockholder and to represent 10 per cent of the outstanding first preferred stock. It is alleged that considerable losses have been sustained since 1930 and the request to examine the books was made to consider the advisability of placing Universal Pictures under a Section 77B reorganization.

Universal charged that an application was made to compel the company to purchase the stock owned by Murita at a price above the present market value. Murita is also said not to be a stockholder of record and therefore not entitled to examine the books under the Delaware law. If Universal decides to answer the suit instead of exhibiting the books, the case will be set for trial to determine the issue.

Continues Attachment Writ

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Kenneth O'Brien yesterday refused to reconsider his decision upholding a writ of attachment brought by George McLeod Baynes against Atlantic Film Prod., Ltd. of London. Baynes attached prints of the picture, "Thunder in the City" and funds held for Atlantic by Columbia Pictures Corp. He claims $30,000 as his share of the gross receipts of the picture for arranging with Columbia for distribution of the film. Atlantic asked that the writ be vacated on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction and that Baynes had failed to show by affidavit that he has a valid cause of action.

Cuts Orpheum Allowances

The allowances of $1,000 each to Morton Blumenthal, Witold Pavlowski and Jay Strong, who acted as appraisers for the Orpheum Circuit, Inc., were cut to $600 each by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in the U. S. District Court yesterday when he ordered Marcus Heiman, Orpheum trustee, to make payment. Bankruptcy Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn had previously allowed the higher amount. Judge Goddard approved an allowance of $775 to John C. Pinto and Associates.

Balaban, Griffis to Coast

Barney Balaban, Paramount president, leaves for the coast Saturday night. He will spend the weekend in Chicago and will be joined there on Tuesday by Stanton Giffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee. The two will leave for the studio on the Super Chief the same day. They plan to remain in Hollywood two or three weeks.

Other Groups Ask Inclusion Of Commission

Board of Trade officials, pleading for separate quotas and labor safeguards in the new law, as well as representation in Empire reciprocity.

The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n is understood to be ready, relative to their plan for a viewing committee, to agree to empower the president of the Board of Trade to introduce new proposals at any time to safeguard British interests.

One interesting amendment to the bill which was tabled provided that films made in Canada be excluded from the quota.

CEA Refuses to Talk On Rentals with KRS

the only solution to the rental problem is the rescinding of the recent K.R.S. resolution. The resolution suggested that so-called "A" films be booked only on a flat rental basis.

The general council of the C.E.A. meanwhile reported that their meetings with the circuit representatives on the situation had been successful and that the two groups are entirely in agreement on the matter. The council declared: "Present day rentals have been pushed to extreme lengths. Consideration has been given to the renters' (distributors') announcement that a committee be appointed to grade films in two classes. It is realized that it is a process whereby a few American distributors could put their heads together and squeeze rentals to the point where theatres would become uneconomic."

The exhibitors see a key to the situation in the clause in the original Moyne report on revision of the Films Act proposing that the Government should watch the situation closely on the transfer of British interests, with a view to preventing control from passing abroad. At the meeting planned with Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, on Friday, as reported exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday, the C.E.A. will press for widening the powers of the advisory committe, so that Parliament could deal readily with such a situation.

Kansas Tax Schedule Effective on Dec. 1

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10.—The Kansas Tax Commission will make effective Dec. 1 a new sales tax payment schedule and at the same time will have in the hands of merchants, exhibitors, and others enough of the new one-mill tokens to make the new schedule possible. Heretofore the state has issued only two-mill pieces. With the one-mill tokens in circulation, the schedule provides: 0 to two cents, no tax; three to seven cents, one mill; eight to 12 cents, two mills; 13 to 17 cents, three mills; 18 to 22 cents, four mills, and so on.

The two per cent levy was inaugurated in June, this year.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Submarine D-1"

(Cosmospolitan-Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10.—Again Warners have come up with an excellent naval service picture full of the stuff that makes good entertainment. It follows lines laid down in earlier Pat O'Brien-James Cagney series but is possessed of sufficient novelty to accommodate a half dozen features. "Submarine D-1" tells an engaging story of personal rivalry that establishes an interesting romantic conflict and is also an authentic record of the methods adopted to train the Navy's undersea sailors. The necessary dramatic and comedy elements are held together by a bond of well-controlled suspense. The entire complement of the navy's forces are paraded spectacularly. The film's most potent effect comes in a remarkable demonstration of how the crew of a submarine that was sunk in a crash is rescued. This sequence, a marvel of production technology, held the attention of the preview audience in a vise-like grip.

The plot is an exemplification of the idea of making a hero out of a heel as the legitimate hero becomes a greater hero. Comedy provided by Frank McHugh contrasts the rivalry existing between Sailor Wayne Morris, who has little regard for the discipline and tradition worshipping of Petty Officer Pat O'Brien. Mainly Morris plans to get O'Brien's job as well as Doris Weston, his girl. Assigned to George Brent's submarine, Morris puts the ship and the lives of its crew in danger. Following a raucous sailors ashore escapade in Panama and eventual arrival at San Diego, Brent transfers O'Brien to the mother ship to perfect a collision escape chamber, appointing Morris to his vacant sub post. As the fleet goes through battle practice the sub crashes.

One by one the men use the new apparatus and ascend to the surface until only Brent, Morris and an injured officer remain. Brent goes up, to return again with O'Brien and a new chamber to rescue the two left behind. All involved are awarded honors for their heroism. O'Brien sacrifices Miss Weston to Morris knowing he is now a man worthy of her.

The performances are good. Dennie Moore stands out in a brief comedy bit. Good support is contributed by Ronald Regan, Henry O'Neill, Regis Toomey, Veda Ann Borg, Broderick Crawford and Wally Maher. The film is based on a story by Frank Wead, who also adapted it in collaboration with Warren Duff and Lawrence Kimble. Lloyd Bacon directed.

Running time, 100 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Adventure's End"

(Universal)

A fair adventure tale of whalers, highlighted with sequences depicting the hunting of the mammals as it was done in the old days, manages to make "Adventure's End" moderately good entertainment. The plot is inclined to be disconnected, but the story threads are coherently woven at the conclusion. It is dual bill fare.

John Wayne is chased by indignant natives from highly lucrative pearl beds in the South Seas. He makes his way aboard Montagu Love's ship. Love dies soon after, but before he passes away he marries Diana Gibson, his daughter, to Wayne. His purpose is to give the girl a young husband so she does not make a mistake like her mother, who died early in life. The ship sails for whales and New Bedford. En route the crew learns of Wayne's pearling activities and the seeds of mutiny sprout. Moroni Olsen, the first mate, loses prestige with the crew to win Wayne's favor. He is almost set adrift by the crew. Wayne saves him. Later Wayne is made prisoner, but his pickanniny friend, Paul White, sets him free and the pair regain control of the ship once more. During the course of the action Wayne and Miss Gibson make various deals which are satisfactorily ironed out as the ship draws near its home port and she accepts him as her husband.

The screenplay was contrived by Ben G. Kohn from a Ben Ames Williams story. Trem Carr produced. Supporting players include Maurice Black, Cameron Hall and Patrick J. Kelly. Arthur Lubin directed. The action on the high seas lends the proper salty atmosphere to the piece.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

nations of scenes, subtitles and dialogue were made as follows: Indecent, 546; immoral or tending to corrupt morals, 343; tending to incite to crime, 305; inhuman, 64; sacrilegious, 33.

A total of 9,784 reels were reviewed by the censor board during the year, or more than 9,000,000 feet of film. During the year, three appeals were taken to the commissioner of education from censor decisions. In two of the cases the censor was upheld, and in one it was reversed.

The total receipts of the censor board during the fiscal year were $292,435.62, as compared to $269,931.20 for the preceding year, an increase of $22,504.42. Expenditures totaled $64,921.46, as compared with $65,728.99 for the preceding year. The net revenue to the state, after deducting the cost of operation, was $227,514.16, comparing to $204,202.21 for the preceding year. Since the organization of the censor board in 1931 the total revenue to the state has amounted to $2,297,896.80.

Imported Films Jump

The report noted that the number of foreign pictures submitted for review has shown a marked increase. More than 400 foreign-made films were reviewed during the censor year, coming from more than 20 countries. Esmond pointed out that in the litigation over the rejection of the foreign film, "Ecstasy," the Federal Court upheld the right of the censor board to pass on foreign films designed for showing in the state.

Esmond recommended that additional reviewers and inspectors be employed to supplement the present staff of four reviewers and five inspectors.

Looking 'Em Over

"Behind the Mike"

(Universal)

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 10.—Burlesque on the operation of sticks radio stations of small wattage—complete to one-man handling of announcing, programs with four or five changes of voice, and the switch of records. Through it Don Wilson, who handled the identification on the mike for Jack Benny's program, comes to the screen the first time and acquits himself admirably although the story is bad.

Universal's featured player lists were drawn on for William Gargan, big-mouthed and heavy-fisted program idea man; Judith Barrett, secretary of the manager of an opposition link, and Sterling Holloway, the one-lung station's handy-man, which will be the names used in most of the billing.

Because Gargan can't get along with Grady Sutton, orchestra leader; William Davidson, the sponsor, and the station manager, Gerald Oliver Smith, he loses a big network job and takes a wild rush into the country to put over some small stations. He finds one he signed for sight unseen turns out to be occupying the loft of a stable and has one account. After bulling his way about in the best china shop manner, he finally stumbles on some political intrigue which miraculously saves the day when it establishes the other local station as managed by a public fund snatcher.

"Behind the Mike" is along the quantity rather than quality production lines. It is obviously low-cost and a short notice idea. It was directed by Sidney Salkow, with original story by Walter Butterfield and Thomas Ahearn. Barry Trivers did the screenplay.

Center Won't Fight Reduction in Claim

common stock. This would give the Center approximately 461,000 shares of new common which, Alger estimates, will be worth $10 to $12 per share, thus representing a maximum valuation of $5,532,000 for the settlement of the $9,150,628 claim.

The Center officials stated that they did not regard the indicated reduction as a "grievous" one and attached little significance to the indicated valuation of the settlement, explaining that an accurate estimate of the market value of the new stock would be difficult to arrive at and, in any event, has little bearing on the amount which could be realized through disposing of it, as such a large number of shares could not be absorbed by the market at one time or even over a moderately long period.

A contest of the Rockefeller Center claim could delay consummation of the RKO reorganization plan for many months.

Alger's report is regarded in most reorganization quarters as favorable to a speedy completion of the reorganization. As reported earlier, the special master approves the plan in all of its basic principles and proposes the reduction of claims on many fronts. He proposes, however, that no dividends be paid on the common stock of the reorganized company until the new debentures have been retired or converted. The first hearing on the report is scheduled for Monday.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10.—The Midland, Mainstreet and Newman are agreeable to the proposal made by the Theatre Employes local, which provides a minimum of 35 cents an hour for ushers and adds $1 a week to the wages of other theatre employes (except operators), according to Felix Snow, district representative of the I. in favor of producing 10 pictures a year in England. At present, New World, under Robert T. Kane, is producing from four to five a year abroad. One Gracie Fields film is being made in England now and it is undecided on a second, according to Schenck.

"20th Century-Fox is up-to-date on all its releases," the board chairman said, "and the entire schedule promised at the beginning of the season will be made."

Lew Wertheimer, who was in Detroit yesterday visiting his family, will meet the Schenck party in Chicago today and continue on to the coast. Jay Paley is also in the party.

Joseph Moskowitz, Aubrey Schenck, Margot Grahame and F. Kirk were at the station to see the 20th Century-Fox executive off. Schenck will be back again in March.

We have been ordered to pay special assessments amounting to thousands of dollars monthly without explanation regarding the purpose of the funds and without any financial statement. We have been unable to take action against such dictatorship because of control over our jobs vested in the hands of our officials by the producers."

Robert Montgomery, president of the Screen Actors Guild and 18 other industry figures have been subpoenaed to take the witness stand tomorrow. Details of I.A.T.S.E recent jurisdiction claim will be discussed.

said: "We haven't signed Selznick and there is nothing new at this time. However, I don't say that we won't sign him. I'd like to have him work for me. I'd give him a job any time."

Schenck could not say whether he would talk to Selzick on the coast. He held that it all depends on his being in California when Selznick returns there.

The Loew head predicted the best year in the company's history, starting Oct. 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year. Loew's annual statement is now nearing completion and will be ready for the stockholders' session, Dec. 21.

At the station to see Schenck off were Rubin, Leopold Freidman, C. C. Moskowitz, Joe Vogel, Bert Nayfack and Marvin Schenck.

Clevelanders Hit M-G-M's Air Show

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10.—Clippings of an article by W. Ward Marsh in the Cleveland Plain Dealer headed: "Some Sad Notes on the Motion Picture's Entry into the Radio Field" are being sent to members of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n by George Erdmann, secretary.

After citing the competition of Bing Crosby and Bob Burns, Rudy Vallee and Kate Smith, Erdmann writes: "Thursday was selected as the day of broadcasting rather than Saturday or Sunday, because it will conflict least with theatre business.

"In my personal opinion, this is just about the poorest excuse for an alibi ever used by a distributor to go in direct competition with his customers.

"Inasmuch as Thursday nights will conflict least with theatre business, let us hope other distributors who take to the air will also select Thursdays, then maybe we can save on film rentals by closing Thursdays and give us the opportunity of enjoying their programs with our families at home."

Marsh in his article in the Plain Dealer suggests that the M-G-M program indicates that "the celluloid China expects eventually to absorb the radio Nippon."

He expresses the opinion that it is "poor business judgment."

Local 306 Discusses Wage Pacts Outlook

Members of Local 306 held a meeting at Palm Gardens last night to hear a report on negotiations with major circuits on a new two-year deal. Executives of the union last night were confident that the talks with circuit operators were nearing a conclusion and held that new terms may be decided late this week or early next.

Union members are anxious for the restoration of three cuts in salary made during the depression. So far the circuits have given the operators a 10 per cent increase, contingent on the outcome of negotiations.

Limited Television Field Is Predicted

ROCHESTER, Nov. 10.—Television will never be available to rural populations outside a 50 or 60-mile radius of big urban centers where transmitting stations must be established, according to the statements of technicians made to the Institute of Radio Engineers at its fall meeting here today. The reason is that ultra-short wave transmission used for television will not be powerful enough to carry picture signals many miles.

Engineers also reported that radio distortion and fading have been overcome in large part due to the efforts of research workers. C. E. Granquist of Stockholm said that the trouble had been traced to the tube which turns radio impulses to sound waves just before the speaker makes them audible. A new oscillator tube which can be stabilized against fading of the radio signals was described. The new tube, it is claimed, will permit automatic tuning to an extremely fine degree, thus eliminating disturbances which cause distortion of sound coming from the speaker. It will supplement the automatic control devices on modern radio sets, according to the report made here.

New Shows On the Air

Radie Harris

Radie Harris, who said she could put on an interesting screen talk program without stooping to the distasteful depths of many of her masculine contemporaries, proved it last night when she brought her inaugural talk to the Mutual network.

Radie, who has a pleasant voice and a sure, confident delivery, started by purveying the usual Hollywood chit-chat, mainly of the current romances of the stars; defended Tyrone Power against the high hat charges which were lodged against him during his recent visit to New York; rated "Live, Love and Learn" as a "three cheer" picture; gave the "inside" of the proposed European vacation trip of the Paul Munis; good-naturedly spoofed the Grand National publicity boys for bringing to life the rumor that James Cagney had settled his feud with Warners every time Jimmy was about to start a new Grand National picture. As her guests she had actress Gertrude Lawrence and composer Johnnie Green.

Radie's series should do well. Two shortcomings in the opening show were detected, however, but can be eradicated easily. The supporting orchestra was too slow in following the cues and the weak burst of applause from the audience at the close should not be permitted.

Radie Harris is presented Wednesdays from 6:45 to 7 P. M. over a coast-to-coast Mutual hookup. The series is sustaining at the moment.

Bell Demonstrates Its Coaxial Cable

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—The Bell Telephone Laboratories yesterday demonstrated for the first time the use of the company's coaxial cable between this city and New York, as a transmitter of current similar to a television current. Films, the nearest thing available with a similarity to television pictures, were broadcast from the Bell Laboratories in New York to the Bourse Bldg. here.

Using the cable, which can accommodate 240 simultaneous telephone conversations, the films were reproduced on a screen seven by eight inches. The program included an explanation with diagram of the functioning of the system and several newsreel clips, and lasted about six minutes. Telephone officials expressed satisfaction with the demonstration, and Dr. Herbert E. Ives of Bell Laboratories declared, "There is no limit to the application of this system, but first we must wait for television."

Demonstration from New York

A similar demonstration of the coaxial cable was held from the New York headquarters of the Bell Laboratories here yesterday afternoon, and another is scheduled for tomorrow.

MPTO Plans Final Bid for Practice Code

Seeking Self-Regulation Before New Congress

A final drive to obtain voluntary regulation of trade practices is planned by the M.P.T.O.A. prior to the next regular session of Congress at which, it is believed, new efforts to obtain regulatory industry legislation will be made, well informed exhibitor quarters revealed yesterday.

The M.P.T.O.A. effort will be predicated on the conviction that without a voluntary trade practice code in being or in prospect by midwinter, Congressional efforts to obtain legislation for the regulation of the industry will stand their best chance of success.

It is not improbable that this objective explains the recent acceptance given by Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, of an invitation to join with the I.T.O.A. of New York and

FTC Studies Allied Paramount Plaint

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Investigation by the Federal Trade Commission of complaints filed by Allied States against Paramount is still in the "confidential stage," it was said today at the F.T.C., but it was learned that an examiner's report has been prepared for study by the commission.

No public announcement of its decision will be made by the commission unless and until it determines to issue a formal complaint in the matter.

There were indications that the commission, in studying the subject, would give consideration to the settlement of the eastern Pennsylvania exhibitors' controversy with Paramount, in which the exhibitors secured some concessions.

No Banned Pictures Had Code Approvals

Of the 16 pictures which were rejected in entirety by the New York censor board during the year ended June 30, last, none bore the industry code seal, indicating an approval by the Production Code Administration, the M. P. P. D. A. stated yesterday. In addition, none of the productions banned was made by producer members of the association, it was said.

Berman Pinch Hits Until Head Chosen

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11.—Pandro Berman, pending appointment of a successor to S. J. Briskin as head of the RKO studio, is pinch hitting to the extent of eyeing scripts designed for major production, in addition to his normal activities as the head of his own unit. Lee Marcus, as has prevailed for some time, continues in charge of the "B" product.

Lou Lusty, who was Briskin's assistant and "trouble buster" under the latter's regime, is continuing in a like capacity with Leo Spitz who, however, and to all intents and purposes,

Le Roy Will Join Metro as Producer

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11.—Mervyn Le Roy will join M-G-M as a producer-director immediately upon the completion of his film, "Food for Scandal" for Warners, which is now in preparation. Le Roy's future affiliation has been the subject of considerable speculation in recent weeks, climaxed with the intimation by Jack L. Say "U" 17% Ahead For Fourth Quarter

Domestic billings of Universal during the 13 weeks ended Oct. 30, representing the fourth quarter of the fiscal year, showed an increase of approximately 17 per cent over the corresponding quarter last year.

The increase was attributed by J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board, to improvement in the quality of productions and the development of a number of stars.

At the end of the quarter Universal had completed 15 pictures as compared with 12 for the same period last year. Within the next 60 days the company will place 13 films in production.

New Contract For Mayer Is Held Certain

Renewal for Bernstein, Rubin Also Sure

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11.—Insiders at the M-G-M studio take it completely for granted that Louis B. Mayer's contract as head of production will be renewed for five years. "Fantastic to consider anything else," was the way one executive put it. That new pacts covering the services of two other Loew's, Inc., veteran executives—David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer of the parent company, and J. Robert Rubin, vice-president and legal head of the producing company—will be made is regarded in much the same light as the circumstances governing Mayer.

With the arrival from New York on Saturday of Nicholas M. Schenck, deliberations on terms of the extension of the arrangement covering Mayer's services are believed slated to get under way. Mayer's current contract expires Dec. 31, 1938, and, for this reason, the discussions about its renewal at this time are not viewed as "The Perfect Specimen" at the Strand tallied $15,000, while "West of Shanghai" at the Criterion took in less than $8,000. "Lancer Spy," at the Rivoli chalked up a take of $17,500, while "Murder in Greenwich Village" finished with $7,500 at the Rialto.

Industry Loss Through Radio Seen by Myers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The loss of popularity of film stars whose talents are not adaptable to radio broadcasting may be costing the industry "millions," Abram F. Myers, chairman of Allied States Ass'n, suggests in an organization bulletin sent out to Allied exhibitors today.

Discussing the subject of "stars on the air," Myers observes that radio competition with theatres would exist even though Hollywood personalities were to be barred from the air. Therefore, he reasons, exhibitors may be fortunate that radio time is occupied by many Hollywood persons whose talents cannot be projected favorably over the air. If this were not the case, he suggests, radio talent rather

Warners Take To Radio with Program Dec. 1

Warners and their affiliate, Transamerican Broadcasting and Television Corp., finally officially disclosed yesterday their intention of taking to the airwaves with a large-scale radio program, as has been expected for some time. An agreement has been concluded with Lord & Thomas, advertising agency, and the American Tobacco Co., for a series of 52 weekly broadcasts from Hollywood over a coast-to-coast NBC hookup, to be sponsored by Lucky Strike cigarettes.

This marks the second major film studio to go on the air. Last week the M-G-M program, "Good News of 1938," bowed in over NBC for General Foods.

Trade Group to Get Music Industry Code

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The trade practice code of ethics for the popular price music industry, on which hearings were held Oct. 4, is expected to go before the Federal Trade Commission for approval within a week or 10 days, it was learned here today.

No reason for the delay in disposing of the matter could be secured at the commission, where it was said merely that the period which has elapsed was not unusual. However, since the code consisted of one rule and the Robinson-Patman Act, the delay is seen in some quarters as due to uncertainty in the commission as to whether it is desirable to include the latter, which is an operating law and needs no formal acceptance by industry.

S. D. Cocalis Injured

ELIZABETH, Nov. 11.—Sam D. Cocalis was slightly injured when he fell from a tree during a fire at his home here. A fire started in the basement and Cocalis climbed out of a second story window on to a tree, from which he fell and hurt his leg and wrist.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

FROM Bill Ornstein's trainshed interview with Nick Schenck, prior to the latter's departure for Hollywood, this is reprinted:

"We haven't signed David O. Selznick and there is nothing new at this time. However, I don't say that we won't sign him. I'd like to have him work for me. I'd give him a job any time."

And so would Louis B. Mayer, Dave's father-in-law as well as the head of Metro production and a firm believer in Selznick's very definite capabilities as a producer of heavy-gauge attractions . . .

When you understand that the inducements dangled before the Selznick orbs include (1) full financing, (2) a low distribution charge fixed at 20 per cent, (3) Gable for "Gone with the Wind." (4) a call on Metro talent facilities and (5) a fifty-fifty split of the profits, plus (6) maintenance of the Selznick International identity functioning on its own lot, you will begin to comprehend how far Schenck and Mayer are prepared to go to acquire this sole producer, his ability and his Margaret Mitchell novel. Elsewhere, it is the fact to report that the maneuverings to capture Selznick are intricate and high flown—RKO, and Paramount have had their caps in the ring and there is always United Artists eager to retain him in the fold. All of this augurs very well indeed for whatever deal with whomever Dave makes it. His market value is refusing to remain fixed, but fluctuates—and always upward—with each changing offer. That is how it goes in this business when a personality is proven and, thus, becomes in great demand. . .

The dramatics and the intrigues in the several changes in alignment now pending so far have failed adequately to explain what Joe Schenck is doing in the United Artists and the Selznick picture. He has been consulted by and in conference with a number of people not tied in with his activities at 20th Century-Fox. Alex Korda and Selznick, for example. Part of this has been pursued on a friendship basis and in recognizance of the value of Schenck's counsel. Where Selznick is concerned, there might be reason to countenance the thought Schenck has been talking on behalf of his brother. To conclude any or part of the discussions pertain to 20th Century-Fox is to go completely hasty. Schenck has his Zanuck and is eminently well pleased with him. Zanuck and Selznick in one studio or in two studios feeding the same company, for that matter, seem slightly fantastic, if not downright impossible and unnecessary . . .

Helen Waller, it is conveniently supplied, has been appointed "party advisor" by Bob Taplinger, the Warner studio publicity chief, to help bored and tired stars think up ideas for their parties, to pick the entertainment, the place, the guest list, et al. If the newly appointed Taplinger now can devise some means of making those bored and tired stars think, he'd have something. . .

Many producers have quit or have been fired by many studios for varied and assorted reasons, but those "spokesmen" for Junior Laemmle scaled a new peak when they described the why of his withdrawal from Metro. "Inexplicable reasons," was how they put it. It is delightfully vague in the accepted and traditional Hollywood manner. . .

"Angel" folded its wings at the Fox with a weak $9,500. "Stand-In" didn't live up to expectations at the Aldine and got only a week at $8,500. "Lancer Spy" received good notices, but couldn't beat $5,200 at the Stanton.

French Films Gain Ground in Austria

By HANS LORANT

Vienna, Nov. 1.—French films have gained ground to a marked extent among Austrian audiences, and as the new season gets under way, appear to present potentially formidable competition to American product in this country. Thus far, only a few French films have been released here, but those shown have enjoyed unusual popularity.

Five French films have been released already this season, which was the total number from that country shown during the whole of last season. As the new season opens, American product, with the exception of "The Good Earth," has been comparatively weak.

Twentieth Century-Fox is understood to be desirous of dubbing a large part of its product in this country, but is virtually compelled to do so in Germany, in order thus to employ a large amount of frozen capital in that country. In Austria dubbing costs approximately 15,000 schillings whereas in Germany the same work costs 70,000 schillings.

Patterson in New Post

Boston, Nov. 11.—Charles Patterson, recently assistant publicity manager for the three local RKO theatres, has been appointed manager of the Colonial in Belfast, Me., by Sam Kurson, general manager of the Graphic Theatre Circuit. Patterson was manager of the Brandon in Brandon, Vt., during the summer. He was succeeded there by Pearce Parkhurst.

E. E. Webber Buys House

Kansas City, Nov. 11. — E. E. Webber who operates the Mary Lue, has purchased the Colonial, another suburban house here, from W. D. Fulton. The Colonial was the first of the group of houses acquired by Fulton in Kansas City, and he has operated it about eight years. Its sale reduced to eight the number of units in the Fulton circuit.

Short Subjects

"Starlets"

(Vitaphone)

Here is another two-reeler that should have the same success as its predecessors since it is wholly acted by a pleasant assortment of children who perform well. The youngsters are cast in a light fantasy in which, by looking through a telescope, they can see their futures. Many of them desire to become actors and as they peer the film dissolves to a setting where they can all do their respective stuff. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Screen Snapshots 17-2"

(Columbia)

Players fishing at the Rainbow Angling Club, a brief glimpse of the Mary Pickford-Buddy Rogers honeymoon trip, Frank Buck and animals, new homes in and about Hollywood and a swimming party at the Sunset Plaza serve to show brief shots of approximately 38 screen luminaries in this issue which should have regular acceptance. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"All-American Drawback"

(Vitaphone)

Charlie McCarthy, the dummy, whose fame in radio is widespread, and which should draw audiences in to see this short, manages some average comedy moments as the star football player at Flunk Well University. The comedy is pretty obvious, but the ventriloquism of Edgar Bergen is the thing. It should be found agreeable. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Pictorial Revue No. 3"

(Vitaphone)

The training of retrievers, a rodeo in Hollywood with various horse opera stars taking part and the manufacture of an assortment of articles from plastics make up this reel. The last named is in color. It is a good collection of material but with nothing particularly outstanding. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Fire Plug"

(Columbia)

The old grey fire mare proves her worth when, following her retirement, she not only makes a comeback but also saves the life of the fire chief. The cartoon is a Scrappy item and is spectacularly animated and generally entertaining. Running time, 6 mins. "G."

"Timberland Revels"

(Columbia)

There is nothing much to this short outside of the singing of Sid Gary. He sings much better than he photographs. It is set in a backwoods locale and while it is tuneful it never seems to get anywhere. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"City of the Golden Gate"

(Columbia)

A general assortment of scenes in and about San Francisco. They are done in Cinecolor which at times is both good and poor. The comment is interesting and the city is revealed in its civic, industrial and cosmopolitan aspects. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Les Perles de la Couronne" ("Pearls of the Crown")

(Imperia-Films Sonores Tobis)

PARIS, Nov. 3.—This film is viewed here as probably the outstanding French picture since "Carnival in Flanders." Written, directed and produced by Sacha Guitry, well-known French author, it represents something new in technique which, at first, may disconcert film audiences accustomed to the accepted production form.

"Les Perles de la Couronne," from such a point of view, is most original. It is a kind of compromise between screen and the stage. Some parts of the production are literally a photographed stage play. Others are a silent film with the sound furnished in witty commentary by Guitry himself.

The film relates the history, through four centuries, of seven pearls given by Pope Clement VII to his niece, Catherine de Medici, who, later, as queen of France and widow of the French king, Henry II, gave them to Mary Stuart. The pearls were stolen at the death of the unfortunate queen: four of them were found and added to the Crown of England by Queen Victoria. The story of the three other pearls is shown from the year 1587 until 1937. The last scene is on board the Normandie, when the last pearl is returned to the bottom of the sea.

This historical display, which mixes real facts with the imaginary, is not handled as an ordinary historical film. There is in it, above all, the witty and deep humor of Guitry, who never takes anything seriously, and who seems to find even a humorous side to the deepest tragedies of history.

Although it runs for two hours and in spite of the fact that some scenes are weaker than some others, the film is never boring. It goes from modern times to the past centuries and vice versa. The main features are the outstanding dialogue by Guitry and the acting which casts nearly all the French stars of stage and of the screen. Guitry plays four parts, Ermete Zaccone, well-known Italian actor, plays Pope Clement VII; Lynn Harding, the British actor, is excellent as Henry VIII and different from the Charles Laughton interpretation. Jacqueline Delubac (Mrs. Guitry) and Yvette Dienne, British actress, play three parts each.

The film is alternately spoken in French, Italian and English, but, because of Guitry's type of commentary, is easy of understanding. Direction lacks unity and balance, but the general reaction to the film is that it is unusual and a delightful entertainment.

Running time, 115 minutes. "A."

"Un Carnet de Bal" ("Dance Program")

(Films Vog)

PARIS, Nov. 3.—After "Poil de Carotte," "Le Bandera" and "Pépé Le Moko," Julien Duvivier once again hits the mark, this time with "Un Carnet de Bal," which was awarded the Duce Cup for the best foreign film at the Venice International Film Biennial. Not only did Duvivier direct this film, but he also wrote the original story and screenplay.

If the action is somewhat lacking in unity—and the film appears to be a series of sketches, loosely joined by the central figure in the story—this defect is easily counterbalanced by the many excellent qualities of acting, photography and sound effects.

The story revolves around a woman, Christine, who, on the death of her husband, finds a dance program—a souvenir of her first ball—signed by 10 men, who, at that time, were in love with her. She decides to find out what has become of them and starts out on her search. None of them has fulfilled the ambitions once held and Christine returns home, disappointed. At the end of her search, however, she meets the orphan son of one of the men, her favorite, and she adopts him.

The principal character is played by Marie Bell, of the Comédie Française and she is ably supported by a remarkably good all-around cast. Françoise Rosay, as a mentally unbalanced woman, is, as usual, excellent. Louis Jouvet is perfectly cast as a cynical night club owener and "gentleman" burglar, while Harry Baur gives a fine portrayal of a Dominican priest. As for Pierre Blanchar, he is remarkable in the role of an abortionist and a nervous wreck. Pierre Richard Willm is to be seen as a mountain guide, while the well-known comedians, Raimu, as mayor of a small town, and Fernandel, as a hairdresser, supply the humor. The boy star of "Poli de Carotte," Robert Lynen, makes a short appearance as Jacques, the orphan whom Christine finally adopts.

Technical work and photography are first class. In the scene in which Christine dreams of her first ball, the dancers are seen revolving the principal reason for Schenck's projected visit. As a matter of fact, it is understood preliminaries on the new deal already have been aired in New York. Schenck is traveling here on his usual annual visit to the studio.

As soon as he returns east, however, he will again discuss contracts with Bernstein and Rubin. There is no particular hurry, it was indicated, since the agreements of both Loew executives do not expire until the latter part of 1938. Then, it is pointed out, the employment contracts will have to be approved by stockholders as in the case of Schenck himself last year.

Prior to his leaving the east, Schenck is reported to have conferred with David O. Selznick on rejoining M-G-M. Mayer has previously expressed himself as desirous of having his son-in-law back on the lot. Selznick's last film for M-G-M was "David Copperfield," which brought Freddie Bartholomew into prominence.

Corporation a Factor

The new angle, if Selznick should decide to return, is whether he will give up Selznick International or use the name of the company as a production unit on the lot. Schenck, it is believed, has information on this and will talk it over with Mayer. Selznick, on the other hand, is expected not to relinquish his corporate identity.

Reports from New York insist Selznick has been discussing an extension of his U. A. pact with Samuel Goldwyn and Alexander Korda and will not make a decision until the two producers conclude conferences for the purchase of control of U. A. If Selznick is offered terms to his liking by Goldwyn and Korda, he may stay. If he decides against continuing with the company after two more pictures, the odds, as viewed here, are that Selznick will find his way back to M-G-M.

"Hurricane" in Phila.

"The Hurricane" opened last night at the Locust, Philadelphia, for the third roadshow engagement. On Nov. 5 the picture premiered at the Carthay Circle, Los Angeles, and last Tuesday at the Astor on Broadway. Tonight, the Gary, San Francisco, will start an indefinite run of the two-a-day film. The Chicago date and theatre will be set in a few days.

A complete sellout, even on standing room, is reported by United Artists for the first two performances of "The Hurricane" at the Astor after the opening. The home office also claims the advance sale to date the largest at the house in six months.

Allied States Ass'n in a national exhibitor meeting to be called in the near future to agree on a trade practice code and means of obtaining distributor acceptance of one, it was indicated here.

Kuykendall has just completed a six-week national tour, during which he conferred with or received reports from 17 regional exhibitor organizations on their views with respect to trade practice regulation and the means of obtaining it. M.P.T.O.A. officials have been informed that there was no unanimity of exhibitor views on the desirability of adoption of the M.P.T.O.A.'s 10-point program in its present form given to Kuykendall in the course of the trip. Many organizations influential in M.P.T.O.A. affairs are known to be lukewarm on parts of the 10-point program and outspokenly opposed to other parts of it.

This situation may have induced Kuykendall to accept the I.T.O.A. bid to meet with a still greater exhibitor representation which had as its aim the drafting of a trade practice code which would command more solid exhibitor support, it was suggested. Revision of the M.P.T.O.A.'s 10-point program now appears to be inevitable. Much of it may be salvaged, it is felt in many exhibitor quarters, but vital changes may be incorporated in it either with or without a joint national exhibitor conference.

Board Approval Needed

M.P.T.O.A. spokesmen here point out, however, that Kuykendall could not commit the organization to a revised trade practice plan without the approval of the M.P.T.O.A. board of directors. Kuykendall plans to call a meeting of the board in December but, if the three-cornered exhibitor conference intervenes, which it may, the meeting probably would not be called until January. Kuykendall plans to be in Washington during the special session of Congress, opening on Monday, and is also scheduled to address the semi-annual convention of the M.P.T.O. of North and South Carolina at Pinehurst, Dec. 6 and 7. The M.P.T.O.A. president, thus, might be available for a national exhibitor meeting in the east at any time during the next month or six weeks.

plea for separate quota proposals, but no agreement has been reached as yet. The producers, meanwhile, have sent a resolution to the Government expressing regret at the reduction in the distributor and exhibitor quotas for the current year. The group declared, "It is a serious blow to the employment and development of the industry."

The group pleaded for the adoption of separate quotas and provisions which would make for greater flexibility in the administration of the new law.

The joint deputation representative of producer, exhibitor and labor branches of the industry will meet with Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, tomorrow.

Delay Warner Meeting

With Harry M. Warner, president, and Albert Warner now on the coast, the regular board meeting of Warners, scheduled for Nov. 23, is expected to be postponed until the executives return from Hollywood.

The annual financial report, said to be the best in years, is due within the next fortnight.

the coast. Other reports had linked Le Roy with RKO as a possible successor to Sam Briskin in charge of all production.

Le Roy will take with him to M-G-M at least three valuable stories and several important personal contracts. The properties include Jack London's novel, "The Sea Wolf," "Who Asked to be Born" and a story tentatively titled "The Fourth Estate."

The boys featured in "Dead End" are under contract by virtue of a loan deal with Samuel Goldwyn. Le Roy holds the personal contracts of Fernand Gravet, Kenny Baker, Lana Turner, Vicki Lester, Brian Aherne, Robert Sinclair, director; Irving Brecher and Leonardo Bercovici, the latter two being writers.

A statement issued by Le Roy today said, "It is with sincere regret that I leave my many friends and associates at Warners where all have been most helpful to me in my work over a period of years and to whom I am deeply indebted for their support and cooperation." He spent most of the day at Warners conferring with Jack and Harry Warner.

Deny Oklahoma Tax Reduced Attendance

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 11.—L. D. Melton, director of research of the Oklahoma Tax Commission, told members of the Oklahoma M. P. T. O. in session at the Biltmore Hotel that the two per cent sales tax on theatre admissions had not caused any slump in attendance. He said $130,000 had been received by the commission from theatres and tent shows. Ninety per cent of this was paid by film houses, Melton said.

"Absorbing the tax by an exhibitor," in the opinion of Morris Loewenstein, association president, "is a form of unfair competition when one exhibitor requires payment of the two per cent tax from the patron and a nearby competitor absorbs the tax.

Director Melton told exhibitors that the two per cent consumers' tax is payable on any prize award, Bank Night award or cash award given by any theatre or merchant.

Fox Opens Varsity, Milwaukee Theatre

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 11.—The latest link in Fox's circuit of more than 50 houses, the Varsity, new 1,000-seat theatre located on the edge of the city's downtown district, opened here today.

Under the management of Joseph M. Hickey, formerly of the circuit's Strand, the house has a hybrid policy of first run double features on Sundays, second run single feature programs Mondays through Thursdays, and second run double feature programs on Fridays and Saturdays.

The new house puts the circuit in almost complete control of the downtown situation with its Wisconsin, Palace, Strand, Garden and Miller pitted against the independent Riverside, Warner-Saxe Princess, the Warner and Otto Meister's Whitehouse, the latter with 10-cent admissions.

in slow motion, a new idea with excellent results, and the bizarre photography and sound effect used in the Pierre Blanchar scenes, add an even stronger atmosphere of depravity to the action. The excellent musical score by Maurice Gaubert includes as leit-motive an unforgettable waltz.

The honors awarded "Un Carnet de Bal" at Venice should be sufficient recommendation as to the exploitation value of this film, which is drawing great crowds in Paris.

than Hollywood "names" would provide a better ether entertainment free, which would keep even greater numbers away from theatres than may be the case now.

The loss of box-office strength to stars who appear at a disadvantage on the air is suffered primarily by producers, Myers infers. He suggests that exhibitors compile lists of stars "who have given bad performances over the air" and then "ascertain to what extent those stars have diminished as box-office attractions," by way of proving his point.

"We are convinced," he says, "that on the basis of the facts which would be disclosed, the producers will stipulate that their stars shall not go on the air unless they have displayed such aptitude for broadcasting that they will not risk their box-office value by doing so. This will eliminate all but a few, most of whom came to the movies from radio, and will save the industry oodles of money."

Sees Congressional Aid

The Allied chairman holds that "there is some indication that Congress, at the forthcoming regular session, may undertake a revision of the nuisance taxes" which, he believes, would open the way for the industry to initiate a move to obtain an increase in the Federal admission tax exemption to 50 cents, instead of the present 40-cent exemption. Such an increase, he believes, would encourage an instant rise in admission scales throughout the country.

"Independent subsequent run exhibitors in some territories," Myers declares, "now find that the 40-cent exemption has frozen admission prices so that it is impossible to put necessary increases into effect such as have been resorted to in all other lines of business. This is because first run, high admission theatres have pegged their admissions at 40 cents and the subsequent runs are forced to maintain a price differential because of their lateness in showing the pictures," he contends.

Asks Opinions

Myers solicits letters on the subject from his exhibitor readers, which may be included in a petition or brief to the Government in the event an industry move is inaugurated for an increase in the tax exemption level. He points out that such an increase would more than compensate the Government for any ticket tax loss by increasing income taxes.

The bulletin calls for suggestions for a meeting of Allied leaders "at some central point" in the near future to discuss the alternate proposals in Allied's legislative program for the purpose of guiding regional members whose organizations have not yet acted on the proposals.

The bulletin discusses the recent settlement of the Philadelphia exhibitors' "buyers' strike" against Paramount and concludes that there was no "victory" for either side. It adds, however, that whether the settlement remains a "draw" or is converted into a Paramount "victory" depends "on the good faith shown by the company in subsequent negotiations" with individual exhibitors.

"It seems likely," the bulletin observes, "that good paper deals may be made by exhibitors who are willing to sign up for Paramount's 1937-1938 product," but questions the type of deals which can be made by those who do not.

Myers sees in the "strike" an instrument which can be developed by exhibitors nationally and which, he believes, should be "held ready for future emergency use." He expresses the hope that the mere staging of the "strike" will act as a preventative against unfair trade practices anywhere in the industry.

The recent Federal decree entered at Dallas in the minimum admission regulation case is hailed in the bulletin as "a good piece of work by the Dep't of Justice" against the defendant distributors and circuits. Exception is taken, however, to that part of the decree which permits distributors to contract for exclusive runs and "time of exhibition" without understanding or agreement with any other distributor or exhibitor. The bulletin asserts that "no such questions were involved in the case and this part of the decree is gratuitous. It is calculated to influence the U. S. District Court in Ohio in its consideration of the case pending before it involving the constitutionality of the Ohio statute forbidding the compulsory designation of playdates."

The bulletin states that "It is hoped that this will be brought to the attention of Judge Atwell and that if it is too late or he declines to correct it, that a cross-appeal will be taken by the Government asking that this paragraph be eliminated."

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 18

(20th Century-Fox)

One of the few interviews with General Franco and his views on Spain is recorded here, the films being especially posed. In the last shot, the general is shown with his brother mapping new war plans.

Considerable footage is devoted to the passing of Ramsay McDonald. He is seen in action at a peace conference and also during his visit here four years ago. There are several sequences of a youth parade in Moscow with Stalin as overseer. New features in the army's recently developed gigantic planes are shown. Cutting giant redwoods in California is interesting, but not new. There are a few action moments in the Kansas-Nebraska pikskin tussle. Lew Lehr goes catty and seems to enjoy telling what a kitten is thinking of when she sees herself in a mirror. Skating at an indoor rink at Lake Placid serves as a reminder to get those skates ready for a hectic exhibition season ahead.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 216

(M-G-M)

Highlighting this issue is a forecast of the All-American team for football with sequences showing individual plays by the members chosen to head the lineup. Women will probably go big for the fashion show, but when the men take a peek at a $75,000 wrap worn by one of the models that's a fur of another mink.

President Roosevelt makes an appeal to aid the unemployed. A census is now under way to determine what the number is. The passing of Ramsay MacDonald brings forth several clips showing him in action and also his visit to President Roosevelt back in 1933.

Pictured also is the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Soviet regime at Moscow. College students of California Tech battle it out in the mud for precious automobile tires which bear a significance unexplained by Commentator Jean Paul King. Frederick Smite, the boy who has been forced to live in an iron lung for the past year, is shown at his home at Miami Beach, where he plays a game of chess through a mirror attached to the mechanical lung. A mattress of steel and asphalt is laid over the banks at Reserve, La., in preparation for imminent flood tides.

Paramount News

(Paramount)

A not particularly inspiring, but a well diversified reel in content makes up this issue of the Paramount reel, highlighted by excellent angle shots of fancy skating at Lake Placid and a pictorial and verbal tribute to Ramsay MacDonald, former Prime Minister of England, who died this week. Flashes of his trips to the United States and his appearance at 10 Downing St. and with the late King George V are concluded with an impressive bit as MacDonald bids farewell to the United States.

The other international news includes the military parade which celebrates the 25th year of independence from Turkey of Salonica, Greek city, and the Soviet anniversary celebration of 20 years of the new regime. As is usual with Russian festivities, the clip gains impressiveness by reason of the huge masses of people gathered in Red Square.

An exhibition of expensive furs, in a club setting, might have been improved with a feminine voice. For the rest, the six-day bike riders are seen opening their tough grind in Chicago; Mrs. Mary K. Raffray is seen after her divorce and prior to her marriage to Ernest Simpson; Magda de Fontanges, self-styled friend of Mussolini, is besieged by cameramen on her arrival here; a new type of iron lung is demonstrated as planned for Frederick B. Snite, Jr., and President Roosevelt voices an appeal for cooperation in the jobless census.

Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 33

(RKO)

The second issue of the Pathe newsreel in its new dress and with the benefit of its new resources and accessories shows, as did the first, a distinct improvement in news and entertainment values over earlier issues. If the standard thus set is maintained, it is obvious that the Pathe reel ere long will gain for itself a new and higher place in newsreel ratings.

While no outstanding news event presented itself for camera coverage for the midweek issue, this release does not lack for variety in the minor news events and their presentation is interest-compelling and animated. The new dress, main title and subtitles, together with good narration, photography and sound, all contribute to a fast-paced reel which is "newsy" in tempo as well as in content.

There are nine subjects in this release, the first of which is a "backstage" view of University of Pittsburgh football stars in their everyday settings on the campus, a treatment which suggests possibilities for regional news clips for mid week releases. An explanation of the purposes of the Federal census of the unemployed is given by President Roosevelt. Ramsay MacDonald's death is recorded with a background recalling his visits to America and other events in his long career. Flood control work on the Mississippi, New York City's complex tabulation of aldermanic votes under the proportional representation system, the harvesting of North Dakota's sugar beet crop, motorized cattle "rustling" in the modern manner, America's progress in passenger air transportation and the running of the Epsom Handicap at Sydney, Australia, complete the reel.

Running time, 9 min. K.

Universal News

No. 614

(Universal)

Universal's reel has nine varied topics in the latest release, but apparently there was a dearth of dramatic news. The principal action is furnished by the Navy-Columbia football game which is well handled.

Feminine appeal is provided by a series of bathing suit models with comment by Graham McNamee.

A parade of men carrying flags down 5th Ave. is just another parade. President Roosevelt discussing the unemployment census is good because the President is always effective in front of camera and microphone. Aviation progress is illustrated by three types of United Airline planes, but about all these shots do is take up space. Some footage is devoted to the late Ramsay McDonald.

A brawl showing California collegians pulling automobile tires around in a mass of mud is good for some laughs. Soviet Russia is shown celebrating international youth day, and there are scenes of a British airplane factory.

Politics Out Of FCC, Rules New Chairman

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Declaring his intention of putting the F.C.C. "in a gold fish bowl," Chairman Frank R. McNinch today made public new rules designed to close the doors to all political or other influences.

Admitting that there have been irregularities in the past, although apparently deliberately refraining from making any investigation, McNinch announced that hereafter all letters, telephone calls or other communications relating to the merits of any pending application will be made a matter of record, but that no such communication will be considered by the commission in reaching a decision unless it may be and is introduced in evidence at hearings. A definite bar is sought to be raised, however, to suggestions, requests or recommendations to members of the commission or its staff after the record has been closed following a year but before action by the commission.

Will List Names

The names of all persons communicating with the commission, McNinch said, will be listed and made public.

Under another order, the secretary of the commission weekly will forward to all members of Congress, the Governors of all states and the state regulatory or public utilities commission, a statement of all orders issued and all applications filed, accompanied by an invitation to anyone having an interest in any matter listed to appear at such hearing as may be held.

The orders further provide that any individual not a party at interest may appear at any hearing to testify to any material fact of which he may be cognizent, so that there may be no opportunity for interested parties to exercise any control over the hearing, witnesses who may testify or testimony which may be presented.

Plans Staff Discipline

Adopted after a lengthy meeting yesterday at which the chairman is understood to have made it plain that any member of the staff who succumbs to outside influence or goes one inch beyond his duties as the chairman sees them will be summarily penalized, the orders are designed to elimininate criticism that the commission has bowed to Congressional and political influence in its decision of cases.

Orders also were adopted by the commission outlining the procedure to be followed as a result of previous action abolishing the separate divisions which heretofore have, respectively, handled radio, telegraph and telephone matters.

FCC Specifications Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The F.C.C. today made public specifications for indicating instruments to be used by broadcasting stations in compliance with the rules, requiring that all instruments shall have a length of scale of not less than two and three-tenths inches, shall have an accuracy of at least two per cent of the full scale reading and shall have a maximum rating such that it does not read off scale.

Major Bests General

By JACK BANNER

HAVING safely gotten by the NBC censors with references to Hitler as "handsome Adolf" and to Mussolini as a "baggy pants dictator" and other verboten remarks, General Hugh S. Johnson Wednesday evening came a cropper when he was refused permission to go on the air with a talk on the subject of gonorrhea and syphilis.

The General took his speech to NBC at 8 o'clock, as was his custom, and apparently it was acceptable then, for nothing was said to him about it. At 9:57, three minutes before he was to go on the air, he was informed that he would not be allowed to deliver the address. NBC based its censorship on the fact that radio had not yet found a way to broadcast a talk on the subject of social diseases without seriously embarrassing the family group.

Generals don't usually take defeat easily, so, of course, the head of NBC, Major Lohr, was summoned to the studio, where it must have been an odd sight to see a major and a general battling, for battle verbally they did, according to all reports. In this instance, however, a major bested a general.

Comparing the statements made by the General and NBC, we find that the former's is much more logical. To begin with, the curse has to be taken off the subject of social diseases, thanks to the campaign waged by medical societies, a campaign which was and still is being aired publicly in newspapers and magazines. Secondly, the subject was discussed on NBC in the recent Forum on Current Problems, under the auspices of the New York Herald-Tribune, and nothing but praise to NBC resulted. Thirdly, as the General has pointed out, the poll conducted by the Gallup Institute indicates that the public voted something like 98 or 99 per cent in favor of a free discussion of the subject.

The General was most angered by the fact that he was not informed of the censorship until a few minutes before air time. He has taken exception to the NBC statement that it was not possible to reach him. He was constantly in his hotel room for the hour and a half preceding air time, he says, and at least two calls from NBC were received by him during that period. Nothing was said to indicate he would not be permitted to broadcast his speech.

CBS has had a more than comfortably enjoyable month, which explains the loud trumpeting from the direction of the office of Sales Promotion Director Vic Ratner. He finger-points to the following:

Colgate - Palmolive - Peet this month added a third program to the two they already have on the network.

Lever Bros. have added a fifth CBS program to the four they already have on the network.

Vaseline Products this month joined the CBS product-leaders, with a new program.

Vic pauses here, which is strange indeed, for he has merely overlooked the biggest order in CBS history—five hours of time weekly to Procter & Gamble. It's quite an oversight—about a quarter of a million dollar one, we think.

Technician Strike Keeps WOL Off Air

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—A sit-down strike of technicians today kept Station WOL off the air, as representatives of the management and employes sought to reach an agreement.

When the station was due to go on the air this morning at six o'clock, employes were in their places but refused to make connections which would enable broadcasting. The controversy revolves around a proposed contract submitted to the American Broadcasting Co., operator of the station, by the American Radio Telegraphers' Ass'n, a C.I.O. affiliate, on Nov. 5. The principal issue in dispute was said to relate to the wage scale for technicians.

Disbarment Decision By FCC Due Shortly

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Decision in the disbarment proceedings against Paul M. Segal and George L. Smith, charged with tampering with commission files and setting up dummy corporations, may be reached within a week or 10 days, it was said today by Chairman Frank R. McNinch of the F.C.C.

Action on the case has been delayed, he explained, because of the absence of one member, Commander T. A. M. Craven, at the Inter-American Conference at Havana, but it is hoped that Craven may be able to return to Washington for a day or two next week to sit in on deliberations on the decision.

The commission this week denied the application of Geraldine Alberghane for a new station at Pawtucket, R. I., one of the cases involved in the Segal-Smith proceedings.

roster, will be master of ceremonies and central figure in the program, which will hit the air every Wednesday from 10 to 11 P. M., E.S.T., beginning Dec. 1. The program is planned to be musical, dramatic and topical in content, according to Warners. Guest stars from various fields will be a prominent part of the programs.

The orchestral work will be under the direction of Leo Forbstein, Warner studio musical director, with Dudley Chambers as chorus director.

Among the Warner stars who will broadcast are: Bette Davis, Kay Francis, Errol Flynn, Edward G. Robinson, Leslie Howard, Olivia de Havilland, Fernand Gravet, Pat O'Brien, Boris Karloff, George Brent, Claude Rains, Joan Blondell, Lola and Priscilla Lane, Margaret Lindsay, Anita Louise, Johnnie (Scat) Davis, Hugh Herbert, Ian Hunter, Humphrey Bogart, Basil Rathbone, Frank McHugh, Beverly Roberts, Dick Foran and Ann Sheridan.

The compositions of the song-writing teams of Harry Warren and Al Dubin, Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart, M. K. Jerome and Jack Scholl, and Richard Whiting and Johnny Mercer, associated with the Warner studios, will be heard.

McNinch Criticises Barring of Johnson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Chairman Frank B. McNinch of the F.C.C. at a press conference held here today said that it is the belief of the commission that NBC acted against the public interest in barring from the air Gen. Hugh Johnson's talk on social diseases. He said that the matter will be brought up when NBC applies for a renewal of the license for its New York station.

"At the moment," said McNinch, "the matter is not a subject for the concern of the commission. Officially, all we know is what we read in the papers."

C. yesterday passed on a number of examiners' reports, granting construction permits for new broadcasting stations to be built by Don M. Lidenton and A. L. McCarthy at Poplar Bluff, Mo., operating on 1,310 kilocycles with 100 watts, daytime, and John W. Haigis at Greenfield, Mass., operating on 1,210 kilocycles with 250 watts daytime.

The commission denied applications for new stations filed by Arthur H. Croghan, Minneapolis; Charles Porter and Edward T. Eversole, Festus, Mo.; Key City Broadcasting Co., Kankakee, Ill.; Robert R. McCulla, Oak Park, Ill., and also applications of WHOM, Jersey City, for increase of power; KABR, Aberdeen, S. ATLANTA, Nov. 12.—The Court of Appeals of Georgia ruled yesterday that Bank Night at a film theatre is in violation of the state lottery law, despite the fact that it is not necessary to purchase a ticket in order to participate in the drawing.

Barker contended that no money was involved in his operation of Bank Night, since everyone was allowed

Brandt Asks Parley Here December 14

Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., yesterday sent letters to Ed Kuykendall, head of the M.P.T.O.A., and Nathan Yamins, president of Allied States, recommending Dec. 14 for a joint conference on trade practices. The meeting, if agreed upon by both parties, would be held at 1 P. M., at the Astor.

Kuykendall recently telegraphed Brandt that he was amenable to such a get-together, but would not be back in New York until early December. Yamins has expressed himself as willing to attend with the condition that anything agreed upon at the session would be subject to approval of the Allied board.

The letter sent to both exhibitor heads is as follows:

"In view of the fact that you join with me in my sentiments for a joint conference I would suggest a luncheon conclave to be held among us on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at the Astor at 1 P. M."

In the event Kuykendall and Yamins desire to bring along committees, Brandt will appoint a group from his organization to sit in.

Control at Outset Goes to Prudential—Extends Time in Which Goldwyn and Korda Ultimately Take Hold

By SHERWIN A. KANE

An oral agreement which, it is planned, will be put in final form in London, was reached yesterday giving effect to the exercising of the options for control of United Artists through the acquisition of the stock of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Charles Chaplin, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned from an authoritative source.

Under the agreement reached, Prudential Assurance of London, and its British financial associates, will loan $4,500,000 cash to the United Artists Corp., which will be used by the latter company for the purchase of Chaplin's one-fifth interest in United Artists and 62½ per cent of the United Artists' common stock held by Pickford Corp. and Elton Corp., the Fairbanks company.

Following a financial reorganization of United Artists which will be undertaken in the very near future, the main purpose of which will be to give the company authorization to issue new preferred stock, $1,500,000 of short-term preferred will be issued to Pickford Corporation and Elton Corporation for the remaining 37½ per cent of the United Artists common held by each. Provision will be made for the redemption of this $1,500,000 of short-term preferred before any dividends are paid on the outstanding common stock.

The Chaplin, Pickford and Fairbanks United Artists common stock thus acquired will be pledged by the company as security for the $4,500,000 loan from the British financial interests. The stock will remain under the control of these interests until the loan has been repaid, although the present indications are that Goldwyn and Korda will be accorded a free hand in production and many administrative matters in their respective spheres.

The fact appears to be, however, that Goldwyn and Korda will not become the owners of the stock through the exercise of the option. The British financing, it would seem, merely serves to extend the time during which the two producers are privileged to acquire United Artists control and, in that respect, the deal is essentially equivalent to a long-term extension of the option agreement.

The option to purchase the Pick-

See Selznick Deal Close, Maybe MGM

David O. Selznick last night was reported close to a deal, but with what distributing company remained largely a matter of guesswork; although insiders leaned toward the opinion it was M-G-M.

Indicative of the fact that a deal had been struck, or was about to be struck, is the plan of Selznick to leave for Hollywood next Wednesday. This decision comes in the face of reiterated statements on his behalf that he would remain in New York until his future business affiliation had been made. It also indicates his negotiations have come to a head faster than was generally expected in the light of comment from Selznick International of-

Flash Previews

"Navy Blue and Gold"—Probably the best of the Annapolis series. The academy forms a glamorous background for what is really excellent melodrama. It will have wide appeal.

"Wild Innocence"—Imported from Australia, the title refers to a Kangaroo and its harmless companions on the continent down under. Amateurishly produced but moderately entertaining.

"County Fair"—A horse racing yarn—fast-moving, timely and interesting. Plot, direction and production compensate for the lack of marquee names.

"Children of Loneliness"—A case-history type of story on the subject of sexual perversion. Enough said.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12.—Paul Kohner, for the past three months a producer at Columbia, resigned today following arguments over story properties. He will leave for a vacation of a month in Mexico accompanied by Lupita Tovar, his wife, and will decide upon a new affiliation upon his return.

Agree Orally on U.A. Deal; All-British Finances Seen

ford-Fairbanks-Chaplin three-fifths interest in United Artists, which was obtained by Goldwyn and Korda, expires officially on Dec. 23. E. H. Lever, Prudential secretary, who has represented the British financial interests in the negotiations here, expects to sail for London on the Queen Mary Wednesday. He will take with him the necessary legal papers, which are being prepared by Charles Schwartz of the law firm of Schwartz & Frolich, Goldwyn-Korda counsel. The deal will be closed in London with the signing of the papers by the British participants. This would permit the making of the loan and the exercise of the option well in advance of Dec. 23.

Goldwyn and David Rose, vice-president and financial adviser of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., plan to return to Hollywood on Wednesday. Korda may accompany them as he is anxious to take a brief vacation before returning to London.

The official announcement on the agreement which has been reached is expected from the principals on Monday.

Tax of $2 a Member Authorized by 4 A's

A maximum per capita tax of $2 per member was authorized by the council of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America to be levied against all of its 11 chartered units at a special session yesterday at which Frank Gillmore, president of the Four A's and of Actors Equity Ass'n, presided.

The initial tax to be levied may be only $1.50, as there is approximately $12,000 in the Four A's treasury, despite the fact that the parent A. F. of L. performers' organization has been virtually inactive for some years past. Its per capita tax, heretofore, has been 75 cents. The increase is required by the revised administrative setup making the Four A's an active organization. Its own office will be opened within the next few weeks at 25 W. 45th St. Gillmore, functioning as its active head, will draw a salary of $13,000 per year.

The bulk of the revenue under the tax will be derived from the Screen Actors' Guild and the American Federation of Radio Artists, largest in point of membership of the Four A's chartered unions.

The meeting also appointed a committee to study plans for revising the Four A's constitution to simplify the administrative functionings of itself and member unions. The committee will be aided by other committees to be named by each member union.

The next meeting of the Four A's board is scheduled for Dec. 3.

Equity Rule May Be Subject to Council

The efforts of Actors' Equity Ass'n to enforce American Theatre Council proposals through its own contracts with producer-managers may be amended to make Equity's disciplinary action subject only to council rulings which have been approved by a large percentage of the producer-managers, it was stated yesterday following a luncheon meeting of the council at the Astor.

Milton R. Weinberger, counsel for the League of N. Y. Theatres, the managers' organization, will confer with Paul N. Turner, Equity representative, with a view to effecting this change, it was said. It was pointed out that under Equity's present resolution, its judgment could be made to prevail in council matters affecting managers to the exclusion of a majority of the managers themselves.

The meeting heard reports from the council's working committees on discovery of new stage talent, on the projected 1938 Drama Festival, suburban ticket distribution, cooperation with the WPA theatre and improvement in box-office technique.

to register for the drawings, whether a patron purchased a ticket or not, and that the winner was admitted to the house free of charge if he was outside the theatre when his name was called.

The Court of Appeals held that the patrons of the theatre actually paid collectively or in a body for the lottery, which was necessarily intended as a business stimulator.

The Nebraska Supreme Court similarly ruled Bank Night illegal and a violation of the state lottery law on Oct. 22.

Quebec Leader Backs Autonomy for Radio

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—Maurice Duplessis, Premier of the Province of Quebec, has rallied to the standard of Quebec's radio autonomy. In a statement issued from Government offices he said he had received a letter from Gladstone Murray, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. asking for the opinion of the Province regarding regulations for beer and wine advertising on the radio. Quebec is the only one of the nine provinces in which such advertisements are sanctioned. He had replied without airing views, he said.

Control of such advertising, Duplessis thought, was a Federal matter. "Some years ago the Taschereau Government (his predecessors) passed some laws regarding radio which were found by the Supreme Court and the Privy Council to be unconstitutional. The net result was the loss of thousands of dollars to the Province. We intend to safeguard provincial autonomy and so will respect Federal autonomy."

the formation of a committee to investigate the investigators' asserted C.I.O. leanings.

Assemblyman Paul Richie, of the legislature's Capital-Labor Committee, welcomed the investigation but added that the state probers may in turn investigate the investigators of the solons.

The first witness was Irwin P. Henschel, I.A.T.S.E. member and one of the spokesmen for the I.A.T.S.E progressives' secret group of alliance members supporting the probe, who charged the I. A.'s officers were running a full-fledged gambling place in union headquarters, had held no meetings of members, nor consulted them in any way. He also said that 1,200 workers forced into the I. A. had to pay initiation fees as well as two per cent assessments; that no financial statement ever had been made and that the two per cent levy had been turned over to George Browne, I.A.T.S.E. president, to use for whatever purpose he saw fit.

Steve B. Newman, the first international official called to the stand, testified that Browne draws an annual salary of $20,000 plus an unnamed amount as expenses. Newman stated that his own salary is $110 weekly plus $12 a day traveling expenses while on the road.

Adjourn Until Monday

The hearing adjourned until Monday immediately after Newman, replying to a query by Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney, stated that he did not know the relationship between Browne and Tom Malloy, assassinated head of the Chicago projectionists' local.

Preceding Newman on the stand during the afternoon session were James E. Shaw and Francis Black, I.A.T.S.E. members, who said that they lost their studio jobs because of their dissatisfaction with I.A.T.S.E. officers.

Interunion discord came into the open today when the disclosure was made that the studio Carpenters' Union had gone on record favoring the investigation. Cliff Mace, business agent of the carpenters' group, said that no union organization operating fairly and above board should have anything to fear from such delving. The carpenters' local and the I.A.T.S.E. have been at odds for some time over the latter's demand for jurisdiction.

G. N. Promotes Two; Adds Three Salesmen

Grand National has made two promotions in its field sales force and added three salesmen, according to Sol Edwards, eastern division head. William Shartin, branch manager at Cleveland, is now in a similar post at Minneapolis and Peter Rosian, formerly a salesman at the Washington branch, now assumes management of the Cleveland office.

Carl J. Goe has been named branch manager of the Buffalo exchange. Jack Lamonte is a new addition to the Washington sales force, and William Crystal has been added to the Minneapolis exchange staff.

New branches have been opened in Memphis and Oklahoma City, making a total of 31 for the company.

It was originally planned to issue the announcement today. The complete statement follows:

"It was also announced that the purchasing members have decided definitely on the future policy of the corporation after the option has been taken up, as well as on the future administration details.

"Final action on the exercising of the option is being deferred until the legal advisors of the various interested parties, both in the United States and England, have examined the proposed details."

Fight Due on RKO Dividend Plan of Alger

No Common Payment Is Asked; Hearing Today

Special Master George W. Alger's tentative recommendation that no dividends be paid by the reorganized RKO on its new common stock until the company's new $12,718,500 issue of debentures has been fully retired, is expected to be the center of opposition when the hearing on his preliminary report gets under way today.

Atlas Corp., the proponent of the plan, probably will oppose the recommendation and would be joined by the various committees and counsel for RKO representing the common stockholders and other unsecured creditors who will receive new common stock under the provisions of the reorganization plan for the settlement of their claims.

Opponents of the recommendation are expected to point out to the special master that the recommendation,

English Paper Sees Censor Influenced

LONDON, Nov. 14.—There is a growing suspicion here that the War Office is influencing the decisions of the Board of Film Censors, it is reported in Reynolds' News. Films, particularly independent productions such as "Spanish Earth," "Thunder Over the Orient" and the home-produced "Millions of Us," dealing with trade unions, have suffered cuts and revisions due to interference from the military board.

Local 306 Demands Early Pay Revision

Nettled by the long drawn out conferences, members of Local 306 have given major circuit heads until Nov. 24 to conclude negotiations on a reinstatement of cuts in salaries, it was learned over the weekend. The Nov. 24 date was agreed upon by the membership at a meeting at Palm Gardens. About 10 motions recommending various types of action to be taken in the event no agreement is reached by the stipulated time were voted down by a majority of the projectionists.

Bank America, Hemphill, Noyes Group May Be Sources

By SHERWIN A. KANE

Financing for United Artists' future production requirements and the retention of David O. Selznick as a United Artists producer, are the two major loose ends remaining in the company's rapidly shaping pattern of things-to-be, as a result of the conclusion of an oral agreement last Friday on the exercise of the stock option for three-fifths of the company's common shares prior to Dec. 23, it was apparent yesterday.

The financing agreed to by Prudential Assurance of London and its British associates provides only the $4,500,000 minimum cash requirement for the exercising of the options. Prominently mentioned as sources of financing for future production are the Bank of America National Ass'n., with which Dr. A. H. Giannini, now United Artists president, was long associated, and a New York group which is believed to include Hemphill, Noyes & Co., of which Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, is a partner.

Prudential Studio Funds Likely

There is, however, an entirely probable supposition that Prudential, with or without other associations, will make production financing available to Alexander Korda's London Films, or to United Artists itself. This is predicated upon the assumption that with the exercise of the option the British interests' investment in both London Films and United Artists will be so large that it will have to be safeguarded in this or any other vital respect.

Prudential's investment in the option deal will run to a maximum of $2,000,000, it is said. The remaining $2,500,000 in cash will be supplied by its associates, all of whom are understood to be British concerns. The balance required to swing the $6,000,000 option deal will be made up of $1,500,000 in an early maturity preferred stock of United Artists Corp., which will be issued to Pickford Corp. and Elton Corp., the Douglas Fairbanks holding company for their respective one-fifth stock interests in United Artists, immediately following a revision of the latter company's capital structure. This financial reorganization is required due to the fact that under United Artists' present

By RED KANN

AS indeterminate as NBC appears to have been in last week's tilt with General Hugh S. Johnson, an examination of the circumstances leads to this observer's conclusion that the broadcasting network displayed good judgment in refusing the General permission to deliver his scheduled address on gonorrhea and syphilis. It seems Johnson was chiefly angered because the censorship was not applied until a few minutes before his program was to take the air. What happened behind the scenes, the temperature in the words presumably fired back and forth between Johnson and Major Lohr, president of NBC, are not exactly basking in the sun's glare. But it makes little difference. . . .

It makes little difference, as we approach the question, because astride the base line of the discussion is the issue of whether or not the problem of social diseases should be turned loose into no one can calculate how many directions, how many homes, how much of an audience, as well as the ages of that audience, through a medium which is primarily one of entertainment. We assert it should not. We maintain that inherent in such a handling are the possibilities for more harm than good. There can be no doubt about the need for widespread dissemination of information among formulative minds and minds presumably already formed on the dangers of social diseases. The press in increasing measure is opening its columns to headlines in which gonorrhea and syphilis get display mention. Medical societies which once whispered the words behind cupped lips have abandoned that reserve in the light of what, more and more, is assuming a nation-wide movement to stem the tide by more thoroughly familiarizing the public with pitfalls to be avoided. . . .

All of this is merely to read the directional signs. To attempt to deny the impact of a growing educative campaign is futile and ostrich-like. Yet, reading the printed word is one thing. Idly flipping a dial in the search for entertainment and by ready ear absorption happening upon, or even hunting out, discussions of venereal diseases is entirely different. There is to consider the susceptibility of the adolescent child, his pliability for impressions induced by forceful address. There is also to consider the responsibility of the parent who, firstly, is the person who should impart the essential facts. If information on gonorrhea and syphilis is to be widely thrown to the four corners of the land, and we argue that it should, the lecture hall and special facilities should be utilized for the purpose. . . .

Broadcasting on a national, or even a limited geographical scope, carries with it such vast potentialities for good and something less that every care ought to be brought into play to make certain desirable consequences can be assured, if this is possible. In the instance of NBC, the facts reveal an inconsistency in that social diseases were earlier discussed over that network during the Forum on Current Problems under the auspices of the New York Herald-Tribune. It, therefore, might be argued General Johnson has been discriminated against. It may be, on the other hand, the error was originally made in the first instance and measures sought to bar a repetition in the next following circumstance, which happened to be the case of General Johnson. We do not know what the history of the incident will show. We do know, however, that NBC was correct in clamping down its censorship on Johnson because of the context of his proposed talk. For there are ways by which such problems in the public interest can be given their say without turning an essentially entertainment medium into an agency for specialized propaganda. . . .

United Artists has a surplus of $1,500,000, but indications are that this would be reserved for retirement of the Pickford-Fairbanks preferred shares within the prescribed time limit. A default on the redemption of this preferred might result in a readmittance of Pickford and Fairbanks to the United Artists common stockholders' list providing the preferred to be issued to them carried a conversion privilege.

While negotiations looking to a renewal of Selznick's production deal with the company have been active, sources close to Selznick are inclined to believe that his chances of remaining are less than for the setting of an M-G-M deal.

As reported exclusively in Motion Picture Daily on Saturday, the Pickford - Fairbanks - Chaplin United Artists stock will be pledged as security for the $4,500,000 British loan by United Artists Corp., to whom the loan is being made. Samuel Goldwyn and Korda thus will have a virtually unlimited time in which to acquire ownership of the controlling stock through repayment of the loan. No dividends are to be paid on United Artists common following the exercise of the option, however, until the $1,500,000 of new preferred to be issued to Pickford and Fairbanks has been retired.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Blossoms on Broadway"

(Schulberg-Paramount)

Hollywood, Nov. 14.—The radio popularity of the title song is a factor in favor of "Blossoms on Broadway." So is the wholly amusing and too brief presence of the long-beloved Weber and Fields. Edward Arnold has had far happier castings but triumphs over this one like the true trouper he is. Other box office names of varying magnitude are Shirley Ross, William Frawley, John Trent, The Radio Rogues, Frank Craven, John Arthur and Rufe Davis. But none of these save Miss Ross has much opportunity for distinguished services, and she flounders. The production is a strangely uncoordinated collection of miscellaneous materials, some of them independently meritorious. It is likely to sell better than it wears.

The screenplay by Theodore Reeves is a fantastic yarn about Confidence Man Arnold who persuades the rural Miss Ross to pose as the owner of a gold mine so he can induce Hoarder Craven to entrust him with contraband coin to be melted down and marketed as new. This not especially funny idea gets kicked around until it is practically lost, which wouldn't be regrettable if the song numbers and comedy specialties interpolated with this result weren't kicked about as fatally, in turn, by the ever-reviving plot.

The title song is by Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger, two others by Frank Loesser and Manny Sherman, who are credited also with a kind of musical comedy finale in which everybody sings or speaks lines that rhyme but don't bounce. A slapstick opera sequence by Phil Boutelje and Ralph Freed clicks. Direction is by Richard Wallace, who should have taken a firm hand with matters when things began to snarl. George Auerbach is associate producer and it is of record that men so experienced as these have fabricated films as unorthodox and undisciplined as this which have tickled the unpredictable public prodigiously. This may be such a film, but it didn't cheer up a crowd sitting over from "Angel" at the Los Angeles Paramount. And that fact smacks of significance.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"Children of Loneliness"

(Jewel)

Hollywood, Nov. 14.—This item from the Samuel Cummins collection of esoterica (to use the nicer word) followed his "Love Life of a Gorilla" into Tally's Criterion heralded by newspaper and lobby exploitation copy defining it as "inspired by 'The Well of Loneliness'" and indicating, by word and picture, that it deals with perversion. It does just that, a person identified as a Dr. S. Dana Hubbard of the New York Health Dep't taking the screen at the start and the close of the picture to say, however, that it is an authentic presentation of the subject and that if it rescues so many as one of these "mentally abnormal" persons from his or her "mental complex" it will have been well worthwhile. He doesn't say what it will have been worth if it works the other way.

The story in "Children of Loneliness," acted out by unknown players in front of an inexpertly wielded camera under booming microphones, concerns a girl wooed by another girl but saved in the nick of time by falling for a fullback. A parallel thread concerns a supposedly masculine artist and his supposedly feminine would-be fiancee, whom he sends about her business and who says, after she has learned he has committed suicide and why, she wishes he had told her (intimating that everything would have been dandy). Assorted perverts are paraded in the course of the action, with a character representing a psychoanalyst explaining matters while treating the two principal ones as patients. Technically, the production is on a par with the lesser "B" output of the lesser studios.

After the Criterion presentation, a lecturer aided by three girls, one of whom he described as over-sexed, offered a book by Dr. Hubbard, plus a birth control chart and other clinical data, for sale to the customers at 50 cents the mess, but probably this service costs extra. Sales were slow at the premiere, anyway.

Reviewed without code seal. Running time, 68 minutes. "A."

Mentone Due to Sign With Guild Shortly

Mentone Prod. has requested a contract form from the Screen Actors' Guild and the pact will probably be signed early next week, it was learned yesterday.

The signing of Mentone, following closely upon that of Educational and Tru Pictures, will leave only March of Time and Pathe commercial films unsigned by the guild among eastern producers. Indications are that the guild's eastern office will formally act in both of the latter instances in the near future.

if it is permitted to stand, might force reorganized RKO to accumulate and hold large cash amounts for the retirement of debentures which would be subject to heavy taxation under the Federal levies on undistributed profits. However, this argument may collapse in the event that the special session of Congress, which convenes in Washington today, takes favorable action on a modification of the undistributed profits tax, as now appears likely.

If the special master's recommendation does stand, many factors in the reorganization believe that it will have a tendency to "freeze" the market value of the present RKO common stock at approximately its present level of $5 to $6 per share. In this event, the new common being worth two shares of old, probably would be quoted upon consummation of the reorganization at the $10 to $12 per share value referred to in Alger's tentative report.

Value Would Be $5,532,000

On this basis, as Alger suggests in his report, the $9,150,628 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO would have a maximum market value of $5,532,000, giving effect to Alger's recommendation of a maximum 39,000 shares reduction in the 500,000 shares of new common which the reorganization plan proposes to issue to Rockefeller Center in settlement of the claim. It is obvious, however, that any fluctuation in the new RKO common's market value would either increase or decrease the stock value of the claim away from the $5,532,000 valuation referred to by Alger.

Rockefeller Center officials advised MOTION PICTURE DAILY last week that they would not object to Alger's proposed treatment of their claim. Moreover, the RKO trustee is in no position to contest it as the trustee's opposition to allowance of the claim has been argued before Federal Judge William Bondy already, whose decision has been reserved pending the outcome of the hearings on the reorganization plan.

Alger's report was distributed to reorganization counsel on Nov. 6 and, as reported earlier in MOTION PICTURE DAILY, approves the reorganization plan in virtually all of its major proposals, exclusive of those referred to above.

Pittsburgh Rings To Variety Antics

Greevey, chief booker of the Harris Amusement Co., into whose arms Maloney placed George Variety Barker, the Variety Club's adopted boy, for safekeeping during 1938.

The affair began at 7 P. M. and at midnight adjourned downstairs to the Variety Club's new hotel headquarters where the festivities continued into the early morning. Norman Frescott flew in from Hollywood to serve as toastmaster, a post he has passed up only once since the affair was started several years ago, introducing among others Larry Kelley, All-American end from Yale; Red Kann, editor of MOTION PICTURE DAILY; Jock Sutherland, coach of the Pitt football team, and Attorney General of Pennsylvania Charles Margiotti. Mayor Scully of Pittsburgh was to have attended, but he has been ill for the last week and was ordered by his physician to remain in bed.

An all-star floor show, recruited from stage, screen and radio in New York by John H. Harris, general chairman, was presented by Dan Healy, who served as "m. c.," and which lasted for more than two hours following the dinner. Another feature was a big souvenir program edited by George Tyson and including articles by leading Pittsburgh newspapermen.

More than 200 out-of-town guests, representing all of the big film companies, arrived in Pittsburgh a day ahead of the banquet to see the Pitt-Nebraska football game.

ment between the circuits and Local 306 provides for arbitration if a deadlock is reached on terms, a source close to the union intimated that secret plans are being made that may result in a walkout or a concerted sitdown strike in one of the major circuit's houses. The hour and day when such action may be taken have not yet been decided, it was stated.

A meeting of union and circuit representatives is scheduled for today at C. C. Moskowitz's office in the Loew Bldg. The session is expected to last several hours with the union men presenting the final demands of Local 306 members.

Since 1927, union sources claim, operators have accepted reductions totaling approximately 35 per cent. Union officials are seeking increases up to 48 per cent, it was declared, because of the high cost of living.

Up to the present time circuits have granted Local 306 men a tentative 10 per cent increase, retroactive to Sept. 1. Other boosts in salaries agreed upon also will be retroactive to the same date.

To Confer Bi-Yearly

According to the master contract signed in 1935, both operators and theatre heads are to get together every two years on the salary question. The deliberations between circuits and union executives have been in progress several months. They have been interrupted from time to time because of negotiations between the I.A.T.S.E. and distributors on contracts for "back room" help in exchanges throughout the country. These pacts are all cleared up except for a master agreement.

Recently the circuits granted members of Stagehands' Local No. 1 a six per cent increase in de luxe theatres, retroactive to Sept. 1, and promised another six per cent next Sept. 1. Stagehands in neighborhood theatres were given one per cent less in both instances.

Major circuit operators declare they are anxious to wind up negotiations with Local 306, but when it comes to granting 48 per cent increases that is another thing. It takes time to work out new contracts, it was stated, and decisions in such instances cannot be made hastily.

Independents Pessimistic

Meanwhile, independent circuits have until next September to work out a new two-year agreement with Local 306. Numerous unaffiliated exhibitors have been decrying what they term the worst business in years. Admissions have not gone up with the change in times, they state, and distributors are demanding increases in rentals all along the line. The major circuit neighborhood houses also have felt the slump in grosses, it was stated, and the thought of boosting price scales is further from their minds than ever.

It is likely that major circuits will offer a small percentage hike in salaries now and another next September. Whether the union will agree to such an arrangement is problematical. Some interests are of the opinion that the matter will finally wind up before an arbitration board without a walkout or sitdown strike.

Short Subjects

"A Night at the Movies"

(M-G-M)

Another Robert Benchley opus. It contains some shrewd wit that will be readily appreciated by practically everyone in the theatre. Benchley and his wife, after a bit of conversation, decide to see a picture. Benchley gets the tickets mixed up with the stubs for an automobile giveaway. This creates a situation in the foyer until the manager, haughty and bored, ends what threatened to become an issue. In the auditorium the couple disrupt the performance, but finally manage to get seats. Benchley has a fit of coughing and leaves by a side door. When he attempts to re-enter he takes the stage door and appears on the stage while an act is in progress. It merits billing on the marquee. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The King Without a Crown"

(M-G-M)

A moderately interesting historical mystery is offered here. It concerns the disappearance of the Dauphin during the French Revolution and how later the Prince de Joinville visiting in Wisconsin interviews Eleazer Williams, a missionary among the Indians, whom he has traced as the missing monarch. The missionary refuses to sign away his claim to the throne and the film shortly fades out with a question mark. Carey Wilson handles the narration. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Behind the Criminal"

(M-G-M)

The latest issue of the "Crime Does Not Pay" series deals with the illegal activities of a smart lawyer who obtains acquittals for hardened and dangerous criminals by placing perjured witnesses on the stand. Eventually, the district attorney cracks down on him and his gang. The narrative has the usual punch and vivid melodrama which serve the dual purpose of thrilling and enlightening. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

"Decathlon Champion"

(M-G-M)

Here Pete Smith applies himself to the career of Glenn Morris, an outstanding athlete and Olympic champion. The narrative covers Morris' activities from the time he was a farm boy in Colorado to his attainment of the top in Berlin last year. The action is fast-moving and exciting. It should fit in well anywhere. Running time,10 mins. "G."

Open Two Houses in New Rochelle Soon

NEW ROCHELLE, Nov. 14.—This city will have two new theatres shortly, one to be operated by Samuel Strausberg of the Interboro Circuit and the other by Harry Brandt. Each will seat 600.

The new Trent, situated on Main St., will cost about $40,000 and is expected to be ready for opening in three weeks. The North Avenue, located on North Avenue, has been leased from the Ward Foundation by the Brandt circuit. This theatre will cost approximately $60,000.

Looking 'Em Over

"Wild Innocence"

(Herman Garfield)

Chute, a kangaroo, gets top billing in this Australian-made feature and, for once, the credit lines are properly distributed.

"Wild Innocence," based on a Cosmopolitan story by Dorothy Cotterell, by general classification, fits into the "Sequoia" category with some of that film's merits. The story thread deals with the civilizing influence on the "roo" and man's cruelty toward dumb animals. When the picture adheres closely to scenes in the bush and successfully captures the animals cavorting on their native heath, it is arresting. When the humans enter the scene and the circus episodes come along, the interest drops quickly. This leads to the conclusion that somewhat unfortunate was the decision to devote so much of the treatment to an indifferent and hackneyed story, amateurishly acted and handled.

However, there is enough in the 65 minutes' length in which Chute takes the center of the stage to mark this film from "down under" away from the routine and, on that ground, worthy of exhibitor attention. It also carries with it considerable potentialities for ballyhoo which the smart showman will readily appreciate can be turned to his advantage.

Ken G. Hall directed from an adaptation by Edmund Seward.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"The Legion of Missing Men"

(Monogram)

The French Foreign Legion is the background for this film, but there is little of consequence in the story it serves. It is the usual tale of brotherly love, not very well acted, that is heightened by a fair battle sequence when the old and reliable 20th comes marching up over the sand dunes and turns the tide of an Arab attack on a desert post.

Ralph Forbes' brother, Ben Alexander, joins the legion and arrives on the scene following a mediocre introduction to make the story stand up. Alexander develops interest in Hala Linda, a cafe singer. Miss Linda secretly loves Forbes. Alexander strikes an officer in a brawl. He is locked up but Miss Linda contrives his escape with two Arabs. Forbes and his buddies give chase because the former had arranged his brother's release. The entire group is caught by a renegade Arab chieftain. Forbes is forced to assemble and fire a number of machine guns as the climax approaches. He manages to stave off the battle until the reinforcements brought by Miss Linda arrive. During the fight his brother is killed and the piece closes with the troops marching on.

The cast also includes Paul Hurst, Roy D'Arcy and Georges Rigas. Normal S. Hall wrote the original. Hamilton MacFadden directed.

Running time, 62 minutes. "G."

Melbourne Takes Hit Severely by Disease

SYDNEY, Oct. 20 (By Air Mail via London).—The infantile paralysis epidemic continues to average seven or eight cases a day in Melbourne suburban areas. Meanwhile theatre business is suffering its most serious reverse since the bubonic plague of 1920 caused a complete shut-down of theatres for several weeks.

If accompanied by adults, children are now allowed to attend either city or suburban theatres, but Saturday afternoon suburban matinees are still cancelled and at present there is no indication when they will be resumed. A decision by the Exhibitors' Ass'n. to resume them in suburbs, where schools had been reopened and where no cases had been reported for at least four weeks, met with a strong protest by the Consultive Council on the disease and the association had no option but to rescind its decision.

The Government has declared that it has no intention of compensating theatre owners for the period the theatres have been affected by the epidemic ban, as requested by the exhibitors' association.

Dubbing in Austria Gaining this Season

By HANS LORANT

VIENNA, Oct. 24.—The attempt of many years on the part of the Austrian authorities to encourage American companies to dub some of their product in German in this country is beginning to bear fruit at last. Greater activity by the American companies is expected this year.

Warners are dubbing three, "San Quentin," "The Life of Emile Zola" and "The Prince and the Pauper." RKO plans to dub three and Universal has finished "Three Smart Girls." Other American companies here are considering similar action.

RKO Plan Is Advanced by Alger Action

Written Objections to Replace Hearings

The completion of the RKO reorganization may be advanced a month or more as a result of an unscheduled shortening of the procedure for hearings on the plan invoked yesterday by Special Master George W. Alger.

Hearings on Alger's tentative report, presented to reorganization principals on Nov. 6, which were scheduled to get under way yesterday and may have continued for a matter of either days or weeks, are being dispensed with. In their stead, the special master informed attorneys yesterday, written objections to the report will be accepted and will be sent to Federal Judge William Bondy with the special master's final report on the plan, the preparation of which Alger is undertaking at once.

Thus, there will be no further hearings before the special master and the reorganization will go into its final stages with the opening of hearings

Samuel Goldwyn, one of the two principals in the United Artists deal, who left for Hollywood by train last night. He was accompanied by Maurice Silverstone, managing director for U. A. in England.

Alexander Korda, Goldwyn's partner in the deal and head of London Films. He left for a short visit to the coast last night via the air route and was accompanied west by Marcel Hellman.

By SHERWIN A. KANE

The agreement for financing and exercising the option for the purchase of the United Artiscts common stock held by Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks was signed and closed by the American principals in the deal yesterday, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned from authoritative sources.

The action here yesterday leaves only the British end of the deal unclosed and permits E. H. Lever, secretary of Prudential Assurance of London, to take with him when he boards the Queen Mary tomorrow a complete agreement bearing all of the necessary signatures of American participants.

The closing of the American end of the deal ended the two and one-half weeks of negotiations and conferences here by Lever, Samuel Goldwyn, Alexander Korda, David Rose and their local attorneys. Korda, accompanied by Marcel Hellman, president

Selznick to M-G-M; Two To Go at UA

Contract Set—May Be Announced Today

David O. Selznick will join M-G-M, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned yesterday. Formal announcement of his rejoining the company which he left to launch Selznick International is expected momentarily and may be made this afternoon.

It is understood Selznick's functioning as a separate identity will be maintained, that this applies to his corporate setup as well and that he will continue to maintain production headquarters at the former Thomas H. Ince studio in Culver City, a few minutes removed from the M-G-M lot.

"Tom Sawyer" and "Nothing Sacred," part of his commitment under his present United Artists contract, are finished, but he has two more to make under the current deal. This probably will keep him busy well into the new year and suggests the probability that his first release for M-G-M will be held by his new affiliation until the opening of the 1938-'39 season. His initial film most likely will be "Gone with the Wind" for which Clark Gable automatically will be available for the role of Rhett Butler.

Selznick, for some time, has been

Berman, Spitz Cool On RKO Studio Post

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15.—Pandro S. Berman, it has been learned authoritatively, is not interested in the appointment as permanent head of RKO production but is merely filling in for the time being through a supervision of scripts designed for "A" production pending a realignment.

Furthermore, no credence need be given, it is further learned, to speculation that Leo Spitz may assume the production helm. It is said for the president of RKO that he appreciates that he does not know production. In addition, there is his objection to transplanting his headquarters from New York to Hollywood.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15. — Frank Capra's difficulties with Columbia may reach an amicable, out-of-court accord momentarily. The director has been conferring with Harry Cohn on an adjudication of the difficulties.

Returning on the Queen Mary after a two-month vacation, during which he visited England, France, Italy, Austria, Germany, Hungary and Greece, Spyros Skouras, operating head of National Theatres, 20th Century-Fox subsidiary, yesterday pointed to England as the country prospering and in a healthy state as far as business is concerned.

"England," he said, "is doing a wonderful business." In Athens, Greece, Skouras stated, "there are 10 first runs, five of which are new."

"Italy is doing well, France is improving, Belgium is very good and Hungary is coming along. But England tops them all," he declared. While in those countries, Skouras said he visited all the first run houses and was impressed by the progress being made.

Charles Skouras and Mike Rosenberg, who delayed their departure to the coast until Spyros returned, plan to get away today.

Congress Help Asked on Wage And Hour Laws

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Aid of Congress in combating the business recession was invoked today by President Roosevelt in his message to the opening meeting of the special session. Adopting a conciliatory position, the President indicated he would accept whatever type of wage and hour legislation the Congress decided to enact, asserting that while the position of labor should be improved "this does not mean that legislation must require immediate uniform minimum hour or wage standards."

While such standards are the "ultimate goal," the President said, "we should provide flexible machinery that will enable industries throughout the country to adjust themselves progressively to better labor conditions."

Tax Revision Possible

As a further encouragement to business and industry, the President, while not listing tax legislation as a feature of the session, declared that injustices in the law should be eliminated but without enabling taxpayers to escape their just responsibilities. He had reference in this respect of relaxation of the undistributed profits tax, while the warning was directed at speculators and taxpayers using holding companies and other methods of evasion.

The President pointed out that later messages will be sent to Congress outlining other parts of his legislative program, probably including anti-trust law modernization and other subjects which were not discussed today.

Congress, upon convening today for the five-week special session, found ready none of the legislation called for by the President and will spend several days marking time

Orders Details in Suit

The Beekman Film Corp. was ordered to file a sworn bill of particulars in its copyright infringement suit against Warners by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in the U. S. Distrist Court yesterday. Beekman alleges that its picture, "This is America" was infringed in the Warner picture, "The Yanks Are Coming" after the Beekman film was exhibited to Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production for Warners. A permanent injunction, damages and an accounting of the profits is asked. Warners denied the infringement and asserted that "This Is America" was compiled exclusively from newsreel shots taken from a film library.

Sign UA Deal At U. S. End; London Next of Criterion Pictures, London, left for the coast by plane last night for a vacation and United Artists production conferences. Goldwyn and Maurice Silverstone, United Artists managing director in England, left on the Century. They were accompanied by Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, whose investment firm, Memphill, Noyes & Co., has been mentioned as a possible source of financing for future United Artists production.

Lever, having been empowered to act for the British financing principals in the option deal, is expected to obtain the signatures of his constituents promptly after his return to London. This will permit the actual exercising of the option well in advance of Dec. 23, its expiration date, the American principals believe.

Saturday Story Confirmed

Authoritative sources, including actual participants in the deal, gave confirmation yesterday to MOTION PICTURE DAILY's exclusive story of the details for exercising of the option, which were published Saturday. These comprise the agreement for the loaning of $4,500,000 cash to United Artists Corp. by Prudential and its British associates and the issuance of a short term preferred stock in the amount of $1,500,000 in equal shares to Pickford and Fairbanks. Chaplin's one-fifth interest in United Artists is, of course, being acquired by a full cash payment of $2,000,000. Fairbanks and Pickford receive, for the same amount of United Artists stock, $1,250,000 in cash and $750,000 in new preferred stock, each.

The options will be exercised with the British financing and the Pickford-Fairbanks-Chaplin stock pledged as security for the loan. The controlling stock does not come into the possession of Goldwyn and Korda until the loan is repaid.

London Reception Is Mixed and Cautious

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Cabled announcement from New York that discussions had been concluded in the United Artists deal met with a mixed and cautious reception in the London trade today.

It was pointed that the phrase "all parties are in agreement on the conditions by which financing will be made available to Mr. Goldwyn and Mr. Korda to exercise their option" makes it clear final papers by which the deal would be concluded have not been signed. Significance also is seen here in the closing paragraph of statement which read:

"Final action on the exercising of the option is being deferred until the legal advisors of the various interested parties, both in the United States and England, have examined the proposed details."

Goldwyn Talks by Trainside; Agreeable, but Tight-Lipped

By BILL ORNSTEIN

In an exclusive interview, and taken by surprise when a MOTION PICTURE DAILY reporter approached him at the train, Samuel Goldwyn talked about evrything but the pertinent facts in the U. A. deal for control of the company by himself and Alexander Korda.

"Have you anything to say about the deal?" he was asked.

"You got a statement."

"Yes, but there are some details remaining that we'd like to clarify," he was told.

"I'll send you a statement."

Goldwyn turned to Ben Washer, his eastern publicity representave, and told him to send out a statement. Washer said he would.

"When will the board of directors of U. A. meet to approve the deal?"

"I don't know when the board will meet, but it does not have to approve the arrangement."

"How about financing arrangements? Have they been completed?"

"I think MOTION PICTURE DAILY is a good paper and you're a nice fellow."

"But is the money all set?"

"Have you ever been to Hollywood?" Goldwyn asked.

"No. Do you want to take me along with you?"

Goldwyn smiled and walked off with David Rose, vice-president and financial adviser of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc.

"When are you coming back to New York?" the reporter shouted as Goldwyn and Rose strode off.

"Not for a long while."

In a telegram filed at 5:46 P. M., or exactly 13 minutes after the producer left for the coast, the United Artists publicity department yesterday informed the press that Goldwyn had departed.

Rose to Coast Tomorrow

David Rose, vice-president and financial adviser for Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., will leave by plane for Hollywood tomorrow. E. H. Lever, secretary of Prudential Assurance Co. of England, will said for home on the Queen Mary tomorrow. Both have been instrumental in closing the U. A. deal for shifting control to Goldwyn and Alexander Korda.

AGREE ORALLY ON U.A. DEAL; ALL-BRITISH FINANCES SEEN

By SHERWIN A. KANE

An oral agreement which, it is planned, will be put in final form in London, was reached yesterday giving effect to the exercising of the options for control of United Artists through the acquisition of the stock of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Charles Chaplin, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned from an authoritative source.

Under the agreement reached, Prudential Assurance of London, and its British financial associates, will loan $4,500,000 cash to the United Artists Corp., which will be used by the latter company for the purchase of Chaplin's one-fifth interest in United Artists and 62½ per cent of the United Artists' common stock held by Pickford Corp. and Elton Corp., the Fairbanks company.

Following a financial reorganization of United Artists which will be undertaken in the very near future, the main purpose of which will be to give the company authorization to issue new preferred stock, $1,500,000 of short-term preferred will be issued to Pickford Corporation and Elton Corporation for the remaining 37½ per cent of the United Artists common held by each. Provision will be made for the redemption of this $1,500,000 of short-term preferred before any dividends are paid on the outstanding common stock.

The Chaplin, Pickford and Fairbanks United Artists common stock thus acquired will be pledged by the company as security for the $4,500,000 loan from the British financial interests. The stock will remain under the control of these interests until the loan has been repaid, although the present indications are that Goldwyn and Korda will be accorded a free hand in production and many administrative matters in their respective spheres.

The fact appears to be, however, that Goldwyn and Korda will not become the owners of the stock through the exercise of the option. The British financing, it would seem, merely serves to extend the time during which the two producers are privileged to acquire United Artists control and, in that respect, the deal is essentially equivalent to a long-term extension of the option agreement.

The option to purchase the Pick put up the $4,500,000. Korda said he did not know the names of the British companies and declined to comment on Star Eagle as one of the parties.

Payment of the $4,500,000 to the British companies will be made from the earnings of U. A., Korda explained, denying, at the same time, that Prudential would participate in any way. Hemphill, Noyes & Co., of which Stanton Griffis of Paramount is a partner, will not finance production in any shape or form, according to Korda.

New money for financing production will not be necessary, Korda added. "We don't need working cash. We have enough to take care of it."

Asked about financing of Walter Wanger productions, Korda said: "That has been provided for in the arrangement."

To Return Sunday

Korda expects to return from the coast by plane Sunday. He said: "There is nothing for me to do here so I am going to Hollywood to look around." There will be no coast conferences on the deal as "there is nothing further to discuss." Korda added he may discuss new producers for U. A. while in Hollywood.

"When will the options be picked up?" he was asked.

"As soon as the legal documents are drawn and signed. I expect that to take place in two weeks. You know E. H. Lever is sailing Wednesday on the Queen Mary to take care of that. I will sail on the Normandie next week."

"Will there be any new producers?"

"We hope there will be. U. A. is open to new ones. We have some in mind and it is too early to talk about them."

"Will there be any change in administration or policy?"

"We are very satisfied with things as they stand and I don't think there will be any changes."

"Will there be a voting trusteeship?"

"New Board of Directors"

"No. There will be a new board of directors. Who they will be I cannot say at this time."

"Will there be additional British interests on the new board?"

"That hasn't been discussed yet."

"What about Lever?"

"His status doesn't change. He continues as secretary of Prudential, which is the chief backer of London Films."

"Will Dr. A. H. Giannini continue as chairman and president?"

"I don't see any change at the moment."

"There is a report that Maurice Silverstone will become president. Is there any truth to it?"

"I can't say. I don't know. When we take over the company there will be some minor adjustments. What they will be I cannot say now."

"Will there be a stock issue?"

"No. Definitely not."

Paramount's Briefs Deny Gary Charges

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 15.—Validity of the evidence offered by the Gary Theatre Co. in its action for a mandatory injunction compelling Paramount to deliver 10 additional feature pictures is attacked by the producer in its briefs filed late today in U. S. District Court here. The plaintiffs maintain that some of the pictures in question were "admittedly completed within the contract period," and quote statements of Adolph Zukor and William LeBaron in the trade press to that end.

Paramount, however, declares this evidence incompetent, and refers in the brief to an affidavit filed earlier by Russell Holman, Paramount eastern production head, describing production delays that made delivery in the year ending Aug. 1, 1937, impossible. The Gary firm describes Holman's explanation as "not adequate" and asserts the alleged failure to deliver was not for causes beyond Paramount's control.

Pact Meaning in Dispute

What is meant in the contract's wording of "not to exceed 65 pictures" is another point at issue. The plaintiffs assume this to mean that "Paramount is under an affirmative duty to produce, release and deliver to the plaintiffs 65 feature length motion pictures with the titles and stars set forth in its catalogue."

Paramount asserts that "under the contract there is no expressed or implied duty for the defendant to produce or release any particular picture or any particular number of pictures."

Fifty-three pictures were delivered, according to briefs on both sides.

The plaintiffs' brief states that "actual damages plaintiffs will sustain if they do not exhibit these pictures are necessarily extremely difficult of ascertainment and to some extent at least they probably can never be fully ascertained. These facts not only justify but impel injunctive relief."

Holding that the Gary company's remedy at law is adequate, Paramount sees this statement as an admission that "no irreparable injury was caused by the lack of pictures expected and that the plaintiffs' brief bears this out."

Say New Contract Refused

The plaintiffs assert that Paramount has refused to enter into a new contract for the Gary theatres and that they propose to exhibit the pictures in question in a new theatre recently opened in Gary which is affiliated with Paramount.

Paramount's answer is that "plaintiffs seek a decree which will prevent the performance of definite contractual obligations to furnish pictures to the two corporations operating the State and Grand in Gary and these corporations are not parties to this action."

The plaintiffs operate the Gary and Palace.

Declaring that the plaintiffs sought from Jules J. Rubens, head of Great States Theatres, release of rights in RKO pictures in exchange for Paramount rights, the defendant views this action as not equitable and states the plaintiffs do not "come into the case with clean hands." Paramount's brief also says that "no preliminary injunction should issue where the facts are disputed or in any doubtful case," and that "plaintiffs may not rely on alleged representatives to change the terms of the contract which they are attempting to have specifically enforced."

Plaintiffs have until Saturday to file in rebuttal. Judge Robert C. Baltzell is expected to rule on the case within a few weeks. Appearing as plaintiffs on the brief filed for them are the Gary Theatre Co., the Young Amusement Co. and Theatrical Managers, Inc. Their affidavits were filed by V. U. Young and Clyde Winans.

"Awful Truth" Leader of Film Parade in Past Week

"The Awful Truth" was one of the leading films at the box-offices of the country's key city theatres last week. In its third week at the Metropolitan in Washington it took in $7,900, which is over average by $3,600. "The Perfect Specimen" and "The Life of Emile Zola" also were highlight attractions.

The Irene Dunne-Cary Grant farce at the Allen in Cleveland rolled up $8,500, $2,500 over the line in its third week. It was transferred to the Lake for a fourth. In Philadelphia it was over the line by $3,000, taking in $7,000 at the second run Keith's.

"The Perfect Specimen" garnered $14,300 at the RKO Palace in Cincinnati, in the black by $4,300. It went over into the RKO Capitol for a second week. In New Haven on a dual bill with "The Lady Fights Back" the film took $6,600, over par by $2,000. Doubled with "Hold 'Em Navy" at the State in Detroit it broke even. It also took in $16,632 at the Warner Hollywood in Los Angeles on a dual with "Escape by Night." On an identical bill at the Downtown it did $15,985, on the profit side by $3,985.

"Breakfast" Strong

"Breakfast for Two" tripled the average $6,000 gross at the Orpheum in Minneapolis but it was aided by Freddie Schniklefritz and his orchestra from a St. Paul night club.

"The Barrier" in its world premiere at the Paramount in Seattle took in $9,250, up by $3,250. In the same city "Double Wedding" kept the cashiers busy with $7,000.

"Heidi" at the Alvin in Pittsburgh was on the profit side to the tune of $2,700. The Shirley Temple film at the Orpheum in St. Paul also did well, taking $5,000, which is $1,000 to the good. On a dual in Omaha it made $9,700, up by $2,500. In Denver, at the Broadway, it also went $1,000 over average, taking $3,500 in the third week.

"The Life of Emile Zola" at the Omaha took $8,400, over par by $2,900. It was dualed with "Charlie Chan on Broadway." At the Madison in Detroit it was good for $11,600, over par by $1,600, and at the Denver, in the same city, it only went $500 above the line, taking $8,500.

"Alcatraz Island" did well at the Stanley in Pittsburgh, taking $25,500 with the aid of Don Bestor and his band. This is over average by $7,500. "Double Wedding" at the Penn garnered $6,800, over by $1,800.

"Wine, Women and Horses," "The Last Train from Madrid" and "Annapolis Salute" at the RKO Family in Cincinnati took in $2,900. The weekly average is $2,450.

New Haven Likes "Wedding"

"Double Wedding" and "Counsel for Crime" at Loew's Poli in New Haven did $10,000, up by $2,000. This film and "Saturday's Heroes" at the Orpheum in Denver more than doubled the average of $7,000, taking $14,500.

"Wild and Woolly" at the State Lake in Chicago rolled up $16,200, over average by $3,200. "Ali Baba Goes to Town" at the Roosevelt in the same city did $14,000, up $3,000. The Cantor picture also did well in Cleveland, going $4,000 over the $12,000 average of Warner's Hippodrome.

"Firefly" and "Bad Girl" at the Fox Wisconsin in Milwaukee were good for $12,000, over average by $4,000.

"Hold 'Em Navy" at the Earle in Philadelphia garnered $20,000, over the mark by $6,000. Vaudeville was a factor here. "Conquest" at the Boyd was good with $19,000, on the profit side by $5,000. "Stage Door" at the Stanley there took in $14,000, $1,000 over average.

Nearly 100 English Houses Open in Year

From 75 to 100 new theatres have gone up in England during the past year, T. A. Connor, Manchester branch manager for M-G-M, said on his arrival yesterday. He was accompanied by A. F. Gibson of Glasgow. Both are prize winners in a sales contest conducted by Arthur Loew. They will leave for the coast Friday and spend about a week there as guests of the company.

There are about 5,200 theatres in the U.K., both men asserted, and about 40 per cent of the houses have been remodeled during the past two years.

High Court Refuses Review to Paramount

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Review of a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, awarding to Walton Hall Smith, $7,500 as damages for breach of contract by Paramount Prod., Inc., was denied today by the U. S. Supreme Court.

The case arose out of the alleged failure of the company to give credit for a photoplay based on Smith's story, "Cruise to Nowhere," which he sold to Paramount under a contract that he should be given screen credit in any picture based thereon. The company subsequently produced "We're Not Dressing," in which Smith was not given the credit he demanded.

In seeking a review from the Supreme Court, counsel for Paramount contended that the lower court erred in holding that there was any substantial evidence to sustain the verdict as to damages. It was contended that while the story had originally been purchased for use as background for a musical picture, it had ultimately been discarded as too heavy and a new story substituted, and the author accordingly was not entitled to credit.

Prince Chegodieff, MGM Settle Action

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Settlement in the high courts here was reached today in the libel action of Prince and Princess Chegodieff against M-G-M, which arose from the producers' handling of the character of Prince Paul Chegodieff and his connection with the murder of Rasputin in the Metro picture "Rasputin." He was depicted as marrying an identifiable princess.

Attorneys for the plaintiff claimed that he is the only prince of that name and further charged that the relationship depicted between Rasputin and the princess constitute a grave libel. The plaintiffs insisted that their names be freed from the serious imputations of the film. They claimed their object to be vindication and the assurance that the American company used their names inadvertently.

Metro expressed regret for the use of the names and stated that reference to the real facts of the time was difficult because of conditions in Russia at the time.

Constance Bennett GB Writ Dissolved

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Another high court action against G. B. was won today by Constance Bennett when the star was granted dissolution of an injunction granted during the last session and which restrained her action against the corporation in California.

Miss Bennett, in her suit, claimed damages of £7,150, alleging breach of contract to star her in "Everything Is Thunder" and "The Hawk." The injunction was granted on the contention that the two actions are based on the same allegations.

Final Signing In Two Weeks, Korda States up for the representation of the new money?"

"I don't see why all the fuss is being made about a voting trusteeship. There will not be any."

"What will be the aim of you and Samuel Goldwyn?"

"We aim to distribute as cheap as possible and give producing members the benefit. This also applies to outside producers who distribute through us as well."

"Will the Bank of America furnish any working cash?"

"No."

"What about the future policy of the company?"

"That has not been definitely determined. Nothing will be done until the options are taken up. The options will be taken up shortly before Dec. 23, the expiration date."

"How many films will you make?"

To Make Six a Year

"Six a year for international release."

"How many will the company distribute?"

"About 20 a year under the new policy. Our job now is to make good pictures."

Korda then said that future plans of the company will make the company open to first class independent procucers.

Told of reports that he would make 20 a year, Korda laughed. "God will save me from making 20 or 25 in any one year."

"Who will be the big boss under the new arrangement?"

"Everything will be even. Goldwyn and myself will split authority. We will share 50-50."

Korda stated that terms for paying back the British syndicate from the earnings of the company have not been completed. He emphasized that the deal was completed and there was nothing more to do than have the papers signed by the British financiers. He admitted that he and the American interests signed today in New York.

Silent on Selznick

Told that David O. Selznick was definitely leaving the company to join M-G-M, Korda would make no comment.

Arriving at the airport about 20 minutes before plane departure, Korda was happily surprised to see a MOTION PICTURE DAILY man on the spot. Before he would sit down and talk, Korda decided to buy a number of magazines and newspapers. He asked the news clerk: "Have you a copy of MOTION PICTURE DAILY?" A copy was produced by the reporter. He laughed and declined the paper, saying he had already read it.

Korda was accompanied by Marcel Hellman. Emanuel Silverstone and Morris Helprin, his American representatives, saw him off.

Hellman Flies to Coast

Marcel Hellman, producer for Criterion Films, British company which distributes through U. A., left for Hollywood by plane yesterday to confer with U. A. executives on future productions.

Hellman told MOTION PICTURE DAILY last night that his deal with U. A. calls for four pictures and, "I have to see the executives about some matters." He insisted the talks had nothing to do with financing and for his making pictures in Hollywood. "It's something I cannot talk about now," he stated.

Griffis Goes West, Denying UA Interest

Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, yesterday left for the coast on the same train with Samuel Goldwyn and Maurice Silverstone. Griffis also is a partner in Hemphill, Noyes & Co.

Insisting that Hemphill, Noyes & Co. has no interest whatever in the U. A. deal," Griffis stated:

"I'm glad Goldwyn and Alexander Korda have made a deal. I am delighted, in fact. I think it is a good thing for everybody."

Griffis declared his trip west had nothing to do with U. A. and that it was "routine." He said he will meet Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, in Chicago today and both will head for Hollywood in the afternoon.

Claims Cleveland Sold

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15.—Bert Stearn, United Artist district manager, says that for the first time in United Artist history, contracts have been signed by every exhibitor in Cleveland and in Cuyahoga County. Stearn reports that he is completely sold in both the Cleveland and Pittsburgh territories and is taking Norman Levin from Cleveland and James Nash from Pittsburgh to Indiana to close that territory.

Expect $17,000

United Artists yesterday anticipated a $17,000-$18,000 first week's gross on "The Hurricane" at the Astor. The company also stated the opening road-show week at the Geary, San Francisco, may reach $13,000.

ASCAP Moves For Further Legal Relief

which anti-Ascap legislation has been enacted and remains uncontested. Applications for injunctions have been made and argued before Federal statutory courts in Montana and Washington, where long-awaited decisions are expected to be speeded up as a result of the Nebraska ruling.

Court Sees "Serious Injury"

The three-judge statutory court which heard the Nebraska application made known its decision late last Saturday. In granting Ascap the temporary injunction it sought, the court held that "there is grave doubt of the constitutionality of the (state's) act and plaintiffs have shown that it would inflict serious injury."

The order enjoins Nebraska officials from bringing legal actions to enforce the state legislation; from requiring Ascap or its members to file copies of their copyrighted works with the secretary of state of Nebraska, and from interfering with existing Ascap contracts in the state.

Skouras Business Off

Business in the local Skouras Theatres has dropped approximately 20 per cent, George Skouras, operating head of the circuit, said yesterday. The circuit has completed all its film buys.

See Circuit-Union Battle Arbitrated

With both major circuits and Local 306 deadlocked on the question of additional increases for operators in the local territory, it appeared yesterday that the matter will go before an arbitration board after next Monday, the deadline set by members of Local 306.

The circuits several weeks ago granted the union men 10 per cent increases, retroactive to Sept. 1, but the projectionists are demanding another 38 per cent.

George E. Browne, head of the I. A. T. S. E., with which Local 306 is affiliated, is not anxious to have the matter go before arbitration and is making every effort to settle the salary dispute without the assistance of outsiders.

Further meetings between the two groups are planned, but it is understood major circuits will not agree to additional increases. The circuits recently granted stagehands advances of five per cent for neighborhood houses and six per cent for de luxe with a provision for similar boosts next Sept. 1.

Osa Johnson Returns

After four months in the African jungles, Osa Johnson returned yesterday on the Queen Mary and will leave for Hollywood and the 20th Century-Fox studios Friday to confer with Darryl Zanuck on "Stanley and Livingstone."

While in Africa, Mrs. Johnson and her crew took 100,000 feet of film for the picture. She said that Zanuck insisted on authentic locale and natives for the film. She covered 6,000 miles in two months of rain, she said, and covered the same ground Stanley took in searching for Livingstone.

discussing a Metro deal under an arrangement which, it is understood, will provide him with the finances up to $2,000,000 to make the Margaret Mitchell novel. He is expected to operate under a flat distributing charge of 20 per cent, plus a 50-50 split on profits and a first call on M-G-M talent.

The deal marks a significant change in basic M-G-M policy. That organization persistently has sought to make its production activities self-contained with the sole exception of the perennially renewed contract with Hal Roach for a limited number of features, in addition to his accompanying series of shorts.

Whitney Sailing to Sign 3 for Selznick

John Hay Whitney, chairman of Selznick International, who is en route to Europe on the Rex, will sign three new European representatives for the company during his two-week stay abroad, it was stated at the company's offices here yesterday.

Whitney will appoint a European production representative to work under the direction of David O. Selznick; a distribution representative to work under the direction of Lowell V. Calvert, Selznick general sales manager, and a European publicity representative to work under the direction of Russell Birdwell, publicity manager. The appointees are not known as yet, it was stated.

Whitney is due back here Dec. 1 on the Normandie. His plans call for a trip to the Selznick studio at Culver City on Jan. 1. He will remain on the coast for three months in connection with the company's new plans and activities.

Kleckner Leaves for Chicago After Talks

J. B. Kleckner, president of Motiograph-Mirrophonic, yesterday left for Chicago, his headquarters, after conferences here with Joe Hornstein, local distributor.

Tom Drew, formerly general manager of General Register, has been named district representative for the company, Kleckner said. Lester Abbott, vice-president in charge of sales, will remain in New York several days arranging circuit deals with Hornstein before returning to Chicago. William Murphy yesterday joined Hornstein's company to handle Motiograph-Mirrophonic sales.

New Pact to Benchley

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15. — Robert Benchley has been signed to a new contract with M-G-M. By the terms of the pact he will both write and act. He has left for the east.

Fined for Sunday Films

DANVILLE, VA., Nov. 15.—Sunday films suffered another setback here when Charles L. Abercrombie was fined $100 for operating three houses on Sunday.

Capone Name Comes Up in IATSE Probe

head and Capone. Newman, responding to the question by Assemblyman Paul Richie, replied in the negative.

Newman was then asked if Bioff was ever questioned in Chicago about the slaying six years ago of Tom Malloy, head of the I. A. projectionists' local there. Newman replied that Bioff came from Chicago but he did not know of any questioning. Newman then told of the importation by Browne of Harry Beattie and a man named Duval from Chicago and George Sinco from Cleveland to act as "checkers" on the local union situation.

Clayton Adams and Williams Silliman, investigators for the committee, turned in a report over the weekend after looking at I. A. T. S. E. financial records and books in which they recommended the dropping of the investigation. Richie, head of the committee, declared today that they had exceeded their authority in asking that the investigation be dropped.

Hentschel Recalled

Assemblyman Frank Dawson today created a sensation when he recalled to the stand Irwin P. Hentschel, one of the instigators of the probe and confronted him with a copy of the Hentschel letter to Harry Bridges, C.I.O. chief on the west coast, asking his support in the overthrowing of I.A.T.S.E. leaders. Also presented by Dawson was the Bridges' reply to Hentschel indicating that the I.A.T.S.E. should be harrased by suits. Hentschel is one of the organizers of "I.A.T.S.E. Progressives," the secret group which called the committee's attention to the alliance.

Harland Holmden, third vice-president of the International, took the stand late today to explain upon questioning that autonomy was taken away from the local unions because of dissension in their ranks and that too many factional leaders wanted to hold office. Autonomy would be restored when this trouble ends, he said.

Holmden also said that the two per cent assessment levied by International officers was to finance organization work among such employes as workers in front of theatres. Holmden was booed and jeered spasmodically by the crowd.

Claims Impartiality

Hentschel, confronted with his letters, said that he did not lean either to A.F.L. or C.I.O., but was interested in good unionism only.

Holmden denied that any outside strikebreakers were brought to Hollywood by the I.A.T.S.E. and said that the present rule benefited members of the locals.

C. P. Cregan, Certified Public Accountant, who audits the union books, was the last witness of the afternoon but before testifying he was asked to bring breakdowns of vast sums of money collected from I.A.T.S.E. members in dues and assessments.

Raise Canada Ad Rates

TORONTO, Nov. 15. — The latest worry for exhibitors in different sections of Canada has been brought about by the raising of advertising rates for theatres by newspapers, the advance in some instances being 25 per cent.

Silent Selling

Mexico City, Nov. 15.—Painless peddling of candy and other refreshments in local theatres is demanded by a law the Municipal Government has enacted. Yelling wares is strictly forbidden. "Candy butchers" can only function in the first class theatres during intermissions. Peddling is permitted during exhibitions in the other houses but the hawkers must keep moving and silent.

See Foreign Control From New Film Bill

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Charges that the 10 years of legislation involved in the films bill now under consideration by Commons would result in the cementing of foreign control were voiced by Basil Dean, spokesman of the Film Group of the Federation of British Industries which conferred here today seeking amplification of the proposals contained in the measure, particularly with respect to the suggested separate quota provisions.

Present at the session, in addition to Dean, were Richard Norton, Basil Black, Henry George and Sam Smith. Representatives of Gaumont and Capitol did not attend.

Spokesmen for the producers claimed that adoption of the separate quota provisions would ensure a steady but modest production program attracting adequate investment. Whether the quotas were based upon the cost of the film or were established by means of the viewing test was held to be a subsidiary issue.

Criticise Public

The meeting criticised the lack of support from the British public for British films and stated that adoption of the quota proposals would keeep millions of pounds of revenue in England. Secretary Elvin of the Technicians' Union stated that adoption would result in a 66 per cent increase in employment and in the hiring of 10,000 additional workmen.

Booking and rental figures were introduced to illustrate the extent to which American films are shown in the leading British houses.

Dean, Smith, Norton and Black produced no absolute proof during the course of the meeting that the new proposals would result in the establishment of a higher quality for British films.

Members will lobby in Commons during discussion on the bill.

May Head Va. Censors

RICHMOND, Nov. 15.—Col. Peter Saunders, private secretary to Gov. George C. Peery and also Secretary of the Commonwealth, who was appointed by Attorney-General Abram P. Staples to succeed Edwin C. Reid as a member of the state censors, is expected to become director of the body.

RKO Plan Is Advanced by Alger Action

before Judge Bondy on the completion of Alger's final report.

The unscheduled change in procedure was not explained by Alger and attorneys who appeared for yesterday's hearing prepared to argue their objections to the special master's tentative report were caught completely unawares. Another unorthodox procedure resorted to by the special master yesterday was the barring of representatives of the press from the session, which was over in less than 15 minutes and consisted only of Alger's announcement that he would receive the attorneys' objections to his report in writing and would begin the preparation of his final report at once. Those present at the hearing were uniformly agreed that nothing occurred which warranted the exclusion of the press.

Barring Protested

Upon being barred from the hearing MOTION PICTURE DAILY protested immediately to Judge Bondy, Alger's superior, who expressed concern over the unprecedented action but intimated that inasmuch as the hearing had been adjourned nothing beyond a protest could be accomplished.

Observers at the hearing suggested that there was some connection between both Alger's unscheduled change in procedure, his barring of the press from the hearing and MOTION PICTURE DAILY's exclusive publication last week of the substance of his tentative report of Nov. 6. The report, as disclosed earlier, approved the RKO reorganization plan in principle but proposed a reduction in the $9,150,628 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO, which, in Alger's opinion, would give it a maximum value of $5,532,000. He also proposed that no dividends be paid on the RKO common stock, following reorganization, until the three-year sinking fund for the retirement of the company's new debentures had been fully taken care of.

RKO in Springer Houses

RKO will acquire a 37½ per cent interest in the six theatres George Skouras recently took over from the estate of the late Jack W. Springer, it was stated yesterday. The actual deal is being held up until RKO's reorganization plans are approved by the court.

Sound Tests This Week

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15.—The committee to investigate set equipment noise conditions of the Research Council of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences has arranged a series of tests for this week.

Air Publicity Eliminated by Canada Papers

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—The program publicity department of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., with a string of 34 stations across the Dominion, has encountered a formidable snag at the hands of the newspaper publishers who are members of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Ass'n, the latter being a 100 per cent organization.

Radio Gets Two Inches

After many months of more or less lenient attitude toward the policy of publishing free program publicity, the association members have reached an agreement to drop all news and comment regarding current and future programs from their published radio departments with the exception of an approximately two-inch introduction to the listed program schedules from day to day. The introductory paragraphs briefly mention the outstanding highlights of the day's schedule while the latter has been reduced to the smallest possible wordage.

While no general announcement has been or will be made regarding the new policy, it is known privately that the lack of advertising support from the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., operating under the auspices of the Dominion Government, has been a strong factor leading to the present decision.

Advertising Big Factor

The first evidence of lack of co-operative enthusiasm on the part of daily newspapers was noted when radio publicity features, including illustrations, disappeared from many radio pages on the occasion of the extension of Canadian Broadcasting Corp. schedules from six to 12 hours daily with a minimum of commercially-sponsored programs which might have brought advertising business to the daily papers. This new operating setup has been brought about by Major Gladstone Murray, who was brought from the British Broadcasting Co. in England to become general manager of the Canadian system one year ago. The general adoption of the British broadcasting policy has evidently had its repercussion in the present hands-off agreement of the Canadian daily newspapers. The latter saw the expenditure of large sums of money for the erection of new stations and other facilities by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. but no appropriation by the latter for newspaper advertising or support.

Profitable Wishes

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 15.—WIBX now invites women listeners to make Christmas wishes, at a profit. Ned Lynch writes the daily shot for a local appliance house. Listeners hear wishes for products crystalized in air dialogue, write letters describing their wishes for sponsor's appliances, receive prizes for the best letters.

FCC Probe Seen Possible As Congress Session Commences

By CLARENCE LINZ

Washington, Nov. 15—With the convening today of the special five-week session of Congress, lack of major matters on which to center legislative attention was seen as giving opportunity for the discussion of measures already pending. Indications that a new and possibly successful drive to secure approval for the proposed investigation of the F. C. C., therefore, were rampant.

Members interested in the probe today pointed out that Frank R. McNinch, the new chairman of the commission, has made little headway in cleaning up the situation. The belief was expressed that a Congressional inquiry should be instituted.

Hearst Radio Names Fay in New England

Hearst Radio, Inc., has appointed James H. Fay as New England representative for all Hearst radio stations. Fay is now located in the Statler Bldg., Boston, where he operates as an independent station representative.

He has previously been with the Boston American. He entered radio as an independent representative six years ago. In adding the Hearst station to his present list he will represent WINS, New York; WBAL, Baltimore; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WISN, Milwaukee; KOMA, Oklahoma City; WACO, Waco; KNOW, Austin; KTSA, San Antonio; KYA, San Francisco; and KEHE, Los Angeles.

All States Respond In Philco Contest

A total of 1,003 cities and towns from every state were represented in the entries received from the first "Phyl Coe Radio Mysteries" contest, according to the Philco Radio & Television Corp., which is making a statistical study of the pulling power of the promotion. The report is preliminary to a study of the complete air and merchandising results which Philco will make at the completion of the contest next month.

Warner Program Titled

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15.—The title of the Warners-Lucky Strike radio program has been definitely set as "Your Hollywood Parade," following a competition in which thousands of names were suggested by studio personnel, Lord and Thomas, the agency, and the Lucky Strike workers. The first program will air from here Dec. 1.

To Speak on Social Disease

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of The Journal of the American Medical Ass'n, has accepted an invitation to speak on the subject of social diseases over the Blue network tonight at 10:30 P.M. Major Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC, who last week refused to permit Gen. Hugh S. Johnson to speak on the same subject, extended the invitation to Dr. Fishbein.

Opticians Sponsor "Final"

"Five Star Final," on WMCA, will be sponsored experimentally throughout the remainder of this week by the Community Opticians, through the Commonwealth Advertising Agency of Boston. A long-term deal may result if the sponsor is satisfied with the results this week.

Mixup Keeps Smith Speech From WMCA

What apparently was a muddled contract situation kept Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith's speech from being heard over WMCA Sunday when the crusading minister began his series for the Committee of One Million.

Conflicting reports from all parties involved in the deal made it practically impossible to clarify the situation yesterday when an attempt was made to do so.

The contract for 75 stations, including WMCA, was originally handled through the Albert M. Ross agency, but yesterday Transamerican Broadcasting Corp. claimed to hold the contract and that WHN and the stations of the WLW Line were signed to carry the program. At the Ross agency it was stated that Ross would not state anything publicly at the moment, although a statement was promised later. At WMCA, it was stated the station had a contract for the broadcast, but at Transamerican it was said that this was in error.

However it is, this much is certain: Rev. Smith did make a speech Sunday from Washington and it was carried over 49 stations, including a transcribed version of the speech over WHN.

WRNL, Richmond Station, Dedicated

RICHMOND, Nov. 15.—WRNL, Richmond's newest radio station, was dedicated yesterday afternoon, with John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the News-Leader and principal stockholder in the new station, presiding at the exercises.

The new station, successor to WPHR in Petersburg, is located in the Richmond News-Leader Arcade, which has been modernized to house the studios. The station operates on an assigned frequency of 880 kilocycles. It is a daytime station, signing off at 5 P.M. Authority is being sought from the F. C. C., however, to operate on full time.

Report CBS-Foods Deal

A report which could not be verified yesterday has it that a contract for a new General Foods Corp. show has been signed for presentation over CBS, beginning after the first of the year. Benton & Bowles handles the brunt of the General Foods business.

WOR yesterday stated it had passed the 1,000,000 mark in pieces of mail received this year in reply to broadcasted programs. In passing that total, a new daily record was broken Oct. 1, when 23,751 pieces of mail were received in conjunction with an offer which was made on the "Lone Ranger" program.

DON'T SPOIL A MILLION DOLLAR PICTURE TO SAVE A FEW CENTS

When you book an expensive, nationally famous feature, you are planning to cash-in on people's expectations. You are planning to impress them — not to disappoint them.

You can't afford to be penny wise with big features, and especially with color.

The only way to deliver the goods is the same way 5000 theaters are now doing it — with high intensity projection.

Almost any house can now afford modern projection. New SIMPLIFIED HIGH INTENSITY lamps and "Suprex" Carbons make it possible to double or triple screen brightness at so little more cost that one extra admission per show will cover it.

Commission Seen as Film Bill Amendment

LONDON, Nov. 16.—It is understood that Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, has proposed, as an amendment to the Film Bill, either a film commission or film council, with the term unspecified, but the powers of such a body clearly defined. The bill is now in committee of the House of Commons.

It is believed that Stanley is actuated by a desire to meet the united demand of the trade for a wide sectional voice in the matter. A commission constitution has already been decided, embodying its duties and wide privileges. Its powers, which would be great, would include the imposition of penalties for offenders. Stanley is known to have discussed a typical personnel of such a body with the trade deputation which recently discussed the situation with him.

An advisory committee, subsidiary body to the commission, would be re-

Wanger Says He Is Unaware Of U.A. Financing for Him

Walter Wanger yesterday stated he was not familiar with the financing arrangements made for his future production activity as a United Artists producer and that, pending information about them, he had nothing to say about his impending plans. In reply to a question, Alexander Korda had informed MOTION PICTURE DAILY at the Newark Airport Monday evening that financing for Wanger had been "provided for in the arrangement" whereby control of U. A. is to change hands.

When Wanger left Paramount to join United Artists, his deal was announced as a 10-year arrangement. Reports have been recurrent from time to time and largely since Samuel Goldwyn and Korda were given their option to purchase control of U. A. from Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, that Wanger might seek distribution elsewhere.

Majors Request Gary Complaint Dismissal

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 16.—Columbia, M-G-M, Paramount, RKO Radio, 20th-Fox and United Artists, in a brief filed in U. S. District Court here, ask dismissal of a bill of complaint filed by the Gary Theatre Co., that seeks to enjoin clearances imposed by major producers on behalf of Balaban & Katz of Chicago.

"Balaban & Katz, although a defendant, has not been served with a process," the brief sets forth, and dismissal is asked "for want of jurisdiction over an indispensable party."

Judge Robert C. Baltzell has set a hearing for Nov. 22. He has approved elimination of the M.P.P.D.A., Universal and Warners as defendants and the substitution of RKO Radio

Alleged Coast Plot Revealed by Police

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—An alleged anti-Semitic plot, said to have been aimed at several important film personalities in Hollywood, including Louis B. Mayer and Eddie Cantor, was revealed here today by Chief Investigator Eugene Williams of the district attorney's office.

Leaders of the plot, according to Williams, have been kept under surveillance for the past six weeks, since the plot was uncovered, but no evidence warranting arrests has been discovered. He said he believed the matter never advanced beyond the conversation stage.

At Culver City

The deal whereby David O. Selznick will take Selznick International to M-G-M will be signed in Hollywood. There, at the present time, is Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., whose signature is necessary to the contract.

Selznick refused to comment on his new association last night. He was prominently present at the cocktail party given at "21" for George Cukor, who will direct "Gone with the Wind" with which Selznick is expected to launch his releasing arrangement with M-G-M.

Production Slumps To Lowest of Year

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16.—Production slumped to its lowest level of the year this week when only 31 were before the cameras—a total even lower than during the lull created by the April-May strike. Ten were finished, and only four were started. Fifteen pictures are in final stages of preparation, six studios dividing the total, while 10 studios reported none being prepared for immediate work. Sixty-nine are being edited.

Those starting are: "Lone Rider," Columbia; "Her Jungle Love," Paramount; "Hawaiian Buckaroo," Principal and "The Mystery of Hunting's End," Warners.

The tally by studios:

Columbia finished two, shooting four, preparing zero, editing nine; Goldwyn, zero, one, zero, one; Grand National, zero, zero, zero, one; M-G-M, two, four, zero, eight; Monogram zero, zero, one, two; Para-

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—Joe Gilpin, Warner studio manager, today told the State Legislature committee investigating the I. A. T. S. E. racketeering charges that he dismissed Francis H. Other major developments in the probe today were the testimony of

Denies That Silverstone Will Head UA

Goldwyn Says the Report Is Unfounded

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—As he passed through Chicago today en route to Hollywood, Samuel Goldwyn told a MOTION PICTURE DAILY reporter that reports linking Maurice Silverstone's name to the presidency of United Artists were completely unfounded.

Commenting upon this newspaper's story outlining financing plans set up under the lifting of the U. A. option by Goldwyn and Alexander Korda, the former said, "Just hooey and tell 'em I said so."

He added the Bank of America, N. A. of San Francisco and Los Angeles had no interest in the company's financing and would have none. At the same time, he refused further comment along these lines, saying the statement issued in New York on Saturday told everything the principals wanted to announce.

Between trains, the producer took occasion to tell the local press double features, in his opinion, were ruinous to the industry. He urged newspaper men to start a campaign here to oust duals. Maurice Silverstone is accompanying Goldwyn west, but refused to talk on any angles of the U. A. deal. He referred all questions and questioners to Goldwyn.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

TO travel almost nine hundred miles for a dinner might sound like a great deal of foolishness. It must always be remembered, too, New York still boasts of its quota of restaurants. But Sunday night in Pittsburgh was different. That was the occasion of Variety Club's annual banquet, a standard highlight of each amusement year. From various cities almost one thousand men descended upon John H. Harris and his co-barkers, certainly not induced to make their journeyings by anything the festive board might have groaned under. They went to make obeisance to the spirit behind this unique organization, launched first in Pittsburgh and now encompassing tents in Columbus, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Minneapolis, Washington, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Omaha, Dallas and Dayton. . . .

Since that day, nine years ago, when a homeless waif abandoned in the lobby of the Sheridan Square Theatre was taken in tender care by a small group of theatremen there, Variety Club sprang into purposeful being. Since then two other children have been adopted. That's in Pittsburgh. Dallas has given medical and surgical attention to four thousand children at no cost to their parents; now a fund is under way to build a $20,000 addition to a local hospital. Philadelphia has salvaged four children from the ravages of infantile paralysis; the work there is continuing. Washington is providing a summer camp for underprivileged minors. Columbus has been paying the rent, furnishing clothing and extending a friendly hand to the needy in show business. Some tents are providing poor school kids with glasses. Others are furnishing "seeing eye" dogs for the blind. Pittsburgh last year raised a $25,000 milk fund for children in institutions; race, creed and color had nothing to do with it. This year, in association with the Pittsburgh Press and Station KDKA, the objective is $56,000. It means at least one-half pint of milk for every child in every Pittsburgh home at every meal for every day of the year. . . .

The work has been voluntarily pursued. It took form as an expression of the undeniably great heart of show business, beating in sympathy for the lowly and the unfortunate. Variety Club could have been strictly a social organization and, on such a premise, no doubt could have been completely successful. Its humanitarian enterprise gives it a far more valid reason for being and the unerring pursuit of that enterprise reflects continuedly enormous credit on an industry frequently misjudged and misunderstood. . . .

Samuel Cummins continues to gild the lustre of his disrepute with a new cycle of off-color attractions, steeped in sensationalism. "The Love Life of a Gorilla" is one in his current lineup, its title conveying all that need be known about the dubious merits of its celluloid. Another is "Children of Loneliness," dealing with Lesbianism and getting quite an unholy play at Tally's Criterion in Los Angeles, where the term "3rd Sex" is flung about the marquee for all and sundry passing eyes to catch. Falsely attuned to an announced intent of spreading information to help those who are not aware of the facts of life, a lecture, a lecturer and three girls are part of the performance. One of them is described as abnormally oversexed, the second is normal and the other appears to make little difference. Thus you have a new, low estate upon which the theatre has fallen. Cummins persistently endeavors to maintain he has the public weal well up front in his calculations. He is fooling no one, except possibly himself, if you are inclined to credit the possibility, which we do not. You see, this department has watched Cummins and his activities for many years. . . .

The agents are taking over again, provided coast reports are accurate. The story goes the indifferent success of Hollywood personalities, braving a try on the New York stage, is hurting their picture values. The agents do not like it and, not liking it, say they are going to take action. This is not quite so remote an eventuality as might be indicated by surface markings. The ten per cent boys, always wielding a vast power, are becoming more powerful and overpowerfully arrogant. They reflect how they feel in the yarn about a recent gala premiere on the coast. The stars were leaving the theatre. Said one agent to another, "There goes the crowd that's getting ninety per cent of our earnings." . . .

Last night at "21." A party for George Cukor, the director. In the assemblage was David O. Selznick and, while officially and probably he had no business there, was also Si Seadler, Leo's most ardent admirer.

"Goodbye, Dave," said Si, as the evening had fairly well progressed, "I'll be seeing you."

"And how!" Selznick shot back—and meant it.

You know the one about big oaks and little acorns.

"No Changes"—Balaban

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Barney Balaban, leaving here tonight for a three-week trip to Hollywood, stated that his visit to the coast is a routine matter and that no changes in personnel are contemplated by Paramount.

as a defendant for the RKO Distributing Corp.

The Gary Theatre Co., Gary, Ind., is also plaintiff in an action pending in Federal court there to compel Paramount to deliver to it 10 pictures allegedly sold on last season's contracts which either have not been produced or are included in the company's lineup for the current season.

Select Sues Oscar Straus

A $20,000 damage action was filed in N. Y. Supreme Court here yesterday by Select Theatres Corp. and Jacob J. Shubert against Oscar Straus, Viennese composer. The action charges that the plaintiffs contracted with Straus for exclusive American dramatic rights to "The Queen" and that Straus did not possess the licensing rights at the time the deal was made. The plaintiffs allege that the play was subsequently produced by others who held valid licenses, which resulted in the plaintiff being damaged to the extent of $10,000.

A second cause of action, also for $10,000 damages, is cited in the suit, which charges that Straus agreed to supply five incidental musical compositions for the production and that when these were found unsuitable the composer refused to prepare others.

Schwartz & Frohlich, attorneys for Straus, said that an answer incorporating denials of the charges would be filed in the near future.

Orders Quiz Before Trial

An examination before trial of Phillip Hodes, and Robert Wolf, sales managers for the RKO Distributing Corp., was ordered by Justice Ferdinand Pecora in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday in connection with the "conspiracy" suit brought by Rock Beach, Inc. against the Columbia Pictures Corp., Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., Big-U Film Exchange, Inc., United Artists Corp., Century Circuit, Inc. and the RKO Distributing Corp. The examination was set for Nov. 19 in the Supreme Court. Rock Beach which operates the Gem in Far Rockaway, charged that the major distributors "conspired" with Century, which operates the Central in Cedarhurst, to give pictures exhibited at the Central one week's clearance before exhibition at the Gem.

Seattle Orpheum Bankrupt

The Seattle Orpheum Co. filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. No schedules of assets and liabilities was presented with the petition. Twenty-two creditors were listed. The only asset is $3,643 deposited with the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. of New York. Among the creditors were Stadium Theatres Corp., RCA Victor Co., National Theatre Supply Co., Electrical Products Corp. and the bank of California, N. A.

Deny Infringement Charge

Columbia Pictures Corp. and Screen Classics, Inc., filed a general denial in the U. S. District Court yesterday in answer to the infringement suit brought against them by Plain Talk Magazine, Inc. The defendant denied that their short, "Norton I, Emperor of U. S.," was an infringement of David Ryder's story, "American Emperor," which was published in the magazine. A dismissal of the suit with costs is asked.

Sale of Kromocolor Laboratory Delayed

PATERSON, Nov. 16.—Sale of the Kromocolor Laboratory, Paramus, N. J., was adjourned to-day by Vice-Chancellor Lewis until next Tuesday in Chancery Court here. Several prospective bidders appeared today who have not had an opportunity to inspect the plant. In view of this an additional week was asked and allowed.

Decision on the $21,000 deposit made by Joseph O'Donnell, who made a bid of $105,000, reputedly for William Fox, continues in abeyance. William Krimsky, Newark attorney and co-receiver, is still open to bids for laboratory and offers also may be made in court next Tuesday, it was pointed out.

Hartley Joins GTE As Sales Executive

E. M. Hartley, who resigned late last week as Photophone sales manager for RCA, has joined General Theatres Equipment Corp., in full charge of the sales of sound equipment of General's subsidiary, National Theatre Supply Co.

As manager of that division, he will make his headquarters at the company's general offices in New York.

The organized Ontario theatre owners are working closely with the Quebec Allied Theatrical Industries, which has its headquarters in Montreal, the latter having recently interviewed the Quebec Government with a plea for legislative protection against circuits. The Quebec association has also asked for a reduction in the amusements tax which represents a four-cent levy on a 25-cent admission. The Ontario tax was completely abolished last June.

"Wild, Woolly" $16,200 Real Chicago Smash

CHICAGO, Nov. 16. — "Wild and Woolly" at the State-Lake led the Loop theatres for big business last week, the Jane Withers picture grossing $16,200 which is sensational for this house.

The Roosevelt with "Ali Baba" was well on the profit side with $14,000 as the take. That is $3,000 above average. "Dr. Syn" at the Apollo was also above average, getting $6,800.

"Angel" at the Oriental was very disappointing.

The second week of "Alcatraz Island" was good at the Garrick and the picture stays for a third week, unusual for this house.

The weather was fair and clear but record-breaking attendance at the Auto Show cut into grosses heavily at night.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"A Damsel in Distress"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16.—Gracie Allen tells the jokes, and George Burns is her prophet. But in "A Damsel in Distress" Fred Astaire, in his first solo starring vehicle, shares prophet honors with Burns, and in turn, Gracie and George both share the dancing with the ever nimble-footed Astaire. George falters a little at times, trying to hold the Astaire pace and Gracie does surprisingly well as an Astaire dancing partner.

All this is by way of declaring that Ginger Rogers is conspicuously lacking, as charming and romantic as well as dancing partner to the incomparable Fred. The picture, however, is fine entertainment, replete with comedy, in story and situation, dance routines which are not routine and top performances. The Burns-Allen gags are not all gems, but on the whole they are funny, and the public will like them, and laugh at them. Joan Fontaine, who plays the romantic role opposite Astaire, is pretty enough, and certainly winsome, but she still has a way to go to be a finished actress.

The music is a high spot, tuneful and engaging, and several of the dance numbers are new, different and highly entertaining, especially those set at the carnival. The Burns-Allen-Astaire number in front of distortion mirrors is novel and hilarious, their antics on the turntables and treacherous stairs are good, while Astaire's tap dancing number in the midst of the trap drums sets a new high in speed, precision and entertainment of its kind.

Comedy was the highlight Director George Stevens sought to emphasize and he succeeded admirably, aided roundly by Ray Noble and Reginald Gardner, as the not too smart son with a passion for swing, and the too smart secretary with a passion for opera, respectively. P. G. Wodehouse, who wrote the story and collaborated on the screenplay, has endowed the film with amusing situations and dialogue.

The story is told in the title. Set in an old English castle, it recounts the virtual imprisonment of Miss Fontaine by her severe aunt, her accidental meeting with Astaire, dance sensation whose publicity agent is Burns, and whose chief annoyance is Gracie. Astaire goes to the rescue, aided, then hindered, in turn, by a page boy and Gardner, who are holders of possible winning names in the lottery of the household staff for the successful suitor. Mistakes and misunderstandings complicate the story amusingly, the while the whole is embellished by song and dance in the Astaire manner.

Running time, 98 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Springtime in the Rockies"

(Republic)

In all its entertainment divisions, "Springtime in the Rockies" makes the grade as a good Gene Autry western. His fans will be pleased. The story and action have been cleverly composed by Joe Kane, the director, and the photography is good. The outdoor locations are beautiful, cloud-strewn settings for the story.

Autry is foreman on Polly Rowles' ranch. There is trouble in the vicinity between cattlemen and sheep ranchers. Miss Rowles arrives from college with three girl companions to spend the summer. They are animal-husbandry graduates. Miss Rowles naively buys a flock of sheep that have been outlawed in the community. Autry meets her and takes the girls and animals to a run-down ranch that he owns instead of to Miss Rowles' place. But the information that he has sheep on his land gets around and there are all sorts of complications. Eventually, the tangled situations are straightened out but not, however, until after Miss Rowles sells her own fine property to a slicker. The well-known chase occurs at that point. Autry, aided by Smiley Burnette, breaks jail and pursues the culprits right up to the county seat where he lassoes them on the steps of the building. In a few more scenes he is cleared of a shooting and of attempting to introduce the sheep. The fadeout has Miss Rowles and Autry pursuing their rather sketchy romance.

Autry sings a few pleasant numbers in his familiar style. Burnette and his vocal tricks inject humorous relief. Miss Rowles acts well. Ula Love, Ruth Bacon, Jane Hunt, George Chesebro, Alan Bridge and Tom London offer capable support. Ernest Miller is responsible for the fine camera work.

Dickinson Addresses Carriers on Safety

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 16.—An address by Arthur Dickinson, technical adviser of the M.P.P.D.A. and representative of the major distributors, on the subject, "Safety Regulations and the Correct Handling of Film," was one of the features of the joint convention of the National Film Carriers, Inc., and National Trucking Ass'n now in progress here. James Clark presided.

James P. Clark, Philadelphia, was reelected president and treasurer of the carriers' organization and Clint Weyer, New York, was renamed to the post of secretary. Thomas W. Gilborg, San Francisco, was elected vice-president. E. E. Jameson, Kansas City, was appointed to the executive board and A. C. Amsler was elected to the board of managers.

Cooper has countered with statistics showing that the number of arbitration cases has dropped appreciably since 1930 and has suggested that the independents present definite proposals for revision of rental contracts which would be considered at Film Board meetings scheduled to be held next February.

Seek to Arbitrate Canada Union Fight

Toronto, Nov. 16.—The three-cornered strike threat in Winnipeg, resulting from the signing of an agreement with projectionists of the One Big Union by a large majority of the theatres in that city, has been boiled down somewhat by the placing of an application for arbitration before the Manitoba Provincial Government by Famous Players Canadian Corp. and Winnipeg's One Big Union. A few days ago W. P. Covert of Toronto, vice-president of the I.A.T.S.E., wired to his local in Winnipeg that a general strike order would be called against the 200 Famous Players houses across the Dominion unless the O.B.U. were tossed out.

A highly interesting development, meantime, has been the absorption of the Winnipeg projectionists' local of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor by the I.A. there. In other cities of Canada the I.A. and All-Canadian locals are deadly rivals and are entirely aloof—but in Winnipeg they have joined against the common foe, the One Big Union.

No further direct action has taken place in the Manitoba capital since the calling of a two-hour strike by the I.A. in 17 theatres there operated by Famous Players and its subsidiary, Western Theatres, Ltd.

Exchange Union Deal In Chicago Expected

Chicago, Nov. 16.—A meeting of local union officials with film exchange representatives on the contracts for film inspectors, shippers, etc., is scheduled for next week, according to John Smith, business manager of the Chicago M. P. Operators' Union here. Smith stated that all differences had been settled in conferences and that final negotiations would be completed at the meeting.

As soon as this meeting is over Smith stated that the unionization of ushers, doormen and cashiers would be continued. Already many of these employes have been approached. In speaking of the situation Smith stated that it would be a difficult job to get the ushers and doormen organized.

Consolidation of 7 Union Cases Denied

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Aaron Steuer yesterday refused to consolidate the Supreme Court suit brought by Gotham Amusement Corp., H. M. Amusement Corp., La Salle Amusement Corp., the Hancock Theatre Corp., B. B. C. Amusement Corp., Har-Mar Amusement Corp. and the Marvin Amusement Corp. against Local 306 of the M. P. Operators' Union, Allied M. P. Operators' Union and the I. T. O. A. with six suits brought in the Municipal Court by I. T. O. A. against the theatre owners.

The Supreme Court suit asked that the Jan. 29 contract between the I. T. O. A. and the union be set aside. In the Municipal Court the I. T. O. A. is suing for allegedly unpaid dues. Justice Steuer ruled that the suits would have to be tried separately.

"Angel" in Stockholm

Word has been received at the Paramount offices that the premiere of "Angel" in Stockholm last Saturday night was something of a local event. The film was warmly greeted.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Mr. Boggs Steps Out"

Hollywood, Nov. 16.—Familiar though the theme and development thereof may be, this comedy, which Ben Pivar produced and which Gordon Wiles directed, is still amusing. "Mr. Boggs Steps Out" is not for the supercritical, those who find it a pleasure to pick out flaws and point discrepancies. Its market is those who prefer to be amused and who, some way or other, although they occasionally find fault, are usually satisfied with an ordinary attraction.

No claims to pretentiousness are made for this story of a country hick who, with his fate in the hands of some unknown destiny, blunders through to romantic happiness and business success. Naturally he pursues and is pursued by romance and as all the cards are stacked against him as he endeavors a business career, the situations in which he finds himself provoke a degree of laughter for those who follow his experiences. But, and there is suggestion for some smart showmanship in the idea, when he becomes mixed up in a business deal that involves the marketing of a collapsible barrel, there is a vivid novelty running through a lot of similar familiarity that gives the story a different interest.

Stuart Irwin is the sometimes bashful, sometimes resourceful yokel hero. He is 100 per cent the focal point of the yarn and as he carries it, he is helped by Helen Chandler, Toby Wing, Tully Marshall, Spencer Charters, Walter Byron and Otis Harlan. Clarence Budington Kelland wrote the original, Richard English did the screenplay and Gordon Wiles directed. It is evident that they aimed at providing bucolic entertainment for the bucolic masses.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Gillmore Asks Stage Drop Reserved Seats

A proposal to abondon the legitimate theatre's traditional reserved seat ticket selling policy and open the box-offices to a "first come, first served" sale at one price for any seat is advocated by Frank Gillmore, president of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America and of Actors' Equity Ass'n, in the current issue of Equity, official publication of the latter organization, out today.

Gillmore suggests that the policy might be of incalculable aid to 85 per cent of the plays produced on Broadway in any season, inasmuch as, according to the Equity president, only 15 per cent of a season's plays are "hits." He urges that the proposal be tried initially by Broadway managers on one night a week only, that it feature reduced prices of 25 cents, 50 cents or a dollar, "but not more," and that the trial be "a good, honest one, with advertising and over a long enough period to give it a chance to work out."

He asserts that, in addition to providing a stimulus for weak plays, the policy would win new patrons and extend the theatre-going habit for the benefit of the entire stage field. Gilmore refers in the article to the success with which the policy has been met in film theatres.

Indications are that the plan will be taken up by the Equity council for further action and, perhaps, presented to the League of N. Y. Theatres.

IF I OWNED

● If I owned any theater, or any chain of theaters, I would sign up the Universal Newsreel for the rest of my life. I would not want any other theater to scoop me on the Bombing of Shanghai (as the Universal Newsreel scooped my competitors) nor would I want any other theater to scoop me on the final Capture of Shanghai (as the Universal Newsreel scooped my competitors this very week.)

ANY THEATER

● I shall never forget that the Universal Newsreel was the first to solve the problem of newsreels with sound; that it signed up Graham McNamee as its screen voice and that practically every other newsreel copied the idea by signing up lesser luminaries. There is only one Universal Newsreel and only one Graham McNamee. I want nothing but the best. I know I can get the first and best in the Universal Newsreel and nowhere else on earth.

Transamerican Now Committee's Agency

Transamerican Broadcasting Corp. became the radio selling agency for the Committee of One Million, instead of Albert M. Ross, Inc., when the former was able to deliver a majority of the stations which had been signed to carry the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin talks, while the latter failed, it was said at the Committee's headquarters yesterday.

Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, head of the Committee of One Million, was anxious to be heard over the stations set up for the Father Coughlin talks, according to the spokesman at Committee headquarters, and the deal originally was to have been handled through the Ross agency, according to this source. Instead of supplying those stations, Ross allegedly brought in a hookup of Mutual network stations, plus a few independents. This was not satisfactory to the Committee and, when Transamerican offered the desired stations to the organization, the deal was signed through them. Forty-eight stations embrace the hookup, and all carry the "live" talk except three, WBL, Baltimore; WIFL, Philadelphia, and WHN, New York. The latter three carry transcribed versions of the talks and will do so until current contract commitments expire, permitting them to take the speeches as they are made by Rev. Smith.

The foregoing is according to the Committee of One Million. At the Albert M. Ross agency a discussion of the matter was refused.

Johnson Answers NBC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—When acquainted with the news that NBC had extended an invitation to Dr. Morris Fishbein to speak on the subject of social diseases, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson made the following statement:

"I intended to talk on the subject of social diseases last Wednesday night on my regular Blue Network broadcast. NBC would not permit me to do so. They thought the highest authority should talk on it and therefore they got Dr. Fishbein. This is satisfactory to me. I don't care who talks about venereal diseases to the radio audience so long as the subject is brought out into the open."

KTSM has a day power of 250 watts and a night power of 100 watts. Application is now pending before the F. C. C. for a power increase. Karl O. Wyler is station manager.

RCA research activities in the laboratories of its services, RCA Mfg. Co.; NBC, Radiomarine Corp., and RCA Communications will be expanded under the plan of the unified control. "Ballroom" Time Filled

With the sale of three 15-minute periods a week to the Davis Baking Powder Co., the last available time in the WNEW "Make Believe Ballroom" has been placed. Many of the current contracts are for a full year in advance, a number of the sponsors having recently renewed for long time periods to avoid the rate increases for this feature.

No Maestro He

Maybe it's an act, but it's a good one. Talking to Leopold Stokowski after the bank-sponsored symphony broadcast of the other night, a reporter addressed him as "maestro."

Stokowski looked genuinely hurt. "Please don't call me maestro," he said. "What ever gave you the idea I am a maestro?"

The reporter fumbled for words, then answered: "I got the idea from seeing your motion picture."

"Ach, that Hollywood!" said Stokowski.

But he's going back to make another picture about Christmas time.

New Shows on the Air

NBC Symphony Concert

The NBC experiment to mould the first symphony orchestra primarily for broadcasting was shiningly demonstrated Saturday night when, under the baton of Pierre Monteux, the new NBC Symphony of 92 pieces flooded the Red and Blue networks with a concert from 10 to 11:30 P. M.

Lavish, unstemmed spending apparently shows results at times, for the orchestra, despite the haste with which it was recruited, performed brilliantly, a not so remarkable achievement when one considers that practically every top-notch symphony in America was turned to in recruiting its personnel. This is not said to detract from the worth of the orchestra; neither is it intended as a reflection of the manner in which NBC lavished money to build the unit. It is said only because it is our considered opinion that an orchestra numbering among its instrumentalists more than 20 first chair players of other noted organizations and trained by the finest battery of concertmeisters to be found on this side of the Atlantic, could not possibly perform raggedly, even in so short a time after its formation. It is a magnificent unit, which is as it should be. If it were anything else, it would indeed be surprising.

Monteux began the program with Respighi's transcription of the Bach organ "Passacaglia." Followed Mozart's "Haffner" symphony, "Psyche and Eros" reconstructed from Franck's "Psyche," Debussy's "Iberia," and finally "Till Eulenspiegel." The 92 instrumentalists blended throughout in an ensemble of remarkable cohesiveness and it was stimulating to listen to it.

The NBC Symphony will be offered each Saturday for 23 weeks. Following three broadcasts under the direction of Monteux, the baton will be taken up by Artur Rodzinski for three weeks, then by Arturo Toscanini for 10 concerts and concluding with seven return appearances by Rodzinski.

Radio Personals

STOOPNAGLE & BUDD fly to Hollywood tomorrow . . . Despite the ribbing he has been receiving, G. Braidwood McCoy, of the staff of Publicity Associates, really did a commendable job of interviewing John Montague, the mystery golfer, on the "Newsreel of the Air" program Sunday. McCoy filled in at the last minute when George Hicks was unable to work the assignment . . . The production men at NBC will no longer be known as such. Each has been given the title of "director." NBC has 35 of them, with William S. Rainey in charge . . . Incidentally, speaking of radio production men, or directors, it's a great sight to see them come tearing out of a control room at the end of a broadcast, finger glued to nose, eyes aglow, crying exultantly, "Great show—finished right on the nose!" Finishing on time, it seems, makes a great show, a great production, in radio. Quality apparently counts for nothing . . . Radie Harris will interview Margot Grahame on her Mutual program tonight . . .

Estimates WNYC Expansion Cost

F. J. H. Kracke, New York City Commissioner of Plants and Structures has reported to Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, that it would cost $40,000 to $200,000 to equip WNYC, municipal station, for world-wide broadcasts, in accordance with the Mayor's plans to make WNYC an international broadcasting station. Kracke said the moneys should be allocated and earmarked before the city applied for the required sanction from the F.C.C. Kracke suggests broadcasts in Spanish to South America.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 19

(20th Century-Fox)

Probably some of the best scenes of the fighting in Shanghai to date are in this issue. They are horrible, with a realism that is readily evident. There is plenty of action, the cameraman seems to have gotten the range of the naval bombardment too, for all the broadsides fired from warships are shown scoring actual hits. The Japanese assault on the "Suicide Battalion" in the warehouse is filmed from a location across the street and bullets can be seen chipping the walls and finding their mark in machine gunners stationed within. The platoon movements of the attackers are clearly seen, and the returned fire from the beseiged forces is caught. The episode closes with the burning of Chapei by retreating forces and the pitiful, bewildered stream of refugees entering the International Settlement. Bonney Powell and Eric Mayell are to be congratulated on their fine camera coverage of the action.

The remaining footage is taken up with shots of the Nine Power conference in Brussels, a short denunciatory talk by Wellington Koo, Chinese representative, and Ed Thorgersen's lively comment on the spectacular plays of the weekend's pigskin scrambles.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 217

(M-G-M)

Startling, often harrowing, certainly picturing war at its worst, with its dread impact on unfortunate non-combatants, is this issue of News of the Day. Almost the entire footage is devoted to the memorable capture of Shanghai by the Japanese troops, which followed the crucial fall of Chapei.

Clearly seen in all its devastating power is the fall of the city, bombs uprearing buildings in a gush of smoke and scattering wood and stone, fires raging unchecked, set by bombs and by the retreating Chinese, the big guns of the Japanese fleet in action, and the rain of terror from the skies. The most startling of the pictures, which at the same time provide an example of brilliant camera reporting of the news, is the final attack on the doomed battalion of Chinese, the "suicide squad," which imprisoned itself in a Chapei warehouse and defied the enemy. Graphically seen is the final rush, the pelting of bullets, the smashing of windows and the adjoining fire, which forced surrender. Most harrowing are the pictures of the terrified civilians, old women and babies among them, fleeing to the safety of the International Settlement.

The reel devotes a few final minutes to excellent shots of the muddy gridiron battles between Army and Notre Dame and Yale and Princeton.

No. 30

(Paramount)

Three pigskin tussles, a hockey set-to and the fall of Shanghai highlight the latest Paramount news release. The football games are those of Yale downing Princeton; Pittsburgh continuing its winning streak over Nebraska and Notre Dame defeating Army. The hockey round-up shows the New York Americans besting the Toronto Maroons at Madison Square Garden. The capture of Shanghai by Japan shows the city in flames and the capture of Chinese snipers.

Saved from death, with the sinking of a Greek steamer, by a U. S. Coast Guard cutter, a number of the ship's disabled crew are pictured being rescued. It is the first sea tragedy this winter in which seven perished.

Other clips show Mary Garden, camera shy, upon her return from Europe where she scouted talent for M-G-M, the Damascus River overflowing and leaving in its wake 1,000 homeless and dead in Syria, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in a talk on unemployment and the opening of Congress with Speaker Bankhead citing four important bills which will occupy the attention of the house.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 34

(RKO)

The eight topics making up this issue of the reel are average material. There is nothing that stands out particularly. A bit of rare novelty though is the sequence on falconry. The ancient sport, revived by a club in Philadelphia, offers good photographic material as the birds swoop down on small game. The action is capably caught and interesting.

The other items in the reel are: the opening of Congress, the return at Norfolk of the rescued seamen off the Greek ship that went down last week, John Montague's golf match with Babe Ruth and Babe Didrickson, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt attend the launching of a sailing canoe that will go around the world, Ladies' Day at Pimlico where society women ride for the Alfred Vanderbilt Cup, the signing of the Berlin-Tokio-Rome pact against Communism and a number of exciting plays from last week's football games.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 9, No. 615

(Universal)

A panorama of the warfare in China, so packed with drama as to suggest the presence behind the camera of some guiding production mind, is contributed to this Universal release by Cameramen George Krainukov and Norman Alley. The scenes were photographed in and around Shanghai at the time of the fall of Chapei. The release pictures artillery and bombing planes adding new destruction and desolation to an already desolate city; it shows the pitiful plight of the non-combatants and refugees, many of them too old or too young to remove themselves unaided from cannon and rifle range; it pictures the military toll in dead and injured and reveals personal and group heroism of a sacrificial nature. All this is presented with a seeming dramatic continuity supplied by a theme of destruction, suffering and misery on all sides, in which the participants, reduced to an impersonal status by the horror surrounding them, are too desolate to betray their plight by self-consciousness before the camera, the effect of which is to give the reel its theatrical quality.

The machine-like continuation of the horror and destruction by the Japanese forces robs the film, willingly or unwillingly, of a neutral status. It is not only a moving preachment against war but a telling instrument of anti-Japanese propaganda, as well. It is the most powerful camera document of the Sino-Japanese conflict which this reviewer has seen.

The balance of the reel is devoted to excellent action shots of the scoring plays in three outstanding football games of the past week end. They are the Army-Notre Dame game, the Pittsburgh-Nebraska and Yale-Princeton games.

UA Decision Reported Up To Giannini

Belief Prevails He Will Retain Presidency

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—Whether or not Dr. A. H. Giannini will continue his present post as president of United Artists is understood to rest completely with him. While no one today would talk, the impression prevailed he is disposed to continue his present post under the impending change in control.

It is known that a condition of the negotiations which commenced with the granting of the original option by Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin and Douglas Fairbanks assured Giannini complete independence of choice as to whether or not he would continue under whatever company ownership might thereafter ensue.

Alexander Korda, in from New York, is reliably reported disposed to rest on Giannini's independently-arrived-at decision. The U. A. president withdrew as chairman of the

Goldwyn Planning Largest Program

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—Samuel Goldwyn, who is due from New York tomorrow, is planning his biggest production program for 1938-'39, it was learned today. Tentative plans call for six to eight big pictures among which will be "Kiss in the Sun," one of two Gary Cooper pictures, and two Merle Oberon specials. While no figures were available, it is said Goldwyn will spend more on next season's schedule than ever before.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—Terms for financing Walter Wanger next season will be discussed here at conferences attended by Wanger, Samuel Goldwyn, Alexander Korda and Dr. A. H. Giannini. Wanger has completed his program of six for the current season for which, it is said, $5,000,000 was available.

Justice Dep't Plans Widest Monopoly Quiz

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—One of the broadest anti-monopoly campaigns ever undertaken by the Government will be initiated by the Dep't of Justice as soon as funds are available, it was indicated today in the disclosure of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings that he has asked that the present appropriation of $472,000 for anti-trust enforcement be increased to $1,000,000.

Film Council Proposed for English Bill

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The forecast in MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday that Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, would offer an amendment to the Film Bill providing for a film commission, was confirmed today, with the publication of the amendments proposed by Stanley to the House of Commons Films Act Committee.

Another important change as proposed by Stanley, is a clause empowering the Government to reject a quota film passing the cost test after appeal by a trade body. Observers see such a clause as tantamount to the introduction of a quality test, sought by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, and originally disapproved by Government officials.

Stanley asked the formation of a

Firm to Cease Operation Jan. 1; Service Dep't To Wall St. Group

The sale of Erpi's theatre equipment service business to a Wall Street group has been completed in all major particulars and is scheduled to become effective Dec. 1, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned authoritatively yesterday.

The divestment of the service department completes the dissembling of Erpi, under way for the past six months, and that company will cease to operate on Jan. 1. The recording functions of the company will continue after that date, of course, but will be concentrated for the most part in Hollywood and with, possibly, a skeleton executive force remaining in New York. Western Electric's foreign recording, reproducing and servicing activities will be continued.

RKO Production Post Still Far From Set; Studio Wants Spitz

Hollywood, Nov. 17.—No new studio head for RKO is in immediate prospect. The personnel at the plant appears to favor the continued presence here of Leo Spitz, but there is no reason to believe the RKO president has changed his point of view. As reported, he concedes his limited knowledge of production. Furthermore, he has no desire to abandon New York for headquarters in Hollywood.

Current procedure at the studio is to proceed with commitments on hand without embarking upon new ones, pending the realignment in its final form. In view of rising costs, effort also is being directed toward judicious pruning without any sacrifice of quality.

Independents Attack Fox Milwaukee Runs

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 17.—With Fox's new Varsity playing two first run pictures on Sundays, complications are seen with independents expected to protest the fact that these films, even though they are sloughs, are not given sufficient exploitation on a one-day showing in a house, which is not strictly a first run theatre.

Further, with 104 more first run features finding their way into the Varsity each year, E. J. Weisfeldt's Riverside, playing a combination film and vaudeville policy, is expected to suffer for lack of product. The Varsity scale is 25 cents to 1 P.M. on Sundays, 35 cents to closing and 25 cents to 6 P.M., 35 cents to closing, Mondays through Saturdays. Shows are continuous from 12:30 P.M.

Informed that guild members receive $5.50 for that type of work, the seamen held out for the guild rate and got it.

Sustains Sunday Ban

ATLANTA, Nov. 17.—The Georgia Supreme Court has affirmed an interlocutory injunction granted by the Thomas County Superior Court restraining the Rose Theatre, Inc., Thomasville, from operating Sunday.

National Reel In 16MM. Is Plan of DeVry

A sixth national newsreel, to make its initial appearance on Jan. 1, is to be on 16mm. film and will be distributed by the Herman A. DeVry Co., Chicago manufacturer of portable and 16mm. projection, both sound and silent, according to Motion Picture Herald, out today.

The decision followed the successful growth of 16mm. newsreels produced in various parts of the country by exhibitors, with material pertinent to their communities. The new newsreel will be so made as to combine with local 16mm. reels which theatres are now starting on their own. According to DeVry, more than 100 local newsreels will be used within the next few weeks in various cities.

Small city houses seem to be most interested in the 16mm. reels, the Herald will say today. In order to make it possible for exhibitors to make their own reels, the DeVry company has set up a rental system on equipment, which will rent, complete, for $12.50 weekly. Plus the film cost, an exhibitor, it is estimated, can make a local reel for about $15 to $20 per week, running five to eight minutes.

Plan Is Cooperative

The idea behind the national 16mm. newsreel, it is said, is to make available to all theatres with local reels, national scenes of special interest to local audiences, and which are now available from the national 35mm. reels in reduced size. The theatres making their own reels under the DeVry plan are to submit their own negatives to the company for any use it desires. From this combined material would come the national 16mm. newsreel. The company is making arrangements with local laboratories in various parts of the country to handle material on a rush service at minimum cost. Contracts for the equipment are renewable after nine months.

The company also plans to organize a group of 16mm. photographers who will be supplied with identification cards which will permit them to take pictures of local news events. The national newsreel also will be sold through photo supply shops to owners of 16mm. projectors.

It is understood that other manufacturers of 16mm. equipment are studying the plan with a view to starting such projects themselves.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—Charles R. Rogers, executive producer for Universal, is going east. He will visit Boston before going to New York where conferences are scheduled with J. Cheever Cowdin and Robert H. Cochrane.

Why

20TH CENTURY-FOX IS YOUR MOST VALUABLE SOURCE OF WEEK-IN, WEEK-OUT PROFITS!

(From an editorial by W. R. Wilkerson in "Hollywood Reporter")

THE other day several of this industry's financial bigwigs were congratulating Darryl Zanuck on the great showing made by 20th Century-Fox. During the conversation, Zanuck made a statement which opened their eyes.

"Don't underestimate the value of the pictures contributed by Sol Wurtzel to our program," he said. "No company has offered a more consistent line-up of 'bread-and-butter' pictures and all exhibitors know it."

Zanuck really said a mouthful. The company that secures the most exhibitor good-will is the company that offers them a program of pictures which is sound from top to bottom. With Wurtzel contributing 26 pictures annually to 20th Century-Fox, this company has been able to maintain a program with no false bottom.

One of the 20th Century-Fox aces developed under Wurtzel is Jane Withers, who has bounced into all the "first ten" lists of boxoffice stars.

Wurtzel has managed to solve one of the boxoffice problems of the lower-bracket pictures by developing several successful "series pictures." The Charlie Chans, the Jones Family films and the more recent Mr. Moto group, gain box-office momentum with each new release. An exhibitor doesn't have to stage an expensive campaign to sell them, for their cumulative value far exceeds that of the usual production in their class.

Zanuck's statement should open a lot of Hollywood eyes to the part producers such as Wurtzel and his aides play in the brighter side of the Hollywood picture.

...and this is the type of picture he's talking about

"SCREAMINGLY FUNNY! HAD THE CUSTOMERS IN STITCHES! WELCOME ENTERTAINMENT FOR ANY BILL!" —Film Daily

"SET AS A MONEY-MAKER! EXHIBS WILL HAVE NO TROUBLE SELLING THIS! PLENTY OF LAUGHS!" —Variety Daily

"SHOULD PROVE POPULAR AND PROFITABLE IN ANY COMPETITION! SHOULD FULLY SATISFY HER GROWING LEGIONS OF ADMIRERS!" —Motion Picture Daily

The lightning growth of Jane's pulling power is one of the biggest box-office stories of the year. Dozens of de luxe theatres have discovered that to their profit. Give this picture—Jane's best—the strong send-off it rates . . . and watch those extra shekels roll in!

Poll Allied Members On Legislative View

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Allied States members in this territory are being canvassed by the local organization as part of a national move to determine the organization's legislative stand during the coming session of Congress.

Ballots are provided offering the Allied exhibitor his choice of organizational support for the Hobbs resolution for an investigation of the industry, the Neely-Pettengill bill or a "Guffey Act" for the industry. The same canvass is being made by other Allied units throughout the country, with indications that the national organization will concentrate its efforts to obtain Congressional action on the most popular of the three measures.

The local organization offers the opinion that Congress is ready to enact remedial legislation for this industry.

Lever and Rose, Departing, Maintain Careful Silence

By BILL ORNSTEIN

Two interested parties in the U. A. deal left for London and Hollywood yesterday with the departure of Ernest H. Lever, secretary of London Films and spokesman for a British syndicate headed by Kasenove, Akroid & Co., on the Queen Mary, and David Rose, vice-president and financial adviser of Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., leaving for Hollywood by train. Both were reticent to discuss terms on the arrangement completed last Friday for purchasing the U. A. stock held by Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford for $6,000,000.

Lever said he was "quite satisfied" with the deal and would not talk about it further than to give his own opinion. He said:

"It is my own opinion that this forms a wonderful opportunity to build up a real cooperation between Great Britain and America in the film industry. I think such cooperation will be of great advantage to both countries. It is in this broad aspect, rather than in dollars and cents, that I look upon the deal. The latent possibilities are further than the immediate advantage to the parties themselves."

When a reporter for MOTION PICTURE DAILY asked for verification of a report that Prudential would not participate in the financing, Lever said: "Have some champagne." The offer was accepted.

Then the reporter said: "Mr. Lever, you are secretary of Prudential. Won't you please tell us about the deal as a bon voyage gesture?"

A Genial Host

"Have a sandwich. They look real good," Lever replied. This offer also was taken up.

"Will any British interests be represented on the new U. A. board?" Lever was then asked.

"I can't answer further than the announcement, which was carefully worded and announced to the press."

The reporter reframed the question.

Lever retorted: "I don't think the public is interested." The reporter reminded Lever that the story was for the trade. Lever replied: "The answer is the same."

"Who are the banking interests involved other than Kasenove, Akroid & Co?" was the next question.

"I can't talk about the constitution of the syndicate at this stage of the game."

"Are there any obstacles which may kick over the deal?"

"There are certain legal aspects which have to be looked into."

"When will the options be picked up?"

"That depends. No date has been fixed. The British interests will first have to investigate the deal and I don't know how long that will take."

"Is the English Government interested?"

"I can't talk about that."

"How about financing American production? Is that provided for in the arrangement?"

"American producers will have to look out for themselves. We are not interested in financing American production."

"How about Korda's financing?"

"That is a local problem for Prudential."

"What are the actual figures involved in the deal?"

"I will not talk about the price."

Seeks to Call Halt

Lever was anxious to end the interview and turning to a personal friend who was in the cabin with Emanuel Silverstone and Morris Helprin, he said: "This is sort of a parlor game It is either animal, vegetable or something else and the more you say the warmer you get."

Another question was put. "Who must sign the papers in England?"

"If I told you that would be more than I have already said. It all depends on who has the power of attorney."

"Who has the power of attorney?"

"I don't know."

"Will there be any British financing for Walter Wanger?"

"No."

Lever ended the interview expressing gratification at the extraordinary hospitality of Americans. He said: "That's more than we do in England." There were two gift packages in his stateroom and Lever seemed to like the idea. He added that he would like to come back again for a vacation, but couldn't guarantee it.

Rose said there was nothing to be added to the stories printed on the deal. He will return in two weeks with the intention of sailing Dec. 1 on the Normandie to complete the remaining details.

Fox Circuit Lowers Scale in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 17.—Following several months of a 60-cent top at Fox's Wisconsin and Palace, the circuit has dropped the admission to 50 cents in conformity with the Warner.

The houses, formerly on a 35 cent-40 cent-50 cent admission policy, raised the top bracket several months ago, retaining the other two brackets. Under the new policy, the houses are charging 35 cents until 6 P.M., and 50 cents thereafter, and are opening at 11:30 A.M. instead of 11 as before.

Shanghai Theatres Running 50% Normal

Exhibition in Shanghai is operating slightly under half of normal, J. E. Perkins, Paramount manager in China, said yesterday. Perkins left Shanghai early in October. In Tientsin and Peiping theatre business is beginning to function normally, and this also applies to Canton, where theatres are reopening. The shipment of prints by rail out of the office on Museum Road to outlying points is somewhat hazardous due to the military movements, interrupted train schedules and damaged railroad rights of way, Perkins said.

There are approximately eight native production companies in China, Perkins said. Four of these are in Hong Kong. The combined negative output is about 50 features a year. A number of these are silent but sound films are making headway, Perkins revealed. Native features offer keen competition in the interior. Mei Lan Fang, the famous Chinese actor, has not yet appeared on the screen. He is still the leading attraction on the Chinese legitimate stage. Apparently there is an artistic kinship between the Chinese player and our own Katharine Cornell, he said.

Fight Barring of "Road"

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—Request for an injunction to prevent interference with the performance of "Tobacco Road," at the St. Charles here was filed in Federal Court this afternoon against the City Administration and the Police Dep't by Tobacco Road, Inc., New York owners. It is claimed that the recent barring of the stage production violated both the Federal and Louisiana State Constitution by prohibiting free speech. The play was scheduled for a two-week run, opening on Nov. 22.

Federal Judge Borah has set a hearing for Friday.

Erpi Service Will Be Sold On December 1

with Erpi, according to informed sources. The principals are undertaking the deal strictly as a personal business venture.

L. W. Conrow, long associated with Erip's sales force and recently placed in charge of the company's operating division following the combining of installation and servicing departments, will become general operating manager of the new theatre servicing company. The name of the new organization is the only detail not set already.

The Tripp-Engels company will take over more than 7,000 servicing contracts with theatres from Erpi and will also occupy the present Erpi home office in the Fisk Bldg. The bulk of Erpi's existing offices in the field will be taken over, although in the subsequent reorganization of the business several of these will be closed and new ones opened, according to present plans. All of the Erpi servicing and operating forces will be taken over, although only a small number of the company's principal sales executives will be identified with the new company. Erpi's complete stock of sound reproducing equipment parts will also go to the new company.

Erpi Officials to Stay

Among the Erpi officials who will be in executive posts in the new company, in addition to Conrow, are George Carrington, who becomes operating manager; Bert Sanford, Jr., sales director; Stanley W. Hand, executive staff representative in the field, with headquarters at Chicago, and L. J. Hacking, Boston, who will be New England manager.

Eight division offices are to be established with division managers at each, and branch managers will be placed in additional offices to be set up within the eight divisions. Replacement parts will be stocked at centers throughout the country.

The move marks the removal of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. from the field of selling and servicing theatre equipment, the theatre sales end of Erpi's operations having been disposed of during September through the licensing of International Projector Corp. and Motiograph to manufacture Western Electric reproducers. Thus Erpi, which has dominated the sound field since its inception in 1926, will exist in the future only as a holding company for recording license agreements with studios and producers and for the manufacturing licenses.

No Circuit Plan Now To Drop Games Here

Loew's and RKO have no plans to drop games and giveaways from the local circuits Dec. 1, it was learned yesterday. The I. T. O. A. recently sent out pledges to theatre owners and circuit operators in a move to eliminate the practices on the first of next month.

While circuits are in accord with the plan, there is no intention on their part to discontinue Bank Night and Screeno.

IA Probe Session Breaks Up in Row

Montgomery, Screen Actors' Guild president, told of his unit's relations with the organization, Bioff was asked by Jack B. Tenney if the unions imported hoodlums from the midwest, explaining that he was requested by an anonymous person to ask. Isaac Pacht, union attorney, shouted that such a question was unethical.

Carey McWilliams, attorney for I. A. members Francis Black, Chester Cohen and Irwin P. Hentschel, who instigated the probe, demanded to be heard. Then the committee adjourned and went into executive session behind closed doors with the attorneys.

Bioff, on the stand, said his salary is $110 weekly, with $12 per day for expenses, and contradicted Montgomery's testimony concerning his presence at Louis B. Mayer's home at the final conference before the guild obtained the pact on working conditions for actors. Montgomery said Bioff's presence was voluntary but Bioff said he was invited. Montgomery said the guild held no animosity against the I. A. and that the guild was grateful for Bioff's "offer of aid" before the producer pact was signed.

Blames Communists

Bioff told the committee that unrest among unions is caused by Communists within the ranks. Asked the definition of Communists by Assemblyman Frank Tenney, Bioff said they were persons who are un-American and then added some choice, unprintable profanity which he thought descriptive of them. Bioff said that only 200 members are out of work at present and that if the locals had autonomy, producers might cancel the closed shop agreement. If the locals are self-governing, he said, jurisdictional disputes would result and intense hatreds would flame.

Pat Casey, producer labor contact man, was the last witness today.

Committee members said a long list of top producers has been subpoenaed for tomorrow but would not disclose names.

Mentone Signs Deal With Actor's Guild

Mentone Pictures yesterday signed a contract with the Screen Actors' Guild, establishing a closed, or guild shop, for the company's eastern production activities.

The signing of the pact leaves only March of Time and Pathe commercial films outside the guild fold in eastern production circles. Guild action on the former is indicated by the end of next week and on Pathe commercial thereafter.

Film Council Proposed for English Bill

council, to be known as the Cinematograph Films Council, consisting of 21 members to be appointed by the Board of Trade. Eleven would have no financial interest in the industry, there would be two producers, two distributors and four exhibitors, two representatives of labor, a chairman and one woman representative.

Its functions will be to review the progress of the industry, with particular reference to production, and report to the Board of Trade when advisable. It will also be available to the Board of Trade when its advice is sought, whether at the request of persons interested in the trade or others. It will make an annual report to the Board, which in turn will be presented to Parliament. The Board, on the other hand, will supply the council with needed information. Ten members will constitute a council quorum and the council will be empowered to regulate its own procedure. Members will hold office in accordance with the terms of their appointment, will be eligible for reappointment, but will not be eligible to serve more than three years.

Dual Chairman

The powers and function of the advisory committee were defined in another proposal. It will include representative members of the council, and five other members, including one woman. The chairman of the council also will be chairman of the advisory committee.

The commission amendments are almost certain to be accepted, resulting in the discard of other commission proposals. The idea caused general satisfaction among producers and exhibitors, but grave concern among distributors, the latter believing that it sets a dangerous precedent.

Other Stanley amendments propose blind booking restrictions and empowers the advisory committee to alter the quota percentages. Other amendments, already indicated, will be studied by the Commons committee. Action also is expected regarding separate quotas.

Woolf, Ostrer Dissent

Further criticism of the quota act was voiced by Charles M. Woolf, head of General Film Distributors, and Maurice Ostrer of Gaumont-British. Woolf expressed the belief that the legislation would not be satisfactory, and scored the lack of trade unity. It is essential that reciprocity be based on the good will of both sides, he said. The trade is unable to force the public to see pictures, he declared. Ostrer expressed opposition to the separate quota for producers and said reciprocity is the only solution. It is impossible to make a profit without the American market, he said. The Government is studying the Ostrer proposal for reciprocity. On the basis of a 20 per cent quota and 500 films imported annually, Ostrer foresaw British producers getting £800,000 to £1,000,000 from the American market.

Labor union representatives, of the Film Industries Employes Council, embracing all unions, addressed members of the House of Commons today, asking for separate quotas, fair wages clause and other matters and opposed reciprocity.

A distributor group which saw Stanley is engaged in furious lobbying on the bill in the House of Commons.

Canadian Product Rents High

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Central Films, Vancouver, Canada, producing company, whose production finances are supplied by Columbia Pictures, is registered here under the British quota and already has delivered three registered films. The product is being sold at better rentals than is customary for Columbia quota films. Columbia is four features short on its quota for the year and is understood to be accelerating the delivery of films from Central.

"Ecstasy" Action Is Marked Off Calendar

The suit brought by Eureka Prod., Inc., distributors of the censored picture, "Ecstasy," against Herbert H. Lehman, Governor, John H. Bennett, Jr., Attorney General, Frank P. Graves, Commissioner of Education, and Erwin Esmond, Director of the Motion Picture Division of the Dep't of Education of New York State was marked off the calendar when it was called for trial in the U. S. District Court yesterday.

Federal Judge John C. Knox upon consent of both sides sent the case to the Statutory Court. The Statutory Court usually hears cases which involve only constitutional questions. Eureka contends that censorship regulations of New York State interfere with interstate commerce and are, therefore unconstitutional. It is claimed that when "Ecstasy" was passed by the customs authorities, New York lost jurisdiction to censor the film.

Withdraw William Fox Warrant

A warrant for the arrest of William Fox was returned to the U. S. Distict Court here yesterday by U. S. Marshal John J. Kelly at the request of Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine and Wood, attorneys for the Capitol Co. of California, a judgment creditor of Fox.

The warrant was issued by Federal Judge William Bondy for a contempt of court allegedly committed by Fox in failing to appear for an examination in supplementary proceedings. A fine of $235,082 together with $10,000 counsel fees was assessed. Attorneys for the judgment creditor in their letter to Marshal Kelly stated that the U. S. District Court for New Jersey, where the Fox bankruptcy is pending, had issued an order staying the execution of the warrant and directing its withdrawal.

Adjourn Lord-Pathe Trial

Trial of the breach of contract suit brought by Phillips Lord, known professionally as Seth Parker, against Pathe Film Corp. started in the U. S. District Court here yesterday before Federal Judge John Clancy and a jury. After the selection of the jury and opening statements by attorneys for both sides, the trial was adjourned until this morning. Lord claims that he prepared his yacht for an extended Pacific voyage for the purpose of producing a picture. He alleges that Pathe agreed to share half the expense and furnish camera men in return for 50 per cent share of the gross receipts, but that Pathe refused to perform its part of the deal.

Orders Quiz in Infringement

An examination before trial in Los Angeles of Robert Montgomery and William Ellfeldt in connection with the copyright infringement suit of Irving Gielow against Warners and M. Witmark & Sons was ordered by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. No date for the examination was set. Gielow is suing for $1,500,000 for alleged plagiarism of his songs, "Flirtation Walk" and "Mr. and Mrs. is the Name" in the Warner picture, "Flirtation Walk" and two shorts also produced by Warners.

Enforcement of the anti-trust statutes is one of the most important duties of the department, Cummings declared, and additional funds are sought to permit an expansion of the staff and the undertaking of a number of cases in which action is believed necessary.

The Attorney General also disclosed that the department is working on a report on anti-trust statutes to be submitted to Congress for consideration in connection with legislation modernizing those laws, which was listed by President Roosevelt as one of the matters for consideration during the special session.

proximately 200 day-and-date engagements in first runs throughout the United States and will make the film available for the RKO circuit in Greater New York for Christmas and New Year's bookings.

The unexpected switch traces to the situation at the Music Hall. "Stand-In" opens there today and will be followed Thanksgiving Week by "Nothing Sacred," which is expected to run two weeks. W. G. Van Schmus is understood to have earlier given Columbia an opening date of Dec. 16 on "I'll Take Romance" which has been guaranteed two weeks. The open week between "Nothing Sacred" and the Moore film would have blocked out "A Damsel in Distress" from a second week.

This was not acceptable to RKO and the Rivoli deal followed. It is understood RKO was willing to accept dates trailing "I'll Take Romance," but that this was not satisfactory to the Music Hall because it would have meant the Astaire film then would be playing locally in the wake of the nationwide, simultaneous runs which RKO has lined up.

WFIL's Transmitter Work to Start Dec. 1

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—WFIL here will begin work on its new transmitter Dec. 1, according to Donald Witycomb, station general manager. Arrangements have been completed for the acquisition of a 38-acre tract of land, fronting on the Schuylkill River, in the southwestern section of the city.

Building plans call for the erection of a two-story colonial type house to serve as combination technical laboratory and living quarters. Because of the isolated location of the site, it will be necessary to construct a half-mile macadam road. Paul Godley will supervise the technical construction, while Walter Thomas will handle the architectural work. It is estimated that completion will take two months at an approximate cost of $125,000.

IRNA Deal Evasion Will Bring Boycott

Stations failing to return signed copies of the final IRNA trade agreement to the A. F. of M. by Dec. 1 will be boycotted by union musicians, according to the terms of the document, now in the mails.

Each station will deal with its local union. A general stoppage of union music, tantamount to a general strike, can only be averted if a sufficient number of stations sign the contract, according to the A. F. of M.

Independent stations have been advised to begin active negotiations with the A. F. of M. by the IRNA negotiating committee in a letter issued to them yesterday.

Under the plan of the IRNA settlement, NBC and CBS will reimburse the network affiliated stations with $200,000 annually. Additionally, the networks will increase expenditures for musicians' salaries for the key stations. NBC will spend $300,000 per year, and CBS $180,000.

New Shows On the Air

"Truth Behind the News"

Johannes Steel, formerly foreign editor of the New York Post, brought his program, "The Truth Behind the News as I See It," to the WMCA microphone Tuesday. At first hearing we label it as one of the very best programs of its type on the air. Steel is one of the most informed persons in America on foreign affairs. To this virtue add a pungent, forceful delivery and a keen, analytical style, and you have the reason for our summation.

He discussed the economic situation in Japan as a result of Japan's imperialistic policy in China; Germany's designs on Czechoslovakia and their possible repercussions; the American policy at the Nine-Power Conference in Brussels, and the situation in Rome.

The series is unsponsored, and it is presented each Tuesday at 7:45 P. M. over WMCA.

"Hollywod Screenscoops"

To the multiplying list of screen commentators on the air add the name of George McCall, syndicate columnist, who on Tuesday began a new series for Old Gold cigarettes on the CBS network, titled "Hollywood Screenscoops."

McCall, knowing that several of his contemporaries have been spanked for going beyond the pale of good taste, sagely confined his remarks to pleasantly unimportant topics, but his chatter sells well. Between sprinklings of gossip he praised Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray for insisting that John Barrymore receive equal billing with them for the picture, "True Confessions," boosted Barrymore's performance, rated the picture as the "bull's eye" production of the week. An interesting department is his "10 Years Ago—And Today," in which he mentions players prominent in those days, and makes comparisons with their present status.

"Hollywood Screenscoops" is presented Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:15 to 7:30 P. M. over CBS, for Old Gold cigarettes. Lennen & Mitchell is the agency. BANNER

To Be U. S. Trade Treaty Discussion Factor

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Plans for negotiation of a reciprocal trade agreement with the United Kingdom, considered the most important of all the treaties undertaken by the Administration, were announced today by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Making public a list of the most important commodities entering into our trade with the United Kingdom, the department gave indications that motion pictures were considered sufficiently noteworthy to comprise one of the items on which this Government will ask better treatment from the British. Exports of films last year totaled 63,247,000 linear feet with a value of $1,496,000, against 61,190,000 feet valued at $2,052,000 in 1929, and in addition shipments of film projectors, sound equipment and other projection apparatus amounted to $924,000 last year compared with $4,495,000 in 1929.

U. S. Industry Pins Hopes On English Trade Agreement

The American film industry pins strong hope on provisions being incorporated in an Anglo-American trade treaty to eliminate any onerous features which may remain in the British film quota act in its final form, it was made clear in authoritative trade quarters here yesterday.

Washington discussion of the treaty serves to recall the recent visit of Will H. Hays to President Roosevelt at the latter's Hyde Park residence during which, Hays told newspaper men at the time, the industry's attitude toward both the Anglo-American trade treaty and the proposed British film quota act were submitted to the Chief Executive.

It is also known that the organized industry already has presented its views to the State Dep't on a trade treaty between this country and Britain. Basically, the industry holds, and has informed the State Dep't, that it does not recognize any justification whatever for a British film quota act and that it stands opposed to any quota law at all. The American industry holds that films, as well as other products, should find their natural market on the basis of their own worth, free of any such limitations and barriers as are imposed by quota laws. The industry has pointed LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Films Bill Committee of the House of Commons started work today on a consideration of the new measure, passing the first three clauses. VERY simple. In New York, it was WEAF. Elsewhere, it was whatever NBC Red station it happened to be. If you started at eight o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, and if you wanted to, as who knows how many millions did, you could have lounged around your receiving set until eleven o'clock without flipping your dial and you would have heard, or did, the Rudy Vallee show for Standard Brands, the third edition of "Good News of 1938," the M-G-M show for General Foods, and "Kraft Music Hall" with Bing Crosby and Bob Burns. By a convenient change-over to WJZ here in New York and the NBC Blue hookup in whatever city you might have been, fifteen additional minutes, or to 11:15 P. M., would have brought you Elza Schallert commenting about this and that in Hollywood. At no cost, except your time . . . .

Drake to Retain Position As the President of Erpi

Whitford Drake, Erpi president, will continue with that company after the first of the year, when the dissembling of the sound equipment company has been completed and its principal functions will have been confined to licensing and collection of royalties for Western Electric, official spokesmen for the latter company said yesterday.

Drake is now in Europe in connection with Erpi's business abroad and is due back here by the end of the month. Reports of his withdrawal from Erpi to become associated with one of the major film companies, which were widely circulated yesterday, met with unequivocal denials from both Western Electric officials and the film company which was mentioned.

Retain Right To Distribute Through U.A.

Pickford, Fairbanks and Chaplin Hold It

Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford retain the right to distribute through U.A. under the deal by Samuel Goldwyn and Alexander Korda for the purchase of the stock options of the three stars, it was learned authoritatively yesterday. However, none of the retiring U.A. partners is committed to a releasing deal, it was pointed out, and the hope is that if, and when, any of them either produces or appears in pictures that U.A. will be the outlet.

Goldwyn arrived in Hollywood yesterday after spending several weeks in New York on the deal. He was preceded by two days by Korda, who was accompanied by Marcel Hellman. Walter Wanger is due to arrive on the coast next Tuesday by plane.

While the principals are in Hollywood, conferences will be held on lining up new producers. Hellman, who has a contract to make four a year for Criterion Films of London,

Infringement Charge Is Denied by Warners

Warners filed a general denial in answer to the $100,000 infringement suit of Richard Carroll and William A. Drake, authors, in the U. S. District Court yesterday. Warners also stated in its denial that the statute of limitations barred the claim. The authors alleged that they submitted a script to Warners called "Conquest" in 1934, based on the life of General Gorgas and the building of the Panama Canal. After rejection of the script, it is claimed Warners filed a notice of intention with the Hays office to produce a film on the same subject and that as a result the plaintiffs have been unable to market their story. Warners admit the rejection of the script. A dismissal of the suit with costs is asked.

Dismiss Phillips Lord Suit

The $50,000 damage suit brought by Phillips Lord, known professionally as Seth Parker, against Pathe Film Corp. was dismissed by Federal Judge John W. Clancy in the U. S. District Court yesterday on the ground that Lord had failed to produce sufficient evidence which would warrant a jury verdict in his favor. Judge Clancy did not require Pathe to prove its defense and discharged the jury.

Select Files New Complaint

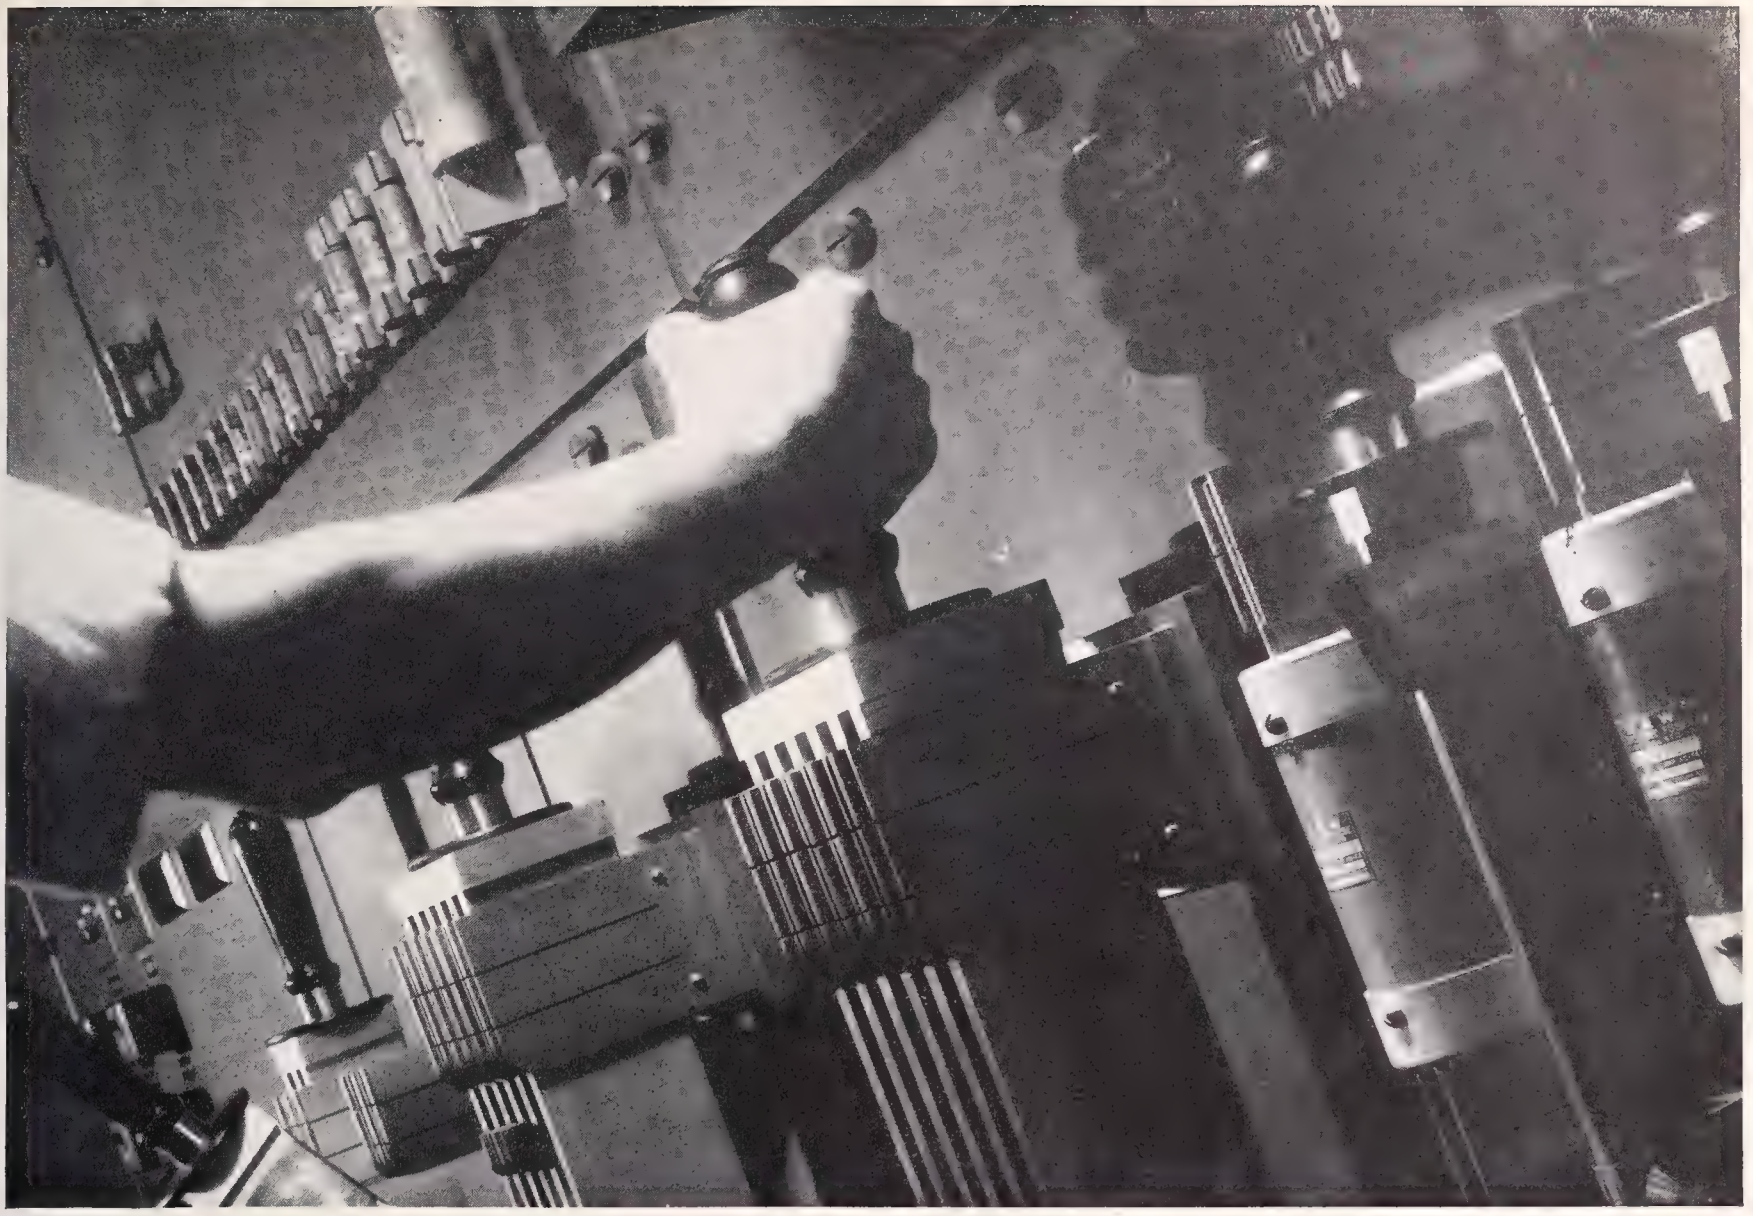
Select Theatres Corp. filed an amended complaint in the U. S. District Court here yesterday in its $10,000 "plagiarism" action against Warners. Its original complaint was dismissed by Federal Judge John C. Knox earlier this month. Select alleges that the Warner picture, "Ready, Willing and Able," is a deliberate "piracy" of its play, "The Audition."

Order Sentry to File Details

Sentry Safety Control Corp. was ordered to file a bill of particulars in its $312,500 breach of contract suit against International Projector Corp. by Justice Isidore Wasservogel in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday. Sentry alleges that it licensed International to manufacture and sell home sound film projection machines. The defendants allegedly agreed to pay a $5 royalty on each machine with a minimum guarantee of $62,500 and to establish film libraries for home use. Sentry's suit demands the minimum guarantee with $250,000 damages for alleged failure to supply the film library. International denies the minimum guarantee and sets forth in its answer that its liability under the contract was limited to a $5 royalty on 184 machines sold.

Casey Says Pay Was $87,000 for a Year

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Pat Casey, producers' labor contact man, testifying today in the state legislature investigation of racketeering charges against the I.A.T.S.E., testified that he received $87,000 a year in salaries and fees and that no part of this was given to any labor union leader.



The committee adjourned today until next month after hearing Casey, Harry M. Warner and C. P. Cregan, union auditor, and becoming the center of a bitter fight with Carey McWilliams, attorney for "I.A.T.S.E. Progressives," secret Alliance group, which instigated the probe.

Warner "Satisfied" with I.A.T.S.E.

Warner testified that he knew little of union contacts with studios but was satisfied with the labor situation under the I.A.T.S.E. Cregan testified that four locals of Alliance here disbursed $315,000, of which $133,400 was in salaries between Dec. 1, 1935, and Oct. 31, 1937. Among sundries listed was $5,000 Democratic National Campaign Committee donation in 1936.

McWilliams attempted to introduce in evidence Chicago Daily News clippings telling that Bioff, bodyguard for George Browne, I.A.T.S.E. president, was wanted for questioning about Tom Malloy murder. Assemblyman Kennett Dawson refused to admit it, but compromise was effected under which McWilliams agreed to authenticate the clipping.

COMPLETE COMPOSITE CAMPAIGN!

Including Description of the Promotion Illustrated in Preceding Double Spread EXPLOITATION shown inside and above is described in the following items so that you can readily visualize the possibilities of their application to your popular-price engagement. All four Road-Show cities are represented—giving you a composite, cross-section campaign which will directly box-office influence all types of movie-goers.

FIREFLY CANDY. This was a special contest and advertising stunt. 56 full windows and the same number of counter displays appeared in every Dutch Mill Candy Store in Chicago and Cook County. For 3 week-ends that company newspaper-advertised a special Week-End Firefly Mixture at $1.25 for a two-pound package. All tie-up media mentioned the picture. An attractive young lady, in Dutch costume and wooden shoes, handed out "Comment Cards" to each person entering the theatre. Movie-goers were instructed to write their picture opinion in as few words as possible and return the card to the Dutch Mill Hostess stationed in the lobby. For the best comments at each of the two performances daily, the winners received a two-pound box of the special "Firefly" Candy Mixture. This contest was advertised in the newspapers, store windows and theatre lobby.

FIREFLY HATS. An outstanding cooperative arrangement was made with Chicago's Davis Store. Its hat designer created a special model known as "The Firefly", similar to the one worn by MacDonald in the picture. An entire window was given to it with background showing giant cutouts and production scenes. Ads on "The Firefly Hat" ran in the Chicago Tribune and Daily News. Store-wide announcements also called the public's attention to it. The Boston Store followed with a Firefly Hat creation of its own—and exploited it just as strongly.

FIREFLY MUSIC. All leading music stores cooperated with window and counter space. Every one of the popular orchestra and band leaders in each city played one or more numbers on his program. Some of the music went over the air via band radio broadcasts. Special tie-up displays appeared in windows of many musical instrument stores. There are production scenes showing Miss MacDonald at the harpsichord and Allan Jones playing the guitar.

FIREFLY JEWELRY The 7-foot and 3-foot cutouts showing large figure of a dancing MacDonald (see press book exploitation section) are excellent for appearance in jewelry store windows featuring costume jewelry, illuminated dial watches, diamonds or anything else which sparkles, glows or has a lustrous quality or surface.

TRICK LIGHTING EFFECTS. Giant golden-yellow title letters in an Astor Theatre (N. Y.) 3-storied sign glow and flash off and on with "firefly effect". When the sign flashes off, separate dark red bulbs flicker like hundreds of fireflies. Trick lighting stunts add immeasurably to the effectiveness of the picture title and are possible on every type of theatre engagement in some form or other.

SHOWMANSHIP ADS. New York advertised the picture as the First and Biggest Attraction of the New Fall Season in a special series of ads. Singing heads of MacDonald and a glamorous Spanish Senorita illustration were other outstanding pictorial elements. Music, Romance, Spectacle, Glamour and other entertainment angles were stressed in other cities.

COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS. In the preceding double spread you will also see a printed special story with coupon attached, which went out to a special list of newspapers. Personal letters were mailed to another group of editors of country newspapers within a radius of 50 miles. A scene mat and publicity story were enclosed. Letter explained that if they ran the story and mat, and returned tear sheets, they would receive complimentary tickets.

FIREFLY RECORD. Electrical transcription was tied-in with many sustaining and sponsored programs — latter in conjunction with The Firefly Hat, Firefly Jewelry, Firefly Watch, Firefly Music, etc.

JUVENILE CONTEST. The value of continued publicity was realized on the Chicago engagement and the big circulation of the Chicago Tribune was turned into additional box-office profit. Sally Brown, columnist, and also in charge of charitable activities for this newspaper, ran a story on the front page of the second section for 6 days—devoted to picture highlights and asking all Tribune children that desired to attend a picture performance to write her a letter. Children's desire to see "The Firefly" was the keynote of the contest. Children chosen from thousands of replies paraded from the Chicago Tribune to the theatre.

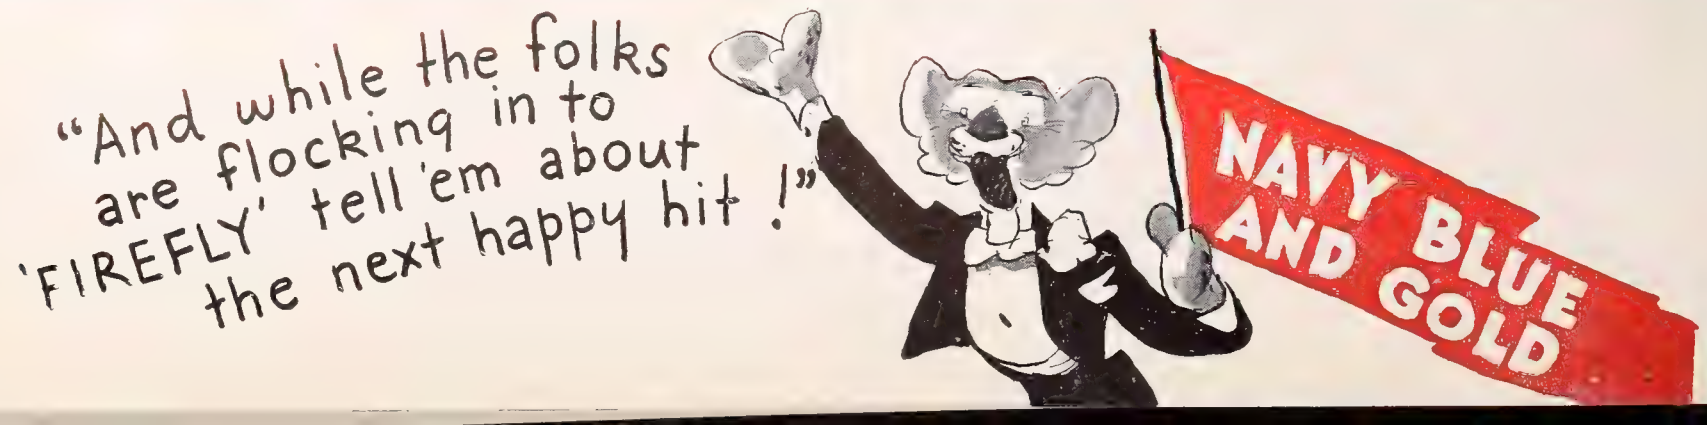
SPECIAL PRESS SCREENINGS. All motion picture, drama and musical critics as well as columnists, managing and city editors were invited to special showings. Resultant reviews were very satisfactory and bore out the advisability of this procedure.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH WINDOWS. Both the Jumbo and regular-size Postal Telegrams appeared in all windows of this company and the latter were house-to-house distributed by their messenger service. See press book exploitation section regarding this tie-up.

MUSIC LOVERS. Members of all singing and musical societies received a special letter concerning the lavish musical presentations in the picture. They were also asked to make comparisons between the MacDonald-Eddy combination and former well-known singing stars who appeared in earlier stage productions of "The Firefly."

WINDOW POSTERS. Timely Events, Inc., issues a weekly poster which is placed in over 8,000 windows in the Chicago territory. Passes secured their cooperation to the extent of placing a production scene in one of the issues.

MIDGET LETTERS. Thousands of miniature envelopes, containing miniature letter inserts, were mailed to the F.O.E. Convention, in Chicago, through cooperation of hotels. This is a good idea even for general distribution—smallness of the envelope makes it stand out from other mail received by residents. Tie it in with something like: "The Smallest Letter in the World Announces the Biggest Musical Attraction on Earth", etc.



GIANT CUTOUTS. Local enlargements of the guitar-playing figure of Allan Jones and the dancing posture of Jeanette MacDonald—one playing and singing to the other star in a combination display effect—are among the best designs you can use for box-office appeal. Make them up locally.

BIG CUTOUT LETTERS. Appliqued letters of title and star names give the utmost in smash theatre presentation. Title is a natural for this because of its brevity.

VALANCES, FLAGS AND BANNERS. Any important attraction is only as big in the public's mind as you sell it. Therefore use valance, flag and banner material on the front of your theatre.

COLOR ROTO. Those newspapers which specialize in Roto Sections printed in extra colors are excellent contact points for presentation of a "Firefly" scene via Firefly Red color.

about these reviews. They're great!

"THREE CHEERS FOR THE NAVY BLUE AND GOLD!"

"THE BEST"

"There always has to be a best of everything. And 'Navy Blue and Gold' is probably the best Annapolis naval academy life story to date with a football sideshow. 'NAVY BLUE AND GOLD' has story punch and character that do not confine or limit its period of exhibition life to the football season. It has the stuff that should enable it to do business any day in the year. It is possessed of elements that naturally appeal to the entire audience. It has many exploitation angles. Let 'em know it is a strong character melodrama more than anything else."

—Motion Picture Daily

"REAL BOX-OFFICE"

"Metro's production of 'NAVY BLUE AND GOLD' combines elements of entertainment in such showman-like manner that it can be nothing else than real box-office. The b. o. tills should tinkle a lively tune wherever it is shown."

—Daily Variety

"HEART-WARMING"

"Ace performances by Jimmy Stewart, Robert Young and Tom Brown! Everything is well woven together in a film that is human, heart-warming and genuinely appealing."

—Los Angeles Times

"SOMETHING TO CHEER ABOUT"

"Top notch entertainment from the opening flashes to the final touchdown of the Army and Navy game is 'NAVY BLUE AND GOLD'. It kept last night's preview audience in enthusiastic response to every move. The three featured players are all so good it is difficult to credit top honors but perhaps James Stewart comes off a shade the best because of his very sympathetic role. Sam Wood's direction is splendid. A picture that is something to cheer about."

—Los Angeles Examiner

"STIRS THE EMOTIONS"

" 'NAVY BLUE AND GOLD' fine. Told so freshly and movingly, the picture should win its way to the heart of every American. With a great deal of genuine patriotic appeal it well and truly stirs the emotions. Gets under the skin in a way that will make it stick in the memory. It is so well made in all departments, thanks to an inspired production job by Sam Zimbalist and the extremely sympathetic direction of Sam Wood, that it should solo successfully in the de luxers and tally handsomely all the way down the line. It will ring plenty of bells."

Retain Right To Distribute Through U.A.

is understood seeking to have U.A. handle this product internationally.

David Rose, vice-president and financial adviser for Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., will arrive on the coast by train tomorrow. He has with him a copy of the contract by which the options are to be exercised prior to Dec. 23, the expiration date.

Korda is due back from the coast Sunday, planning to sail next Wednesday on the Normandie for home. He may be delayed, however, for additional talks with Dr. A. H. Giannini and Goldwyn. One of the discussions with the latter two will revolve about the financing of Wanger next season, it is said. Interested parties to the U.A. deal are prepared to advance whatever sums are necessary, it is understood.

No Management Changes

There will be no change in the management of the company, according to authoritative sources. Korda and Goldwyn are satisfied with the present administration and sales executives and are hopeful that Dr. Giannini will continue in his posts.

Rose plans to sail for England again in two weeks. He will sit in on the final closing of the deal with British banking groups headed by Kasenove, Akroid & Co. Ernest H. Lever, secretary of Prudential Assurance Co., will arrive in London next Monday on the Queen Mary and will present the agreement signed here to the financing interests he represents.

Richard Dwight, attorney for Goldwyn, will not go to London for the final signing, it was stated.

U. S. Industry Pins Hopes On English Trade Agreement

to the unhampered importation here of Scotch whiskey, woolens and other major articles of British trade sold in the United States, none of which is restricted as to volume by arbitrary quota limitations, but find a large market here in competition with articles of domestic origin.

The American industry's hopes for relief from any onerous provisions of a British quota will not end with the enactment of the quota law now before Parliament, it is pointed out in responsible quarters here. The provisions of the quota act, which is purely national law in Britain, would be superseded or invalidated by whatever provisions affecting films were included in a trade treaty between the United States and Great Britain, as international treaties take precedence over national law.

Indications are that, although this industry already has made strong representations to the State Dep't as to its viewpoint concerning the British film quota act, an even more determined stand may be expected once the negotiation of a trade treaty between the two nations gets under way.

U. A. to Distribute Mier Mexican Films

Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president of United Artists in charge of foreign distribution, has closed with Felipe Mier, Mexican producer and general manager of Cinematografia Internacional, S. A., for the world releasing rights outside of Mexico and the United States to three Mexican-made, Spanish talking films. They are "Asi Es Mi Tierra," "Aguila O Sol" and "Perjura." Publicity campaigns are being prepared.

Kelly yesterday paid tribute to the quality of Latin-American product and to the wide acceptance accorded it in the republics of Central and South America. He said, "It is no longer a secret that in Spanish-speaking territories good native-made product is outgrossing the Hollywood variety four to one."

U. A. in Routine Meet

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18.—Stockholders of United Artists met formally here at 3:00 P. M. and adjourned after fixing Nov. 24 as the date for the next meeting, when details of the Samuel Goldwyn-Alexander Korda purchase will be completed.

Committee Starting Work on Films Bill

Government spokesman, accepted an amendment, which was carried, providing the acquisition of the quota in half-year periods.

An amendment opposing the provision that films costing double a specified amount be counted for double in quota reckoning was objected to by the Government on the ground that the original provision was a means of encouraging quality in product. The amendment was withdrawn. Proposals that the Board of Trade consult the advisory committee before giving concessions on films rented abroad, was defeated.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for next Tuesday. The producer-labor group today attacked the Ostrer reciprocity plan in a statement published in the Times.

To Ask British for Concession on Films

ties on which concessions might be either granted or requested was extended to all interested, to be filed with the Committee for Reciprocity Information by Dec. 16. At a later time, the department will announce dates for public hearings by the committee and issue a list of the commodities which will be considered as the basis for concessions.

Canada Independent To Get U.A. Pictures

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 18.—United Artists will place first run pictures in the Plaza, independent downtown house which formerly showed third and fourth run duals at 15 and 20 cents. The deal followed the failure of U.A. and Famous Players successfully to consummate a Canadian deal.

"Stella Dallas" will be first picture under the new arrangement. Prices will be increased to a 40-cent top.

G.N. In South Africa

Grand National has closed with Phillip S. Pohl for the distribution of G. N. product in the Union of South Africa.

Selznick, the Riddle Man

Chicago, Nov. 18.—David O. Selznick passed through here today en route from New York to Hollywood, refusing to confirm the fact that he will rejoin M-G-M. He did say Motion Picture Daily had printed the correct story about his future plans, but then followed it by refusing to say what story it was to which he referred.

He intimated, however, that the M-G-M deal had gone through.

Asked about a published report that Metro had offered him one million dollars to join, Selznick said: "It wasn't a million. It was more."

Official announcement of his plans will be made within two weeks, he added. While here, he interviewed three show girls who have screen possibilities.

Drake to Keep Erpi Position As President of Erpi for many years, will wind up his duties with the company between now and Dec. 1, at which time the sale of Erpi's theatre equipment servicing and installation business to Roswell C. Tripp and Howard P. Engels, former investment brokers, becomes effective, as reported exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday. Bunn has been variously reported as becoming associated with new theatre equipment supply concerns in process of formation or with an already established supply company. There appears to be little basis for the reports and indications are that Bunn's future plans are not definitely set yet.

Provide Small Erpi Force

A skeleton executive force will be maintained by Erpi to administer the company's recording license agreements with studios and producers, its manufacturing licenses for Western Electric reproduction equipment, its foreign business and incidental activities. Presumably, however, Erpi's greatest activity in the future will be centered in Hollywood, stemming from its recording license agreements with studios.

The company will continue to receive orders for reproducing equipment, it was explained, but will not maintain a sales force. Sales of this kind will be on a cash basis and time payment provisions will be abolished.

To all intents and purposes, however, Erpi will have withdrawn from the theatre equipment business by Jan. 1. The divestment of the theatre end of its business is to be concluded to all practical purposes on Dec. 1, when the Tripp-Engel deal becomes effective. This deal, of course, was preceded by the licensing of International Projector and Motiograph to manufacture Western Electric reproducers.

Paramount Had Proposal

The two deals supplant earlier proposals for the taking over from Erpi of the complete theatre end of its business which, for one reason or another, were found to be impracticable. One proposal came from leading Paramount theatre partners and operators throughout the country, who were to acquire the business from Erpi and set up a new company to operate it. Trade rivalries were held to be a bar which made the consummation of this deal impossible. Another proposal involved the taking over of the business by a group of Erpi officials. This plan was vetoed, however, when it failed to make provision for a sufficient number of the company's employes.

In the meantime, a number of Erpi employes became associated with International Projector and Motiograph, following the licensing deals with those companies, and many others were absorbed by the Bell System. The Tripp-Engel deal for the servicing and installation business will care for the bulk of the remaining employes, it is understood. Essential reductions in the sales staff will be effected, however.

"Breakfast," Band a Smash Twin City Hit

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 18.—"Breakfast for Two" with Freddie Fischer's "Schnickelfritz" band, was a sensation at the Minneapolis Orpheum to take top honors with an $18,000 gross, triple the usual $6,000. A price rise helped the picture and the local band that has had a meteoric rise from a St. Paul night club helped.

Best single picture was Walter Wanger's "Vogues of 1938" which had a $5,000 take at the Century where average is $4,000. Prices were raised. "Double Wedding" did a bit over the usual $5,500 at the State while "Heidi" at the St. Paul Orpheum led with $5,000, over par by $1,000.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $38,600. Average is $27,500. Total first run business in St. Paul was $14,500. Average is $15,000.

Philadelphia Grosses Good; 'Navy' and 'Conquest' Lead

"Conquest" got $19,000 for its first week at the Boyd. A surprise second run hit was made by "The Awful Truth." It took $7,000 at Keith's and was held for a second week.

"Ali Baba Goes to Town" didn't live up to the Fox expectations, but it got a slightly better than average $19,000 for nine days. "Alcatraz Island" was another surprise at the Stanton, grossing $8,000 and earning a second week.

The only other house to better par was the Riverside, where "A Dangerous Adventure" and Eddie Peabody on the stage collected $5,500, $500 to the good.

Business was hurt by "The Restless Flame," a civic masque in commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the birth of Father Marquette which played before more than 15,000 in three performances at the Auditorium.

Plan Short on "Laws"

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18.—Jack Chertok will produce a short entitled "Crazy Laws" for M-G-M.

"Island" and Band $25,500 In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18.—Getting in the Armistice Day holiday on the week, the Stanley led the town by a wide margin last week, taking an exceptionally good $25,500 with "Alcatraz Island" and Don Bestor's band. Shirley Temple's "Heidi" was good for $9,200 but not a holdover at the Alvin. In the past, her pictures have been invariably certain of two weeks.

At the Warner, "Double Wedding," on a holdover from the Penn, was fine at $6,800 but "High, Wide and Handsome" was a disappointment at the Penn, getting barely $10,000. The Fulton picked up a bit with "It Happened Out West" and "The Lady Fights Back," approaching par at $4,200 for the first time in several weeks.

Total grosses in five first-run houses were $55,700. Average is $45,000.

Estimated takings for week ending Nov. 11:

"HEIDI" (20th-Fox)

ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-50c, 8 days. Gross: $9,200. (Average, for 7 days, $6,500)

"Truth" High In Poor Week In Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Playing its second downtown week, "The Awful Truth," at the Metropolitan, proved again to be the main attraction, taking $7,900 to exceed average by $3,600.

"High, Wide and Handsome," at Loew's Columbia, playing a return engagement, took $4,100, to top average by $500. In 8 1/3 days, "Victoria the Great" at RKO-Keith's did $10,000, or $600 under the 7-day average. The rest were under average.

Joan Bennett in "Stage Door" at the National, and "Col. Jimmy Lake's 'Own Show'" (burlesque) at the Gayety were the competition.

The weather was generally fair.

Total first run business, the Rialto and Little excepted, was $68,300. Average is $73,700.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"True Confession"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18.—Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray have in this, their fourth stellar pairing, a frisky and freshly plotted comedy that is likely to prove immensely amusing to the more lightly attuned adult taste. Although the titular intimation of similarity with the contents of a certain popular periodical is not borne out by the subject matter of "True Confession," murder, chastity, pregnancy and kindred matters are dealt with for comedy purposes in a manner suggesting that the film was not prepared primarily for the child audience. In spite of this, perhaps in a measure because of it, the picture was enthusiastically received by the swanky Hollywood preview audience and no doubt will be as delightedly approved by sophisticated audiences elsewhere.

The screenplay written by Claude Binyon from a play by Louis Verneuil and Georges Berr, has Miss Lombard as a struggling writer married to MacMurray, a struggling and honest attorney, who defends her in court against a murder charge. She lets him believe her guilty because she believes he can save her on a virtuous defense plea, whereas she could be convicted on circumstantial evidence. In reality, she is innocent. On the strength of the publicity gained during the trial both become successful and wealthy. When he learns of her deceit he resolves to leave her, but she tells him she is going to have a baby. When he learns this is also untrue he slings her over his shoulder and takes her indoors declaring he will "teach her a lesson," which may or may not mean he is going to spank her.

John Barrymore is billed on even terms with the pair and plays an ambitious alcoholic superbly. Una Merkel, Edgar Kennedy, Lynne Overman and Porter Hall are others contributing impeccable support. Producer Albert Lewin and Director Wesley Ruggles turned out a fine piece of merchandise, structurally and technically.

Running time, 84 minutes. "A."

Looking 'Em Over

"Uncivilized"

(Box Office Attractions)

More education than entertainment is to be derived from "Uncivilized." The flora, fauna, eating habits and anthropological characteristics of Australia and the aboriginal tribes of the interior are interesting, which is more than can be said for the dramatic content. The production and photography are good and the settings in natural surroundings are novel.

The story follows familiar "Tarzan" lines. A young woman novelist is asked by her publishers to make a trip to a little known part of Australia and there seek a "white king" of a certain tribe. They imagine a good story will result. The girl, after a little argument, takes the assignment. En route she is kidnapped by an Afghan opium smuggler who straightway takes her to her goal. The "white king" immediately takes a fancy to the girl and announces that he will take her for his wife.

The plot goes on, giving insights into the skullduggery of another smuggler who is after a collection of rubies in the "white king's" possession. Eventually, the film comes to a head. There is a battle between opposing native factions. The Afghan is revealed to be an undercover police agent and the girl learns to like the strange white chief and it is made evident that she will remain.

It is pure and simple hokum amateurishly acted. The cast is composed of actors unfamiliar here. Margot Rhys, the feminine lead, is attractive and gives to her role more than it is worth. Dennis Hoey plays the white king. It was produced by Expeditionary Films, Ltd.

Running time, 77 minutes. "G."

Group to Ask Return Of Coughlin to Air

Despite a vigilant attempt at secrecy, it has been learned that a meeting seeking the return of Father Charles E. Coughlin to the air will be held at the Manhattan Opera House Sunday. The meeting has been called by the Greater New York Union of Social Justice Councils, and invitations to attend have been accepted by more than 100 different units of the organization in New York.

It is understood that councils from as far removed as the New England states also have wired their intention of attending the meeting.

Father Coughlin recently signed a contract to return to the air over a hookup of 75 stations, but the contract was subsequently cancelled. Shortly after the cancellation, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith's organization, the "Committee of One Million," bought the time reserved for Father Coughlin.

While the Union of Social Justice has rigidly guarded the secret of Sunday's meeting, it is known that the discussions at the meeting will be aired over a local radio station, presumably WMCA, and that following this initial meeting, a well-planned radio campaign will get under way, with the Union of Social Justice speakers urging the return to the air of Father Coughlin.

Belgium to Honor Marconi

The Belgian Government will award posthumous honors to Senatore Guglielmo Marconi, father of radio, according to information received here yesterday by David Sarnoff, president of RCA. King Leopold had decided several months ago to confer the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold on Marconi, it was stated, but his death occurred before this could be done. The insignia will soon be forwarded to his family through the Belgian Embassay in Rome.

Do Not Carry Fishbein Talk

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18.—None of the local NBC stations, which include WLW and WSAI, of the Crosley setup, and WCKY, operated by L. B. Wilson, carried the broadcast of Dr. Morris Fishbein, who spoke from Youngstown, O., Tuesday night on venereal diseases. Station officials said that "commercial broadcasts previously scheduled prevented their stations from carrying the address."

music, personalities or the producer himself in service to national advertisers at a five figure retainer per week, that opportunity is available for almost as long as anyone can stand the gaff. Four shows on Monday, six on Tuesday, as many on Wednesday, again on Thursday, repeat on Friday, trim it to a brace on Saturday and then—hold on to your seat—shoot it up to nineteen on Sunday. It makes one wonder what the picture business is thinking of. As a matter of fact, it makes one wonder if the picture business is thinking . . . .

From time to time, the usual arguments about films and radio have been aired here, there and elsewhere. No one will, or can, deny that, within reasonable bounds applied, the vast drawing power of radio can help films. But, true to its spots and by the usual machinations of Hollywood, its agents and its opportunists, this industry has gone, and continues to go, completely berserk, at a cost which one of these fine days it will rue. These are the times when business is good, despite the box-office decline which has set in since Labor Day. No one likes to be annoyed, apparently, about caution and an eye to tomorrow. But tomorrow will come and the aspirin era will come along with it. Also the yells, the howls and the heads that split and groan . . . .

The point has been reached, if not passed, when radio's terrific onslaught on Hollywood talent, via indulgence of Hollywood, can be viewed as exploitation. Practically anyone on the coast, provided he has the semblance of a name, can get air time at fat prices—fat prices making it difficult for the studio that gave him the prominence resulting in the air contract thereafter to handle him. Hollywood, it is true, acquires an occasional Deanna Durbin or a Nelson Eddy, but what does radio gain and what does the film industry lose? There is the question and about it, the answer no longer can appear to be much clouded in speculation . . .

No longer in doubt, as well, is the pressing necessity for someone or some group, by conference arrived at, to call a halt, not a break, and to endeavor to bring a situation now entirely out of hand back to a level that makes sense. Metro is on the air. Warners start December 8. As the picture business handles itself, who can doubt other studios will refuse to trail? Who, also, can doubt, the peril which increasingly confronts the producer's and the distributor's regular customers—the exhibitor, if you remember him, the man who plays the product at anywhere from twenty-five to forty per cent and expects his audience, when he can find it, to bail him out? . . .

It was a busy afternoon in the general neighborhood of this typewriter. The facts had to be marshalled, for the facts alone make the impress. What follows is the nation-wide lineup of programs definitely committed to Hollywood and its activities, most of them regularly dependant upon the coast for talent and draw, many sporadically dependant upon the bulge in their money-bags to attract Hollywood personalities, all of them in one form or another featuring the Hollywood angle. NBC, CBS and Mutual furnished the information. No guesswork here. This is what goes on, day by day, seven days a week. The mass accumulation, if it is not staggering, proves this column is impressionable and you are not:

Minnesota Stations Set Optional Rates

The two new optional stations recently signed by CBS, WMFG, Hibbing, Minn., and WHLB, Virginia, Minn., may be used by advertisers now using KDAL, Duluth, at the rate of $25 per evening hour, in addition to the $125 per evening hour for KDAL. The combined base rate for all three stations is $150 per evening hour. Daytime rates are in proportion. The use of these stations in conjunction with KDAL does not affect station-hour discounts of CBS advertisers.

WMFG and WHLB were added as supplements to KDAL because they are the only stations which provide reliable coverage of their markets because of local peculiarities in the iron range country they serve. WMFG broadcasts with 250 watts day and 100 watts night power; WHLB with 100 watts day and night power.

Star Programs Has New Idea

Star Radio Programs, Inc., yesterday released promotion work on a series presenting a new idea in radio programs. The series contains 13 five-minute scripts and requires only one man for production.

Working on the theory that the public has had many programs trying to find out how much it knows and giving it information, "Boners" takes the other side of the fence and hands out misinformation. Each program contains one feature boner and other boners in schools, on the stage and screen and over the radio.

New Shows on the Air

"Town Hall Tonight"

Fred Allen, after an absence of several months, staged a hilarious return to "Town Hall Tonight" Wednesday. If proof ever was needed that the solemn-visaged Ipana troubadour is the funniest man in radio, that proof was provided upon his return. To our satisfaction, at least.

Not only are Allen's jokes original, it's the way he tells them. He also commits the unpardonable sin of laughing at his own cracks, but in his instance one doesn't mind, he is that good.

Fred took Hollywood for a grand, but thoroughly good natured, ride. He kidded every Hollywood foible in sight, holding nothing sacred. The producers got theirs, so did the actors and actresses. The humor was razor-edged, but entirely free from rancor or bad taste. That's a test of any comedian's mettle. Many of them in poking fun at Hollywood have been funny, but only at the expense of the feelings or reputations of those who live and work in the film capital.

Practically the whole of the "Town Hall" troupe was present for the show, having traveled to Hollywood to welcome Fred back to his old stand. Several of the "mighty" Allen art players were on hand, plus Peter Van Steeden and Harry Von Zell. Portland Hoffa, of course, was present. The guest stars were Lionel Stander, who got his start on the program some years ago and GoGo DeLys, vocalist.

"Town Hall Tonight" is sponsored by the Bristol-Myers Co., and broadcast Wednesdays from 8 to 9 P.M. on the NBC Red. Young & Rubicam is the agency. BANNER

CBS Sells Strip for New Morning Period

CBS has sold the first strip of early morning time recently opened to permit transcribed programs over its New York outlet, WABC. The initial order, however, is not for a transcribed program. It is for a "live" show which will be piped to it from Washington.

Through a deal worked out by Erwin, Wasey, the advertising agency; WJSV, Washington, and WABC, key station of CBS, Arthur Godfrey's "Sun Dial" program will be piped here over WABC from Washington beginning Nov. 30. Four products will share sponsorship.

The program will be offered three times weekly, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, from 8 to 8:15 A. M., with Godfrey as "em cee" and John Salb at the organ. The programs will be typical of "Sun Dial" series, popular in Washington for many years. Godfrey was formerly heard on the networks as announcer and "em cee" on the "Prof. Quiz" series over CBS.

The broadcasts will be sponsored by Barbasol, Kreml, Musterole and Zemo. The accounts are all handled by Erwin, Wasey & Co.

Looking 'Em Over

"Thoroughbreds Don't Cry"

(M-G-M)

"Thoroughbreds Don't Cry" superimposes upon a background of horse racing a beautifully executed, pre-adolescent companionship theme of three youngsters whose cinematic ages permit them to portray existences untrammeled by what has been presumed in many quarters to be the necessary elements of adult romance. To Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland and Ronald Sinclair, the last the new screen name for Ra Hould, go laurels for restraint in performance, finesse in portrayal the like of which few screens have seen.

Sharing in credit for the Harry Rapf production, which has the requisites for universal appeal, are Alfred E. Green, who, in addition to bringing into play his own first hand knowledge of the technical details of horse racing, held the reins closely over the entire cast to guide them all into well-rounded performances, and Lawrence Hazard, who laid out the screenplay track for the original story of Eleanore Griffin and J. Walter Ruben. In addition to the three youngsters who have the principal roles, are Sophie Tucker, in her first role that does not call upon her to sing; C. Aubrey Smith, Forrester Harvey, Charles H. Brown, Frankie Darro and Henry Kolker, all of whom acquit themselves well.

Ronald, an English boy, comes to America with his grandfather, Smith, to race "The Pookah," their horse, in the annual classic. They meet Mickey, a conceited jockey, who ranks as the best rider in the business, and he consents to ride for them. But he is forced, by his plotting, estranged father, to throw the first race he rides for them. Smith dies from shock, and Ronald, impoverished, is about to sell the horse when Mickey discovers that he had been tricked by his father. Mickey and Ronald enter the horse, but Mickey's father has him disqualified by baring the "throwing" of the first race. But Ronald, after encouragement by Miss Tucker and her niece, Miss Garland, rides the horse to victory. The final fadeout has Judy, Mickey and Ronald going ahead to other races together.

Miss Garland's sole song in the film is "Gotta Pair of New Shoes," a catching tune by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"County Fair"

(Crescent-Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18.—A fast-moving, homespun yarn of horse racing, "County Fair," a Crescent production for Monogram, will be released possibly about the time that Santa Anita resumes operations. What the film lacks in marquee names is made up in timeliness, a good story which keeps away from triteness although embodying a familiar plot, crisp direction and an adequate production frame.

Mary Lou Lender, a personable young girl, makes her film debut in "County Fair," and gives promise of going far in sweet young girl roles. Topping the cast is John Arledge as the masculine lead. Among the supporting players are J. Farrell MacDonald, Fuzzy Knight and Jimmy Butler.

Great restraint was exercised by John T. Neville, who wrote the screenplay, and Director Howard Bretherton in presenting the story of a farmer father, embittered by the loss of his wife, and his coercion of his son and daughter, with his final rehabilitation following his burst of pride at his son's winning an important horse race.

Arledge, a jockey, is barred from a big track after being framed for the "doping" of a horse. With his pal, Knight, he wanders off and they find Miss Lender and Jimmy Butler, children of MacDonald, the farmer, training a race horse secretly. Signed on as farm hands, Arledge and Knight aid in the plan, succeed in foiling the father in his desire to stop the horse from racing, and also outwit a gang of racetrack gamblers.

Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

"Tovarich" to Music Hall

"Tovarich," originally slated for a two-a-day run at the Hollywood, has been booked into the Music Hall for an indefinite run starting Dec. 30.

Conn Will File in Bankruptcy in Week

Maurice Conn, president of Ambassador Pictures, parent company for Conn Prod. and Television Pictures, will file a petition in bankruptcy for Ambassador next week in California, he said yesterday at a press conference. Conn plans to leave tomorrow with Ted Richmond, publicity representative, for the coast by automobile.

Conn stated that there have been many reports circulated about him and his company which he wanted to clarify for the benefit of his creditors.

Pressure by creditors who hold notes amounting to $25,000 is forcing him to file under 77 B, Conn declared. He listed assets of more than $450,000 and liabilities of approximately $230,000. The assets, he said, comprise about $215,000 on unamortized negatives; from $35,000 to $40,000 on prepared expenses for future production; about $25,000 invested in studio equipment, automobiles and leaseholds; about $20,000 in stories and continuities; about $15,000 in accounts and notes receivable, and about $25,000 in actual expenditures in a film library.

Liabilities, according to Conn, include $50,000 to Marks and Malcolm Trading Corp., local laboratory; $25,00 to Lewis Korson, Philadelphia and Washington franchise holder; about $25,000 to Lewis De Brantes, a personal friend; $15,000 to Production Finance Corp., finance company associated with International Cinema, Inc., in Hollywood, which also has a $7,500 bill due for work done; and a note of $2,500 to Thom Films, Inc., which is pressing for payment.

Fitelson Suggested Bankruptcy

Conn asserted that in the analysis made for the S.E.C., the unamortized negatives would take in $115,000, which represents additional income from foreign sales, overages and reissues. He said the bankruptcy was suggested by William Fitelson, attorney, and will stay immediate payments and also eliminate preferences on obligations due.

A deal is expected to be closed by Conn tomorrow with interests outside the business to finance 16 pictures. He said $315,000 was involved in the deal and the men who will put up the money will join his company in Hollywood.

His arrangement with Monogram to produce eight to nine westerns will be financed by Monogram, Conn stated. Withdrawal of registration papers from the S.E.C. was due to a drop in the market, according to Conn, and not because of any particular trouble with S.E.C. Several members of his family have been working for no salary, or very little, and studio members four weeks ago agreed to go along without salary, Conn said.

He started with $30 back in October, 1934, and now hasn't that much to his name, Conn said.

Oklahoma Show Strong

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 18.—That vaudeville has not lost its pulling power for local patrons was demonstrated when the Warners, getting 25 cents on the main floor and 15 cents in the balcony at night, grossed $3,000 in four days. The Cushman unit playing on the stage with "Hold 'Em Navy" was the attraction.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 20

Movietone News opens the season for picking 1937 All-America football teams with this issue. The reel's selections are presented by the camera and the backfield stars are shown in some of the spectacular action plays which won them the reel's vote for a place on the mythical eleven. The subject holds wide sectional interest in that schools in all sections of the country are represented.

Additional shots of the Sino-Japanese conflict are included in this issue but are confined to the further advance of Japanese troops following the fall of Shanghai. They are not spectacular, as were the shots of the capture of Chapei, but are significant in pointing to a possible siege of Nanking and the extent of Japan's aims in China.

Clips of Army stunt fliers, distinguished personalities arriving from Europe and Pimlico races featuring debutante jockeys complete the news section. Lew Lehr contributes an amusing commentary of the use of devices for exercising dogs.

Running time, 10½ mins. K.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 218
(M-G-M)

The livest piece of news in this issue is the clip relating to the capture of two of the three kidnapers who broke jail early this week. The sequence is built up with shots of J. Edgar Hoover setting the manhunt wheels in action, the location of the hideout and finally portraits of the convicts soon after their capture. They grimace most un-beautifully.

Another good item is a collection of scenes showing the famous Chinese cameraman, "Newsreel" Wong in action with his camera. This sequence also shows many of his important shots that have been reproduced everywhere. Audiences will like this presentation of one of the men behind the camera.

The Snapshots division shows J. C. Mackley of Miami stunting in an airplane while trailing smoke. It is well photographed. The Lord Mayor of London is inducted, and there are photographic studies of scenes in Washington with the new night-penetrating film, a diving exhibition at a pool in Palm Springs and girls in Ramona, Cal., dressed in garments made from turkey feathers. Sports are covered with scenes of Pacific coast Golden Glovers pushing leather and the opening game of the hockey season with the Rangers and Americans playing.

It is good newsreel.

Running time, 8½ mins. P.

Paramount News
No. 31
(Paramount)

Nothing particularly outstanding in the midweek issue of this reel. It was rather a dull week for pictorial news. The makeup, however, is diversified.

The reel leads off with scenes of the destruction of bootleg liquor in New York. Ten thousand gallons of the illicit spirits are done away with as "Auld Lang Syne" vibrates on the sound track. Professor Jean Broadhurst follows. She is the Columbia bacteriologist who isolated the measles virus, making possible a vaccine for the children's disease. In Beaumont, Tex., and Lansing, Mich., boy and girl quadruplets are filmed. They are mildly interesting. In Brussels Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, speaks at the Nine-Power Conference. The Rome-Berlin-Tokyo anti-Communism pact signing is also shown. The signatories talk briefly. In Shanghai the wounded and refugees are shown. This is a bit late. There are a number of good airplane bombing scenes in this sequence. The reel closes with the humorous and spectacular diving activities of a number of professional springboard artists in Palm Springs, Cal.

Running time, 9 mins. P.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 35
(RKO)

News susceptible of transplantation to the screen was not too plentiful during the past few days, but the RKO Pathe reel managed to overcome the handicap with general interest in a diversified form, and one novel clip which the reel promises to duplicate in type when the occasion warrants. The camera and sound men went behind the scenes of "I'd Rather Be Right," the George M. Cohan play which bounced into the nation's headlines with complete abandon, caught the first night audience arriving, interviewed the inimitable Cohan, and pictured him in one of his best and more serious bits from the Presidential reproduction. It need hardly be said that therein Cohan waves the "good old flag" in his own fashion, but the entire clip presents an interesting and novel offering of the "feature news" type.

Otherwise the reel is good, but not extraordinary. Senator Bob LaFollette, in an exclusive clip, rousingly and convincingly demands a constitutional amendment under which a national referendum would decide America's entrance into any war. The destruction of old freight cars for future military use, the making of those grotesque balloons at Akron which will tickle the kids of New York on Thanksgiving Day, a diving exhibition in California, the smashing of illicit liquor made in New York, which would be a small boy's field day, and the snappy opening of New York's hockey season at Madison Square Garden, with spills and a fist-fight to liven matters, conclude the reel. The new RKO Pathe reel commentators are continuing their clean-cut work.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Universal News
Vol. 9, No. 616
(Universal)

Universal claims three exclusives in its latest issue and there are several other interesting news items which are timely. The exclusives include latest styles in women's bathing suits, Welch of Cornell capturing the cross country run and an outboard motor race at Long Beach, Cal.

Hot off the griddle is the capture of two of three escaped convicts at Syracuse, N. Y. General Pershing in his 77th year is shown on his return from abroad, President Roosevelt conferring with President Vargas at Rio de Janeiro, the inauguration ceremonies of London's Lord Mayor, the mysterious poisoning of fishing waters at Buffalo and scores of dead fish washed up on the shores, the National Guard being paid off in silver dollar pieces at Sacramento, the launching of a new freighter at Lorain, O., and a skating exhibition at the ice carnival at Madison Sq. Garden make up the balance of the subject.

second week at the Music Hall with $84,000. The Roxy took in $43,000 on the first week of "Second Honeymoon." The second week of "Conquest" at the Capitol garnered about $30,000. United Artists claimed that "Stand-In" on the opening day yesterday at the Music Hall, did $12,000 for the day, with a reported $6,000 to 6 P.M. and the same amount from then to closing.

Hummel to Sail Soon On Australia Survey

Joseph Hummel, foreign manager for Warners, will leave for the coast Dec. 1 and sail on the Mariposa a week later to look over the film situation in Australia. He intends to be gone four or five months. Hummel yesterday stated there is no intention on the part of the company to acquire or build theatres in the Antipodes, but his trip was to survey conditions in the seven branches Warners have in the country.

Harold S. Dunn, general manager in China, arrived yesterday from the coast. The Warner exchanges in Shanghai and Hong Kong are functioning although operation of theatres has been reduced about 50 per cent. Dunn will make a report on conditions in China and remain two to three weeks before returning home.

Hearing Adjourned On Roxy Plan Fees

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey yesterday adjourned until Dec. 3 the hearing on 33 applications for fees totaling $612,000 for services in connection with the Roxy reorganization. Following a lengthy hearing on the applications, Judge Caffey set Nov. 26 for the determination of several questions raised in connection with the eligibility of several applicants for allowances. The date may be changed, however, early next week.

Joseph M. Hartfield objected to any allowance whatever being made to counsel for the Roxy stockholders' committee, on would not have due protection of the law. It was held also that the legislation is not in violation of the national or state constitutions, as alleged in Ascap's plea for the injunction.

In granting the injunction late last week, the three-judge court here held that "there is grave doubt of the constitutionality of the (state's) act and plaintiffs have shown that it would inflict serious injury." The injunction, in addition to preventing state officials from bringing legal action for enforcement, also enjoins them from requiring Ascap or its members to file copies of their copyrighted works with the Secretary of State of Nebraska, and from interfering with existing Ascap contracts in the state.

Foresees Trial on Injunction

The action of the Nebraska Attorney General was interpreted here yesterday by Schwartz & Frohlich, Ascap counsel, as an indication that the state officials were preparing to go to trial on the issue of making permanent the temporary injunction granted Ascap by the Federal Statutory Court at Lincoln last week.

They declared that the questions raised by the Attorney General would properly involve the question of whether or not the injunction already granted should be made permanent.

the grounds that stockholders were excluded from participation in the plan. He also objected to allowances for real estate experts retained by the committee, and for bondholders' committees other than the one represented by himself, unless such committees could prove that they had contributed to the plan.

Counsel for the stockholders' committee in replying to Hartfield, declared that their services had been conciliatory among creditor groups and that their statistical services were the only ones acceptable to the special master.

Special applications were made by George W. Garsson and Roemer-Kenny Co., real estate brokers, for $58,692, for services rendered in consummation of deals essential to the reorganization, and by Carl Erikson, who claimed a broker's fee of $50,952 on the grounds that he had been instrumental, through George Reade, in interesting 20th Century-Fox in the reorganization. The subsequent hearing will consider these claims.

Otto Koegle, attorney for 20th Century-Fox, reported to the court that the company's voluntary payments to stockholders of the old Roxy aggregated $20,000.

Justice Edgar J. Lauer refused to reverse his decision granting summary judgment to Ufa Films, Inc., against Joseph Briskman and the Lina Pictures Corp. in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday. George N. Burns won a dismissal of the $10,000 breach of contract suit brought by Sam H. Grisman against him, Jack Benny, Bert Wheeler, George Jessel, Robert Milford and the Glory For All, Ltd., in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday. Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo dismissed the complaint against Burns only, as the other defendants did not request similar release. Grisman asked $10,000 for an alleged breach of a lease on the 48th St. Theatre made by the Glory For All Ltd. on behalf of the individual defendants who were to produce a play at that theatre.

C. Collins, vice-president; E. S. Gregg, comptroller, and P. L. Palmerton, export manager, who returns to New York from a business trip to Australia, New Zealand and Japan on Dec. 8.

The deal for the purchasing of Erpi's servicing and installation business is scheduled to be closed shortly following the return of Drake from Europe on the Berengaria next Tuesday. The deal becomes effective Dec. 1. Financing of the purchase is being undertaken by a Wall Street group of four or five principals who, however, will have only a 49 per cent interest in the company, the control remaining with the management. It is also learned that none of the financing principals will be identified with the operation of the company.

The name of the new servicing organization cannot be announced at this time as its registration has to be approved in each of the various states in which the company does business, and several of these approvals are still being awaited.

Erpi Demonstrates Stereophonic Sound to localize sound on the screen, or, in other words, to cause the sound to come directly from its point of origin on the screen, instead of from the surface of the entire screen indiscriminately.

Yesterday's demonstration gives considerable promise for the new method as eventually a decided adjunct to present sound recording and reproducing technique. Admittedly the "stereophonic" method will reach its greatest potentiality when it can be combined with third dimensional pictures. A symphony orchestra, the play of ping-pong balls, a piano interlude and voices from a darkened screen were used in demonstration. The method is now being subjected to test and observation in Hollywood.

4.—The contract should set forth, both as to staff musicians hired on a weekly basis and as to other musicians hired by hour or by job; (a) rate of compensation, (b) number of hours per day and number of days per week, before overtime becomes effective; (c) rate of payment for overtime and precise conditions under which overtime becomes effective; (d) if the overtime rate for rehearsals is less than the regular overtime rate for performances, this should be stated; (e) if different compensation is to be paid for sustaining and commercial programs, this should be set forth; (f) a definite statement should appear in the agreement that during its entire period the local union will have no right to change the scale of wages, hours and other working conditions agreed upon [unless this is done the union will have the right to make such scale of wages, etc.]; (g) with respect to hiring musicians through a contractor or leader the terms relating to the hiring should be set forth clearly, so that if the leader or contractor is expected to serve as a musician that should be set out. The salary payable to the leader should also be defined; (h) include any working condition which is applicable to the local situation.

Must Define Non-Members

5.—Since Article 6 of Schedule A provides that all musicians hired shall be employed upon terms and conditions agreed upon between the station and the local, the attorneys advise that if the station owner is already privileged or wishes to be privileged to hire musicians who are not members of the local for any type of service, the classes of musicians so exempted should be clearly defined and the conditions under which such exempt classes may perform should be set forth clearly. Examples are virtuosi, amateurs, novelty acts, etc.

6.—Article 8 of Schedule A contemplates that the contract between the station and the local provides that the station, upon reasonable notice, shall have the right to terminate the employment of any staff musician. The attorneys advise that the period of such notice is open to negotiation and should be defined in the contract.

Ask Agreement Inviolate

7.—Stating that it is desirable for the protection of the station that definite provision be made with the local relating to the service of musicians in connection with remote programs, the attorneys advise that the station avoid, if possible, the inclusion, by reference thereto, of any other documents or papers which are not specifically called for by the provisions of Schedule A. If this is not possible, they advise that great care be exercised in not permitting any new papers or documents to become part of the agreement which may be inconsistent with the understanding.

Promote Swallow in Coast NBC Expansion

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 19.—The increase in the importance of Hollywood as a radio center has prompted Don E. Gilman, vice-president in charge of the western division of NBC, to plan increased executive staffs here. First move was the appointment today of John W. Swallow, NBC studio manager here, as western division program manager, with headquarters here.

Swallow, the first employe of the network in Hollywood, will spend considerable time traveling to key cities of the western division. He joined NBC in 1932 when he handled "Hollywood on the Air," first regular network program to originate in Hollywood.

Union Claims Eight Stations Are Signed

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 19.—Technicians of eight southwestern radio stations in Oklahoma and Texas have been signed 100 per cent as members of the American Radio Technicians' Ass'n, according to Joseph Harris, ARTA organizer in Oklahoma City.

Latest station to sign with the union is KBIX, Muskogee, Okla., including all technicians, announcers and continuity men, Harris said. Joel H. Bixby, station manager of KBIX, has informed Harris he is ready to negotiate with him. Union demands call for shorter hours and wage increases.

Harris has gone to Amarillo, Tex., to KGNC, where studio technicians had signed with the union, but where two men have been dismissed from the KGNC staff. Picketing action is to be taken in the KGNC case, Harris told MOTION PICTURE DAILY, and in the event that fails charges will be filed with the N. L. R. B.

The staffs of WBBZ, Ponca City; KVSO, Ardmore; KADA, Ada; KGFF, Shawnee; KOMA, Oklahoma City, and KFXR, Oklahoma City, have been signed, Harris claims.

VOL. 42. NO. 122 NEW YORK, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1937 TEN CENTS

See Warners' Year's Net at $5,900,000

Net earnings of Warners and its subsidiaries for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31 will approximate $5,900,000 after deductions for Federal income tax and all other charges including an undistributed profits surtax on the last quarter of the year, it was learned over the weekend. The figure is almost double the company's profits for the preceding year. The annual financial statement will be sent to stockholders Wednesday.

The operating profit for the year just ended is equivalent to about $1.60 on the common, after deducting the shares held in the treasury and after providing for dividends on the preferred stock. Dividends on the preferred stock have been in arrears since March, 1932.

Earnings for the year ended Aug. 29, 1936, totaled $3,177,312.73, which compared with an operating profit of $674,158.96 for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1935.

For the 26 weeks ended Feb. 27, 1937, operating profit was listed at $4,040,388.94, which compared to $1,976,245.42 for the same period the previous year. The earnings increased to $5,561,032.16 for 39 weeks as compared to $2,554,772.45 for the corresponding 1936 period. This did not include Federal surtaxes on undistributed earnings.

The 39-week operating report indicated earnings of $1.42 a share on 3,701,090 outstanding common shares, after preferred dividend requirements and after deducting shares held in the treasury.

On Dec. 13, stockholders will hold an annual meeting in Wilmington at which time six directors, Harry M., Jack L. and Albert Warner, Joseph Bernhard, Robert W. Perkins and Waddill Catchings are scheduled to be reelected. Officers will be elected the following day in New York. No changes in the executive setup are contemplated.

Pathe's Financial Report Ready Soon

Pathe's annual financial statement will be ready about the middle of next month, O. Henry Briggs, president, stated. Auditors are now working on the report.

John D. Wallace, coast head for Pathe Film, will leave this week for Hollywood. He has been here several weeks conferring with Briggs.

Laemmle May Join U.A. As Independent Producer

Hollywood, Nov. 21.—Reports are current again that Carl Laemmle, Jr., may join U. A. as an independent producer under the new setup of the company. Laemmle recently resigned from M-G-M without making a picture. He has several properties lined up and will probably produce them on the U. A. lot, in the event he makes a deal. Laemmle plans to leave for New York in a few weeks.

Alexander Korda, who has been here since Tuesday, is understood looking around for new producers to join the U. A. fold. David O. Selznick has two films still to deliver.

With the withdrawal of Selznick soon, the only outside producer distributing through U. A. will be Walter Wanger. Samuel Goldwyn will probably turn out eight for the company next season and Korda, six. Wanger will most likely have six.

Marcel Hellman, producer for Criterion Films in London, also is reported negotiating a deal for U. A. to handle about four pictures a year throughout the world. Hellman is expected to conclude his deal before he returns to England.

Meanwhile, Laemmle is reported talking to U. A. interests to produce four to six a year with an arrangement likely to be consummated as soon as Goldwyn and Korda pick up the options for U. A. stock held by Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford. Chaplin is planning to produce a picture, without appearing in it, and has the option to release through the company. This also applies to Fairbanks and Pickford although they have no immediate plans on production.

U. A. Cash Intake Is Up 131% in 11 Weeks

Cash intake by U. A. for the first 11 weeks of the new season increased 131 per cent as compared with the same period last year, according to George J. Schaefer, vice-president and general manager of distribution. Sales are 115 per cent above the same 11 weeks of the 1936-'37 season.

Doyle to Sail for U. S. on December 1

London, Nov. 21.—Stuart F. Doyle is scheduled to sail Dec. 1 on the Aquitania for New York. He will return to Sydney, Australia, via San Francisco, sailing from there on the Monterey, Jan. 5.

While in New York, Doyle will negotiate product deals and also work on a number of matters in connection with his radio interests.

Bunn in Dallas On Supply Move

Dallas, Nov. 21.—C. W. Bunn is visiting here for a few days on a tour of key cities, lining up independent theatre equipment dealers for Interstate Theatre Supply Stores, Inc. Bunn plans to stop at a number of other situations before returning to New York.

Interstate Theatre Supply Stores will become active after the first of the year and will be the only national competitive theatre equipment outfit to National Theatres Supply.

Italy Ban on French Picture Arouses Ire

Paris, Nov. 12.—Considerable resentment has been aroused in French newspapers over the banning by Italy of the French prize-winning film, "La Grande Illusion," which was awarded one of the leading prizes in the recent Venice Awards Festival by an international jury which included several Italians.

The film depicts the life of French officers as German prisoners during the war, and it is felt in many quarters that the ban on the film was at the instigation of Germany. In spite of what is generally considered a fair and impartial presentation of German officers and soldiers, Germany banned the film, because the director, Jean Renoir, is known for his extreme leftist tendencies, because a pleasant Jew is portrayed and because Erich von Stroheim plays a German officer. There is believed here to be nothing in the film which could possibly be objectionable to Italy.

U. A. Circuit Meeting In Baltimore Today

Stockholders of U. A. Theatres Circuit, Inc., will meet today in Baltimore to elect directors. No changes in the directorate or executive setup are anticipated. Auditors were making every effort over the weekend to have the annual financial report ready for the meeting. A delay may be expected because of the many associated companies which are required to submit their fiscal statements before the U. A. Theatres Circuit record can be computed.

Atlas Seeking To Buy Meehan K-A-O Shares

Has 42% of Outstanding Preferred Stock

Discussions, having as their aim the setting of a deal for the purchase by Atlas Corp. of M. J. Meehan's 42 per cent of the outstanding preferred stock of Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corp., have been begun and are continuing, Motion Picture Daily learned on Saturday.

The Meehan interest aggregates approximately 25,000 of the 64,000 preferred shares outstanding and is approximately double RKO's holdings of K-A-O preferred. The Meehan shares have a face value of about $3,400,000, inclusive of accrued, unpaid dividends and redemption premium. Their current market value is approximately $700,000 less. About 25 per cent of the preferred is in the hands of the public.

The proposed deal has not advanced beyond the discussion stage yet and, at the moment, there appears to be little that would indicate an early agreement. The present differential in bid and asked prices is too great at this time, it was indicated, to permit a forecast of when an understanding might be reached.

The discussions are significant, however, in that they point to a desire on the part of Atlas to bring control of the present highly profitable circuit completely within the RKO fold, obviously for the purpose of avoiding in the future such upheavals and internecine strife as marked K-A-O corporate affairs during the lean years of 1932 and 1933.

While RKO owns about 98 per cent of the 1,200,000 shares of K-A-O common stock outstanding, voting privileges in the theatre corporation were lost by those shares to the preferred stock when K-A-O failed to pay its annual dividend on the preferred in 1932 for the third successive year. As a result, the K-A-O board was reconstituted to include Meehan representatives and a "neutral" chairman—Herbert B. Swope, and RKO found itself without a majority on the board of its valuable theatre subsidiary, virtually all of the common stock of which it owned.

Indications now are, according to informed sources, that unless a "bargain" can be made with Meehan in the near future, no deal is likely for some time to come.

Largely for historical purposes, this photograph, made at the Variety Club banquet in Pittsburgh last Sunday, is reproduced. It represents Texas and the Bob O'Donnell influence. Italy Ban on French Picture Arouses Ire banned "The Life of Emile Zola" and "The Road Back," produced by Warners and Universal, respectively, the first because the Dreyfus Case, about which the Warner film revolved largely, has been in the past a source of trouble in France. No explanation has been given for the ban on the Universal film, and the censor board will view the film again.

Reduction in Scales Is Noted in Ontario

and is obviously due to keen competition through the opening of new theatres and otherwise.

The Regent in Ottawa, a Famous Players theatre, has just announced a reduction in its scale, top price being cut from 42 to 35 cents. Various suburban houses in Toronto have cut from 25 to 20 cents and some of them are tossing in gift nights, amateur contests, and the like on top of double bills in order to maintain attendance.

"Madame X" Is Approved

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—"Madame X" has finally been passed by the Ontario censor board with a number of deletions, and play dates have been arranged outside of Toronto.

Raise Buffalo Scales

BUFFALO, Nov. 21.—Vincent McFaul and Charles Heyman have increased prices five and 10 cents in the five first run theatres here. Neighborhood operators are watching developments with a view to tipping scales a nickel. Heyman operates the Lafayette and McFaul has the other four houses.

Hong Kong Takes Up Because of Refugees

Theatre business in Hong Kong is about 20 per cent above normal, Harold S. Dunn, Far Eastern general manager for Warners, stated yesterday. This is due to refugees flocking to the city from all parts of Southern China, he said. The four first runs in Shanghai are operating and all theatres in Hong Kong are open, he added. Theatres in Tientsin and Peiping also are operating.

During the entire conflict there has not been any interruption of business in Hankow, Dunn stated. Warners, which serve two of the four theatres in the city, shipped prints by plane with M. Porta, an Italian, paying the charges. The three suburban theatres in the French concessions and International Settlement of Shanghai have been operating without a letup, according to Dunn. Warners and Paramount were the only exchanges operating in Shanghai 100 per cent, it was said.

Warners have not lost a reel of film nor any money while the undeclared war was in progress.

In Japan, theatre business is operating 100 per cent although grosses in some of the cities dropped from 25 to 30 per cent. In the key cities, takes fell off about 10 per cent, Dunn asserted. Because of the ban on money going out of the country, remittances are being held up in Japan. The monetary situation is expected to be cleared up shortly.

Dunn will remain here for several weeks and then return to Shanghai where he makes his headquarters. This is his first visit in some time.

Hoyts Shows Best Year Since 1930

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY, Nov. 1. (By Air Mail via London).—The balance sheet issued by Hoyts Theatres, Ltd., for the year ended June 30 discloses the best results since 1930. After providing for all taxation and depreciation, etc., the company's surplus stands at £81,305, compared with £61,088 in the previous year.

Trading profit shows an increase of £20,217, or approximately 33½ per cent compared with 1935-36. Expenses and taxation show a reduction from £339,650 to £330,690. The sum of £46,500 was required for dividends of six per cent on "A" preference shares and five per cent on "B" preference shares.

The report states that the policy of expansion and consolidation of the company has been continued. New theatres were erected in Albury (N. S. W.), and in conjunction with affiliated companies in Hartwell (Victoria) and Goulburn (N. S. W.), all of which have shown satisfactory results. Since July 1, additional new theatres have been opened at Brunswick (Victoria), and Balmain (N. S. W.), and in each case gratifying results are being achieved, the directors report.

The directors have undertaken expensive modernizing schemes in conformity with their policy of keeping the theatres up-to-date. Much of this work has been completed, but there still remains a number of theatres where renovations are desirable. It is proposed to continue this work in the current financial year. A complete reconditioning and modernizing program is being carried out in the Olympic Theatre Circuit, Bondi (N. S. W.), in which the company is interested.

The company does not at present propose to fill the vacancy on the board created by the decision of Stanley S. Crick, chairman, to resign.

Oklahoma's Grosses Showing Marked Drop

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 21.—Gross receipts at the box-offices of theatres throughout the state have hit a slump, exhibitors report. With the special session of Congress in session and the Christmas season on the way, Oklahoma exhibitors do not look for an upturn in theatre receipts until after Jan. 1.

Oklahoma merchants and businessmen are evidently holding up purchases of goods and commitments due to uncertainty on Government policy. The bright spot for the future is the Grand River Dam project on which $20,000,000 will be spent in the northeastern section of the state, to start early next year.

Associates Hold Party

About 600 local exhibitors, exchange men and industry employes Saturday night attended the annual frolic of the M. P. Associates at the Astor. Numerous film, radio and stage stars appeared in person. Lew Lehr was master of ceremonies.

Ban "Tobacco Road"

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—"Tobacco Road" was banned from playing here on Saturday by order of Judge Borah. The road company of the play is in Dallas.

Short Subjects

"Tim Tyler's Luck"

(Universal)

Lyman Young's newspaper cartoon series has been transferred to the screen with all its imagination intact, plus a good amount of box-office appeal. The result, a serial, is reliable, exciting hokum that will please its audience and have it eagerly returning the following week. Colorful excitement is always ahead of any other dramatic incident and vivid movement is constant. The title role, played by Frankie Darro, is the sort of characterization that easily lends itself to facile selling.

The general drift of the story has young Darro invading the African jungle in search of his father, a scientist whose forte is apes. Al Shea plays Darro's parent. Another angle concerns Frances Robinson who is after a criminal named "Spider" Webb. The crook framed her brother in a diamond robbery and she is out for justice. These dual pursuits are aided by the Ivory Patrol, a sort of African mounted police. Jack Mulhall is the sergeant of a troop and spends much time in the saddle chasing renegades. A leopard, not too well sprinkled with a black dye, plays "Fang" a panther that Darro befriends and which becomes his protector, after a fashion. The narrative is unreeled with plenty of novel twists and adventures.

Each chapter runs approximately 21 minutes. "G."

"Ball Tossers"

(Rice-Paramount)

If there is a single spark of appreciation for a really fine sport film in the audience, the success of this short is assured. It concerns the finer points and finished technique of basketball. The famous Tulsa Stenos and Tulsa Oilers are featured. They go through their respective bags of tricks, which are enhanced by slow and stop motion and accompanying narration by Ted Husing. Many of the plays are real eye-openers in their execution. The clever angles of the game are explained simply and lightly. First-rate entertainment. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Fowl Play"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

Here is one of the most ingeniously clever Popeyes of the season. The throaty-voiced mariner presents Olive Oyl with a parrot that squawks his loving sentiments. Bluto comes on the scene and shows his annoyance by chasing the bird up a tree and chopping the tree down branch by branch. Popeye decides he should be stopped. They fight. The spinach makes its appearance and the whirlwind finish concludes. The incidental stuff is also good. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Oregon Theatre Burns

BAKER, Ore., Nov. 21.—Baker's historic four-story Clarick Theatre was destroyed by fire here at a loss of $100,000. The house was constructed in 1901 by the Baker City Opera House Co. For the past 10 years it has been operated as one of the city's leading film houses under the management of Myrtle Buckmiller.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Nothing Sacred"

(Selznick-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.—If there were a James Gordon Bennett Trophy for lighter-than-air films, as there is for balloons, David O. Selznick's colorful entry in this year's crowded race would be rated a favorite. This would be because it comes, although late, from a hangar devoted primarily to the manufacture of bombers, cruisers and heavier-than-air-craft generally, and bears in plain view the bench marks of workmen unaccustomed and unwilling to turn out a mere gasbag.

That it will go farther than most of its competitors, if not all, is as good a bet as a gambling man might reasonably expect to come upon in a field as speculative as the aeronautics of this unwieldly mataphor. "Nothing Sacred" engages special interest as the first important application of full color to frivolous material in feature length. Considered as a test of what may be awkwardly called the versatility of pigmentation, it seems to warrant placing of an "X" in the "Yes" column.

Several spectacular shots showing New York from the air and others elicited pure applause from a mixed preview audience. In these quiet stretches of an otherwise decidedly unquiet narrative, the color camera is frankly starred and gives an excellent account of itself. During the more actionful sequences, which is to say most of the time, coloration is as incidental as photography to comedy funny enough to engender laughter in volume frequently drowning out dialogue.

Carole Lombard, Fredric March, Charles Winninger and Walter Connolly are the principals in the play derived by Ben Hecht from a story by James H. Street, the gist of which is a demonstration that nothing is sacred to a circulation-minded newspaper, including death by radium poisoning. Hecht is notoriously at home in this type of thing, as witness his and Charles MacArthur's verdant "Front Page," but his penchant for the bawdy has been happily restrained this time without sacrifice of his pungency. His undercover thrusts, such as naming a pair of circulation sluggers, Max and Moe, are not of a kind to impede the layman's comprehension of such forthright slapstick as the widely publicized fight sequence in which March boots Miss Lombard in the classically appointed place and socks her on the button. Perhaps raffish is the word for the whole affair.

William A. Wellman's direction of the feverish and practically flawless delineation of New York City, in its mad, mawkish and occasionally maudlin adulation of a fake public idol, is a superb handling of slippery situations and caricatured characterizations. Early scenes in bluntly spoofed Vermont and a subsequent sequence showing what goes on in the thinly disguised French Casino, with glib Frank Fay as "em cee," stand out as especially precious passages in a film that ought to click from Times Square to Van Buren, Ark.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Under Suspicion"

(Larry Darmour-Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.—Ignoring romance as an important adjunct and concentrating on melodrama, in which has been inserted a slight comedy relief, "Under Suspicion" measures up as an acceptable average attraction. Basing its plot on a unique situation and developing it in a refreshing manner, the film balances dialogue and action and moves at the pace expected of semi-mysteries.

Jack Holt, the central character, who is on the screen about 90 per cent of the time, repeats his standard performance and is given effective support by Granville Bates, Luis Alberni, Morgan Wallace, Kathryn De Mille, Purnell Pratt, Craig Reynolds, Esther Muir, Rosalind Keith and Margaret Irving. Based on a non-formula story by Philip Wylie, the screenplay by Joseph Hoffman and Jefferson Parker is a workmanlike writing job and Lewis D. Collins' direction gives hokum a place with realism.

Holt, a motor magnate, wants to quit business. Several forces desire that he continue active. To influence him to do so, various attempts are made on his life. A detective is unable to solve the mystery of who wishes to kill Holt, and invites all suspects to a mountain lodge. There he sets out to discover the would-be killer. A couple of side issue murders are inserted to intensify the dramatic content, and Holt puts himself on the spot several times before he traps the potential murderer.

A little different from the usual Holt material in the beginning, the film moves outdoors before the half-way mark and in these sequences James S. Brown's photography accentuates dramatic content. The Holt clientele should find the show interesting.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Asks Quiz on Radio Suit

April Prod., Inc., will ask Justice Aaron Steuer in the N. Y. Supreme Court today for an examination before trial of Louis Dreyfus, an officer of Harms, Inc., defendant in a suit to determine the ownership of the radio rights of "The Student Prince." Harms will ask for an examination of Milton R. Weinberger, president of the plaintiff firm. April Prod., the assignee of Shubert Theatres Corp., claims that a 1924 contract giving the rights to the songs from the operetta to Harms did not include broadcasting privileges. Harms, however, arranged with ASCAP for the broadcasting of the songs and received more than $100,000, it is alleged. Harms denies any agreement with ASCAP, but claims that the contract released the radio rights. April is suing for $100,000 damages and a permanent injunction.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.—Another film gossip columnist has gone on the air. KMTR has signed Michael Blair to present "Are You Listening?" Monday nights.

Canada Restricts Sunday Ads, Religious Air Talks

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. has taken definite action with respect to two classes of programs in suspending the broadcasts of certain religious leaders and in banning commercial advertising on Sunday hours, the latter step having been taken at the request of the Lord's Day Alliance, representatives of which conferred with the Board of Governors on the subject.

The religious issue came to a head when the Canadian chain suspended Rev. Morris Zeidman of Toronto, representing the Protestant Radio League, which move was followed by the withdrawal from the air of Father Lanphier, representing the Catholics.

Under the new policy affecting Sunday programs, no commercial advertising is permitted in Canada with the bare exception that the name only of the sponsor can be mentioned at the opening and close of a broadcast. There is also a ban on the play-by-play broadcasts of any sport event on Sunday, even though the athletic contest is being held in the United States or other countries. The results of Sunday competitions may be announced in regular newscasts on Sunday night but descriptive material is frowned upon.

Rosenbaum Renamed To Pa. Banking Unit

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Samuel R. Rosenbaum, president of WFIL, here, was reappointed today to another term on the Pennsylvania State Banking Board by Gov. George H. Earle. Rosenbaum was first named to the banking post in 1935. Besides his many business connections, he is one of the city's foremost patrons of arts, being an ardent musician and vice-president of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

From Me to You

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 21.—Charles Crutchfield, WBT program director, has received mail addressed to Crutchhopper, Baiarfield, HopCrutch, Fieldhopper, Crutchbriar, ad infinitum. But he got one this week that he admits takes the cake. He got one addressed "Miss 'Chuckie' Crutchfield."

It seems that Crutch dictated a letter to a new stenographer for Merle Jones, radio sales representative for WBT in Chicago. Kelly Smith is head of Radio Sales. So, the stenog sent the letter to "Miss Merle Smith, Chicago."

This week Crutchfield got the letter back with the following message: "Dear Miss Crutchfield: Thay it ithunt tho! (Signed) Jones and Smith."

"School of Air" Gets UnderWayTomorrow

Starting tomorrow, the New York City school system will inaugurate a "school of the air" over the municipal station WNYC. The weekly broadcasts will be on various cultural, social and academic subjects.

The broadcasts will originate from studios in Brooklyn Technical High School on wave-lengths linked to WNYC. At present the broadcasts will be on junior and senior high school level; a later expansion will include broadcasts for parents and for elementary school children.

The plan will mark the first time that radio has been taken in as an official part of local school system. Attending the public schools here are 1,145,000 pupils.

Moore Quits WFIL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—Donald Withycomb, WFIL general manager, has announced acceptance of the resignation of Gerald ("Jerry") Moore, director of sales promotion at the station. The resignation is effective immediately and Moore will join the recently formed Continental News Service doing sales and promotional work. No successor has been named.

New Shows on the Air

"Editorial Slant on the News"

Among the new news commentators and editorialists to come before the microphone this season, George H. Combs, Jr., former Congressman from Kansas City, Mo., shows the most promise. His "Editorial Slant on the News" is a new WHN and WLW Line sustaining feature.

Belying his Congressional background, Combs doesn't engage in stuffy, oratorical talk for talk's sake. A first-rate writer and a speech stylist, he offers at the beginning a digest of the headline news of the moment then editorializes on the flash lines. His comments are penetrating and to the point and reveal a well-grounded knowledge of national and international affairs. He is particularly enjoyable when he comments on the life in official Washington, a subject with which he is most intimate.

"Editorial Slant on the News" is offered three times weekly, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 7 to 7:15 P.M. BANNER

Announcer Guild and WPEN Sign Contract

For the past year, Forbes has been a member of the KNX and CBS Los Angeles sales staff. His sales activities will be concentrated on coast-to-coast CBS accounts, Columbia Pacific network and Columbia California network business.

Deny CIO Official Tulsa Station Time

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 21.—Despite threatened legal action, Dave Fowler of Muskogee, Okla., regional director of the C. I. O., was denied the use of Station KVOO here last Sunday, for a half-hour morning broadcast previously scheduled for 9 A. M.

Fowler appeared at the station with his attorney to demand the right to use the time he had engaged, according to KVOO employes, but was barred from the studio.

The C. I. O. director threatened to bring suit against the station to recover money spent for advertising and other outlays in connection with the broadcast. He also threatened to bring the matter before the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee of Congress to have the station's license revoked.

"We don't want to try this case through the newspapers," William B. Way, KVOO station manager, explained. "It is just another of the many programs we are forced to cancel because they are not of general public interest."

Hold Para. Chart Part of Contract

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—The catalog Paramount issued outlining features planned for 1936-'37 should be considered as identifying subject matter of its exhibitor contracts, a brief filed in U. S. District Court here by the Gary Theatre Co., asserts.

The brief is the final document filed in the company's action for a mandatory injunction to compel Paramount to deliver 10 features allegedly contracted for but not delivered. Affidavits and briefs filed by both sides will be studied by Judge Robert C. Baltzell, who called for them in place of oral testimony.

In its brief, Paramount held that the catalog and representations by its salesmen should not be considered binding on them. "Unless the catalog be given effectiveness as identifying the subject matter of the contract, no one can say what, if anything, was covered by the contract," the plaintiffs set forth.

"To say that plaintiffs and other exhibitors in the United States, after

"Firefly," "Awful Truth" Top Major Cities' Takes

"The Firefly," "The Awful Truth," "Conquest," "Ali Baba Goes to Town" and "Alcatraz Island" were outstanding at the box-offices of the nation last week. The first mentioned film in four situations did between $1,000 and $3,500 over average. At the RKO Shubert in Cincinnati the Jeanette MacDonald operetta held to the $12,000 house par.

"The Awful Truth" continued on the profit side in San Francisco where, dualled with "The Man Who Cried Wolf," at the Orpheum, it garnered $11,300, over the line by $3,000. The comedy went over by $300 at the Warner Lake in Cleveland, taking $3,000. In Cincinnati it took $19,500, which is $9,500 over average. In Omaha and Washington it also went over average.

"The Firefly" was good in Oklahoma City, where it grossed $5,600, which is $1,000 over average. In Minneapolis the film did $12,000, or $2,000 over par. It also did well at the Paramount in St. Paul. Philadelphia and Seattle takes on the film were $17,500 and $8,750 respectively, going over the line by $3,500 and $1,750.

"Conquest" went under par at the Midland in Kansas City but in Milwaukee, at the Wisconsin, double billed with "Hot Water" it attracted $9,000, over by $1,000. At the Pittsburgh Penn $12,750 was grossed, ex-

Sues Col., Charging Patent Infringement

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Annie R. Owen, of Washington, describing herself as the widow of William O. Owen, inventor, today filed suit against Columbia Pictures Corp., Harry Cohn, Frank Capra and Viola Lawrence, charging infringement of patents willed to her by her late husband and which govern mechanisms for insets, fadeouts and dissolves.

She asked the court to enjoin the defendants from using the patented devices and copies thereof, and to award her damages after an accounting of the profits of eight pictures in which, she alleges, the devices were used. The films are "Lost Horizon," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "The King Steps Out," "Love Me Forever," "Unknown Woman," "The Black Room," "Atlantic Adventure" and "After the Dance."

Springer, Soteros Cocalis, the Van Dyke Amusement Co., Inc., and the Trio-Manhattan Corp. for alleged unauthorized exhibition of pictures owned by the plaintiff was postponed to Wednesday by Federal Judge Robert T. Patterson in the U. S. District Court yesterday. Postponement was asked on the ground that settlement out of court was being arranged.

The defendants denied the alleged conspiracy to violate the anti-trust laws and asserted that Pacent had infringed on patents owned by them and should account for the profits. They also stated that the action was barred by the six-year statute of limitations. A dismissal of the complaint with costs was asked.

"Ali Baba Goes to Town" did just that in Detroit at the Fox. It was aided by a stage show. The take—$23,500—was over by $3,500. At the Alvin, Pittsburgh, the Cantor film went $3,500 over average, taking $10,000. In Denver, with a stage band assisting, it took in $10,500, over by $2,000.

"Alcatraz Island" was good in New Haven, where, at the Roger Sherman, it took $6,000, which is above normal by $2,600. In the college town, "Double Wedding" and "Counsel for Crime" did not create any undue excitement. On a double bill they broke even. "Alcatraz" and "Adventurous Blonde" attracted San Franciscans to lift the Fox gross by $400 over par. "Ebb Tide" and "Expensive Husbands" at the Warfield in the coast city boosted the take up to $17,000, over by $4,000. A road show of "The Hurricane" at the Geary in the same city blew in $12,000, exceeding average by $2,000.

"Danger, Men at Work" in Minneapolis with a stage show at the Orpheum rolled up $14,000, more than double the $6,000 average. "Madame X" at the Century and "The Life of Emile Zola" at the Orpheum in St. Paul did $5,000 each, which is over par by $1,000 in each case.

"Double Wedding" in Cleveland, at Loew's State, garnered $20,000, which is substantially over the line. "Back in Circulation," at the Michigan in Detroit, aided by a stage show, did $23,000, over by $3,000. "Music for Madame" stood out in Philadelphia. "Merry-Go-Round of 1938" was good in Pittsburgh. "Bad Guy" was strong in Chicago at the State-Lake where it reaped $17,300, up by $4,300.

studying catalogs and deciding upon what product to exhibit and after extensive negotiations entering into a complicated written contract have done nothing more than to give the producers the option if they see fit to sell these exhibitors pictures is to do violence to all reason. Paramount's own contract 'guarantees' these pictures."

Vigorously rebutting each point in Paramount's closing brief, filed here, Nov. 15, the exhibitor scores the producer for "interminable cutting and editing" of the pictures in question.

"Paramount, like any other producer who desires to withhold pictures, can continue its cutting and editing activities indefinitely, and apparently that is here the case.

"Paramount admittedly intended to give us these pictures by a certain date. If plaintiffs are willing to accept them at a later date, Paramount can not take advantage of its own delay and refuse delivery."

The exhibitor denies seeking from Jules J. Rubens, head of Great States Theatres, release of rights in RKO pictures in exchange for Paramount rights, which was charged by the defendant.

the others may eventuate. Until contracts are signed, it would obviously be ridiculous to talk about any one deal that at the moment is a stronger likelihood than others."

His final two for United Artists are set. These will be "Merry, Merry Maidens" and an untitled Janet Gaynor vehicle.

Those close to David O. Selznick yesterday admitted in New York that announcement of his return to M-G-M will be made in a few days.

To Make Plans For Appeal of Dallas Ruling also may participate in the conferences on the appeal.

The defendants have until Dec. 13 to file their appeal, which goes directly to the Supreme Court because the Dallas case was instituted by the Government. Present expectations are that the appeal will be ready in advance of that date and will make it possible for a hearing to be set for some time in late January or in February.

The conference here is expected to decide definitely whether or not the defendants will request a writ of supersedeas to suspend enforcement of Judge W. H. Atwell's Dallas Federal Court decree pending the determination of the appeal. It has not been decided definitely yet whether the defendants will seek such a writ.

DAY AND DATE OPENINGS.... THANKSGIVING WEEK THROUGH-OUT THE NATION

"Music," Show Phila. Leader With $21,000

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—In its first roadshow week at the Locust, "The Hurricane" blew a neat, but not gaudy, $10,500 into the box-office. The take is fair, but not sensational and the run looks like four weeks.

Again the Earle led the town, grossing $21,000 with "Music for Madame" and a stage show, over par by $7,000. The city has been on a stage show rampage for weeks and this house, the only central city spot with shows, has been doing well.

"The Firefly" got a fair $17,500 for its opening week at the Stanley and will go for a second. The rest of the town was below par with "Great Garrick" and "Merry-Go-Round" not living up to expectations.

Total first run business was $93,200. Average, exclusive of average for the Locust where "The Hurricane" is roadshowing, is $81,960.

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22. — With M-G-M tying up JAMES STEWART for a new long-term period, it is probable that STEWART may not finish his one picture loanout to RKO, "Vivacious Lady," shooting on which was cancelled last spring because of his serious illness. GINGER ROGERS is starred in the film, which was in work for about two weeks before being postponed. With STEWART recovered, he has been constantly at work at M-G-M, and his commitments may prevent him from finishing the Rogers vehicle. RKO has a battery of writers giving the script of "Vivacious Lady" a working over. . . The same studio is negotiating with DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., to have him play opposite IRENE DUNNE in "The Joy of Loving."

PETE SMITH'S second Prudence Penny short at M-G-M will be done in color. . . RKO's "Women Have a Way" has resumed shooting, after an 11-day layoff due to MIRIAM HOPKINS' illness. . . C. B. DE MILLE'S next picture for Paramount will be based on the development and growth of the Hudson's Bay Co. . . CHARLES GRAPEWIN, veteran character actor, will retire shortly to devote his time to writing books. . . Sharing credit with CRANE WILBUR for the adaptation of "Penrod's Double Trouble" at Warners is ERNEST BOOTH, recently released from Folsom Prison on parole after serving 14 years for bank robbery. . . DOROTHY MCNULTY is changing her professional name to "Penny Singleton." . . The CAREY WILSON short at M-G-M to be directed by FELIX FEIST, "I Don't Know—Do You?" deals with the question of messages from the dead.

Reorganization Plea Filed by Ambassador

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—Ambassador Pictures, Inc., and its subsidiary, Conn Prod., Inc., today filed a petition for reorganization under Section 77 B of the Bankruptcy Act in U. S. District Court. Assets were listed at $450,000 and liabilities at $230,000.

The petition was filed by Naomi Conn, secretary, who said there were 150,000 shares of common stock of $1 par value outstanding. Listed among the debts was $71,155 due to Marks & Malcolm Trading Corp., and Mercury Film Laboratories, New York, to which the negatives of 22 pictures were pledged. Seek to Defer Date Of S.E.C. Statement

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—International Cinema, Inc., today asked the S. E. C. to defer the effective date of its registration statement, originally filed Sept. 17. The statement covers a proposed issue of 50,000 shares of class "A" common and 100,000 shares of common stock; part of an authorized issue of 200,000 shares of class "A" and 1,000,000 shares of common.

The proposed issue would raise $200,000, of which $50,000 would be spent for new equipment, $100,000 for reduction of indebtedness and $50,000 for working capital.

Monogram Will Make 48 Films Next Year

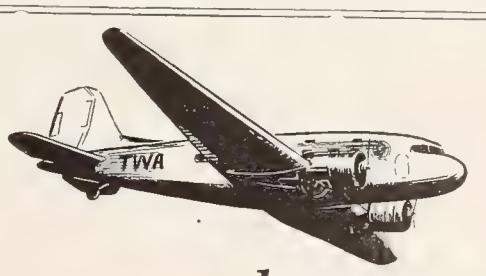
Scott Dunlap, production chief—more than half of the 42 features on this season's schedule have been completed—Johnston said that Monogram's exchange system will be able to handle the greater number of films next year because the liquidation of the old independent product on hand before the new Monogram started will be completed this season.

Johnston will be here for about a week, before returning to New York.

No definite commitments for the 1938-'39 product have been made, he said, but much of the story material will be by name authors.



English Exhibitors Hit Separate Quota

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Exhibitors are launching a vigorous attack against the inclusion in the Films Bill, now under consideration, of a provision for separate quotas. The protest is taking the form of the circularizing of all members of the Films Act Committee of the House of Commons, which is now studying the bill.

It is understood the Government is also opposed to such a provision, and diplomatically is advising that it would welcome the backing of the exhibitors in opposition to the proposal.

A revision of the short subject quota is forecast in informed circles, as well as an amendment from Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, approving booking combines. The committee will reconvene tomorrow to discuss reciprocity clauses.

Develops Heater for Shooting in Winter

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22.—Ed Tiffany, head of Grand National's camera department, has invented an automatic heater for use in any type of film camera, to enable shooting in freezing and zero weather. The heater is built in the camera under the motor with an automatic cut-off switch and will keep the temperature at the camera between 85 and 90 degrees at all times.

The new device was tried out first by Harry Sherman with his "The Barrier" unit on location near the Canadian border. Grand National will use the new device for all of its pictures filmed during cold weather and taken on location. The first unit to use the Tiffany invention for Grand National will be Al Herman's "Renfrew Rides Again," which is scheduled to go on location in the snow country near Truckee.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Danger Patrol"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 22.—Stark horror pervades the story of "Danger Patrol," which delves into a little known, highly dangerous occupation for possibly the first time on the screen. "Soup handling" means the carting and use of nitro-glycerine. The locale of the Helen Vreeland-Hilda Vincent story adapted by Sy Bartlett is in a Texas oil town where the explosive is used to blow in wells to start production and to snuff out oil well fires.

The undercurrent and dominating factor in the lives of the workers is the danger of a premature explosion or an attack of "nitro fever," the vernacular for insanity, mild or otherwise, caused by the constant pressure of fear, skillfully delineated under the direction of Lew Landers. For cast names the Maurice Cohen production offers Sally Eilers, John Beal and Harry Carey.

Beal, having failed at other jobs, finds work driving a nitro truck, and is trained in the work by Carey, whose daughter, Miss Eilers, falls in love with the newcomer. The young couple splits when Beal refuses to quit his job before he has saved enough money to get away. Miss Eilers agrees to marry his rival, and Beal, disheartened, is about to fly with a load of explosives to put out an oil well fire in Mexico. Carey knocks him out, and before the plane crashes in the fog, the couple hears a radio conversation between Carey and the Mexican air field officials clearing up their misunderstanding.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"La Citadelle De Silence" ("The Citadel of Silence")

(Sedif)

PARIS, Nov. 15.—This melodrama, directed by Marcel L'Herbier, and starring Annabella, in her last film made in France before leaving for Hollywood, is, in parts, excellent, although action is inclined to be slow and, on the whole, just misses the mark.

Action is in Poland, under Russian domination. A young Polish girl, Viana, whose father is shot by the Russians, belongs to a group of conspirators, nearly all of them doctors at the hospital where she, herself, is a nurse. They decide to drop a bomb on the carriage of the governor of the the town on his wedding day. Viana performs the dangerous task, but her aim is faulty and she misses, instead wounding Count Stephan, who is in charge of the prison at Linsk, known as the "Citadel of Silence" because the prisoners are forbidden to speak.

On her return to the hospital Viana is called upon to tend the count, who falls in love with her. She escapes to Paris where she waits for the arrival of her fiance, Cesar, who is to join her. Stephan follows and they meet again. In the course of a conversation, he tells her that Cesar was arrested at the frontier and has been sent to the prison. Later he proposes and, realizing that it is her only chance of meeting and, perhaps, helping the man she loves, she becomes his wife and returns to the "Citadel of Silence" with him.

Through the intermediary of a Polish ex-prisoner and guard, she communicates with Cesar and plans an escape, but the plot is discovered by a spy. He is killed by Cesar and two other prisoners and they are condemned to death. In an attempt to save the man she loves, Viana confesses everything to her husband. He refuses to postpone the execution, but the prisoners mutiny and take the prison. However, their attempt to reach the outer door, and liberty, is stopped by the governor, who, although mortally wounded, threatens them with a machine gun Viana, hoping that her husband will not aim at her, runs to the door but his sense of duty is stronger than his love for her and she is riddled with bullets. She dies as the doors swing open before the prisoners. The film is long and at times, slow.

Annabella, in the opinion of many, is mis-cast as Viana and her acting is not up to the standard of her British film, "Wings of the Morning," in which she found a role to suit her particular personality. Pierre Renoir as Count Stephan is good, but the real acting honors go to Bernard Lancret as Cesar, and Larguev as the ex-prisoner. The film is having a good run in Paris as the stars are big box-office attractions. Hollywood producers might be interested for a re-make, using the original prison scenes.

Portugal Attendance Gains 74% Over 1936

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Tickets sold at 90 film theatres in Portugal during the first six months of 1937 totaled 6,966,105, a gain of 74 per cent over the total of 4,066,296 sold in 88 theatres in the corresponding period of 1936, according to a report from the office of the American Consul in Lisbon to the U. S. Dep't of Commerce here.

While the increase was due in some measure to improved economic conditions in the urban districts, it is believed that the gain must be attributed to principally the wide popularity of the Portuguese films, "Bocage" and "Revolucao de Maio," which were shown at all theatres and attracted large audiences.

reporter if it was true that Paramount had bought up her contract, Miss Dietrich, who was having dinner with Rouben Mamoulian in the Sortie Salon of the Normandie, turned to the director and asked:

"What does that mean? I do not understand what it means." It was explained and Miss Dietrich answered that the purpose of her trip is to make her last film under the Paramount pact. She will leave for Hollywood today. No plans have been set after she returns to Europe in May, Miss Dietrich said.

Mamoulian will remain in New York a week and then head for the RKO studios where he will direct one picture, tentatively entitled "Perfect Harmony." He bought two stories while touring England, France, Switzerland and Italy in the past three months. He returns to the Paramount lot after the RKO stint.

he said. He also completed four Technicolor shorts with the British Grenadier Band and while on the coast will confer with Fred C. Quimby for the production of 12 more.

While in England, Al Lichtman renewed FitzPatrick's contract to make a series of 12 Traveltalks for the seventh year. Since the first of the year, FitzPatrick has covered 60,000 miles. He has just completed an arrangement with the French and Egyptian Governments to make an expedition through Morocco, Tunis, Algiers and Egypt for a series of six shorts. He will make three to four also in the British Isles. The producer will sail for England in February.

Looking 'Em Over

"That's My Story"

(Universal)

LINCOLN, Nov. 22.—The only unusual quality about this story is the presence of a father and daughter in the cast, Ralph and Claudia Morgan. Otherwise, it trails in the deep-rutted path of most newspaper stories, is never even slightly convincing, and is dull.

In addition to introducing Miss Morgan, recruit from Broadway where she did last "Storm over Patsy," the yarn is an opener for William Lundigan, who should catch on with the girls.

Ralph Morgan is a city editor with a molasses mouth, but who fires men as easy as tossing scrap paper in the basket. One of the unbelievable things about the story is his office, which is done in the manner of a bank president, and no city editor ever had one like that. A sheriffing twosome is composed of Hobart Cavanaugh and Harlan Briggs, done in small town comedy style. The feminine menace is Bernadene Hayes, in jail for shooting a millionaire boy friend.

The narrative points out that Lundigan has been fired from every newspaper save the one edited by Morgan, and the latter gives him a chance if he turns up an interview with the girl, held incommunicado. After failing to get into the jail any other way, Lundigan gets himself arrested and is thrown in with Herbert Mundin, a psychopathic case. Mundin shows him a way to get out, but in hunting for Hayes' cell he gets in with Miss Morgan, also a reporter trying the same gag, and thinks she's the girl. The effect is goofy, causing Morgan to lose some editorial hair. Both get a freak break at the finish.

The story was originally "Scoop" by Van Terrys Perlman, from which Barry Trivers did the screenplay. Associate producer is Robert Presnell, with direction by Sidney Salkow.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

"The Old Wyoming Trail"

(Columbia)

A familiar plot, familiar lines and familiar unfoldment are to be seen in "The Old Wyoming Trail," but new twists in the action and the more or less different treatment of certain sequences give it reliable entertainment qualities.

Charles Starrett, probably the handsomest in the roster of western stars, with the aid of Donald Grayson, Barbara Weeks and an assorted and adequate supporting cast act that old favorite, the one where an unscrupulous land grabber is attempting to squeeze out a settlement of ranchers and sell their belongings at a slick profit to a railroad company. He has been doing this without interruption until Starrett comes on the scene, to his dismay. In good time and style, Starrett is aroused to do something about the state of affairs and, as the story comes to its climax, he gives the villains their just due. This aforementioned climax involves the exploding of about 500 cartridges and the performing of approximately 200 extras who lend plenty of thrills to the ensuing gun-battle. Starrett and Miss Weeks also properly do justice to the amorous fadeout.

Folmer Blangsted directed.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

World-Wide Release For Asher U. K. Film

Four of the pictures to be made in England will be released internationally, Irving Asher, Warners British production head, stated yesterday on his arrival from England with his wife, Laura La Plante. He will leave for Hollywood tomorrow, accompanied by Bruce Lister, James Stephanson and Chili Buchier. All three English players have been under contract and appear in Warner's English films regularly. While their trip to the coast is described as "a holiday" by Asher, they will make screen tests for Jack L. Warner and Hal Wallis. There is a possibility they may stay on the coast to appear in some American pictures.

Asher asserted that the new production program, while tentatively set at 16 in England, was not definitely decided and that was one of the reasons for his trip. Another will be to arrange schedules so that coast talent can be made available for British pictures. Lloyd Bacon will direct one in England and Leslie Howard may make one at Teddington provided the story is right.

Asher will return to England in five weeks. He said he was planning a better type of picture in England. One of the quartet of English films to be sent over will be "You Live and Learn" with Glenda Farrell. Aino Bergo, Swedish actress, has been signed by the company and will be on her way here soon. She has appeared in "Thistledown," first for Warners and after a second at the British studios will sail for this country.

Begin Code Work for Radio Set Industry

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The first formal steps toward development of a voluntary code of fair practices for the radio receiving set industry were taken today by the Federal Trade Commission with the publication of proposed rules and the calling of a public hearing thereon, to be held Dec. 7.

Primarily, the rules are concerned with the labeling and advertising of receiving sets, and would require all descriptions of such sets to show exactly what frequencies are covered.

In announcing the hearing, the commission pointed out that the receiving set manufacturing industry has a capitalization of about $50,000,000, gives employment to between 30,000 and 40,000 workers, and had a total production of more than 5,000,000 sets with an estimated retail value of over $200,000,000 in 1935, with production for 1936 substantially higher.

Wilcox Plans Three Each Year for RKO

Herbert Wilcox will make three pictures a year for 10 years for RKO world distribution, he declared last night prior to his sailing today on the Normandie. He will return to London with Anna Neagle, F. A. Young, his chief cameraman, and Merrill White, his chief film editor.

The producer plans to import into England as much Hollywood talent as he can arrange for. Miss Neagle will appear annually in two and her next will be a modern story. While in Hollywood, Wilcox arranged for studio space at London Films' plant at Denham, near London.

Alger Refutes Opposition to Plan for RKO

Final Report Filed with Federal Judge Bondy

Three petitions attacking the RKO plan of reorganization on the ground that it fails to make proper provision for holders of the old RKO Class A stock are held to be without legal merit by Special Master George W. Alger in his final report on the reorganization plan, which was filed with Federal Judge William Bondy in U. S. District court here yesterday.

The first hearing on the report is scheduled for today before Judge Bondy. As a result, indications are that the RKO reorganization has been materially advanced by the recent change of procedure dispensing with oral hearings before Alger on both his preliminary and final report.

The petitions in opposition to the plan on the grounds of its failure to provide special treatment for the old Class A stockholders were brought by Ernest W. Stirn of Milwaukee, holder of 1,234 shares of Class A; E. J. Hickey of Washington, D. C., and

Reciprocity In Film Bill Is Approved

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Despite the vigorous opposition of the labor interests, the reciprocity clause in the new Films Bill, as proposed by Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, was passed today by the Films Act Committee of the House of Commons, which is now considering the proposed legislation.

The clause provides that, subject to certain conditions, a distributor acquiring a film for distribution abroad costing a minimum of £20,000, may count the film for one under the quota.

Labor interests, in opposition,

Universal to Star Colman in Feature

Universal has completed arrangements by which Ronald Colman will be starred in one or more pictures for the company contingent upon a vehicle being found which is satisfactory to the actor. The search for a play or story suitable for Colman was stated by the company yesterday to be one of the reasons for the current visit here of Charles R. Rogers, Universal production head. Rogers will remain in New York until such a vehicle is selected, it was said.

U. A. Control British Until Loan Is Paid

Korda, Bankers Have 6 On 9-Man Board

LONDON, Nov. 23.—British interests will exercise a two-thirds directorial control of United Artists until the $4,500,000 loan being made to Samuel Goldwyn and Alexander Korda for the exercise of their options for the three-fifths of the United Artists stock outstanding has been repaid, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned here.

The British control will be through six representatives on a new United Artists board of directors of nine members. Three of the six British members of the board, however, will be Korda representatives. Of the remaining board members three will be representatives of the London financing companies and three will be Goldwyn representatives.

A voting trusteeship is to be created and Goldwyn and Korda will be the sole trustees. The board of directors, however, is empowered to veto or override financial and other specific-

Television Transmission on Coaxial Cable Demonstrated

By CHARLES A. AARONSON

Eliminating the technical discussion and explanation which accompanied yesterday's demonstration at the Bell Laboratories here of the use of the company's coaxial cable between New York and Philadelphia in television transmission, the result appeared to be to the non-technical observer that here is one possible solution to one of television's greatest problems, efficient transmission over a long distance.

were closed in France and Germany in the course of his trip.

The Erpi president indicated that he would remain in that post, together with other ranking Erpi executives, after Jan. 1, the date on which the company formally closes its theatre sound equipment activities. In response to a question, Drake said, "There has been no talk of any of us leaving, so far as I know." His statement verifies information obtained from Western Electric spokesmen by MOTION PICTURE DAILY during Drake's absence.

Erpi, also, will continue its recording licensing activities, its foreign recording and reproducing business and its licensing of manufacturers of theatre sound equipment. Headquarters will be maintained in New York. No changes are being made in the company's setup abroad, Drake said.

Drake said that he had been out of touch with his office here during his absence and was not familiar with the arrangements which have been completed for the sale on Dec. 1 of Erpi's servicing and installation business to a Wall St. group, with L. W. Conrow heading the new company.

Replying to a question, Drake said that Erpi would not make any additional investments in film company securities at this time.

Ask Gary Co. Briefs

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—After hearing oral arguments today on the petition of a group of major producers to dismiss the suit of Gary Theatre Co. to enjoin clearances imposed against its Gary houses on behalf of Balaban & Katz of Chicago, Judge Robert C. Baltzell of U. S. District Court gave the Gary company five days to present analysis of allegations in the complaint.

Texas Owners Hit Clearance Methods

DALLAS, Nov. 23.—A resolution objecting to the clearance system being determined by one of the interested parties without consideration of the others involved was adopted here tonight by the Allied Theatre Owners Ass'n of Texas.

The organization expressed complete disagreement with Judge W. H. Atwell's decision in the Interstate case as against a protection system that granted one town protection over another as a discrimination against the small town exhibitor.

H. A. Cole, re-elected president of the organization, led a round table discussion, touching on the Independents' problem as to the public, taxes, Federal regulation, theatre circuits, product, protection, film buying and booking.

The recent development in Federal Court here in the Interstate trial case was discussed exhaustively.

Report Miss Sillcox Quits Author League

Luise Sillcox, executive secretary of the Authors' League for many years, tendered her resignation to the council of the league at its meeting yesterday, it was reported in theatrical circles. Neither Miss Sillcox nor officials of the Authors' League could be reached for comment after the meeting.

It is understood that Miss Sillcox will retain her paid executive posts with the Dramatists' Guild, Authors' Guild and Radio Writers' Guild, but will relinquish her post as treasurer of the Screen Writers' Guild. The four guilds are members of the Authors' League.

Reports that Miss Sillcox's action was impelled by current wrangling between the Screen Writers' Guild and its parent organization over the former's autonomy demands, designed to free the Hollywood organization of "New York domination," could not be verified in the absence of official comment.

Denies Writ Halting New Cocalis Theatre

Supreme Court Justice Bergen of Catskill, N. Y., yesterday denied Grossman & Frieder a temporary injunction restraining Sam D. Cocalis from building a new theatre at Hudson, N. Y., at the same time holding the case for trial. No trial date has been set.

Sol Goodman, attorney for Grossman & Frieder, argued that Cocalis had made an agreement to stay out of Hudson and the building of a new theatre was a breach of the pact. Watson & Looby, Albany counsel for Cocalis, contended that Grossman & Frieder violated the agreement by making a partnership arrangement with Walter Reade.

Meanwhile, Cocalis is going ahead with his theatre until the court rules otherwise.

Levy Completes Four Deals with Circuits

Jules Levy, general sales manager for RKO, has completed negotiations with the Minnesota Amusement Co., the Harry David Publix circuit, B. & K. and the Interstate circuit of Texas on product deals. He consummated the deals while on his recent trip to the coast. In addition he held regional sales meetings in San Francisco and Chicago.

Starting with Thanksgiving Week, RKO will have seven features available in addition to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The group includes "Bringing Up Baby," "Joy of Living," "Radio City Revels," "Vivacious Lady," "Having a Wonderful Time," "A Damsel in Distress" and "Victoria the Great."

Iva MacPherson and an associated group of Boston shareholders. The petitioners did not surrender their Class A stock in exchange for common following the financial reorganization of RKO in 1931 and, now, contending that the Class A has a preferential position over the present RKO common, ask that special provision be made for it in the reorganization.

In his report, Alger finds that Stirn, while not being guilty of undue delay in making his claims in behalf of the Class A stock, had advanced "purely technical and insubstantial" considerations and was not entitled to any relief. Alger's report also rejects Stirn's contention that the stock transfer was illegal. Hickey's claims in respect to the Class A stock were substantially the same as Stirn's but are dismissed by Alger's report on the ground that Hickey was negligent in not advancing his claims against the 1931 reorganization earlier.

Unconstitutionality Dismissed

Hickey's contention that Section 77-B of the Bankruptcy Laws, under which RKO is being reorganized, is unconstitutional, is dismissed by Alger as "not deserving discussion."

The MacPherson petition attacks the 1931 financial reorganization itself, alleging that it constituted an "illegal transfer" of stock which was dictated by RCA by virtue of its "domination" of RKO. Alger's report finds the charges "wholly without merit" and states that "no proof is advanced."

Alger's report differs but little from his tentative report presented to reorganization attorneys on Nov. 6. As reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY earlier, his report approves the reorganization plan in all of its basic principles and gives the $9,150,000 Rockefeller Center claim against RKO a value of $4,930,000 to $5,150,000 on the basis of his own computations of the market value of the 460,000 shares of new RKO common which he recommends should be paid for the claim, instead of the 500,000 shares proposed in the plan.

Change Sinking Fund Provision

A major change from his tentative report is made by Alger, however, in recommending that RKO, at its option, be permitted to relax the plan's provisions for a three-year sinking fund for retirement of debentures and apply such funds to other purposes. Alger's tentative report recommended that no dividends be paid on the company's new common until the three-year sinking fund provisions for the debentures had been fully met. The tentative proposal drew vigorous objections from reorganization principals who viewed it as subjecting the company to liability for huge Federal undistributed profits taxes in the future. In consequence, that recommendation is eliminated by Alger.

Alger finds that, with the modifications he suggests, the RKO reorganization plan is "fair and equitable and feasible, and does not unduly discriminate against any creditors or stockholders."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Thank You, Mr. Moto"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—It is not likely that "Mr. Moto" will ever threaten the grip which "Charlie Chan" holds on theatregoers. But where there is no tendency to compare the competing series, "Thank You, Mr. Moto" should be received as acceptable average entertainment. Based on a story by John P. Marquand, the screenplay by Willis Cooper and Norman Foster is soundly constructed. It balances dialogue, action and situations and creates strong characters which permit the individuals interpolating them to appear to good advantage. Foster's direction blends realism with hokum in a manner which accentuates the melodramatic, romantic, mystery, comedy and suspenseful elements.

The plot revolves about a set of ancient Chinese scrolls. A Chinese family, Pauline Frederick and Philip Ahn, hold six. Peter Lorre has found the seventh. Pieced together, they are supposed to hold the secret to Ghengis Kahn's buried treasure. A gang, headed by Sidney Blackmer, tries to gain possession of the set. But as romance which concerns Thomas Beck and Jayne Regan is introduced, Blackmer fails to count upon Lorre. Theatrical melodrama predominates the action, which develops quite a bit of torture and four or five killings before Blackmer is outwitted and Lorre burns the scrolls.

Lorre is improving his "Mr. Moto" characterization and the work of Blackmer, Miss Frederick, Ahn, Sig Rumann, John Carradine, Beck, Miss Regan, William Von Bricken and John Bleifer is convincing. Besides names, several good exploitation angles are to be found in screenplay and production detail. "Thank You, Mr. Moto" should satisfy as a sustaining attraction.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Harlem On The Prairie"

(Associated Features)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—"Harlem on the Prairie" is a standard modern musical western in story idea and production technique. Its ingredients are romance, drama, comedy, music, theatrical villainy and heroism. Down to the expected chase, everything needed has been included.

Its principal difference—an idea that sets it apart from all other westerns and makes of it a feature that has considerable exploitation value—is that it is played by an all-Negro cast. Thus it can be advertised legitimately as "something different." It may be anticipated that houses which cater exclusively to Negroes should find it a banner attraction. Yet on its entertainment merits alone, it might prove a novel attraction in other theatres. The audience which saw its preview in the Meralta Theatre, Culver City, and in which youngsters predominated, did as much cheering as such audiences usually do in the case of regulation westerns.

The plot centers around an old-time medicine show performer and his daughter who return to a locale where, years ago, as a member of an outlaw gang, he participated in a gold robbery and hid the loot. Tracked by rivals, he is killed, but before he dies he entrusts the young hero with the secret of the cache and instructions to return it to its rightful owners. Music and comedy punctuate the shooting and riding melodrama and the hero keeps his promise and, of course, marries the girl.

Other than in Negro houses, names are practically meaningless, but in addition to the novelty there is plenty to talk about in ways that might insure interest. As produced by Jed Buell and directed by Sam Newfield, the show is likely to engender favorable comment.

Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

"The Shadow"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—"The Shadow," a murder mystery, should go well in the neighborhoods or in those houses whose patrons are keyed to murder melodramas.

Against a background of circus life, several murders are committed. Charles Quigley, as the young press agent, solves the mystery, and saves the show for Rita Hayworth, the owner. This Wallace MacDonald production directed by C. C. Coleman, Jr., in the formula manner, has a list of possible culprits among the cast, but at the showdown, everyone is eliminated but the actual murderess, who is exposed as a half of the fake "Siamese Twins," who up to this point, had not been drawn into the main thread of the story.

Arthur T. Horman adapted the Milton Raison story.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

claimed that the United States interests are not interested in the distribution of British films, but Stanley, in his reply, held that the clause will induce American collaboration.

The committee agreed to the postponement of discussion of other clauses pending the examination by Stanley of the Film Council plan. In introducing the clause, Stanley claimed complete trade support for it.

The committee will reassemble on Thursday. The producers' group is split on the separate quota issue, John Maxwell, the Ostrers and C. M. Wolf walking out of yesterday's meeting after failing to obtain support for a resolution to abandon the proposal.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—"Danger, Love at Work," with a stage show, topped the Twin City grosses. The take at the Minneapolis Orpheum was $14,000, against the average $6,000. A price rise helped.

Other winners included "Madame X" at the Century which topped the normal $1,000 and "The Life of Emile Zola" at the St. Paul Orpheum which was $1,000 over the usual $4,000.

Playing both cities, the stage show, "The Doll House" hurt grosses.

Pantages Film Chat Is Pulled from Air

Lloyd Pantages' film gossip program for Raymonds, Inc., on CBS, will be removed from the network Nov. 21. The program was started Oct. 17, which makes Pantages' stay one of the shortest in network history. Only in extremely rare instances is a program removed from the networks before the original 13-week contract obligation is fulfilled.

The assumption in radio circles yesterday was that the program was canceled because of the recent furore against screen gossipers on the air. W. C. Gittenger, CBS sales manager, however, denied this to MOTION PICTURE DAILY. He said the cancellation was due to trouble between the client and the agency, which is the Weinberg Advertising Co., of California. CBS states it canceled the program at the request of the agency.

M-G-M, Coffee Show To Jessel, Gardner

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—Drastic revisions have been made in the Maxwell House Coffee program of M-G-M scheduled for Thursday night. Under a new production regime headed jointly by George Jessel and Ed Gardner—replacing Bill Bacher—the program will mark the debut of Frank Whitbeck, studio advertising head, who will act as M-G-M news reporter, giving items of interest and announcements concerning forthcoming product. This will be a regular feature.

Rosalind Russell and James Stewart will appear Thursday in an original sketch, Fanny Brice will do a comedy routine and Betty Jaynes and Douglas MacPhail will be heard in music from "The Firefly."

Ask F.C.C. Approval of Detroit Station

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Authority to construct a new broadcasting station at Detroit, to operate on 1,010 kilocycles with 250 watts power, has been asked of the F.C.C. by the King-Trendle Broadcasting Corp.

Other applications filed with the commission included requests of WMBS, Uniontown, Pa., for increase of time to permit broadcasting at night with 100 watts power; WFOY, St. Augustine, Fla., for change of frequency from 1,210 to 590 kilocycles and increase of night power from 100 to 250 watts; WLAP, Lexington, Ky., for change of frequency from 1,420 to 1,270 kilocycles and increase of power from 100 watts night, 250 watts day to 1,000 watts, and WAPI, Birmingham, for change of frequency from 1,140 to 1,020 kilocycles and increase of power from 5,000 to 50,000 watts.

Munroe Reaches Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—Paul Munroe, of the New York office of Lord and Thomas, arrived here yesterday to take over active production, under Tom McAvity, of the Warners' air show, "Your Hollywood Parade." Munroe, whose last assignment was on the Kate Smith air program, and who previously was CBS program director in New York, will have carte blanche authority on the new program, and will work directly under McAvity.

ordinary air transmission facilities, although definition is comparatively clear and reasonably satisfactory over short distances, long distance transmission has been virtually impossible. Through the use of the coaxial cable, which has been developed and used in extensive experimentation by Bell Laboratories, it was demonstrated yesterday that pictures, using a motion picture for example, could be seen, on a small screen approximately seven by eight inches in size, with a noticeable but not disturbing flicker and with quite satisfactory definition. The important point involved, however, is that those pictures were sent from New York on a round trip to Philadelphia and back, a total distance of about 180 miles.

In the demonstration yesterday, which, it was explained, was certainly not designed to show television improvement, as such, the pictures were 240-line images. Television has progressed to the 441-line point or better. The 240-line image shown yesterday was confined to that figure because the limitations imposed by the experimental terminal and repeater equipment now on the New York-Philadelphia cable, which limits the top frequency of the transmitted current to approximately 1,000,000 cycles, permitting of no finer grain image than 240 line. However, it was pointed out that it would be a comparatively simple matter to step up the cable to 2,000,000 cycles, thus accommodating images of 350 lines.

Shown on the small screen in an experimental room of the Bell Laboratories on West St. were first an explanation, with voice and diagram of the working and application of the coaxial cable, and finally a series of newsreel pictures and a sporting reel. The results were good, and the possibility appears infinite of such wire transmission as the coaxial cable solving the problem of long range television transmission, at least until air or wireless transmission has successfully overcome, if ever, the long distance problem.

Officials yesterday were careful to make no promise; they shied carefully clear of predictions. Bell is not interested in television, as such, they pointed out, but has devised a method of transmitting television images over long distances, by wire, presumably for whatever value that may have to the science of television.

WFIL's New Chicago Office Gross $30,000

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—The new Chicago office of WFIL, managed by Stuart Eggleston, reported gross sales of $30,000 for the first two weeks of its operation. According to general manager Donald Withycomb, this represents an amount exceeding the total business obtained by WFIL from the Chicago area in the past six months.

The opening of the Chicago office, which also covers the Detroit market area, followed the success of a similar experiment in New York. Jack Stewart, WFIL's sales manager, who set up the out-of-town office system, is contemplating a trip to the coast within the next two weeks, to look over the ground for a possible sales office in either Los Angeles or San Francisco.

James A. Martin was appointed referee to determine all questions and facts in the suit brought by the Trenton Broadcasting Co., against Charles E. Loew, Julia V. Loew and WOAX, Inc., by Justice Salvatore A. Cottillo in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday. Trenton purchased all the time of Station WTNJ from November, 1934, to November, 1937, and allegedly obtained an option to purchase all outstanding stock of WOAX, which holds the F. C. C. license for the operation of Station WTNJ from the Loews, for $70,000. Trenton claims it exercised the option but that the defendants refused to deliver the stock and is suing for an injunction to compel them to perform their part of the deal.

Develop "Prof. Quiz" Contest in Theatres

Quizzical Questions, Inc., new firm, has formulated a contest idea for film theatres based on the "Professor Quiz" programs over CBS. The contest, which will be under the personal supervision of the radio quizzer, is now available to theatre owners.

Walter J. Price is general sales manager, and it is claimed that early contract returns indicate that every state will be represented in the list of theatres in the contest. The contest will begin the end of January, and last 26 weeks.

The setup for the national "Professor Quiz Battle of Wits" is (1) local half-hour theatre contests for five patrons each week, (2) elimination contests for local theatre winners in convenient cities, and (3) a grand final competition for which 10 or more contestants will be brought to New York or Hollywood, all expenses paid by Quizzical Questions. The prizes will be shared by the finalists.

"Prof. Quiz" will prepare the questions and answers for use in the contest. It is expected that the contest will be publicized on his program. The theatre contests, however, will not be broadcast.

The orchestra on Monday, as an experiment, offered the opera "La Boheme," with Lucy Monroe and Suzanne Fisher among the soloists, instead of the usual orchestral program.

The awards committee will consist of Deems Taylor, CBS music consultant; Davidson Taylor, director of the network's music department; Frederick Schang, Jr., of Columbia Concerts Corp., and Dr. John Finley Williamson of Princeton University. The series will last 16 weeks.

U. A. Control British Until Loan Is Paid

ally defined actions of the voting trustees.

The $4,500,000 option financing, it is learned, is being supplied by only two British concerns. They are, as previously disclosed by MOTION PICTURE DAILY, Casenove, Akroyds & Co., and Greenwood & Co., both of London. Prudential Assurance of London, which was erroneously believed earlier to be playing a major part in the financing, has no direct participation in the option deal.

The fact that E. H. Lever, financial secretary of Prudential, was the only British financial figure to participate in the negotiations in the United States, and also that Prudential has financed Korda's London Films in the past, gave credence to the belief that Prudential was an integral part of the option financing. It has been definitely established now, however, that Lever acted only as the fiscal agent for the two actual financing concerns and, at the same time, was an official observer of the progress of the deal through Prudential's already large interest in London Films.

Ten-Year Refunding Plan

The $4,500,000 British loan is being made for a three-year period but the agreement reached provides for a 10-year refunding plan in the event the loan is not repaid by the expiration of the initial period.

As pointed out by MOTION PICTURE DAILY earlier, the deal becomes in this respect equivalent to a long term extension of the Goldwyn-Korda options, with the difference that full control of the United Artists stock now is to be acquired through repayment of the loan to the British interests rather than by purchase from Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin, the present owners.

Pledge Goldwyn-Korda Stock

The two-fifths stock interest in United Artists owned by Korda and Goldwyn is to be pledged as collateral for the British loan in addition to the three-fifths of Pickford, Fairbanks and Chaplin. Moreover, free assets of the United Artists British and American corporations are also to be pledged as collateral. The loan will be made by the British interests directly to the United Artists British Corp. and then will be made available by the latter for the exercise of the options.

Upon repayment of the loan, of course, Goldwyn and Korda become equal owners of United Artists.

As reported by this publication earlier, the $1,500,000 of new short-term United Artists preferred stock being issued in equal amounts to Pickford and Fairbanks, in addition to $1,250,000 in cash to each, is guaranteed first call for redemption. Then the $4,500,000 British loan is to be repaid before any dividends are paid on the United Artists common.

Final closing of the deal is expected well in advance of Dec. 23, the expiration date of the option, although a large amount of detail work which may even necessitate drastic changes in the manner of executing the agreement, has yet to be done.

UMPTO Has 6-Pt. Policy For "Peace"

tion declares that "of the 500 or 600 pictures released annually not more than one or two justify a 40 per cent gross. . . . In nearly all cases the 40 per center after being played must be adjusted downward to 35 per cent or 30 per cent, sometimes even to 25 per cent."

It declares that the exhibitor resents the annual increase in the number of pictures which must be played on percentage and calls for a reduction in the total number, asserting, however, that the "resentment" is directed primarily against the "interference" with the exhibitors' business involved in the playing of percentage pictures.

Treats Overselling

Of "oversold" situations the bulletin says, "So long as distributors continue to sell 'numbers' instead of pictures adjustments in oversold spots will be a necessary prerequisite to peaceful relations in the industry. Every exhibitor is entitled to a legitimate profit on his contract. . . ."

The bulletin argues for a greater voice in company sales policies for branch managers, on the ground that the men in the field know their customers and their problems as home office executives cannot know them. It warns against distributors making circuit-inspired changes in clearance and run affecting independent theatres and argues for a differential in percentages between last runs and advanced runs, pointing out that, "in most cases the overhead of the last run is the same as that of the prior run and it would seem only fair to take this factor into consideration when deals are made."

"The hazarding of money with the hope of obtaining by chance a larger sum is the essence of the scheme."

The chance game was ruled a lottery by the Georgia Court of Appeals on Nov. 11, and the Supreme Court of Nebraska ruled Bank Night illegal and a violation of that state's lottery law on Oct. 22. Thus the decision of the Court of Appeals of Alabama is the third recent decision by a state's highest tribunal outlawing the use of the Bank Night within the boundaries of a state.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 21
(20th Century-Fox)

The continuity sheet for this and every issue reads "News, action, thrills and entertainment." The advance word is justified.

Lowell Thomas narrates the World Events division, as usual. His comment amplifies scenes of the devastation of the Sino-Japanese fighting in Chapei, the Memorial Day services in London with King George standing imperturbed as the police hush up a loud-mouthed objector. His yells can be heard on the sound track. General Franco looks over his army in Pamplona. General Gouraud, French World War commander, receives the salute of his officers as he retires. Captain George Eyston drives his car to a record-breaking 311 M. P. H. The flying boat made for Soviet Russia is launched in Maryland and Australians attempt to ride wild horses. "Buck-jumping" they call it.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 219
(M-G-M)

A variety of subjects of minor importance make up this more or less routine release which, despite its lack of an outstanding news event, manages to maintain an impression that it is reporting events of significance and action.

The release is comprised of six news or feature subjects and shots of three of the major football games of the last week end. In the order in which they appear in the reel the subjects are, glimpses of the Armistice Day observance in London with King George VI in the featured role; shots of the ruins of Chapei following its capture by the Japanese; the recapture of a pair of escaped kidnapers at Syracuse, N. Y.; shots of the Soviet's new distance flight plane, said to be the largest in the world; glimpses of the Jackie Coogan-Betty Grable wedding in Los Angeles; California bathing beauties posing at an airdrome in preference to a boardwalk, and the scoring plays in the Fordham-St. Mary's, Notre Dame-Northwestern and Harvard-Yale games.

Running time, 9 mins. K.

Paramount News
No. 32
(Paramount)

An interesting and well executed reel, this Paramount issue offers a satisfactory diversification of news material.

A splendidly cut highlight are the scenes of inevitable desolation which followed the fall of Shanghai to the advancing Japanese, with ruined buildings, torn streets and gutted homes recounting their own terrible table of the horrors of war when it strikes a great city. A secondary clip pictures the attempt to feed and succor the frightened refugees, many of them children, in the International Settlement.

The other impressive clip shows excellent angle shots of the latest completed work of the noted sculptor, George Grey Barnard, a 16-foot head of Abraham Lincoln, finished after 10 years, with an explanation by Barnard of the reason for the closed eyes on the figure. Likewise effective is the shift to slow motion to show two close plays in the weekend football highlights, the games between Harvard and Yale, and Fordham and St. Mary's. The revelations are clear and impart added interest to the fast clip.

For the rest, are seen the dirigible Los Angeles as a training ship, the visit to this country of Herman and Mrs. Rogers, an earth crack threatening a Los Angeles park, the wedding of Jackie Coogan and Betty Grable, the prediction of Maritime Commissioner Joseph P. Kennedy that air liners will replace ocean liners, and the tests of a new super plane at Baltimore.

Running time, 10 mins. A.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 36
(RKO)

Plenty of meat to the latest in the news series with four football tussles winding up the reel with a good quota of action.

First, there is the parade in Paris honoring the nation's dead, followed by ceremoneis at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Then King George is shown at impressive services bespeaking peace and during which a lunatic breaks through police lines to heckle the royal chief. The Celtics take a trimming from the Philadelphia Sphas in the opening basketball game of the season here. The transmission of a newspaper facsimile via radio is interesting.

The launching of a new 63,000-pound airliner for the Russian Government at Baltimore gives some idea on the latest in aircraft. Jackie Coogan and Betty Grable as they emerge from a Los Angeles church after the wedding last weekend. Signor Filippo Di Paolo and his 22 children, presumably the largest family in Italy, and the four pigskin games round out the reel. The games are Fordham downing St. Mary's in New York, Harvard riding Yale for a 13-6 upset at Cambridge, Notre Dame blanketing Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., and Villanova trouncing Temple by a score of 33-0 at Philadelphia. For San Francisco release only is the match between California and Stanford at Palo Alto for a shutout by the former.

Running time, 9 mins. O.

Universal Newsreel
No. 617

The eight items in the makeup of this reel run reliably through the scale touching on war, novelty and sport, among other topics. On the whole the material is good.

The lead opens with scenes of the Sino-Japanese war, particularly stressing the plight of the non-combatants, injured and the charitable and humanitarian work of religious factions. The threatening landslide in Los Angeles follows with interesting shots of the slowly-moving and overlapping ground. The U. S. S. Wichita is launched in Philadelphia. In northern Italy the flood damage is filmed. That new Martin clipper plane made for Soviet Russia is launched in Baltimore. Dancing girls pose on an airplane's wings in Burbank, Cal., as they reveal next year's bathing suits. The reel concludes with scenes of the Fordham-St. Mary's and Harvard-Yale football games last weekend. They are caught with the usual effectiveness.

Running time, 9¼ mins. P.

Short Subjects

"The March of Time, No. 4"
(RKO)

The three topics of this issue treat respectively of the British passion for indulging in soccer pools; the ravages, treatment and mortal statistics of heart disease, and the problem of Japanese invasion of fruitful salmon fisheries off the coast of Alaska.

The first may not be found very interesting here. The tremendous turnover of the English gambling trusts is revealed. It is due to a loophole in the Gambling Act through which the combines can operate. The odds of 13,000,000 to one are shown in a mathematical equation which breaks the penny bets down. The bet takers operate through the mails and advertise in newspapers as they capitalize on the poorer classes who hope for a lucky break.

The second subject, "The Human Heart," reveals the strides scientific research has made in the treatment of heart disease. It offers scenes of case histories, statistics and a most encouraging message for the afflicted.

The salmon episode is well-documented film that depicts the inroads the Japanese floating canneries have made on the native industry. Fish canned in Yokohama is sold here. The Alaskan industry protests to Washington through its lone representative. It poses the question: What will happen since the Japanese are within their rights? The Alaskans await action by the State Dept. "presumably along suasion lines."

The film is done in the usual finished style and provides varied program fare.

Running time, 20 mins. "G."

See Approval Of RKO Plan By January 1

Hearing on Atlas Order Set for Dec. 21

The probability of the RKO plan of reorganization being confirmed by Jan. 1 was increased when Federal Judge William Bondy on Wednesday set Dec. 21 for hearing on an order submitted by Atlas Corp., proponent of the reorganization plan, calling for confirmation of the plan as amended along the lines recommended in the final report of Special Master George W. Alger.

Whether or not the plan is confirmed by the end of the year is now seen as dependent entirely upon the amount of time which Judge Bondy will allow for arguments in opposition to the plan on either Dec. 21 or subsequently. Opposition to the plan is limited to minority stockholder groups. John A. Stover, attorney for Ernest W. Court Scores Censorship, Overruling Board in Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25. — The Pennsylvania censor board was overruled yesterday in their ban on "Spain in Flames," by Judge Louis E. Leventhal, in Common Pleas Court, who sustained Jesse H. Holmes and Anne M. W. Pennypacker, who hold distribution rights on the film here.

In an 11-page decision, the court directed the board to approve the film in its original form, and concluded that the film does not come under the censor board's jurisdiction because it is a film containing "current news events." He cited the important place of pictures as a medium of information, and declared they are entitled to the same freedom from restraint enjoyed by the press.

"Within this freedom, lest it be meaningless, must be encompassed all incidental comment essential to the intelligent understanding of the picture," the judge said.

Speaking generally of censorship, the court stated, "Censorship under our theory of government is presumptively bad and is tolerated only as a necessary evil. We are confident that the popular good sense will ultimately discover and prefer truth and that the general welfare can best be served by a free expression in opinion. It must not be forgotten that a censorship which today may be used to curb our enemies' opinions may be utilized tomorrow to supress our most cherished convictions."

Warners' Net For Year Is $5,876,182

Compares to $3,177,312 In Previous Period

Net profit from operations of Warners for the year ended Aug. 28 was $5,876,182.95, after deductions for Federal income taxes and all other charges including a surtax of $310,000 on undistributed profits. This is equal to $1.48 a share on the common stock, after deducting shares held in the treasury. These figures compare with an operating profit of $3,177,312.73 for the previous year, which amounted to 75 cents a share on the common stock, calculated on a similar basis.

In addition to the operating profit there was a net credit to deficit account of $404,920.73 and capital surplus has been increased by $269,812.08. No dividends have been paid on the preferred stock since March 2, 1932.

Warners' counsel believes that the company is not liable for any Federal surtax on more than $2,084,050.24 of its undistributed profits, which is the amount of accumulated and unpaid dividends to and including June 1, 1937, on outstanding preferred stock.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE onslaught on radio versus films, exactly one week old today, has been creating comment. This is the post-Thanksgiving report from your humble servant. As a matter of fact, verbally and by mail, the commendation has been mounting so steadily that it becomes positively embarrassing to mention it. Culled from the batch, for this day anyway, is one letter which struck as extremely interesting. It is from Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied, who resorts to economics, psychiatry and elementary logic in his approach and, by so doing, makes it far more comfortable for us to repose within the confines of his own quotes. . . .

Myers says:

Recent developments in radio are so menacing to the motion picture business that I am surprised they received so little attention. Consider the facts in the form of a problem in first year economics:

The producers are engaged in making motion pictures which cost a lot of money. They hope to get back this money and more from admissions paid in at theatre box-offices. To insure the success of the enterprise, the producers lend their support to a rival form of entertainment which encourages the public to remain away from the theatre. Point out the fallacy.

That is one aspect of the problem. Our second problem is directed to a class in psychiatry:

Motion pictures are visual entertainment and the industry has spent hundreds of millions in developing pictures to their present perfection. The stars who have been developed in the process are the industry's chief asset. They retain their popularity because they appear only a few times a year and always to the best advantage. To perpetuate their popularity and value the industry encourages them to perform in a different medium in which their main talents cannot be utilized and with poorly written scripts or badly chosen excerpts from current pictures.

Myers addresses his final problem to "the class in elementary logic." He does that, writes he, to illustrate the non sequitur, or, possibly, the reductio ad absurdum. But he is not going to get us groping for our Latin, after all these years. He will have to do his own explaining, i. e.:

The motion picture industry being disturbed by reports of scandals in Hollywood engaged the services of a cabinet officer and set up a vast and expensive organization to quiet public indignation. Certain radio commentators are making a living—and a good one—by broadcasting all the smut and scandal concerning Hollywood and the players that they can unearth or imagine. To discourage this, the industry permits its stars to appear on the programs of these commentators, thus heightening the public interest therein.

Viewing the subject from every angle, I can see only one possible justification for the course that the motion picture industry is pursuing. It must be that the chief executives have concluded that pictures will inevitably lose out in their competition with radio and that the smart thing to do is to get in on the ground floor of the new business. I note that some of our leading trade papers are now devoting considerable space to radio. Is that a straw in the wind?

You can now go ahead and razz the heck out of us, but for once, and solely from the standpoint of the picture business, you will have to admit that we are "constructive."

Being in a sort of last-word position now comes opportunity for comment:

On First Year Economics—This department largely agrees with the position. Producers are fallacious, however, in the support of radio only as to the extent of their wooing of the air medium. Radio can help in the exploitation of films. Agreement on that point is generally acknowledged. The heavy-handed, whole-hog swoop on the air waves—this is where the current difficulty arises. Couple with that lack of good judgment in editorial supervision of the material which the Hollywood talent equation is allowed to perform. The result is what you have today.

On the Class in Psychiatry—Largely answered above, and in accord, too. Stars, it is, of course, correct to conclude, retain their popularity by limited appearances in vehicles best suited for their talents. The care usually afforded them before studio mike and camera, definitely, has been largely abandoned in their appearances before the broadcasting mike. It is being a case of a newly discovered Yukon and a frenzied rush to pan the gold before the vein runs dry. The future? Manana, on that score.

The Class in Elementary Logic—Indiscriminate appearance of stars on programs of screen commentators who dish the dirt cannot be explained away, certainly cannot be excused. That major film interests are eyeing radio with a view to ultimate abandonment of their first love strikes as illogical and without foundation. A combination enterprise with films dominant always, conceivably, could be sound business provided judgment and a resistance to large and quick radio money can be maintained.

When Myers notes "that some of our leading trade papers are now devoting considerable space to radio" and asks "is that a

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Adventures of Chico"

(Woodward Bros.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25.—As an odd novelty, "The Adventures of Chico" possesses that peculiar quality which heretofore has attracted considerable attention to similar films. Although it tells a human-interest and dramatic story, the primary characteristic of the feature is that of a lecture-travelogue. Its characters are nature's grandeurs, two Mexicans and wild animal life of Mexico.

Produced, directed and photographed by Stacy and Horace Woodward, who will be remembered for "Fang and Claw," with camera work of superior caliber, the film combines natural comedy, drama and suspense. Against vivid glimpses of a Mexico that probably has never been photographed before, the continuity is intelligently followed to make for easy and complete understanding.

With his father, who wrests a living from the country, the boy, Chico, is the hero. Although he is a friend of all the animals, he encounters many adventures. Most thrilling of these is one in which his pet rooster saves the boy's life in a fight with a rattlesnake. This particular incident held the preview audience in a vice-like grip and promises to thrill any who see it. As the narration is carried through expertly, the quality of the musical accompaniment provided by Edward Kelenyi accentuates the picture's moods. If only considered from the standpoint of unusual entertainment, "The Adventures of Chico" has a chance of fitting well on any program.

VITAPHONE

Short Subjects

"Popeye the Sailor Meets Ali Baba's 40 Thieves"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

Here are 20 minutes of Popeye presented in Max Fleischer's stereoptical process and chock full of those situations that are too condensed in their usual form, but which in practically every case provide sure-fire entertainment. It is done in effective Technicolor. For the approaching holidays it makes a "must" addition for children's programs. But it also will fit very well with any other presentation.

The scenario is cleverly animated with imaginative execution in the building up of its situations. The familiar Bluto plays Ali Baba. His gang of terrorists are reported to Popeye's coast guard station in the middle of a desert and the sailor takes off in pursuit. He catches up with the villain in a cafe, but is knocked unconscious. Bluto and his gang make off with Olive Oyl. Popeye follows on a camel. He comes to the well-known cave and using his pipe as a torch burns an entrance. He is soon discovered by the bandits, beaten up and offered as a lure to a shark. The spinach is on hand and is introduced refreshingly. The whirlwind action follows, as usual, but it is presented with remarkable, new twists. The conclusion has Bluto and his 40 cohorts towing Popeye, Olive and Wimpy across the desert along with a wagon-load of loot.

"Hooray for Hooligan"

(Educational)

The customary Tom Patricola-Buster West type of painful comedy is again apparent in this comedy. The boys inherit a prizefighter named "Horizontal Hooligan" and proceed to get him a match. They gamble their shirts, do their well-known style of dancing and at length win a great deal of money when their fighter goes on a rampage after seeing beards. It seems he can only fight when he is mad and gets that way when he sees the chin foliage. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"Pigskin Palooka"

(Roach-M-G-M)

Childish excitement on the gridiron prevails in this session of the Gang's activities. There are many clever twists to the slight scenario and, on the whole, the short should measure up quite satisfactorily. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Laughing at Fate"

(20th Century-Fox)

An issue of The Adventures of the Newsreel Cameraman series. It is just that. The film is composed of the usual collection of thrilling shots that in many cases have been seen before, but which may still be found novel. The material is well photographed and presented. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Calling All Crooners"

An alderman, urged by his wife, persuades the police department to provide entertainment in between their crime broadcasts. The force tries it. Lester Cole and his octette sing a few numbers as do The Orchids, a girl trio. Buddy Page supplies music with his orchestra. The commissioner is deluged with calls praising the program and it becomes a permanent affair to the chagrin of the local police official. The singing is fair. The Orchids render an entertaining number concerning piglets. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Quick Money"

(RKO)

Hollywood, Nov. 25.—A strictly formula plot saved by slapstick novelty embellishments, "Quick Money" is an entertaining picture which met approval of a small neighborhood house in which it was previewed. There apparently wasn't a major step made in the development of the story that the audience could not guess beforehand, but the method of arriving at the climax via the slapstick method, aided and abetted by a boy who is an amateur chemist, provided most of the laughs. Edward Killy did a competent job of directing the screenplay of Arthur T. Horman, Franklin Coen and Bert Granet, who adapted Horman's original.

The cast is composed of Fred Stone, Gordon Jones, Berton Churchill, Dorothy Moore, Paul Guilfoyle, Harlan Briggs, Dorothy Vaughan, Sherwood Bailey, Frank M. Thomas, Jack Carson, Kathryn Sheldon, Dick Elliott, James Farley, William Franey and Fuzzy Knight.

Fred Stone, as mayor of Sherwood, is suspicious of Berton Churchill, who returns to the town as a big time financier. With Churchill is Paul Guilfoyle, posing as his secretary but actually the brains in a confidence racket. Stone refuses to let the town council use the $47,000 school fund for bonds in a resort which Churchill announces he is to build. Pressure is brought to bear on Stone by his fellow townsmen and his wife, but he is adamant. A recall election is scheduled, and Stone, aided by his son, played by Sherwood Bailey, delays the voting in various ludicrous ways until Gordon Jones, newspaperman, and Stone's daughter, Dorothy Moore, return from a nearby Federal Bureau of Investigation office with evidence to effect the arrest of Churchill and Guilfoyle.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Devil's Saddle Legion"

(Warners)

Lincoln, Nov. 25.—Warners carried the chain gang touch to this western and did a good job of inserting it for a different angle in the general run of open-spaces stories. The setting is the Texas-Oklahoma boundary dispute caused by the cagey channel changing of the Red River.

It's a Dick Foran picture, with less singing than has been the quota, but there are three M. K. Jerome and Jack Scholl tunes with average results. Besides Foran, the principals include Anne Nagel, daughter of a rancher; Willard Parker, her foster brother and menace, and George Chesebro, prison camp supervisor.

In order to steal a big chunk of Texas land by establishment of the river as a boundary, a dam is being built over the channel forcing it to take a new course. Being built by prison labor, every husky who comes into the area is arrested and on trumped up charges railroaded to the prison camp and put on the grind. Foran wins the friendship of Miss Nagel and she gets him leave from the camp to break a horse for her. It gives him the opportunity to find some guns and plan a break, which he does in time to convince officials of his rights about the boundary.

The picture should be all right for its spots. It was directed by Bobby Connolly, from a screenplay-story by Ed Earl Repp.

Running time, 52 minutes. "G."

"Playboy Number One"

(Educational)

Willie Howard's brand of comedy in this two-reeler will be good for many laughs. He plays Pierre Ginzberg, a fake French professor, who sails for Paris accompanying a family. They disengage him soon after the ship sails and he takes up with a pair of tough Chicagoans. His ability to talk French makes him tops with them. They provoke him into getting a girl for himself in order to attend a party. He annoys the wife of one of the men, is thrown in the brig and, after the third annoyance, is tossed overboard by the irate spouse. But all the intermediate business is comical and the farce packs plenty of chuckles. Running time, 15½ mins. "G."

Short Subjects

"Going Places No. 40"

(Universal)

This short should be found pleasing by the entire audience. In its three sequences, respectively, it offers a chemical farm in Berkeley, Cal., where produce is grown experimentally without soil; the descendants of the Bounty mutineers on Pitcairn Island and shots of the strange sculptures on Easter Island, in the Pacific Ocean. The latter, too, are very well filmed and, although the Pitcairn Island is not exceptionally new, it offers a different treatment. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Italian Libya"

(20th Century-Fox)

In this Magic Carpet the audience will be treated or annoyed, as the case may be, with the repetition of the fact that Italy is giving her colony in Northern Africa, self rule. Lowell Thomas does the narration as scenes of the country, the armed forces, studies of the natives at their primitive agricultural pursuits and occupations are seen. There are also some good shots of the ruins of a once important city dating from the time of the first Roman invasion. It seems rather jingoistic, but in other ways is good travel fare. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 43"

(Universal)

A better-than-average collection of interesting items makes up this reel. They include the raising of hop toads for pets by two men in Roy, Wash.; an armless negro who has remarkably overcome his handicap, a system for taking the excess pep out of bulls, the gathering of knees used in the construction of boats, a Deschutes, Ore., man who makes better arrowheads than Indians, a Marylander who is trying to raise a piglet for a pet and an expert with a slingshot. It's good. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Freed of Discrimination

Cincinnati, Nov. 25.—A jury in Municipal Court has acquitted Norman Linz, manager of the RKO Capitol, of a charge of having violated the equal rights law, in a suit brought by a colored patron, who claimed to have been refused admission. Linz contended there was no discrimination, but that the refusal was based on a disturbance which the patron created in the lobby.

To Change Game Method

Des Moines, Nov. 25.—The Tri-State Theatre Corp. plans to handle special Bank Night in a different manner, following disturbances at several of their theatres caused by impatient patrons protesting the length of time required for the draw one night recently.

"Bad Guy" Is Chicago Hit With $17,300

Austria-Reich Film Deal Expires Dec. 31

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The present film agreement between Austria and Germany will expire on Dec. 31, 1937, the office of the commercial attache at Vienna has advised the U. S. Dep't of Commerce here.

This agreement originally provided, among other things, that during the year 1937 an amount of 50,000 reichsmarks should be transferred monthly to the Austrian National Bank for payment to the Austrian film industry.

This amount was increased to 100,-000 reichsmarks monthly for the second half of 1937, and it is reported that payments are coming through regularly.

At the end of October, an Austrian delegation went to Berlin to negotiate for a new special agreement regarding transfers to the Austrian film industry in 1938.

The question of establishing an Austrian film chamber, which has been discussed for some time, is expected to be definitely decided upon in the near future.

Pastry Publicity

Metro's latest publicity gag, directed, but not thrown, at trade papers Wednesday in view of Thanksgiving Day, was a large and slightly overworked custard pie, via Mrs. Wagner. The message which accompanied the tidy bit of slightly squashy pastry had reference to M-G-M's short subject lineup, vaguely worded.

There was no coffee with the pie.

Judell Is Planning 44 Films Next Year

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Plans for independent production have been disclosed by Ben F. Judell, Chicago exchange owner who plans to produce 44 pictures in Hollywood next year.

For the past 14 months Judell has been making plans for his production debut. He has organized the Progressive Pictures Corp. and has established offices in Hollywood. At the present time Judell is making a tour of the country to establish exchange contacts to handle his product. Judell owns five exchanges in the midwest and plans to open others.

"There will be six roadshow specials, eight westerns and 30 dramas," Judell said. "The pictures will be made by unit producers who will make from six to eight pictures a year. Studio space will be leased after the first of the year when production starts. I have several producers ready to start work after Jan. 1, with stories, casts and production plans entirely prepared."

Judell will leave the first of next week for New York to arrange for distribution there. He intimated he might start his own exchange there if necessary.

Judell is on exchange tour in the Middle West and is due in New York Nov. 26.

See Stage Shows as Trend in Australia

SYDNEY, Oct. 20 (By Air Mail via London).—Re-introduction of overseas headline vaudeville acts in picture houses is seen as a major development here for 1938. The Snider and Dean management has been experimenting successfully though spasmodically with "big-time" acts in its first run theatres for some time and is now on the lookout for suitable acts with which to extend the policy. Hoyts also is dickering for overseas talent, and Greater Union Theatres is unofficially interested.

Opinion among the circuit executives is that acts must be really top-notch to mean anything to the box-office.

This publication is active in reporting radio for a reason, simple and clear. The affinity has been growing, not entirely to the film industry's best interests. But growing it is and the weaving, in and out, of the one entertainment form with the other, makes it obvious that to completely report developments in films there also must be reported the highlights in radio which bear upon the other. . . .

in New York. He was an executive in the media department of the New York office of Lord & Thomas at the time of his death.

Teatro Al Dia being a quarterly publication, Colon retained his position with Lord & Thomas with whom he has been associated the past 12 years, upon being appointed editor of that new member of the Quigley group early in 1936. The first issue was published in July of that year and under his editorship immediately won enthusiastic response from theatre operators of the Spanish-speaking countries.

In Puerto Rico, Colon's family has long been identified with the sugar industry and a sister is mayoress of a small municipality near the city of his birth. The remains, according to plans immediately following his death, will be sent there for burial beside his mother.

In addition to his relatives in Puerto Rico, Colon is survived by his widow and three children—Adele, 12 years old; Paul, 10, and Emile, 15 months.

was denied by Alger in his final report, indicated on Wednesday that he would carry his fight to Judge Bondy and, possibly, to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Moreover, Joseph M. Cohen, attorney for George L. Schein, an RKO common stockholder, declared that he would oppose the plan before Judge Bondy on the ground that better provision should be made for common shareholders than that now made in the plan. Common stockholders receive one share of new common for every two shares of old under the plan.

Opposition from these sources possibly could delay consummation of the plan but its confirmation prior to Jan. 1 still would be discretionary with Judge Bondy.

The Atlas Corp. order submitted on Wednesday by H. C. Rickaby, counsel, provides that the amendments to the plan proposed by Alger will be mailed to creditors and security holders whose consents to the plan already have been received. In the event their consents have not been withdrawn by Dec. 16, all such creditors and security holders shall be deemed to have assented to the plan in its amended form. All of the major creditors, such as the principal bondholders' and stockholders' committees, Rockefeller Center, Atlas Corp. and Lehman Bros. whose assents to the plan constitute a sufficient number to permit its confirmation, indicated on Wednesday that they will not oppose the proposed amendments.

Alger Suggests Amendments

Only four principal amendments have been suggested by Alger. They are, that stockholders be given prior right, rather than general creditors, to subscribe for any additional common stock which may be issued for additional working capital or other authorized purposes; that cumulative voting for members of the board be employed in order to provide representation for minorities, and that it be optional with the company whether three-year sinking fund provisions for retirement of debentures be left intact.

Gross Tax Faces Chicago Theatres

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Chicago exhibitors are faced with a three per cent tax on gross receipts in place of the present license fees, if measures proposed by Alderman Roger Riley and Deputy City Collector George Lohman are approved by the City Council, which will meet Monday to discuss means of getting $1,000,000 in revenue instead of the $130,000 which is now received from license fees on theatres.

At a session last summer the council considered a plan for a similar tax but the idea was abandoned. Since then numerous plans have been discussed but none decided upon.

The theatre owners of the city intend a vigorous fight on the proposal to tax grosses or impose higher license fees. It is reported that if the tax plan is adopted the theatre owners will seek the return of chance games. It is rumored that the city may license various games of skill like Screeno as a method of raising revenue.

Capra Returns To Columbia; Dispute Ended

Will Withdraw His Suit To Invalidate Pact

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26.—In a brief, joint statement today from the Columbia studio, signed by Harry Cohn and Frank Capra, was disclosed the complete settlement of the differences between the two and the return to the studio of Columbia's ace producer.

The statement declared that all differences and the litigation arising therefrom have been completely and satisfactorily adjusted. Capra returned to the Columbia lot today and will withdraw the suit filed in Superior Court, Los Angeles, some time ago to invalidate the contract he held with the company.

The very brief studio announcement of the settlement made no mention of the picture will be the first on Capra's new schedule.

Several months ago, Capra sued, first in Hollywood and latterly in London, to abrogate his contract which had several pictures to go. The basis for the action was credited to "Lost Horizon" which the Columbia studio is said to have edited contrary to Capra's wishes and prior to its release.

at Commonwealth one year, joined Producers Dist. Corp., then moved over to the local 20th Century-Fox exchange as branch manager for Brooklyn and New York for eight years. His next job was with World-Wide as local sales manager, and on March 20, 1933, became New York manager for Columbia. Early last year he was appointed to the Republic post.

Kalmenson has been with Warners and affiliated companies for more than 10 years. He joined the First National branch at Pittsburgh in 1927 and later was made Albany manager. Then he was transferred to Omaha and Kansas City in similar posts, returning to Pittsburgh Jan. 1, 1932. On March 15, 1934, he resigned as branch manager for Warner-First National in Pittsburgh to become chief booker for the Warner string of theatres operated out of the Smoky City.

Early this year Haines promoted Kalmenson to eastern district sales head. The move followed shortly after Haines was elevated by Sears to eastern division sales head, a post he now holds.

Carl Leserman continues as assistsistant to Sears at the home office.

Schnitzer is widely known in the local territory. He is a brother-in-law of Sam Rinzler, partner of Louis Frisch in the Randforce circuit of more than 50 Brooklyn theatres.

Following the meeting with Kalmenson yesterday in connection with the Sears Sales Drive, Norman Ayers, Boston, R. S. Smith, Buffalo, and John Pavone, New Haven, returned to their territories.

The committee failed to reach an agreement on the council amendment after a lengthy discussion yesterday. Stanley claimed labor support, but Tom Williams, Labor M. P., demanded a commission of five salaried independents. He was supported by Sir William Wayland, Conservative.

Theatre Sues Majors For Faster Delivery

PHILADELPHIA Nov. 26. — The Garbo Amusement Co., operating the Garbo Theatre in Darby, a suburb of Philadelphia, today filed an injunction suit in U. S. District Court under the Sherman Anti-Trust Laws against RKO, Universal, 20th Century-Fox and Warners to secure faster delivery of films. Melvin Koff, president of the company, stated, that quicker delivery is necessary because the Parker, a Warner house in the territory, gets films three or four weeks ahead of the Garbo.

Koff admitted he had signed an agreement with the distributors allowing for a time lapse but now, he contends, the agreement has been found to be unfair and he is asking the court to invalidate it.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 22
(20th Century-Fox)

The material in this issue, while not exciting or particularly outstanding, is given lively treatment making refreshing news presentation. The topics range far and wide and are interesting.

Lowell Thomas and his World Events division open with scenes and comment about Peiping, which is now under Japanese control. A linoleum factory in Sydney, Australia, goes up in flames. In France, Sir Malcolm Campbell presents the Wales Trophy for the fastest transatlantic crossing to the capain of the Normandie. Thomas also follows with the aviation sequence. The first shipment of 176 new bombers fly over San Diego and new buildings at Le Bourget are seen. Lew Lehr, attired in a Viking headdress, does his familiar and funny comment with scenes in a toy factory where many fine train models are filmed.

Industry offers glimpses of a silver fox farm. Vyvyan Donner's department presents the latest traveling fashions with easy-on-the-eyes models. The Giants and Green Bay Packers battle to a 10-0 closeout in favor of the former. The Melbourne Cup closes the reel with excellent scenes of a final winning dash by a long shot. The run across the line is shown in slow motion. It's good stuff.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 220
(M-G-M)

That fleet of blimps that flew over New York earlier in the week provide the lead for this issue. The craft are photographed from a number of unique angles in various locations about the city and also from the air, where the camera catches the ships over the waterfront and the departing Normandie. This sequence is a refreshing departure as an opener.

The reel continues with good shots of a roller skating marathon and the infectious gymnastics of the Big Apple in El Morocco. The snapshots group offers glimpses of the mountain in Los Angeles showing widening fissures, and George Grey Barnard's giant head of Abraham Lincoln.

The Sporting Page division reviews the champions of the year. Here are shown War Admiral, the Davis Cup matches, Glenn Cunningham, the winning Yankee team, big time golf matches, Marjorie Gestring diving, Mike Vanderbilt and the Ranger-Endeavor yacht races, Clint Frank of the Yale football team, Joe Louis and a pair of chimpanzees slugging away for a spot of comic relief.

In all its divisions it is snappy, interesting and diversified.

Paramount News
No. 33
(Paramount)

The newsreel's all-American football team selection features this issue of Paramount News, contributing more than half of the reel and equaling in interest anything contained in the other half, which consists of just three additional subjects, to be exact. All three are of the "feature," rather than spot news type.

The schools represented in the reel's all-American selections present a good cross-section of national interest. They are Villanova, Pittsburgh, Alabama, Fordham, Texas A. & M., Mississippi, Notre Dame, Yale, Colorado and California.

The three additional subjects include a glimpse of Mexico's provisions for the care of Spanish war orphans, tests of a new open-work, non-skid bridge pavement at Toledo, O., and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., addressing the first alumni meeting at International House, New York.

The reel was released one day ahead of the usual schedule because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 37
(RKO)

A fair assortment of clips highlighted by the dedication of Le Bourget Field, Paris, where Lingbergh landed on his historical flight in 1917, as the European terminal for air travelers. The latest airport supersedes anything of its kind in this country and marks a new step in furthering air travel.

Melbourne's turf classic with the Trump coming from behind to win the coveted cup is excitingly described by Clem McCarthy.. The camera also takes the spectator to War Armiral's training quarters at Berlin, Md., where his owner supervises daily exercises for the son of Man o' War.

Other topical news includes a new type of football team with six men in practice at Manhasset, L. I., a threatening landslide in Los Angeles with mountain roads cracking and indicating imminent danger for home owners below, New Rochelle College girls protesting the use of silk hose in a move against war, Walter Johnson's golden birthday celebration in Washington, and Nicky Arundel, nine-year old editor of Nickey's News, interviewing Secretary of War Woodring with the entire news staff on hand for support.

Universal Newsreel
Vol. 9, No. 618
(Universal)

Here is a lively and interesting reel, which contains no outstanding news event of the moment, since there was none which was adaptable to the newsreel, but compensates for that with a peppy combination of diverse items, with seven out of nine claimed as exclusive by the reel.

Of significance, plus excellent sky photography, is the start of the flight of French air bombers from France to French Indo-China. A Kansas City merchant is seen in his annual and charitable disposal of 1,000 overcoats to the needy, which clicks as a Thanksgiving feature. An amusing throwback of history shows Uncle Sam paying an ancient and continuing debt, giving six yards of cloth to all the Indians on the Tuscarora Reservation in New York State, in accordance with a treaty signed in 1794. The world's largest oil tanker slides down the ways at Chester, Pa., made by a new process of welding, entirely without rivets.

A dried milk byproduct, hardened into bricks, fired the boilers of a Chicago locomotive, a front bumper police car pincer in Portland, Ore., hooks the tail bumper of a speeding car for an effective "pinch," excellent angle shots picture skaters in Rockefeller Plaza, bathing girls in California use a chocolate milk spray as a sun tan cream, and a fast-moving exciting sequence pictures the gridiron professional battle between the Green Bay Packers and Giants, which literally was a battle, with fists—and no punches barred.

"Good News of 1938"

Now in its fourth week on the air, the M-G-M-General Foods Corp. program, "Good News of 1938," remains one of the major disappointments of the rapidly ebbing season. Thursday night's airing, it is true, registered on our seismograph as a slight improvement over the opening appraisement, but the improvement is hair-line fine and almost doesn't register at all.

M-G-M still is making its original mistake of trying to jam too many personalities into 60 minutes. Without meaning to be facetious, we would like to remind the producers of the program that time is inelastic; if the minutes could be stretched so as to permit all the players who get into each other's way on "Good News" time in which to really strut their talents, the program might be better than good; it might be as colossal as the producers are evidently trying to make it. As it stands now, however, the program is a hodge-podge of confusion; the players suffer, the producers suffer, the program suffers and the listeners suffer, too.

Opening the show were Rosalind Russell and James Stewart in a neat little comedy skit. Followed Sigmund Romberg leading the Meredith Willson orchestra playing Romberg tunes, a rather pointless operation; a monologue by Helen Cross, good; several duets by a baritone, whose name we did not catch, and Betty Jayne, and loosely presented scenes from the picture, "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," with Judy Garland, Ronald Sinclair and Mickey Rooney playing the leads. Fannie Brice didn't even bother to have re-written a "Baby Snooks" characterization which she formerly has presented, word for word, on her "Ziegfeld Follies of the Air" and "Revue de Paree" commercials. Miss Garland offered some delightful comedy songs.

"Good News of 1938" is presented Thursday nights from 9 to 10 P. M. on the NBC-Red network, and over WHN.

Zukors Affected by Revised Settlement

Zukor will pay $45,000 in cash and $202,500 in nine notes which fall due annually begining Dec. 31, 1938. In addition both Adolph Zukor and Eugene Zukor will sign nine notes jointly for $202,500 with the notes falling due on the same date. The petition sets forth that the original settlement provided for both Zukors to share equally in the payment of $450,000 and that it was "misworded."

Seattle Orpheum Files Data

The Seattle Orpheum Corp. which filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition several weeks ago, yesterday submitted schedules showing liabilities of $2,117,855 and assets of $10,474. The Orpheum Theatre in Seattle, owned by the bankrupt, was foreclosed in June, 1935, but no sheriff's sale has been held. According to the schedule, assets consist of a $6,831 debt allegedly owed to the bankrupt by the RKO Service Corp. and $3,643 cash on hand. Principal liabilities are $1,026,666 on the first mortgage, $51,333 on the second mortgage, $40,476 for taxes and $999,379 for general creditors. Largest of the unsecured creditors is Orpheum Circuit, Inc., which holds a note for $989,095 and the Electrical Products of California which has an alleged claim for $5,316. The theatre and land are carried on the books at $1,007,738 and equipment at $70,252.

File Test on Para. Release

A test case to determine whether Paramount Pictures should have released "Artists and Models" during the season ending July 31, 1937, was filed in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by the Newark Amusement Co., Inc., operators of the Rivoli, Newark. The exhibitor will ask Justice Peter Schmuck on Monday to appoint an arbitrator. Newark Amusement claims that the picture was completed before the end of the season and should have been released under that year's contract.

U. S. Weekly Attendance at 85,000,000

1937 Total Shows Small Gain Over 1936

Average weekly theatre attendance in the United States runs to 85,000,000 for 1937 on the basis of industry computations now being completed, it was learned yesterday. The computations indicate little, if any, gain over 1936.

Although the Dep't. of Commerce early this year estimated the average weekly attendance for 1936 at 88,000,000, this figure was never accepted in industry quarters. Industry estimates for last year were approximately 5,000,000 under the department's figures.

Industry computations are based on the known total of film rental revenue, which is indicated for this year at approximately $300,000,000. Theatre receipts, on the average, are computed at between three and one-half

Oppose Ear-Marking Of Ohio Ticket Tax

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28.—Ear-marking of Ohio's admission tax receipts for unemployed relief is proposed by Gov. Davey in his call message for a special session of the legislature, opening here today.

Ohio exhibitors are organizing a move to oppose the proposal on the ground that it would permit the legislature to increase the present three per cent tax rate from time to time as relief needs required. Fear that the rate may ultimately be advanced to the old 12 per cent tax level is expressed

Signatures on Erpi Contracts to Be Affixed Today or Tomorrow

Signatures are scheduled to be affixed to the deal whereby Erpi disposes of its theatre sound equipment servicing and installation business to a Wall Street financing group today or tomorrow. The deal becomes effective on Wednesday.

As previously reported, the new servicing organization is headed by L. W. Conrow, with other officials of the Erpi operating department and field staff in executive posts.

C. W. Bunn, Erpi general sales manager for many years, has concluded his association with the company. He is reported to be in the midwest at the present time conferring with theatre supply dealers on the formation of a new national supply company, although there are no official indications at this time that the proposal has advanced beyond the idea stage.

All other Erpi home office executives are scheduled to remain with the company, which continues as a licensing agency for Western Electric at home and abroad. Erpi plans to withdraw from the theatre sound equipment field completely by Jan. 1, by which time, it is expected, all of its current inventories of equipment and parts will have been disposed of.

Japanese Ban Seen Extended Until Spring

By TETSUYA MORI

TOKYO, Nov. 8.—It is the general belief in foreign film circles here that the recent ban by the Japanese Government on the importation of foreign pictures until the end of the current year, actually will extend well into 1938. The move was part of the restrictive legislation governing all types of trade in the emergency caused by the so-called "China Incident." Admittedly, this is the most serious blow the film industry in this country has ever suffered.

There are about 120 features stored in the vaults of the 15 foreign companies who have headquarters here and it is believed that this product will serve to handle release demands of first run houses in Tokyo and the TORONTO, Nov. 28.—Following the presentation of a petition signed by 65 independent exhibitors of Quebec to Premier Maurice Duplessis of the Quebec Provincial Government asking for an investigation into the picture business in behalf of the independent theatre owners, a move has been made at Toronto for the establishment of a committee of conciliation, representing all branches of the industry, for the purpose of hearing all grievances of theatre owners and studying the procedures of the business with a view to straightening out differences, such as arbitration practices, block booking, subsequent run clearances, score charges and other matters.

See National Labor Unity for England

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A national labor agreement in England was foreshadowed here today with the announcement of recognition by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n., of the National Ass'n. of Theatrical Kine Employes.

The union officially approved an employes' body for the negotiation and consummation of district agreements. Also, conciliation machinery for national and district matters has been agreed upon.

Tax Liability May Result in UA Deal Shift

Formal Closing Held Up Pending Study

A re-casting of the Samuel Goldwyn-Alexander Korda agreement for the exercise of the options on the outstanding three-fifths of the United Artists common stock may be required as a result of tax liabilities which the deal, in its present form, imposes upon the company. The possibility has been shown by a study of the agreement now under way by New York and Washington tax experts, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned authoritatively on Saturday.

Formal closing of the deal, originally expected this week, will be held up pending the outcome of the study.

Unofficial indications are that the source of the difficulties uncovered by the tax experts is the agreement's provision that no dividends be paid on the United Artists common stock until the $6,000,000 obligation accruing from the exercise of the option

Lewis to Head CBS Group at Ampa Meet

W. B. Lewis, vice-president in charge of programs, will headline the group of C. B. S. personalities at the Ampa meeting Thursday at the International Casino. He will speak on "Radio in Relation to Motion Pictures."

Ted Husing will introduce the personalities and act as master of ceremonies. Among those scheduled to appear are Kate Smith, Al Pearce and Arline Harris of the Ford program, and Buddy Clark. The session will begin at 12:45 P. M.

Claim "Sacred" Big

"Nothing Sacred" is playing in 15 key city first runs, having gotten under way Thanksgiving Day and Friday. A cross-section of the group, according to Russell J. Birdwell, reveals the gross is between 20 and 25 per cent ahead of both "A Star Is Born" and "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

HE is a theatre manager, an old and experienced one, and he operates a New York neighborhood house for one of the circuits. His typewriter—it's a pungent one—in hand, this correspondent, unnamed, this morning tells his reactions to radio versus films. Embroidered with a homely and practical slant, the business philosophy of efficient theatre management, as this man sees it, runs something like the following:

In your neighborhood and some others where the people are sort of blase and also make it a regular habit to be out all the time, radio may not mean a damn thing, but where I am, for instance, we have an awful lot of real radio-minded people. And when the show is made up of a couple of palookas, as many of the shows are, can you blame the old man for lighting his pipe, putting on his slippers and listening to some of the air shows you mention? Then again, even if the show is O.K. and the weather looks a little lousy, they look out the window and say "To hell with the movies, let's listen to so-and-so tonight." And they do.

Besides the regular programs you have listed there are always others that keep them in, like big fight broadcasts, Mr. President's fireside chats and the other night, the "Night of Stars" from 8:30 P.M. to 1 A.M. which I even enjoyed after I got home from a short 14-hour day around the theatre. Anyhow, I think you wrote a swell argument and, no doubt, no one will pay any attention to it.

Then, having warmed up along his own whooping warpath, this manager goes into several other matters pertinent to his operation and, perhaps, to yours:

You might also be interested in the type of circuit operation which double featured "The Good Earth" and kept patrons in the theatre until 1 A.M. five nights a week in neighborhoods where they take in the sidewalks at 9 P.M. and where most people have to get to bed early so as to get to work on time in the morning. Or theatres which open at 11 or 11:30 A.M. in neighborhoods where the women have housework to do, noon lunch to get for the kiddies and where there is practically no male business or transients to draw from and where the show sometimes starts without a customer in the house. Or maybe with two or three of them or where the shows run to midnight and after, when the box-office might close at 9:30 P.M. without losing anybody.

Just a few other evils besides radio that no one has the guts to correct. They won't play single features because the guy down the street plays doubles. They play games and have giveaways because the other guy does it. The manager has to chisel turkeys to bolster the turkeys on his screen for Thanksgiving and other gifts for Screeno and other nights to help the box-office and make himself a panhandler with his neighborhood merchants.

It's a great business, show business today. Nuts. If we spent more time running our own individual theatre and didn't worry what the second or third run house is doing, we could keep mighty busy.

Nuts, it is. . . .

A grab into the bulging mailbag brings to light another letter. This time, on the ubiquitous radio problem still again. T. Wilson Erwin, who runs the Central Texas district, ten houses strong, for Texas Consolidated Theatres, Inc., has something to get off his sensible chest. Here he goes:

I have just finished reading your very timely and impressive editorial in the issue of November 19 [The Technicolor Is Ours].

Your approach to this problem was most ably handled and there can certainly be no doubt in the minds of those in control of talent Hollywood must as certainly take some steps to curb the situation that is now out of control.

There is one thought in connection with the whole subject that I am sure you have considered, but it was not included and for that reason I would like to recall it. Isn't it a truism (if there be such things in this business) that an entertainer can quickly wear himself out with that part of the public that constitutes our audiences? Constant appearances before a radio mike, week in and week out, are certain to dissipate the drawing power of any star no matter how great he or she may be. It is a conviction that has come to me after only infrequent visits with the radio hours, and it must be more apparent to people who are constant listeners to these periods of air shows.

Again may I thank you for your thoughts that crystallized in my own mind convictions that I have had for some time.

Short Subjects

"Rhythm Saves the Day"

(Educational)

Classical music is not drawing so well at a free concert. The charitable sponsor's investigating committee is aware of this. So are the Cabin Kids and the professor's son. They arrange a popular recital and the audience pours in. The professor's contract is renewed and all's well again. The Cabin Kids sing in their customarily entertaining style. It should get fair reception. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"The Dog and the Bone"

A Terry-Toon cartoon. It is entertainingly animated and likely to find favorable reception. The dog involved, after fooling around with a mere bone, invades a restaurant where he is pursued no end by an irate Italian who tries unsuccessfully to annihilate him. After many comic sequences the pup outwits his pursuer, gets a good feed and returns to his bone. Running time, 6½ mins. "G."

"Magic on Broadway"

(Fleisher-Paramount)

A few animated cartoon gags introduce Jay Freeman and his orchestra. The band promptly plays "Blossoms on Broadway" and Johnny Russell sings as the bouncing ball bounces. The cartoon stuff has its humorous moments. The music is smooth and the audience may find itself singing with the agitated sphere. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Chile, Land of Charm"

(Fitzpatrick-M-G-M)

From scenes of shipboard life on the way to this South American country to the colorful aspects of the lake country and mountain peaks, this is another first-rate travel item. It is done in the usual fine Technicolor. The comment is good and the pictorial compositions are pleasant. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Harris Takes Ohio House

SALEM, O., Nov. 28.—The Harris Amusement Co. interests, Pittsburgh, have taken over the State and Grand here. Since March, 1931, the two houses have been owned and operated by the Walken Theatre Co. N. L. Walken will remain in charge of them and in addition will become district manager for the Harris-directed theatres in Ohio.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—Setting a new all time record for short subject production at M-G-M, Jack Chertok Monday will start five shorts—"The Life of Dr. Carver," "Penny's Party," "Too Many Laws," "What Do You Think" and "Captain Kidd's Treasure."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Beg, Borrow or Steal"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—Down New Orleans way they have a custom called "lagniappe." In the north it is known as the baker's dozen. Both mean the purchaser gets an extra doughnut or cookie. In either place it is a gracious gesture. It is not recalled that any great emphasis was placed on "Beg, Borrow or Steal" in the company's annual announcement. But it seems that M-G-M has adopted the "lagniappe" practice. Like "Navy Blue and Gold" and "You're Only Young Once," it is first rate, audience pleasing entertainment. Like a doughnut it is not very much, but there is a whole lot around it. As it delivered one emotion-stirring sock in the climax it had no difficulty in causing the preview crowd to smile, giggle and guffaw from opening frame to fadeout.

Based on a William White story, the screenplay by Leonard Lee, Harry Ruskin and Marion Parsonnet is a frothy, bubbling concoction of clever dialogue and intriguing situations that make sparkling character performances automatic. Actors like Frank Morgan, Janet Beecher, Herman Bing, Erik Rhodes, George Givot, E. E. Clive, Cora Witherspoon, Reginald Denny, Vladimir Sokoloff and Harlan Briggs know exactly how to handle that type of material and the way they handle it, in this instance, leaves nothing to be desired. As this group indulges in its round of tomfoolery, Florence Rice and John Beal, the second leads in "Double Wedding," with the aid of Tom Rutherford, a newcomer, take excellent care of the romantic angle.

Morgan, a gentle grafter, the pal of Bing, Rhodes, Givot, Denny and Sokoloff who prefer to live otherwise than by laboring, persuades Beal to loan him a chateau as a wedding place for his daughter, Miss Rice. The deception is carried out in grand style to the amazement of suitor Rutherford and his parents, Briggs and Miss Witherspoon. All goes well until Beal falls in love with Miss Rice and the gang refuses to believe that Clive is a real nobleman. At the point where one of his shady deals and the police catch up with him, Morgan reveals his true identity to Beal. It would not be real romance did not the latter also prove to be a Prince Charming to take Miss Rice into his arms after Miss Rutherford, Briggs and Miss Witherspoon depart homeward.

Showmen have a show here that they can present to their patrons with the full confidence that it will meet with their approval. If "Beg, Borrow or Steal" is anything but a class A attraction the alphabet is all wrong. Producer Frederick Stephani and Director William Thiele here have given a conclusive demonstration that only a good story, capable players and the application of a little common sense are necessary to make a good film, high in entertainment and commercial value.

"Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

"You're Only Young Once"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—This unostentatious production is pointed straight at the great middle class which still pays most of the nation's taxes and does practically all of its voting. It strikes the common people, the number of which the Great Emancipator is said to have commented upon eloquently, right where they live—in their homes, hopes, ideals and emotions. If this preponderant majority of the population has undergone no vital change since compilation of last week's grosses there can be little question that the film will give an excellent box-office account of itself, more than possibly embarrassing most of the costlier productions alongside which it may be programmed.

The central character, a small town judge, is played by Lewis Stone in a manner arguing long and prosperous employment for the widely beloved veteran if this turns out, as expected, to be the first of a series built around the affairs of the Hardy family, plain people. Fay Holden plays the wife, Mickey Rooney and Cecilia Parker, the adolescent children, and Sara Haden, their aunt. The screenplay, by Kay Van Riper, using characters accredited to Aurania Rouverol, takes the family from a small town somewhere in mid-America to Catalina Island on vacation. At that place both youngsters incur romantic attachments of dubious promise and are rescued, so to speak, by their father's common sense counsel. Later, he extricates himself from a financial difficulty.

As directed by George B. Seitz and played by those named, plus Eleanor Lynn, Frank Craven, Ann Rutherford and others, "You're Only Young Once" moves smoothly along from plausible cause to logical effect, employing situations, dialogue and relationships snugly within the experience of perhaps 80 per cent of the 90,000,000 Americans who, unless the figure be down a bit just now, attend picture shows weekly. It's a pretty fine piece of plain bread-and-butter product.

toward the formation of the committee was the fact that four representatives of the Independent Theatres Ass'n. of Ontario joined with the independents of the Province of Quebec in placing the petition before the Quebec premier, the cooperation of the organized owners in Ontario being assured.

The committee has already held a preliminary meeting at which the aims and objects of the conciliatory board were generally outlined. Those comprising the committee are: N. A. Taylor, representing the Exhibitors' Booking Ass'n.; H. Freedman, president of the Independent Theatres Ass'n.; L. M. Devaney, general manager of Radio Pictures Corp. of Canada; Clair Hague, Canadian representative of Universal; Clarence Robson, division manager of Famous Players Canadian Corp.; H. T. Long, general manager of Associated Theatres, Ltd.; S. Fine of Bloom & Fine, Ltd., a subsidiary of Famous Players Canadian Corp., and H. Allen of Premier Operating Corp., which controls a group of theatres in Ontario. All of these officials are Toronto men, with two representing the Canadian film distributors.

Independents Cooperating

The campaign in Quebec is being sponsored by the Quebec Allied Theatrical Industries, of which the secretary is D. A. Burpee, theatre owner. Considerable importance is attached to the fact that the independents of both provinces have lined up with an apparent degree of solidity and also that the creation of a committee at Toronto would have considerable effect on the situation in Quebec as well as in Ontario because of the industrial leadership in Toronto.

by P. J. Wood, secretary of the I.T.O. of Ohio, in a bulletin urging exhibitors to attend the organization's regional conference here, Dec. 6 to 8, at which plans will be completed for opposing the change in the admission tax provisions.

The organization will be host to state senators at the annual banquet being held Dec. 7 in connection with the conference. Exhibitors are requested to attend and arrange to bring the state representatives from their local territories to the affair.

The I.T.O. bulletin relates that the organization will launch a move at the conference to introduce anti-Ascap legislation in Ohio "similar to that enacted in Nebraska." An injunction restraining Nebraska from enforcing its anti-Ascap legislation was issued by a Federal Statutory Court two weeks ago.

Presumably, this provision would subject United Artists to heavy liabilities under the Federal undistributed profits tax over the period during which the indebtedness was being liquidated, with the result that the tax experts retained by the principals apparently are attempting to simplify and revise the agreement in such a way as to lighten the indicated tax liabilities while retaining the original intent of the principals.

and four times the film rental revenue, or approximately $1,100,000,000. With the average admission estimated at between 22½ and 25 cents the industry thus arrives at the attendance figures which it commonly employs.

Attendance levels for the current year are estimated to have shown gains over those of 1936 up to and including September, but for the past two months have fallen behind the October and November gains of last year. No December gain is anticipated, with indications, as a result, that the 1937 increases will be evened off to little more than the industry's estimate of an 82,000,000 weekly average attendance for last year.

In line with the restrictive legislation on imports, the Government is attempting to impose restrictions on playing time in theatres. The plan is said to be designed to assist Japanese domestic production and to bring about improvement in the quality of native product. It is the intention of the Home Office to limit playing time to two and one-half or three hours at theatres.

Coincidentally, Japanese production has been severely hit by the imposition of a 20 per cent ad valorem tax on the importation of raw film, on the Government's belief that such import constitutes a luxury commodity.

Nate Blumberg "U" Head; W. A. Scully Sales Chief

New "U" Head

Nate J. Blumberg, who yesterday signed a five-year contract as president of Universal, succeeding Robert H. Cochrane. The board of directors will confirm the deal today.

BORN at Racine, Wis., Feb. 3, 1894, Nate J. Blumberg, who will become president of Universal on Jan. 1, will be back in the fold of the company he was associated with during the years 1926-28 as general manager of its Wisconsin theatres.

Blumberg was in business for himself many years before entering the industry back in 1905 as manager of a legitimate group of theatres under supervision of Mort Singer. He continued in the post for seven years and then joined the sales department of General Film, later moving over to Famous Players in a western post.

From 1914 to 1926, Blumberg was an independent exhibitor, operating in Milwaukee, Racine and other points west. In 1926 and during the two succeeding years, he was general manager of Universal Theatres in Wisconsin, and in 1929 became assistant general manager for RKO theatres, which embraced the entire country. From 1932 and until the following year, he was in charge of operations

R. H. Cochrane Offered Executive Committee Chairmanship—J. R. Grainger Supplanted in Dramatic Reshuffle

By RED KANN

Nate J. Blumberg, vice-president in charge of RKO theatre operations, yesterday signed a five-year contract as president of Universal, succeeding Robert H. Cochrane. He assumes charge on Jan. 1.

In one of the most unexpected and dramatic executive upsets in recent years, William A. Scully, eastern district manager for M-G-M, will become general sales manager, succeeding James R. Grainger.

Louis Weinberg, circuit sales manager for Columbia, will become a divisional sales manager as running mate to Frank J. A. McCarthy, currently eastern divisional manager for Universal.

Scully and Weinberg will go to "U" under contracts which are expected to be signed momentarily.

Blumberg's deal will be ratified by the Universal board of directors, who will meet this afternoon. Their ratification is purely a perfunctory procedure.

Cochrane has been offered the post of chairman of the executive committee under a 10-year contract to supplant his present three-and-one-half-year contract on a salary basis which, it is understood, would about equal, over the 10-year period, his remuneration under his present shorter term deal.

It could not be learned yesterday whether or not he had accepted the proposal of the board. Cochrane had no statement to make. Blumberg, likewise, maintained complete silence.

It is understood the shift will bring additional financing into Universal through a group reportedly close to Rockefeller interests. Blumberg's five-year deal calls for a four-figure salary each week with increases for each succeeding year and stock option arrangements on as high as 5,000 shares each year for the life of the contract.

It was by invitation that the present operating head of the RKO circuit joins Universal. It is understood he was first approached about a year ago through Charles R. Rogers, executive vice-president in charge of production. Blumberg at the time rejected the proposal and the matter remained dormant until about three months ago. It was revived on Blumberg's recent coast visit, the approach having then been made through a representative of a downtown banking group, the identity of which could not be

The Deal...

NATE J. BLUMBERG retires as general theatre operator for RKO to become president of Universal for five years.

ROBERT H. COCHRANE, currently president, is offered chairmanship of executive committee and 10-year contract to replace his current three-and-one-half-year pact. He has not accepted as yet, it is believed.

JAMES R. GRAINGER, general sales manager, is replaced by WILLIAM A. SCULLY, now eastern district manager for M-G-M.

LOU WEINBERG, circuit contact for Columbia, becomes divisional sales manager for Universal as running mate to

FRANK J. A. McCARTHY who continues as eastern sales manager.

J. CHEEVER COWDIN continues as chairman of the board.

CHARLES R. ROGERS continues in charge of production.

Adherence on Copyright Is Plea of Duffy

Recommended in Formal Report to Senate

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Adherence of the United States to the International Copyright Convention was today urged upon the Senate in a formal report submitted by Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin for the Foreign Relations Committee.

Recommending that the Senate, which passed favorably on the treaty some two years ago, again give its consent, the report recommended that, in order to give American interests time to prepare themselves for the new conditions, we should enter the convention a year after ratification.

The report stressed the protection which the treaty would give in other countries to the American copyrights, pointing out that films and broadcasting would be particularly affected, especially short-wave broadcasting, which now is in danger of infringement in vast areas.

The committee also called attention to the provisions for automatic copyright, explaining that they are of Twentieth Century-Fox did a domestic film rental business of $1,800,000 in the 15th week of the Kent Sales Drive. This is believed to represent a new all-time high in the history of any single distributor.

The company declared yesterday the record not only set a new high in amount of rentals, but also in numbers of bookings. More than 18,000 accounts throughout the United States

O'Connor Suggested To Replace Blumberg

John J. O'Connor, at present chief film buyer for the RKO circuit nationally, has been recommended as successor to Nate J. Blumberg as operating head of the circuit. O'Connor has been with RKO for years and is viewed as thoroughly familiar with the intricacies of its operation.

Decision as to the appointment rests with Leo Spitz, head of the company, who is now in California.

Kuykendall Delays ITOA Conferences

COLUMBUS, Miss., Nov. 29.—Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, today advised Harry Brandt, I.T.O.A. president, that he would be unable to attend the conference of exhibitor leaders proposed by the latter until after the first of the year.

Kuykendall had written Brandt earlier suggesting that the conference, tentatively proposed by the I.T.O.A. president for Dec. 14, be held not later than Dec. 10. Upon receiving no confirmation from Brandt of an earlier date, Kuykendall made other arrangements and now has a full schedule up to the year end holidays.

The aim of the conference was to devise means of obtaining distributor recognition of a trade practice program. Nathan Yamins, Allied States president, had accepted Brandt's invitation for the Dec. 14 date.

The I.T.O.A. said yesterday that it had not received Kuykendall's letter asking that a date prior to Dec. 14 be set for the conference, but wired him yesterday to learn whether Dec. 10 was still acceptable. He said that if, in view of his latest wire, it was not, the date for the conference would be set for some time in January.

Ament Joins Pathe News as an Editor

Walton C. Ament, attorney, who has been a member of the legal staff for Irving Trust Co., trustee for RKO, for the past two years, joins Pathe News tomorrow as an editorial representative. Ament was associated with the law firm of Donovan, Newton, Leisure & Lumbard, RKO trustee's counsel.

Others who become members of the newsreel staff tomorrow are Joseph Mickler, formerly chief rewrite man for the N. Y. Journal-American, and Charles Findley, formerly a script writer and director for March of Time. Mickler receives a writing assignment and Findley becomes a director for the reel.

The appointments were made by Frederick Ullman, vice-president and general manager of Pathe News, in line with a general strengthening of the reel's staff through the addition of new manpower.

Warners Intend No New Sales Changes

Beyond an exchange appointment for Herbert J. Ochs who is being succeeded as southern and western sales manager for Warners by Ben Kalmenson, no further changes in the company's sales force are planned, Carl Leserman, assistant general sales manager, declared yesterday.

Kalmenson, as reported by MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Saturday, will be succeeded as eastern district manager by Edward M. Schnitzer, who is resigning from Republic to assume the new post. Schnitzer signed his Warner contract yesterday.

Cohn Party Sold Out

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—The testimonial dinner to Ira Cohn, head of the 20th-Fox exchange here, which will be held at the William Penn Hotel Dec. 6, is a complete sellout. More than 450 are expected.

Start Drafting of Dallas Case Appeal

The drafting of papers for the defendants' appeal from the Dallas Federal court decision finding that major distributors conspired with Interstate Circuit in the making of contracts which tended to regulate admission prices in subsequent run theatres was begun here yesterday. Indications are that the work will be completed by the end of the week.

George Wright, defendants' counsel at Dallas, and John Moroney of Interstate Circuit, arrived here yesterday to aid in the preparation of the appeal which will be in charge of Thomas D. Thacher, former U. S. Solicitor General. The defendants have two more weeks in which to give notice of appeal. Present indications are that the appeal could not be heard by the U. S. Supreme Court before March or April and that the defendants, in the meantime, will not ask for a stay of the Dallas decree pending the appeal.

Gary Suit Against B. & K. Dismissed

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell today sustained a motion to dismiss the suit brought by the Gary Theatre Co. to enjoin distributors from enforcing clearance schedules alleged to have been drafted in favor of B. & K. of Chicago.

The motion to dismiss was brought by the plaintiff "because defendants presented the fact that B. & K. was not served and is not amendable to process in this district."

The theatre company indicated that it would institute a new proceeding in a court in which jurisdiction over B. & K. could be acquired.

William A. Scully

WILLIAM A. SCULLY, who has resigned as M-G-M district manager to become general sales head of Universal effective the first of the year, has been with M-G-M about 19 years. Before that he was a salesman for Famous Players at Boston and New Haven, starting in 1916.

Scully's first job with M-G-M was as a salesman, handling the Maine territory out of the Boston exchange. When the company opened a sub office at Portland, Me., he was appointed branch manager and later shifted to New Haven in a similar post. From New Haven, Scully went to St. Louis as manager and then was transferred to New York as New Jersey exchange manager.

When Sam Burger, district manager for M-G-M, resigned that title to switch to the company's foreign department, Scully was named to succeed him. He is presently in charge of the New York, Boston, New Haven, Washington and Charlotte branches.

O'Shea Fills in for Scully

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—While no permanent successor has yet been set to replace William A. Scully at M-G-M, William F. Rodgers, general sales manager, has named E. K. O'Shea as temporary director of Scully's eastern territory.

Nate Blumberg

for the Orpheum circuit in the middle west for RKO.

In 1933 he assumed the post of vice-president and general manager of all RKO theatre operations, a title he now holds. He has made numerous trips to the coast conferring with production heads of RKO, collaborating on ideas. He is well known in and out of the trade for his ability as a theatre operator, for his acumen in judging picture values and for the manner in which the theatres under his supervision have steadily moved upward on the business chart.

Unassuming, Blumberg lives in a penthouse high above Central Park West. There, with his family, composed of his wife, Vera; his son, Lewis, who rattles off theatre grosses with an ease that occasionally startles his father, and his daughter, Dodo, the new president of Universal spends all of his spare time.

He is well liked by all who come in contact with him for his sincerity and straightforwardness, both in business and socially. He holds the esteem of all who work for him and they are his well wishers as he leaves RKO shortly to take over his new duties at Universal.

Nate Blumberg "U" Head; Wm. A. Scully Sales Chief

learned yesterday. This group, it is learned, was at one time interested in certain RKO theatre equities and had become aware of Blumberg as a likely candidate for the Universal post through his administration as RKO's general theatre operator.

Upon Blumberg's return to New York a few days ago, the negotiations, launched with renewed vigor, were pursued in night meetings. At a session which terminated about three o'clock Saturday morning, the details were finally arranged. Yesterday, Blumberg signed the contract. Today, the Universal board will approve it.

At all times, it is learned, Blumberg negotiated directly with J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the "U" board, or the directorate through an authorized representative.

Cowdin-Rogers Prevail

The reshuffle keeps the Cowdin-Rogers influence in Universal dominant and marks a recession for the influence of Cochrane. Rogers not only continues in his present post as head of production, but is expected to play an even more vital part in the affairs of the company.

Grainger, now in charge of sales, has a contract which runs until next July. It provides the option for renewal must be exercised by March.

Decision to supplant him will come as a surprise. Grainger, for years, has been active in the national sales field and is one of the most widely traveled and best known sales executives in the industry. He joined Universal in 1933 after nine years as vice-president in charge of sales of Fox. At the time, Universal was doing a domestic gross of less than $160,000 a week. Since then, its business under Grainger's administration has grown steadily and currently the company is serving almost 9,000 accounts.

Grainger, it is known, has had no difference with Universal management. Whether or not the fact he recently objected to the addition of Budd Rogers to the executive sales force has had a bearing on the change now determined upon, is not known. Grainger felt no such addition was warranted in the face of a reduction in exchange personnel throughout the United States.

In the last two months, he has had offers from two other companies in the field. Both called for his designation as general sales manager. In the last few years, Grainger also has been eyeing production.

Rodgers Felicitates

William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, in a Hollywood wire to Motion Picture Daily last night said: "Of course, as you can well appreciate, we are all sorry to see Bill Scully sever his association of many years' standing but wish him a full measure of success in his new undertaking."

Would Impose Levy On Georgia Tickets

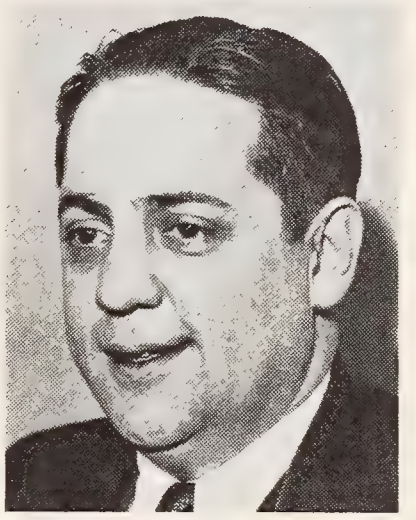
ATLANTA, Nov. 29.—Representative Booth has introduced a bill to levy a tax on admission to places of amusement.

The schedule calls for a one-cent tax on 10-cent tickets, two cents on 15-cent tickets and so on with one cent additional tax provided for each additional five cents in the ticket price. The sponsor estimated the bill would yield from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 a year. Representative Booth also is sponsoring the theatre circuit tax bill now ready for final action by the House.

No UA Meet Date Set

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—No date has been set for the United Artists stockholders' meeting which was to have been held Nov. 24 but which was postponed indefinitely.

Ontario Amusements Tax Is $2,108,127



TORONTO, Nov. 29.—According to the Public Accounts Report of the Treasury Dep't for the fiscal year ending March 31 last, the Ontario Government collected slightly more than $2,000,000 in amusements tax and theatre licenses during the 12 months, this being the last occasion, presumably, when the Province of Ontario will be able to announce a heavy tax collection because the amusements levy was abolished in toto two months after the end of the fiscal year.

The year's revenue from the amusements tax totalled $1,918,597, this being similar to the amount secured during the previous fiscal year of 1935-1936. Theatre licenses were responsible for $88,805 while fees collected by the Ontario censors amounted to $100,725, making a grand total from the amusement field of $2,108,127.

Jones Joins Republic

Charles Reed Jones has been appointed advertising production manager at Republic. He replaces Paul Radin.

Lou Weinberg

LOU WEINBERG, who is slated to resign his post as circuit contact for Columbia, to join Universal on Jan. 1 as one of its national sales managers, got his start in the industry 27 years ago as manager for Dave Picker's Bunny theatre on 116th St. Picker then transferred him to the Burland, Bronx, where he continued until 1917 when Louis Rosenbluth brought him into Fox Film as a salesman.

Weinberg then joined Select Pictures as a salesman and later became associated with Henry Seigel at the Apollo Exchange, owned by Bobby North. Apollo at the time handled local sales for Warners for a year. During the next two years, the exchange took on Columbia product and, when Harry and Jack Cohn and Joe Brandt bought out the franchise holders, Weinberg joined the sales staff.

He has been handling circuit sales for Columbia for many years and some time ago was officially given the title as circuit sales manager.

Huffmans in 'Shangri-La'

DENVER, Nov. 29. — Shangri-La, of "Lost Horizon" fame, will be simulated here when Harry Huffman completes the new home which he is building. Having received permission to call their home "Shangri-La" the Huffmans are planning to pattern the house after the fantasy location. Thirteen acres comprise the estate, ground of which will be broken very soon. Huffman is Denver city manager for Fox Theatres.

great importance to American authors who may not be familiar with the copyright laws of other countries.

The International Convention, the committee stated, has been kept up to date and makes provision for both films and broadcasting, two of the most important activities in which copyright is involved.

In a supplementary report submitted by Senator Duffy, it was charged that American interests have used arguments against the treaty for the purpose of defeating legislation revising our own copyright law and the opinion was expressed that if the treaty is ratified revision of the law will follow as a matter of course.

William T. Schoen yesterday was appointed by Supreme Court Justice Aaron Steuer as referee to determine the amount of damages suffered by the Empire State Employes' Union as a result of the reversal of an injunction rendered against it in favor of the Edgomac Amusement Corp. Edgomac brought suit in 1935 to enjoin the union from picketing a theatre. A temporary injunction was granted in April, 1935, and was followed by a permanent writ after trial. In April of this year the Court of Appeals reversed the decision and dismissed the complaint. The union asks reimbursement for attorneys' fees.

Elias, Aramart's attorney.

Birmingham to Ban Theatre Bank Night

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 29.—Bank Night will be banned in Birmingham after Dec. 4, Police Chief Riley said following an opinion from Acting City Attorney J. H. Willis that they were in violation of both the state and city anti-lottery laws.

Willis pointed out that in a recent ruling the State Supreme Court had held Bank Night illegal and declared that in his opinion present operation of Bank Night in Birmingham is equally illegal. "We want to be fair with the public and theatre goers here," Chief Riley said, "and are giving them until Dec. 4 in order that any ticket sales that have been previously made will not be affected. However, I have instructed my officers to inform the theatre managers that arrests will be made in cases where Bank Night is held after Dec. 4."

See Possible Regulation of Air "Gossip"

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—The possibility that the studios here may regulate the activities of radio commentators who purvey film "gossip" on the air, is seen in the issuance to the commentators of credential cards to 30 air columnists and their assistants.

The denial of cooperation to newspapermen bearing similar credentials automatically means the closing of studio gates to them until the ban is lifted, and similar procedure is thought possible in the case of radio columnists.

The cards, according to Tom S. Pettey, press contact man, will merely serve as a means of identification, similar to those issued to accredited correspondents for newspapers and publications.

Decision Not Recent

The move was decided upon some time ago by studio publicity directors who discussed possible means of regulating activities of the air columnists, but decided first to check up and have means of identifying the radio commentators.

Accompanying the cards were letters pointing out that the cards were merely to be used for studio identification, and would in no way admit bearers to previews.

Darryl F. Zanuck, speaking for the Film Producers' Ass'n, warned yesterday that "swift and stern action" would be taken if "certain Hollywood radio commentators continue their flagrant attacks on motion picture players in the industry. We are keeping a sharp vigilance over the remarks of Hollywood air gossipers and will immediately move should they further flaunt the tenets of decency," Zanuck said.

Deadline for AFM Deals Is Extended

The final deadline for the conclusion of local contracts in accordance with the plan of settlement between the network affiliate stations and the A. F. of M. locals has been extended to Dec. 15, with a warning that no further extensions will be granted. The agreement postponing the deadline previously set was reached yesterday at a meeting at Federation headquarters.

Coincidentally, the I.R.N.A. negotiating committee again has asked all station owners to cooperate with it and the A. F. of M. by having the signed copies of Schedule A in the hands of Ernst & Ernst, who are certifying the replies of the station owners for I.R.N.A., as quickly as possible, and certainly before the new deadline is reached. While quite a few station owners have complied already, the committee is of the opinion that more should have been received to date.

At A. F. of M. headquarters it was stated that the agreement for the key stations would be signed by the committees representing CBS and NBC today. Additionally, the license form for the transcription and recording companies is now being printed and will be mailed within the next few days.

Refuses to Dismiss Action Against RCA

Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday refused to discuss the suit of Abram J. Engelman against RCA, RCA Victor Co., Inc., RCA Communications, Inc., RCA Radiotron, Inc., and E. T. Cunningham Tubes, Inc., and ordered the case to trial.

Engelman asks $250,000 under an alleged contract made in 1933 for two and a half per cent commission on all sales of equipment for the transmission of photographic facsimile over short wave radio. He claims that the defendants used long wave transmission for trans-Atlantic purposes and that he advanced the idea of using short wave for interstate communication.

No Editorial Page On Air, Says Paley

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—William S. Paley, president of CBS, speaking before the second national conference on educational broadcasting, said today that "broadcasting as an instrument of American democracy must forever be wholly, honestly and militantly non-partisan, not only in politics but in the whole realm of arguable ideas." Because of this, he said, "radio must never have an editorial page."

"No discussion must be one-sided," Paley continued, "as long as there can be found any one to take the other side. The party in power must never dominate the air.

"We must never seek to maintain views of our own on any public question except broadcasting itself. Of course, I do not mean that any broadcaster as an individual may not express his own views like any other citizen."

Widow of Fessenden Sues RCA on Patents

WILMINGTON, Nov. 29.—A patent infringement suit instituted by Helen May Fessenden, widow of Dr. Reginald A. Fessenden, one time chief chemist of Edison's laboratory, against RCA involving short wave radio transmission opened in U. S. District Court here today before Judge John P. Nields.

Dr. Fessendens's widow alleges that her husband was the first man to show the radio industry that short radio waves could be used successfully for long distance instead of long waves and charges RCA with infringing on three patents of her husband.

The plaintiff asks that the court establish the validity of the patents and order an accounting of profits. The defense contends the patents are invalid because of prior knowledge of contents of the inventions.

New Shows on the Air

"Earaches of 1937"

Harry Conn's "Earaches of 1937," ballyhooed widely for the past few months, made its debut on CBS Sunday with all-around pleasing results. The show is a novel one, possesses a good cast, and the premiere airing gave evidence of thoughtful production.

Oddly enough, the show is most vulnerable in its comedy department. Odd, because Conn is one of radio's crack script writers, having worked for many seasons for Jack Benny and for a majority of the other leading radio comedians. Because of this record, it requires little prodding for us to believe that the comedy will improve as the program moves along. Incidentally, Conn made his debut as an actor in this series and gave an excellent account of himself as a thespian.

The cast includes Mark Warnow's excellent orchestra, Beatrice Kay in comedy and song, baritone Barry Wood, and Charles Cantor. Martin Gosh produced. The series is sustaining, and is presented Sundays over CBS from 8:30 to 9 P.M.

"Martha and Hal"

The song-and-patter team of Martha and Hal, supported musically by Andy Sanella's orchestra, provide a good, if undistinguished, 15 minutes of entertainment for the Humphrey Medicine Co. on Mutual. The program is average in every respect.

Martha and Hal intersperse song between coy, boy-and-girl patter, with their vocal efforts more highly appreciated than their patter by this department. Sanella's band does nicely when it is called upon.

"Martha and Hal" are presented over Mutual three times weekly, Sundays from 11 to 11:15 A. M.; Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:45 to 10 A. M.

'COUNTY FAIR' FINE FOLKSY COMEDY-DRAMA

'COUNTY FAIR"
(Monogram)

This folksy tale of a motherless farm boy with a beloved racehorse, and a father whose bereavement has put him out of sympathy with his children, is first rate entertainment for small towns and neighborhoods. It is a simple story, well told, and has strong sympathy appeal and a wholesome atmosphere that will commend it.

The reconciliation of the father and his son and daughter is brought about by the entrance of a clean, young American jockey who sees the human and equine possibilities and manfully undertakes to cut the knot. In doing so he brings the horse to victory, foils a gang of crooked track followers, and wins the hand of the daughter.

The highly competent cast is headed by that attractive young juvenile, John Arledge, who wins admiration and sympathy. Playing opposite him is Mary Lou Lender, a newcomer who at once earns recognition for ability, sweetness of personality and a good measure of unassuming good looks. J. Farrell MacDonald is the hard-bitted father, whose grief is spoiling all their lives, but who melts convincingly when the youngsters defy him, and his boyish son, Jimmy Butler, rides a winning race.

Fuzzy Knight as Arledge's stable-boy companion, carries the comedy, making the happy-go-lucky roughneck a likable and amusing lad. The plotting opposition is tellingly headed by Harry Worth, whose tough aides are Lynton Brent, Matty Roubert and William Hunter. Minor but essential roles are well filled by Henry Hall, Edwin Mordant, Horace Murphy and Charles Murphy.

The story and script by John T. Neville is an excellent example of sound play-building, with every scene advancing the story, and it is dialoged with telling simplicity. Howard Bretherton has directed with excellent taste and judgment to capture human values without losing suspense, and Arthur Martinelli photographs well the characterful investiture provided by Producer E. B. Derr and his associate, Frank Melford, who raise their standing several notches with this pleasing piece of popular entertainment. Brisk musical trimmings by Abe Meyer add a final effective touch.

DAILY VARIETY

County Fair

The story, written by John T. Neville has sock, heart interest, suspense and a satisfactory audience conclusion, balanced with comedy and the mild thrills of horse racing sequences.

Howard Bretherton directs with effective stress on the tried hokum elements as well as the physical activities involved in the simple plot, keeping them well dovetailed and adequately paced to whip up tension. A competent cast does its chores with zest and conviction. Production is carefully handled to show best results for expenditures without skimping—a creditable effort for E. B. Derr and his associate producer, Frank Melford.

HOMESPUN, WHOLESOME TALE SHOULD PROVE GOOD FAMILY AUDIENCE ENTERTAINMENT.

This is a homespun, wholesome tale that should prove good program fare. It is well cast, with John Arledge a convincing hero who outwits a gang of race track sharps who try to make killings at county fair tracks. Mary Lou Lender, a newcomer, is excellent in the role of a farm girl, whose tyrannical father, J. Farrell MacDonald, relents in the end. Fuzzy Knight supplies most of the comedy, while Jimmy Butler does good work as Mary Lou's brother.

Big Economy Wave Strikes All Hollywood

Studios Cut Staffs to Meet Cash Shortage

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.—A sharp economy wave is under way at both major and independent studios. With the shortage of cash definitely felt, companies are purging their contract lists of dead weight as well as undertaking the reduction of departmental staffs.

The moves are apparently being made on orders from the several home offices. One studio is known to be dropping more than half of its writing staff, and another is trimming its writer and director rosters more than half. One major studio is paying for story properties on the installment plan.

Directors and players also are hit,

Jersey Firm Files Anti-Trust Action

NEWARK, Nov. 30.—The Quemos Theatre Corp., through Attorney Chester K. Ligham, today filed suit in the Federal Court here for $3,250,000 against 40 film producer and distributing companies, charging monopoly in the distribution of films. The action was brought under provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust and Clayton Acts.

Quemos stated in its complaint that it had difficulty in securing first and second run pictures and that producers and distributors had conspired to prevent the company and other independent exhibitors from contracting for future delivery of films.

Included among the defendants are Warners, 20th Century-Fox, Paramount, United Artists, Columbia, Loew's, Universal and Grand National.

Board Action Is Illegal, Cochrane Statement Holds

The following statement was issued yesterday by Saul E. Rogers, acting as attorney for Robert H. Cochrane, relative to the signing of Nate Blumberg, as president of Universal, and W. A. Scully as general sales manager:

"It is Mr. Cochrane's preference to issue no personal statement concerning the new management of the company at the present time.

"In his behalf and as his attorney, however, I desire to state that the negotiations in connection with engaging the services of Mr. Nate Blumberg and Mr. William Scully were carried on and consummated entirely without his knowledge and, naturally, came to him as a great shock and surprise. It was not until he was present at the board meeting today that he was apprised for the first time of the terms and conditions of their respective proposed contracts.

"I regard the action taken today by the respective boards superseding Mr. Blumberg as president in the stead of Mr. Cochrane as without authority and illegal and, in addition thereto, bad from a business point of view.

"Thirty years of the kind of executive experience in this industry that has been acquired by Mr. Cochrane cannot be disregarded by the gesture of a board, particularly at a time when the company is in great need of the guidance of such mature experience. Mr. Cochrane's contract is unimpaired and in full force and effect and he is prepared to render his services in accordance therewith. His future course of conduct will depend entirely upon the policy and attitude of the new management."

Vote Cochrane Post as Executive Committee Chairman

By RED KANN

Nate J. Blumberg yesterday was elected president of Universal and William A. Scully appointed general sales manager, with Jan. 1 as effective date, by the company's board of directors.

The board also named Robert H. Cochrane, formerly president, as chairman of the executive committee, succeeding J. Cheever Cowdin who stepped down from that post to make way for Cochrane. Cowdin now fills two posts with Universal. He is chairman of the board, a post which he asserted vests him with power as the senior executive officer of the company. He is also a member of the directorate.

As spokesman for Cochrane, Saul E. Rogers, attorney who had been retained by the Universal executive, stated negotiations leading to employment of both Blumberg and Scully had been conducted without Cochrane's knowledge. "I regard the action taken today by the respective boards superseding Mr. Blumberg as president in the stead of Mr. Cochrane as without authority and illegal and, in addition thereto, bad from a business point of view," read the Rogers statement which is published in full in an adjoining column.

US Companies Agree to 10% English Quota

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Nov. 30.—American distributors in England have written to Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, declaring themselves willing to agree to a 10 per cent distribution quota, gradually diminishing, and eventually being abolished as production in England reestablishes itself. However, they criticized details.

The American distributors, in their communication to Stanley, expressed themselves as unopposed to the separate quota principle, believing it proper that the British producer should supply the exhibitor with British films.

Stanley's proposal for inclusion in the Films Bill of a provision for a Film Council of 10 independent members and 10 trade representatives was approved today by the Films Act Committee of the House of Commons. Strong labor opposition demanding a smaller, expert commission, was rejected by a heavy vote. The sponsors of the labor proposal alleged that there were constant evasions under the original act.

Capt. Euan Wallace, Parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade, hinted that ultimately there would be appointed a paid chairman of the Council. He also promised consideration of the details with a view to achieving acceptability of the whole group. Exhibitors are well satisfied, believing the proposed Council has all the elements of flexibility necessary for the safeguarding of British interests.

Netter Questioned In the M. & R. Suit

Leon Netter, Paramount theatre executive, was queried yesterday by George Ryan, attorney for Morse & Rothenberg, in connection with the taking of depositions here in the Boston circuit's anti-trust action against major distributors, the Maine & New Hampshire and M. A. Shea circuits.

Netter testified concerning film franchises made during the past 10 years by Paramount theatre companies and on film buying practices. His testimony was concluded during the morning session and the afternoon was given over to the identification of contracts made by the defendant circuits. The hearings will continue through this week with indications that an adjournment will be taken thereafter.

Settle Cocalis Action

Two suits of Republic Film Exchanges, Inc., and Mascot Pictures Corp. against the estate of Jack W. Springer, Soteras Cocalis and the Trio Manhattan Corp. were settled in the U. S. District Court yesterday just before the trial was to begin before Federal Judge Robert T. Patterson. The amount of the settlement was not revealed. The plaintiffs claimed that their pictures were exhibited without permission in the defendants' theatres. Three other suits brought by M-G-M, M-G-M Dist. Corp., Paramount Prod., Inc., Paramount Pictures Dist. Corp., against the Springer estate, Cocalis and Trio, also the Van Dyke Amusement Corp. and the Spuyten Amusement Corp. were settled previously.

20th-Fox Wins Action

Federal Judge Grover Moskowitz in U. S. District Court, Brooklyn, awarded $2,250 damages for infringement of copyright to 20th Century-Fox, Skibo Prod., Inc., Moser-Terry, Inc., and Terry-Toons, Inc. The suit was brought against the C. & F. Amusement Corp. and Ben M. Rossassy. Judge Moskowitz also awarded $4,500 in a similar case brought against the same defendants by M-G-M.

Para. Asserts Gary Suit Hits Contracts

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 30. — Paramount asserts that the granting of a temporary injunction to the Gary Theatre Co., plaintiff in an action to compel the producer to deliver 10 pictures allegedly included in last season's contracts, would harm exhibitors who are not parties to the suit. The assertion is contained in a supplementary memorandum filed in U. S. District Court here by Paramount's Indianapolis attorneys.

Arthur Lee Adds Two

Arthur Lee has named Louis Jarodsky to the St. Louis exchange and H. C. Dressendorfer to the Indianapolis exchange.

Hart Suit Is Dismissed

Ruling that a distributor is in no "fiduciary relationship" with the producer, Federal Judge John W. Clancy yesterday dismissed the $185,000 suit of William S. Hart and Mary Hart, who do business as William S. Hart, against the United Artists Corp. in the U. S. District Court on the ground that the complaint did not set forth a cause of action.

The Hart suit asked for the return of the 35 per cent which United Artists retained as its distributor's share of the gross receipts of Hart's picture, "Tumbleweeds," made in 1925. Hart's $500,000 breach of contract suit against United Artists is still pending in the N. Y. Supreme Court.

Order Roxy Affidavits

Attorneys and security holders' committees who are seeking fees and allowances totaling $612,000 in the Roxy reorganization were ordered by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey in the U. S. District Court here yesterday to file affidavits stating that no private arrangements for fees have been made. Judge Caffey stated that any applicant for a fee who failed to submit such affidavit would not receive an allowance.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 23
(20th Century-Fox)

The football season's somewhat damp conclusion is amply recorded—and vocalized by Ed Thorgersen—in this issue of the reel, wherein the ringing down of the gridiron curtain occupies fully half the available footage. Beyond that, the Los Angeles mountain slide, which is affording the alleged sunny California more publicity than the film stars, comes in for its share of attention, via some excellent camera work.

Lew Lehr dons verbal whiskers to welcome Santa Claus in New York with the Macy parade, and on the coast with the Santa Claus Lane opening, in his own most peculiar style of delivery. It is almost as amusing as most of the Lehr's slightly lobsided bubblings. King Leopold of Belgium is seen visiting King George of England, Mussolini's militarism takes the form this time of the virtually simultaneous launching of three submarines, a Borneo princess marries a wrestler in London, and the country's prize livestock struts its weight in Chicago.

The football parade includes the highlights of the Army-Navy, Alabama-Vanderbilt, Notre Dame-Southern California, Cornell-Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh-Duke and NYU-Fordham games, which provides a sizable portion of gridiron thrills.

Running time, 10½ mins. A.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 221
(M-G-M)

The crumbling mountain in Elysian Park, Los Angeles, provides an exciting enough lead for this issue. The scenes were caught at night and during the day from a variety of angles and manage to pack a lot of interest.

The opening of the opera season in New York follows. In that sequence Lauritz Melchoir and Kirsten Flagstad are shown shortly before the curtain goes up and a little later on the stage. The crowd, bar and general atmosphere of the event is capably commented upon by Adelaide Hawley.

The snapshot sequence offers scenes of a night parade in Hollywood celebrating the annual visit of Santa Claus, the King of England meeting the King of Belgium and riding with him in an ornate state coach, and shots of the Thanksgiving Day parade sponsored by Macy's.

The windup of the football season occupies the final portion of the reel. Army wins over Navy in a fog in Philadelphia and Fordham defeats N. Y. U.

Running time, 10 mins. P.

Paramount News
(Paramount)

There is little out of the ordinary in this number of the Paramount reel, with the exception of exceptional pictures of New York as seen from a Navy blimp used in training. The city is seen by day and in a group of night scenes, preceded by a flash at dusk, which are decidedly noteworthy.

The football season's finale pictures the highlights of the NYU-Fordham, Pittsburgh-Duke and Army-Navy games, the last featured by unusual pictures of the enormous, rain-soaked crowd. The news flashes include the "moving mountain" of Los Angeles, Capt. Ernest Simpson and his bride, the former Mrs. Mary Raffray, on Park Ave., the aftermath of the terrible air crash in Belgium which decimated the House of Hesse and Mrs. Roosevelt and Doris Duke Cromwell visiting the homestead project at Arthurdale, W. Va.

New York, via the Macy parade, and the opening of Santa Claus Lane in Hollywood, reflect the opening of the Christmas season, and the International Livestock Show holds the spotlight in Chicago, featured by a sheep dog's handling of a small flock.

Running time, 10 mins. A.

Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 38
(RKO)

This is a good, fast-paced release with plenty of material of that fortunate kind that is of interest even when it is not of consequence. It includes a livestock show in Chicago and another at the opening of New York's Metropolitan Opera, and that provides some idea of its variety.

The reel leads off with Monday night's Metropolitan opening, searching out the performers behind the scenes as well as mingling with the audience. Interior and exterior views of the Reading's new streamlined train making its first trial run at 120 miles an hour follow. There are glimpses of Mrs. Roosevelt and Doris Duke Cromwell on their recent visit to West Virginia housing projects, and there are shots of the damage done by Los Angeles' "moving mountain." The Chicago International Livestock Exposition and the visit of Belgium's King Leopold to England's George VI in London complete the "news" material. The sports section offers some good shots of the scoring plays in three of the important final games of the season, played last Saturday. They are the Army-Navy, Pitt-Duke and Fordham-N. Y. U. games.

A good reel with plenty to recommend it to any audience.

Running time, 9 mins. K.

Universal News
Vol. 9, No. 619
(Universal)

California's landslide furnishes the most interesting feature of the latest issue of Universal News, principally because of its nearness to city buildings and the fact that it has crushed a concrete viaduct and seems about ready to slide some more.

The other clips cover a wide field—a new Soviet plane built in this country, mass formations of Mexican athletes commemorating the 1919 revolution, a triple launching of submarines at Trieste, an international stock show at Chicago and the Macy parade on Thanksgiving Day. This is well handled, the cameraman having been careful to get closeups of the reactions of both children and grownups.

The football numbers show the defeat of U. S. C. by Notre Dame and the rainsoaked cadets beating the Navy at Philadelphia.

Running time, 9 mins. J.

Big Economy Wave Strikes All Hollywood

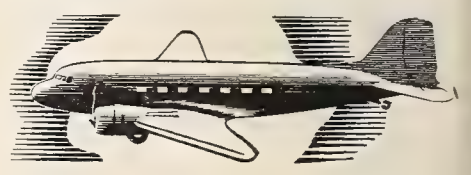
as contracts are being allowed to lapse at the expiration of option periods.

It is believed that several studios will suspend all production activity for as long as 12 weeks after the first of the year, judging by the pruning of staffs which otherwise would be kept. The writer staffs at studios recently have been at the highest peak of the year, thus creating a large supply of working scripts ready to go into production at short notice, and making it possible to have a lull in production. The indications are that production will show a decided spurt before the first of the year to enable the studios to meet their release dates during the period of inactivity.



The union offices here have reported a record number of men out of work this week despite the large number of pictures shooting. The layoffs have been occasioned by a desire to use as few men as the union contracts will allow. The 10 per cent increase in wages given to five unions during the studio basic contract conference in New York and in the Screen Actors' Guild contract have brought about a tremendous increase in studio labor costs, the guild contract alone costing the studios an estimated $2,000,000 per year. The prices of materials also have increased to a marked extent.

Reelect Circuit Officers

Pathe to Pay $1.75

Pathe has declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the convertible preferred, payable Jan. 3 to stockholders of record, Dec. 23. John Wallace, coast head for Pathe Film, has returned to Hollywood after conferences.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Beg, Borrow or Steal"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—Down New Orleans way they have a custom called "lagniappe." In the north it is known as the baker's dozen. Both mean the purchaser gets an extra doughnut or cookie. In either place it is a gracious gesture. It is not recalled that any great emphasis was placed on "Beg, Borrow or Steal" in the company's annual announcement. But it seems that M-G-M has adopted the "lagniappe" practice. Like "Navy Blue and Gold" and "You're Only Young Once," it is first rate, audience pleasing entertainment. Like a doughnut it is not very much, but there is a whole lot around it. As it delivered one emotion-stirring sock in the climax it had no difficulty in causing the preview crowd to smile, giggle and guffaw from opening frame to fadeout.

Based on a William White story, the screenplay by Leonard Lee, Harry Ruskin and Marion Parsonnet is a frothy, bubbling concoction of clever dialogue and intriguing situations that make sparkling character performances automatic. Actors like Frank Morgan, Janet Beecher, Herman Bing, Erik Rhodes, George Givot, E. E. Clive, Cora Witherspoon, Reginald Denny, Vladimir Sokoloff and Harlan Briggs know exactly how to handle that type of material and the way they handle it, in this instance, leaves nothing to be desired. As this group indulges in its round of tomfoolery, Florence Rice and John Beal, the second leads in "Double Wedding," with the aid of Tom Rutherford, a newcomer, take excellent care of the romantic angle.

Morgan, a gentle grafter, the pal of Bing, Rhodes, Givot, Denny and Sokoloff who prefer to live otherwise than by laboring, persuades Beal to loan him a chateau as a wedding place for his daughter, Miss Rice. The deception is carried out in grand style to the amazement of suitor Rutherford and his parents, Briggs and Miss Witherspoon. All goes well until Beal falls in love with Miss Rice and the gang refuses to believe that Clive is a real nobleman. At the point where one of his shady deals and the police catch up with him, Morgan reveals his true identity to Beal. It would not be real romance did not the latter also prove to be a Prince Charming to take Miss Rice into his arms after Miss Rutherford, Briggs and Miss Witherspoon depart homeward.

Showmen have a show here that they can present to their patrons with the full confidence that it will meet with their approval. If "Beg, Borrow or Steal" is anything but a class A attraction the alphabet is all wrong. Producer Frederick Stephani and Director William Thiele here have given a conclusive demonstration that only a good story, capable players and the application of a little common sense are necessary to make a good film, high in entertainment and commercial value.

"Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

"You're Only Young Once"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—This unostentatious production is pointed straight at the great middle class which still pays most of the nation's taxes and does practically all of its voting. It strikes the common people, the number of which the Great Emancipator is said to have commented upon eloquently, right where they live—in their homes, hopes, ideals and emotions. If this preponderant majority of the population has undergone no vital change since compilation of last week's grosses there can be little question that the film will give an excellent box-office account of itself, more than possibly embarrassing most of the costlier productions alongside which it may be programmed.

The central character, a small town judge, is played by Lewis Stone in a manner arguing long and prosperous employment for the widely beloved veteran if this turns out, as expected, to be the first of a series built around the affairs of the Hardy family, plain people. Fay Holden plays the wife, Mickey Rooney and Cecilia Parker, the adolescent children, and Sara Haden, their aunt. The screenplay, by Kay Van Riper, using characters accredited to Aurania Rouverol, takes the family from a small town somewhere in mid-America to Catalina Island on vacation. At that place both youngsters incur romantic attachments of dubious promise and are rescued, so to speak, by their father's common sense counsel. Later, he extricates himself from a financial difficulty.

As directed by George B. Seitz and played by those named, plus Eleanor Lynn, Frank Craven, Ann Rutherford and others, "You're Only Young Once" moves smoothly along from plausible cause to logical effect, employing situations, dialogue and relationships snugly within the experience of perhaps 80 per cent of the 90,000,000 Americans who, unless the figure be down a bit just now, attend picture shows weekly. It's a pretty fine piece of plain bread-and-butter product.

Running time, 76 minutes. "G."

his future plans. He was all smiles and his usual breezy self. In the last few weeks, it is understood, he had been approached to assume the general sales managership of two companies. Intermittently over the period of the last several years he has been sounded out on various producing ventures.

"Me?" he asked. "I have nothing to worry about."

Weisman Allowed to Discontinue Appeal

Milton C. Weisman, equity receiver of Fox Theatres Corp., was granted permission by Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton in the U. S. District Court here yesterday to drop his appeal from the $1,254,704 judgment against the corporation in favor of William Fox. Weisman and Hiram Steelman, bankruptcy trustee of William Fox, temporarily adjusted the claim at $1,-204,000.

The Chicago Title and Trust Co. recovered the original judgment against Fox and he, in turn, obtained a judgment against the corporation. Weisman contended that Fox was not entitled to interest. Instead of proceeding with his appeal, Weisman will permit the amount to be adjusted when hearings on Steelman's claim are held by a special master.

Cut Fort Worth Claim

Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum ordered that a $507,500 claim of the Fort Worth Properties Corp. against RKO be allowed at $3,737 in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. Judge Mandelbaum's ruling complies with a mandate of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The claim, which is based upon RKO's guarantee of a lease made by the RKO Southern Corp. for a theatre in Fort Worth, was allowed at $17,139 by Special Master Thomas D. Thatcher, but both sides appealed from the allowance. The Appellate Court held that Fort Worth had broken the lease by re-letting.

Appeal Nebraska B. N. Ruling

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 30.—Attorneys for the Beatrice Theatres Corp late today filed a motion with the Nebraska Supreme Court for a rehearing of the court's decision Oct. 22 which upheld a lower court decision ruling Bank Night a lottery and in violation of the state lottery laws.

The court will decide probably at its Friday meeting whether to grant a rehearing and, if granted, will set a date.

A Slight Error

Saul E. Rogers, attorney for R. H. Cochrane, became somewhat befuddled yesterday at a press interview, insisting that the Paramount board had no authority to take action. He repeated the error until it was called to his attention that he was in the offices of Universal.

Rogers, it will be remembered, was a stormy petrel during the Paramount bankruptcy, acting for a group of minority stockholders.

Reshuffle at "U" Ratified; Blumberg, Scully Deals Set

ment contracts given to Blumberg, former operating head for RKO theatres, and to Scully, currently eastern district sales manager for M-G-M. Lou Weinberg, circuit sales manager for Columbia, has initialed a three-year employment pact which is expected to be signed following the return of Abe Montague, general sales manager of Columbia, from Hollywood on Monday. Yesterday, Weinberg insisted he had signed no contract, although he admitted a deal designating him assistant sales manager of Universal had been discussed with Cowdin and Blumberg and that "all arrangements were satisfactory."

In the meantime, James R. Grainger prepared to sever all connections with Universal and is turning over to Frank J. A. McCarthy his duties as general sales manager. McCarthy will fill that post until Scully assumes charge on the first business day of the new year.

Cochrane Office "Additional"

Aside from his formal statement issued on behalf of Cochrane, Rogers told reporters yesterday that he regarded "any other office given Mr. Cochrane must be additional. I regard him still as president of Universal Pictures Co. and the Universal Corp."

The attorney added that the "offer" as chairman of the executive committee was being held in abeyance for further consideration. In the face of this, Cowdin declared later in the evening that Cochrane, by the vote of the board, no longer was president, that Blumberg now held such title as of Jan. 1 but that, in the interim period, the presidential post must be regarded as vacant. He also said that Cochrane, again by the vote of the board, now officially was chairman of the executive committee and that the new incumbent had neither rejected nor accepted duties which go with the title.

In answer to a direct question, Rogers declared no decision had been reached on the possibility of legal action to determine Cochrane's status as president. "I haven't fully decided what course of conduct will be pursued by me. That is awaiting decision," he said.

Pennsy Approached Cochrane

Rogers also revealed that an informal proposal had been made to Cochrane by D. M. Schaefer, an executive of the Pennsylvania Railroad and a member of Universal's board, for a new contract to replace the unexpired three-and-one-half-year deal under which Cochrane is now functioning. This informal offer, Rogers declared, had been rejected. It is understood it called for a 10-year arrangement at a figure considerably under Cochrane's current earning power but one which would have about equalized it over the extended period.

Apparently no offer has been made to purchase the veteran Universal executive's stock. He and his wife, according to Rogers, own about 20 per cent of the common in the parent company. Jointly, they are believed to be the largest stockholders in the corporation.

As the president of the company, Blumberg is also heading for a post on the directorate at a later date. In an interview last night, Cowdin stated no further changes were in contemplation. He appeared to be particulary emphatic upon this point when reporters as persistently raised the question about P. D. Cochrane and the studio personnel.

Reports that new money will follow in the wake of the realignment failed of confirmation. In reply to a barrage of queries along these lines, the board chairman replied,

"No comment at this time. All will be made in due course."

It developed further that R. H. Cochrane continues as a director. Cowdin expressed the hope that he will remain in the "capacities he has been elected to." In response to another query, he replied the Cochrane pact was an employment contract and did not specify that the post was that of the presidency. Blumberg's contract is along similar lines, his election to the presidency having been voted at yesterday's board meeting whereas his personal service agreement had been signed on Monday.

Budd Rogers Status Discussed

"Will Budd Rogers join in an executive sales capacity?" was another question.

"There has been no such discussion," answered Cowdin.

Alternating between quotable and "off-the-record" comment, Cowdin, throughout the interview, sought to stress the point that no further reshuffling is contemplated in New York headquarters. At no juncture did he refer to the studio except when queries turned replies in that direction. His attitude made it clear the dramatic executive upset had no bearing on Charles R. Rogers or his studio administration, but was confined to management—executive and sales—out of New York.

The original intention yesterday and last night was not to issue any official statement on the activities of the directors' meeting. It was the trade press which pressed the point and sold Cowdin the practicability of submitting to an interview with its flood of questions and some answers.

Pathe Signs Actor Guild Contract Here

Pathe's commercial film department has notified the Screen Actors' Guild that it will sign a contract establishing a guild shop for its production activities within the next day or two.

Pathe's action leaves March of Time as the only producer of consequence which has not signed with the Guild. A Guild ruling on March of Time's claim to being exempt from the contract provisions on the ground that it is a newsreel is expected from Hollywood by the end of the week.

Actresses to Wed

age of 10 when he passed out heralds for the Rialto, Racine, Wis. In addition to this he helped on display advertising and changed the marquee signs.

At the age of 13 he was promoted to usher at the Rialto, leaving this job two years later to become office manager and booker of the Tiffany exchange in Milwaukee. Three years later he rejoined Blumberg in Milwaukee as press agent and continued in the post for three years. At 21, he came to New York and took over the managership of the Lynbrook, Lynbrook, L. I., for George Skouras. He was then transferred to the Rivoli, Hempstead, where he remained for some years.

For a year and a half he managed the Academy of Music for Skouras and in 1936, when Edward J. Peskay resigned as booker and film buyer of the circuit to become general sales manager for Grand National, Fox was named to the executive post.

Skouras has not named a successor to Fox, who is now completing his duties and will continue at the Skouras office until Christmas. He will take a brief vacation and then move over to Universal.

Air Teaching Improvement Recommended

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Improvement of the quality of education broadcasting is the major problem to be solved in the field of cultural programs and one to which Government agencies and educators are now devoting themselves extensively, it is revealed by the annual report of the Office of Education, made public today by the Interior Dep't.

Work already done in this direction, it was declared, "has discovered an extensive radio audience for educational radio programs, and the discovery will undoubtedly lead broadcasters to set aside more time than heretofore for programs of an educational nature.

"On the other hand, the receptiveness of the audience to educational broadcasts is leading public agencies to attempt to learn the art of disseminating information about their activities."

Further, the report asserted, "radio is more and more coming to take its place in the American educational system, but the most successful use of it by educators continues to be a challenging experiment.

Problems Determined

"Agreement as to what are the common problems of broadcasters and educators has been reached in considerable measure in meetings, during the year, of the sub-committees of the Federal radio education committee. Comprehensive studies of these common problems are to be undertaken within the next few months."

In addition to the seven series of coast-to-coast programs offered over the NBC and Columbia networks during the year, the Office of Education, acting as a clearing house for educational scrips, filled requests for 54,000 scripts, which have been produced in 42 states over 114 radio stations.

Fessenden Plaintiffs Rest Case

WILMINGTON, Nov. 30.—Plaintiffs in the patent infringement suit brought by Helen May Fessenden, widow of Dr. Reginald Fessenden, former chief chemist of Edison laboratories, against Radio Corp. of America charging infringement of three patents involving short wave radio transmission, rested in United States District Court here today after calling only one witness. Leo A. Kelley, consulting engineer of Jackson Heights, Long Island, testified that Fessenden was the first man to show the radio industry that short radio waves could be used successfully for long distance instead of long waves.

The defense opened its case by calling Clarence W. Hansell of Port Washington, L. I., engineer in charge of transmitter, research and development laboratories of RCA Communications, Inc. Hansell denied that the inventor was the first to show the industry that short waves could be used successfully for long distance instead of long waves. He testified to the effect that the fact was known in the United States and in other countries prior to 1924.

Warner Hits at Zanuck's Statements on Columnists

Producers' Ass'n. Warner says that he was not speaking for the association or the Warner organization.

"If it is ever necessary for this company to issue any opinions, we will do so on our own behalf and under our own name," Warner said.

The Examiner and the other Hearst paper here, the Herald-Express, are engaged in their own campaign against radio columnists. The Zanuck statement was issued through Harry Brand, studio publicity head.

Among other things Zanuck said: "The motion picture producers have every confidence in the underlying good will of both the radio commentators and their sponsors. They both are prompted by a desire to promote the sale of their product, but we are sure they do not want to accomplish this at the expense of an industry which brings entertainment and happiness to countless millions throughout the world."

Informed of the Warner statement, Zanuck challenged Warner to "say what he thinks of these unwarranted attacks on Hollywood and its individuals."

Several hours after Zanuck was told of Warner's saying that the statement made by Zanuck did not have Producer Assn. or Warner sanction, the 20th Century - Fox producer said: "I am the executive Warner must have referred to in his statement about my criticism of air commentators who make unwarranted attacks on the screen industry and its people. I voiced my personal opinion and that of the company with which I am associated. I venture also to suggest that I spoke the sentiments of most producers and of constructive thinking people both within the industry and outside. I now ask Warner if he favors those people antagonistic to our industry. Let him 'say what he thinks of those unwarranted attacks on Hollywood and its individuals'."

Educational Shows Subject in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Immediate improvement in radio programs of all kinds was keynote of second national conference on educational broadcasting at Drake Hotel.

Starting with Merril Denison, critic and author, who spoke yesterday, the speakers pointed out the need for better programs, especially along educational lines. Denison told the delegates that radio was the victim of "cultural anarchy," a sort of blight that permeated the whole industry. He said better leadership was needed and that out of 17,000 programs on the air daily only about two dozen were as well done as they might be or could be or should be.

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor of N. Y. U., defended American broadcasting and opposed movements to put the government in broadcasting business.

Other speakers heard today by the several hundred broadcasters and educators in attendance were: Fia Ernest Hill, Dr. Levering Tyson, Robert M. Hutchins, Arthur G. Crane, Allen Miller, T. H. Shelby, C. B. Hershey, Horace M. Buckley, Blanche Young, Paul Rankin and Lester Ward Parker.

Wednesday's final session will have as its subject, "What Shall We Do with Radio?" Speakers will be George Henry Payne, Dr. James R. Angell and Clarence Dykstra. This will be followed by a discussion led by Lyman Bryson of Columbia University.

A banquet and entertainment was held tonight.

McFarlane Attacks Payne's Disbarment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Right of the F.C.C. to bar Commissioner George H. Payne from participation in the recent disbarment trial of Paul M. Segal and George S. Smith was today challenged by Representative W. D. McFarlane of Texas in a letter to Chairman Frank R. McNinch, made public by the Congressman.

McFarlane referred to the fact that he had previously written McNinch on the subject and had received an "evasive" reply in which the commissioner "impudently" refused to debate the matter.

The Congressman again asked for direct answers to his questions as to what authority of law permitted the commission to disqualify Payne; what court decision or statute justifies such action; and whether the commission knew that the District Court of Appeals had upheld the right of a commissioner to sit, even when bias or prejudice was charged.

"I shall wait a reasonable time for a direct answer to this inquiry and do not expect one so evasive and shifty as your first," McFarlane wrote.

"If at the end of that time it appears that you and your fellow commissioners fail to understand that this is a government of laws and not of capricious and supercilious lawyers I shall ask the House of Representatives to consider prompt action in the premises."

At the commission, Chairman McNinch denied that his letter to McFarlane had been intended in any but a most friendly spirit and refused to comment on the Congressman's charges.

FCC Duties Divided Among Comm'ners

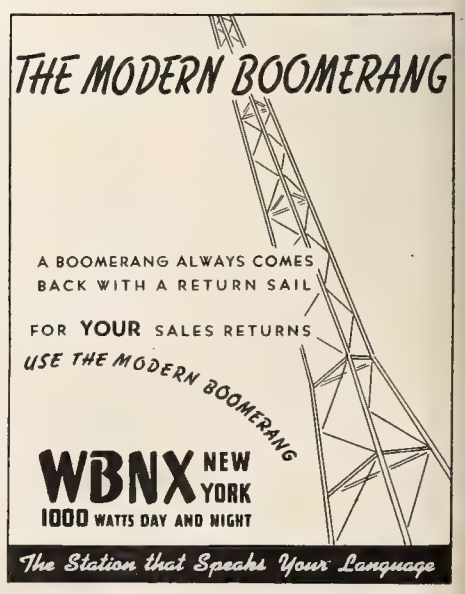
By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Authority over routine, engineering and emergency matters today was parcelled out among members of the F. C. C. with inception of a plan under which each member except the chairman will be assigned certain duties. The assignments will be changed monthly so that each member may eventually become thoroughly familiar with all types of matters coming before the commission.

For December, matters dealing with broadcasting, other than those on which commission action is necessary, are assigned to Commissioner T. A. M. Craven.

A motions docket is set up, for the hearing of matters relating to withdrawals, dismissals or defaults of applications, over which Commissioner Norman S. Case will preside for the first month.

The commission also designated days for consideration of cases, broadcasting matters being scheduled for Wednesdays; oral argument before the commission will be held on Thursdays.



McNinch Seeks Action

Announcing the new arrangement, Chairman Frank R. McNinch explained that it had been adopted to facilitate consideration of routine matters which prior to Nov. 15 were handled by the three divisions which were abolished on that date. Nearly all of the matters thus delegated, he said, require prompt action and some of them emergency action.

The chairman commented on the results of the recent order providing for publicity where attempts were made to influence the commission, saying there has been a most marked falling off in the number of inquiries that have been made, adding that practically none has been made with a view to exerting influence on commission action.

FitzPatrick May Produce ForParamount

Report to Do 10 Yearly In Color Abroad

James A. FitzPatrick, who recently completed 11 quota films for M-G-M in England, is understood negotiating a deal with John W. Hicks, Jr., to produce 10 pictures, all in Technicolor, for Paramount in England. The deal is reported to be for one year with four annual renewal options.

Questioned about the report yesterday, FitzPatrick admitted having preliminary conferences with Hicks, but added no deal has been concluded. He will leave for Hollywood Dec. 18 and while there presumably will talk over the proposition with Adolph Zukor, chairman of the Paramount board, and Barney Balaban.

When FitzPatrick returned from England recently, he told reporters that he was planning to make 10 more quota films for M-G-M next year. Whether this deal will be in addition to the Paramount offer could not be learned yesterday. In any event, FitzPatrick will continue to make 12

Reorganized Condor Sought by Creditors

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—Three creditors of Condor Pictures, Inc., have filed petitions seeking to have the company reorganize under Section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act, in opposition to the petition filed last week by Ben Pivar, Frank Gay and Albert Wenzel asking that the firm be declared bankrupt involuntarily.

The new petitioners are the American Motorists Insurance Co., claiming $714.92; Swett & Crawford, Inc., $515.88, and Frank Dillon Organization, $78.99. They ask the appointment of H. K. Bachelder as trustee, declaring under the reorganization all creditors can be paid in full.

Governor of Kansas Asks Newsreel Cuts

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 1.—Mae Clausen, chairman of the Kansas Censor Board, today received a letter from Gov. Walter Huxman asking the board to eliminate pictures from newsreels showing Irish sweepstakes lottery winners.

"I have not had time to check the law on the matter," Huxman wrote, "but if your board feels that you have authority to bar these newsreel pictures I hope that you will make an order deleting them and that no further Irish sweepstakes tickets or newsreels connected with the winners be shown in Kansas."

The Governor indicated his action followed complaints from citizens and a district judge.

The Kansas censor law specifically excludes newsreels from censor board jurisdiction and they are not sent to

Attack Labor Board's Power In Coast Tilt

Producers So Contend in Capital Hearing

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board over the relations between producers and screen writers was challenged today by representatives of the producers in oral argument before the board on the petition of the Screen Writers' Guild for an election to determine the collective bargaining unit for the writers.

Not only is the board without power to act in the matter, it was contended, but if it had such power the writers themselves could not be considered as employes under the terms of the Wagner National Labor Relations Act.

Joining in the contentions of the producers as to employment were the Screen Playwrights, while opposing views were expressed by the Screen Writers' Guild and the Screen Directors' Guild.

The hearings today brought to a close lengthy proceedings initiated by the Screen Writers' Guild last June with the filing of a petition on which hearings were held in Hollywood.

Those appearing before the board included Leonard S. Janofsky, counsel for the Screen Writers' Guild;

U. A. Board Meeting Is Again Postponed

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—The meeting of the board of directors of United Artists, scheduled for today, was adjourned, like several others recently, for lack of a quorum. The procedure is understood to be routine and in compliance with the corporation by-laws for the purpose of maintaining its legal status.

At a late hour today, the Korda-Goldwyn deal was in status quo. Indications here are that the consummation of the deal for exercise of the options has been held up pending the continuance of London negotiations, which apparently have reached the bargaining stage with the degree of control and possibly the amount and terms of the cash outlay the subjects of contention.

Some Hollywood executives, usually well informed on such matters, have expressed the opinion that the deal is cold, some citing British sources in substantiation of the belief.

Silverstone Due Soon

Maurice Silverstone, head of U. A. activities in England, and Marcel Hellman, producer for Criterion Films, are scheduled to return from the coast next week. Alexander Korda is due from Hollywood by plane in a few days.

Argue Oral Deals in Warner-Francis Suit

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—Whether violation of asserted oral agreements covering phrases of contracts not contained in the written instruments constitutes breach of contract was argued here before Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick when Warners presented a demurrer to the suit of Kay Francis seeking to invalidate her contract, which has about three years to run.

The studio attorneys declared that Miss Francis' contract as written calls for her to play any role assigned to her and that whatever oral agreements she had with Jack Warner, if any, had no effect upon the pact.

Miss Francis has claimed that she was promised vehicles other than those she was called upon to enact, and cited "Tovarich" as one of the films she was to have starred in. Judge McCormick gave both sides time to file written arguments.

Loew's, Inc., increased its holdings in Loew's Boston Theatres common to 97,760 shares during October by the acquisition of six shares during the month, and in Loew's, Inc., Sam Katz reported acquisition of 650 shares of common stock, giving him a total of 750 shares.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Tovarich"

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—Smart and sophisticated comedy though it may be, "Tovarich" is nevertheless an attraction for all types of audiences. It is one of that type of pictures the de luxe houses like to make a big fuss about; it is also a feature that comes within the ken of those who patronize the wide-spot-in-the-road theatres. It is a combination of many of the elements which all worthy pictures are supposed to include.

The motivating story is richly humorous. Its love story stimulates the most sentimental emotions, carries a bit of drama and presents an intriguing picture of post-war European life. Starring Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer, who contribute masterful performances, it features Basil Rathbone, Melville Cooper, Isabel Jeans, Anita Louise and Maurice Murphy as the principal supports. All perform up to the standard set by the leads. Headed by Victor Kilian and Heather Thatcher, the long list of minor players adds to the entertainment value of the film.

While the stage version of Jacques Deval's play is still meeting with success in metropolitan centers, the screen version by Casey Robinson, produced and directed by Anatole Litvak, with ample evidence that Robert Lord had a hand in the proceeings, may be expected to meet greater favor in the wider field of films.

For once the continental touch has been brought within the field of ordinary American understanding. Though the locale is Paris, for all practical and entertainment purposes it might just as well have been set in Milwaukee. Basically, the plot follows the premise that two people have been born to suffer and love it. Lest a wrong impression may be conveyed, it should be stated that nobody does any heart-rending suffering. The experiences which all meet are amusing to them. They also were amusing to a preview audience.

Miss Colbert and Boyer are an exiled Russian grand duchess and prince in Paris. Though Boyer can sign a check for 40 billion francs entrusted to him by the late Czar, he is the soul of honor and will not touch it. They live by what Miss Colbert steals. Poverty-stricken, they get jobs in the home of Cooper and Miss Jeans, whose children are Louise and Murphy. All is peaceful, although Boyer has trouble fighting off the flirtations of Miss Jeans and Miss Louise, and Miss Colbert has her hands full thwarting the amorous ambitions of Cooper and Murphy until at a reception they are recognized as royalty.

At first they fear only the loss of their jobs. Another menace arises in the person of Rathbone, Soviet commissar, who had put them in torture during the Revolution. But as the dialogue takes sly digs at the modern political-economic setup in Europe Boyer signs away his billions so that Russian territory may be preserved intact. Broke, they remain as servants, ostensibly until others as good can be found, but everyone knows that this will never happen.

As adapted, acted, staged and directed, the picture preserves and embellishes the full comedy quality of the original. The writer, actors and producer-director have extracted the full amusement value of everything provided. "Tovarich" should prove a desirable attraction in any kind of a house.

Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

Guild May Make New Agreement for Time

The Screen Actors' Guild may offer March of Time a supplemental agreement covering points in dispute between the two as a basis for signing of a guild contract by the reel, it was learned yesterday.

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, is leaving the decision on the conditions for settlement of March of Time's claims to a newsreel status to Mrs. Florence Marston, eastern representative of the guild, and Aubrey Blair, secretary-treasurer of the Junior Guild, who will arrive in New York from the coast tomorrow. The two are scheduled to confer on Saturday with March of Time officials. Indications are that the guild will offer a supplemental agreement defining newsreel and theatrical production in March of Time releases, with provisions for full adherence to the guild's contract on all work defined as theatrical.

March of Time has been adhering to the provisions of the guild contract, without having signed it, since Sept. 1.

A membership meeting of the junior guild will be held here during Blair's visit, probably within the next 10 days.

Pathe's commercial film division is scheduled to sign a contract with the guild today or tomorrow. The pact had been promised for yesterday, but unavoidable delays were encountered, it was said.

"First Lady"

is the First Comedy of the Land!

There's never been a story slant like this hilarious "inside" on the gals who make the men who make the laws. It's written by Katharine Dayton and none other than George S. Kaufman, the never-wrong co-author of 'I'd Rather Be Right', 'Stage Door', 'Of Thee I Sing', 'The Royal Family' and a dozen more as successful. It was the big laugh of Broadway last season and is ready now to do as much for you, advertised by WARNER BROS. and played to the hilt by a great cast!

Interior Dept. Made 30 Reels for Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — Thirty reels of films costing approximately $51,000, were made during the fiscal year ended June 30, last, it was disclosed today in the annual report of the Division of Motion Pictures of the Interior Dep't.

A feature of the year's work, it was declared by Fanning Hearon, director, was the production of the most ambitious film the department has attempted, "The Price of Progress," dealing with the destruction and conservation of natural resources.

Other productions included three Indian pictures, a presentation of the rehabilitation of the Virgin Islands, a picture on Boulder Dam and one on the Bureau of Reclamation in general, a story of the Ohio-Mississippi flood, and the beginning of a film record of Grand Coulee Dam. Others covered national and state parks, the Civilian Conservation Corps and related subjects.

Pictures in the department's library were distributed at the rate of 500 shipments per week to theatres, colleges, schools, CCC camps and interested institutions, organizations and groups, it was said, and it is estimated they were viewed by 4,000,000 persons during the year.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hitting a New High"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.—Advocates of both popular and classical music may be expected to respond to the news that in "Hitting a New High" Lily Pons sets out to demonstrate that a ranking vocal talent can be exercised with equivalent effectiveness in both media. Persons attracted primarily by the promise of such a demonstration may be expected to go away convinced that virtuosity and versatility are indeed compatible characteristics, for the diminutive diva sings three numbers in each bracket, even throwing in a bit of stepping for good measure, with approximately equal facility.

It is more than a little regrettable that the production is so emphatically a musical demonstration as to be almost negligibly a motion picture. By a process of practically automatic elimination the failure of Miss Pons' vocal vehicle to entertain otherwise than academically may be traced down to the story by Robert Harari and Maxwell Shane. Able Jesse L. Lasky gave the enterprise everything a producer can give. Raoul Walsh contributed his veteran directorial touch, softening corners here and pointing up flat spots there. Edward Everett Horton, Jack Oakie and Eric Blore applied the torch of their comedy repeatedly but no flame leaped up.

The tale pieced out by the authors deals dismally with an opera sponsor whose press agent plants a cabaret singer in darkest Africa to be discovered by his employer and palmed off on the moguls of Manhattan as a "bird girl." It is never for a moment as funny as a thing like that would have to be to amuse people who don't know or care about opera sponsors, or people who do, and it has the additional demerit of making Miss Pons a stupid young woman sputtering phoney Africanese between song numbers. Offered as a vocal feat by a first flight operatic star, the film may be found to have a certain well defined box-office value. That would seem the showmanly way to play it. Considered simply as all-purpose screen merchandise, it certainly is among the season's major disappointments.

Running time, 84 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Boy of the Streets"

(Monogram)

This is a bread-and-butter picture. It is so earmarked all the way.

"Boy of the Streets," in some of its overall story implications, bears a general resemblance to "Dead End" without being a carbon copy except where social implications, having to do with the slum areas and living conditions under them in a big city are concerned. The city, of course, is New York and the specific area in which the melodrama is told is the East Side.

There is the usual gang of roughneck kids who are not nearly so rough or as tough as their exterior markings might indicate. Jackie Cooper, tall and slim and very much the growing young man, is their leader. His mother supports the boy and the father, a sort of political hanger-on and an economic wastrel whose earning capicity is exactly nil. There is the neighborhood doctor, revolting against the sort of social order that permits garbage cans in hallways. And there is the uptown girl who inherits the tenement property and who ultimately is stirred into rehabilitating it along livable lines.

Young Cooper finds this exterior protection in being tough and hard-boiled. Actually, he is not and the picture, setting out to prove the point, ultimately demonstrates his worth and his vaguely defined desire for the clean thing by finally enlisting him in the Navy. Before that, he has a scrape with a gang of mobsters who attempt to veer him from the straight and narrow. Regeneration comes with his enlistment and an implied sometime-to-be romance with Maureen O'Connor.

The cast, which does a representative job, includes Kathleen Burke, Robert Emmett O'Connor, Marjorie Main, Matty Fain, George Cleveland, Gordon Elliott, Guy Usher, Paul White and Don La Torre. William Nigh's direction is always down-to-earth and showmanly.

In its class, "Boy of the Streets" is a representative piece of merchandise. There are, or there should be, thousands of theatres across America that will do well with it. That, it is to be assumed, is what counts.

Running time, 76 minutes. "G."

Due to the requirements of construction on outside passages it is doubtful whether any of the existing buildings in the city could be remodeled or rebuilt to comply with the new regulations.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Inspector General"

(Garrison)

The kind of satire Central Europeans are noted for runs ribaldly through this version of Nichola Gogol's famous play. It is a Czechoslovakian production. Full of rare laughs at the expense of petty, small town Russian officials in the time of the Czars, the film should find a good audience in "cinema" patrons and among those familiar with the language. There are adequate English titles that bounce out at one in various and sometimes startling sizes of type. The entire production seems to have been done with a keen eye for humorously debunking entertainment.

The plot is more or less familiar. The officials of a small Russian village are informed of the secret visit of an emissary from the Czar. A slick visiting wastrel hears of this and imposes a masquerade that the scared dignitaries soon get wind of. Immediately they come kowtowing. They treat him royally and ply with plenty of graft as they seek favors. He makes out very well and following a sumptuous dinner absconds in the nick of time. The treatment of character is excellent and the portrayals are highly entertaining.

The photography when it goes in for clever angles is good. When it is recording ordinary action the cameraman did not tilt his machine enough. Consequently the tops of the players' heads are only partly visible. Jan Stallich, who filmed "Ecstasy," did the camera work. Max Fric directed. The title role is ably played by Vlasta Burian. There is a sort of Laurel and Hardy comic element handled by Josef Vosalik and A. Dvorsky as a pair of political hangers-on.

"Paid to Dance"

(Columbia)

Lincoln, Dec. 1.—Columbia's new roughshod kid, Don Terry, fairly sparkles in this drama foundationed on the dancehall hostess racket and aimed to please the 10-25c bracket which prefers action and muscle stuff. Although it will always be found in the duals, or short dates, it will have little trouble completely satisfying its clientle.

Women are the point of interest, of course, with Jacqueline Wells, Rita Hayworth and Louise Stanley getting most of the camera attention. All three are the last word in appearance and groomed in those slinky dancehall harnesses will keep the men interested. Gangster trimmings come with Arthur Loft, Paul Stanton and Paul Fix, the latter thoroughly despicable and Stanton the top man in the hostess racket, although posing as a blue-nose.

Dancehalls are pushing the kids around, so the story unfolds, none of them once in the game able to get out. Murders and mysterious disappearances are so frequent that the governor (Thurston Hall) sends Terry into the breach to get the lowdown. He enters the business himself, grabs off a fistfull of evidence, busts a few noses and marries his stool-pigeoning beauty, Miss Wells.

Robert E. Kent did the screenplay, following Leslie T. White's story. The director is C. C. Coleman, Jr.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

"God's Country and the Man"

(Monogram)

Lincoln, Dec. 1.—Several months away from the camera may have dulled Tom Keene's drawing power, the same being true of Betty Compson, but "God's Country and the Man" is a western with the proper quota of entertainment to entertain action patrons. Its producer-director was R. N. Bradbury.

Keene's father is killed when Charles King pulls a robbery. Keene, swearing to seek revenge, takes the trail. He runs into Betty Compson, King's left lady, and they join forces to trap him. In the meantime, Billy Bletcher and his daughter, Charlotte Henry, move into the film's good side. It becomes obvious that Betty Compson's feeling for Keene is going amiss and that she's due for a sad end, which happens near the finish.

There is the usual quota of fights, gunfire, and hard riding in rough country. The setting is Canadian and the Mounties figure to a slight degree, mostly as targets for the outlaws.

Robert Emmett did the screenplay and dialogue, and the production was supervised by Scott R. Dunlap.

Running time, 53 minutes. "G."

"Sacred" Tops Chicago Takes With $16,800

Chicago, Dec. 1. — "Nothing Sacred" led the Loop last week with a $16,800 gross at the Roosevelt, which is $5,800 better than average. The Oriental also went over the average mark with "The Last Gangster" to get $19,000.

DeMille Hits Radio "Gossip" on Screen

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1.—Cecil B. DeMille today assailed Hollywood commentators who have maligned Hollywood and the film industry, saying radio gossips "are preying on defenseless people and poisoning the public mind." He said the picture players have too long submitted to insults over the air.

"Stars who have been attacked have been unable to reply, because it simply meant heaping fuel on the fire and giving the radio reporter a chance to retort and keep an unwarranted scandal alive. The offenders have not had the good taste to censor their own material; if they had they would not now be the target for widespread enmity."

One of the greatest sources of interesting news the world has is Hollywood, he said. Therefore, he said, why not tell the truth and make friends instead of circulating venom.

Efficiency Highest In CBS Short-Wave

The efficiency of the directional antenna systems employed by W2XE, CBS international short-wave station, is higher than that of the systems of the other similar stations throughout the world which cooperated in a six-month series of tests recently completed by the Union Internationale de Radiodiffusion from its headquarters in Brussels, according to a report just received by E. K. Cohan, CBS director of engineering.

The tests ended Oct. 1 and were conducted to determine the relative increase or decrease of signal intensity of a large number of short-wave stations when they switched to and from antennas directed toward Europe and toward other parts of the globe while employing the same frequency band. According to Cohan the graphs of signal intensity showed that W2XE consistently showed a greater increase at Brussels when it switched from South American to European antennas, than any other station cooperating.

Hogan, witness for defense, at one time worked with Fessenden.

Harold H. Beverage, of New York, chief research engineer of RCA Communications, Inc. and Greenleaf Pickard, consultant engineer, also testified as to use of short waves in long distance communication prior to 1922. RCA is charged with infringment of three patents issued to Fessenden. Validity of patents is asked in the bill of complaint.

Payne Demands More Education in Radio

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Speeches by George H. Payne of F. C. C., Dr. James Rowland Angell, Clarence A. Dykstra and S. Howard Evans, executive secretary of the National Committee on Education, today brought to a close the second national conference on educational broadcasting which was held here at the Drake Hotel.

Commissioner Payne said radio "must be prevented from stopping the growth of the American mind. Development of interesting radio education through skilled production methods," Payne said, would require the overcoming of what appears to be "a distinct inertia on the part of broadcasters, but it can be done."

As remedies, Payne said, "First we must establish in practice what has been accepted in theory and law, that radio waves are the inalienable property of the public." If higher standards of educational broadcasts cannot be established under the existing laws, "further legislation may be necessary," he said.

Dr. Angell told the delegates that radio should supplement the education which is given in schools and that the use of properly prepared transcriptions would be of great help. He said that transcriptions are the best method of preparing correct and appealing programs. He also stated that networks should have a definite policy regarding educational broadcasts.

Clarence A. Dykstra advocated three divisions in radio in his talk: First, commercial broadcasting; second, semi-public broadcasting, and third, government broadcasting.

Summation of the meeting shows that educators are displeased with the present types of radio programs along educational lines but little was offered during the meeting to show just what kind of programs were needed. Plenty of criticism was offered but the general opinion is that the speakers were not especially constructive.

Dropped from Barbasol Show

Mary Jane Walsh, who has been starring on the Barbasol program over Mutual, has been let out of the cast, and beginning tomorrow she will be replaced by Arthur Godfrey, the "em cee" from Washington. Miss Walsh, in addition to her radio work, is appearing in the Broadway musical "I'd Rather Be Right," and the sponsor, it is said, was of the belief that the singer could not do justice to the program while doubling between radio and the stage.

Camel to Drop Oakie Series

Barry Brennan, attorney for the Screen Directors' Guild; Neil McCarthy for the Screen Playwrights; Alfred Wright for 20th Century-Fox; Walker K. Fuller for Paramount and S. D. Cohen for M-G-M.

Carrying the burden of the argument for the petitioners, Janofsky declared that the question of jurisdiction has been settled by Supreme Court decision, holding that laws affecting interstate commerce could be extended to activities not necessarily of themselves in, but affecting interstate commerce, pointing out that were the writers to go on strike the production of films would slow down and the stream of interstate commerce diminish.

Guild Calls Writers Employes

The guild also took the position that writers were employes, contending that the terms of their employment were such as to bring their work under the supervision and control of the producers, with relatively few exceptions, a position which later was rebutted by the producers, who declared that the companies purchased the ideas of the writers rather than their work for so many hours a day.

Janofsky devoted much of his argument to the method in which an election should be held, if ordered by the board, declaring that all screen writers employed by the eight producers comprising the Producers' Ass'n, should vote as a unit rather than to hold separate elections for the employes of each individual producer. He justified this suggestion on the ground that the contracts with cameramen and other groups were signed by the eight members of the association, and in one instance by the association for its members.

He also urged that the board order that any writer who had worked six weeks, consecutively or not, during the year preceding the date of the filing of the petition June 11 last, be eligible to vote.

McCarthy Cites Futility

Declaring that there is no problem that could be helped by bargaining, McCarthy expressed the view of the Playwrights that writers were not employes but rather persons who sold the product of their brains. Further, he told the board, there is "nothing to bargain about—nothing in their relationship with the producers that can be improved." The producers want only the finished script. The petition, he said, is a "misguided effort on the part of the guild to harness them with regulations which the producers will dictate."

Treatment accorded writers by the producers, as described by company attorneys, elicited from Chairman J. Warren Madden the comment that Hollywood must be an Elysium and doubt whether such conditions could actually exist. Donald W. Smith, a member of the board, however, said that from his experience as attorney for Ascap he could say that they did exist, at least with respect to composers and no doubt to writers.

Citing the Schechter and Carter decisions, dealing with activities in the one instance after interstate movement had ceased and in the other before it began, counsel for the producers contended that production was in the same classification, as an industry which itself was intrastate in character although producing for interstate commerce, and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of the board.

Not only is the production intrastate, the board was told, but only a small fraction of one per cent of the supplies and materials used in production were purchased outside California.

Say Control Would Spread

If the board holds that the act applies in this instance, it was warned, it will have to assume jurisdiction over practically every activity in the country, since any cessation of any activity would lessen the flow of interstate commerce.

Further, it was argued, even if the board had jurisdiction, the conditions under which the writers work would exempt them from classification as employes under the act.

Following the hearing, the board granted opportunity for the filing of further briefs, and announced it would take the matter under consideration. Decision, however, is not expected for several weeks.

FitzPatrick May Produce For Paramount

Traveltalk shorts for M-G-M next season. He worked out a deal with Al Lichtman while in England, he said upon his return from Europe.

Arrangements are understood to have been made by FitzPatrick for completely re-equipping Sound City Studios in England with Technicolor apparatus at a cost of approximately $250,000. Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president of the color company, is due from the coast next week for conferences with FitzPatrick on the English studio arrangement.

It was pointed out that FitzPatrick has signed a five-year contract with RCA as a full fledged licensee. He has his own sound and Technicolor units established in England as well as production personnel.

Holds Many Pacts

FitzPatrick, it was stated, feels that transporting Hollywood talent to England is impractical as a general thing, but for occasional purposes it will serve for bolstering British product. He is said to have a roster of players under contract including Sylvia Marriott, Frank Henderson and Kathleen Gibson who have appeared in pictures produced by him in the last year.

According to his statement to the press about two weeks ago, FitzPatrick said he would return to England in February to produce "Tiller Girls," first of his new color series. The story deals with the life of George Tiller, dancing master.

W. B. Lewis Makes Plea For Cooperation

By J. M. JERAULD

Ampa members and their guests were told yesterday that radio is bettering pictures and bettering their profits.

They also were told that broadcasting packed the Forest Hills tennis matches last fall and piled up new football records. They were pointedly informed that, in spite of a greater use of film talent on the air than ever before, box-office profits hit a new peak for the year.

The speaker was W. B. Lewis, in charge of programs for CBS, and the speech was designed to convince the film industry there is no real conflict between it and broadcasting; that air programs are creating new talent for films and enhancing the value of talent already developed by pictures. It followed a program of entertainment put on by CBS talent. The turnout at the International Casino was one of the largest Ampa has had this year. The luncheon developed out of a suggestion made by Motion Picture Daily.

Lewis went straight to the point of his address at the start by saying that he wanted to confine his discussion of the relationship between the two industries "to what radio is doing and can do for you."

"Relationship, I assume," he stated, "at least implies 'cooperation.' But the kind of cooperation I want to emphasize today is the part my industry is playing in the betterment of your

Hemphill, Noyes Has Part Atlas-Lehman RKO Option

A participation in the Atlas Corp.-Lehman Bros. option to acquire the remainder of RCA's holdings in RKO has been granted to Hemphill, Noyes & Co. by the option holders, it was learned yesterday.

Atlas, Lehman and Hemphill, Noyes' representatives currently are negotiating an extension of the option with RCA on the bulk of the RKO securities involved. A small amount of the securities, probably not more than one-third, will be purchased within the next few weeks and, if the current negotiations are successful, the option on the remainder will be extended for an undetermined period beyond Dec. 31, the expiration date.

The extent of the Hemphill, Noyes participation could not be learned authoritatively. However, it is believed in informed quarters to amount to about $636,000 of RKO debentures and 78,500 shares of RKO common stock at the present time with provisions for acquiring like amounts through exercise of the option. In this event, the company would have $1,272,266 of debentures and 157,490 shares of common.

Hemphill, Noyes, Lehman Bros. and Atlas Corp. all are heavily interested in Paramount, as well. Stanton Griffis, a partner in Hemphill, Noyes, is chairman of the Paramount executive committee, and John D.

Headquarters politely wrote back: "What bonus?"

New Financing For Universal In Talk Stage

New financing for Universal is in the offing, coincident with the management changes effected by the company's board on Tuesday, it was learned from authoritative sources yesterday.

The major financial deal currently in negotiation involves the Equity Investment Corp., of which D. A. Milton is the head. Milton is the husband of Abby Rockefeller. The negotiations are being conducted with Ellery Huntington of the Wall Street law firm of Satterlee & Canfield, attorneys for Equity.

There is little official information available at the present stage of the negotiations on either the amount involved in the financing deal or the form such a deal would take. Indications are that nothing final has been determined yet and consummation of a deal may require several weeks.

J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board of directors of Universal, stated last night:

"I have no such deal under way, neither have I discussed such a financing arrangement with the interests mentioned."

"Nothing Sacred" at $112,000 First Week

"Nothing Sacred" came through with a take of $112,000 in the first week at the Music Hall. The picture is now in its second week with the possibility of a third provided a control figure is reached over the weekend.

"Merry-Go-Round of 1938," at the Roxy for eight days, garnered $43,000, which is fair.

Extension on U. A. Option Is Foreseen

Clarification of Deal the Reason for Move

The Samuel Goldwyn-Alexander Korda options to purchase the outstanding three-fifths of United Artists common stock will not be exercised by Dec. 23, the date on which the options expire, well informed sources in New York, London and Hollywood were confident yesterday.

This does not mean that the deal has been abandoned or, even, is "cold," authoritative sources emphasized. It augurs a short term extension of the option, probably for 30 days. By the end of that time, it was predicted, legal and tax experts and principals in the agreement will have either untangled the numerous obstacles to closing of the deal which are now present or will have arrived at a stage in their study of the agreement at which it will be apparent whether or not consummation of the deal is feasible.

Obstacles to closing the deal have been multiplying for the past 10 days in all three centers in which work on the agreement has been in progress, namely, New York, London and Hollywood. Well authenticated reports

Warners Now Have 2 London Plays Going

Warners are interested in two London stage plays, "Hide and Seek," current at the Hippodrome, and "Blondie White," it was stated by an executive of the company yesterday, but no official decision has been made to bring the plays to Broadway.

It is understood Warners have no definite commitments with any English theatrical producer and each play is partially financed by the company on an individual basis.

When Jack L. Warner, vice-president in charge of production, returned from Europe recently he said the company planned to produce six plays a year in London, but no more are scheduled, it was stated yesterday.

Commons Committee Favors Film Council

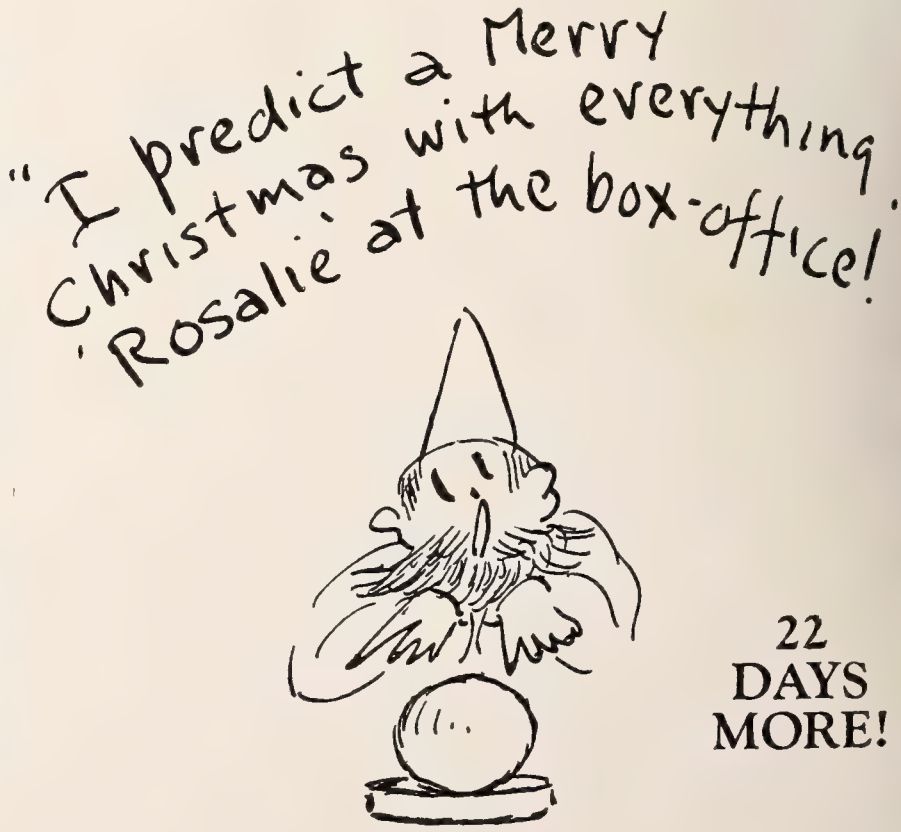
By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Films Act Committee of the House of Commons today ratified the form and structure of the Film Council as proposed by Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, despite numerous amendments. The original amendment to the Film Bill, providing for a council of 10 independents and 10 trade representatives, was retained.

Stanley admitted the possibility of a paid chairman being named to head the council. A specific representation clause and another calling for Scotch representation were eliminated.

Capt. Cunningham Reed, director of Criterion Film, supporting an amendment for four producers on the council, stated that it is an unfortunate fact that in this country British films do not fill the theatres, while American product does.

Stanley, in his appeal for the council provision as he sponsored it, expressed a willingness to accept an amendment providing approval of the council personnel by the interested groups before the election of members. The council's procedure will be determined by itself. The Commons committee will reassemble on Tuesday.



Despite continued and frenzied pressure by producer and labor interests, it is authoritatively indicated that the separate quota is unlikely to be accepted.

"Live, Love," Band a Smash In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—The Stanley took practically everything in town, doing $39,000 with Ted Lewis' band and "Live, Love and Learn" to come within a few hundred dollars of breaking the band-show record which was established only the week before by Fred Waring and "Breakfast for Two." Business everywhere else was off, the Penn doing only $14,000 with "The Firefly," against expectations of considerably more.

At the Fulton, the second week of "Merry-Go-Round of 1938" produced only a weak $3,600 and the Alvin had to be satisfied with $5,400 for "Gangway" and "Charlie Chan on Broadway." The Warner was also low, doing only $3,700 with "On Again-Off Again" and "Bulldog Drummond Returns."

Total first run business was $55,700. Average is $45,000.

Warner Color Camera At Moving Mountain

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2. — Warners have dispatched a Technicolor camera crew to the "moving mountain" of Elysian Park, Los Angeles, to photograph the landslide, if and when it occurs, for inclusion in "Gold Is Where You Find It."

William L. Guthrie, head of Warners location department, was refused a permit to authorize the camera crew to go near the site of the moving mountain, so the workers are behind the safety lines, operating with the aid of a special distance lens.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Headin' East"

(Coronet-Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—While Buck Jones is the star and, naturally, the most important commercial asset of this or any Jones film, the unusual story idea provided him in "Headin' East" is an exploitation factor of substantial worth. For the time being he forsakes the wide open spaces, the company of cattle rustlers, western bad men, etc., to invade the East and break up a racketeer gang. To make the departure more complete, the story has practically nothing to do with the formula of western action melodrama.

In the story, an original credited to Joseph Hoffman and Monroe Shaff with screenplay by Ethel LaBlanche, Buck has the assistance of Shemp Howard, Elaine Howard, Ruth Coleman, Donald Douglas, Earl Hodgins and John Elliott in turning out a feature that should attract attention. Capably produced and directed by L. G. Leonard and Ewing Scott, the film moves speedily, balances dialogue and action nicely, takes several surprising twists and makes good use of suspense.

Racketeers, harrying the produce business in customary gangster manner, bring Buck to New York. In a mysterious manner, trucks and trainloads of lettuce are destroyed. The prosperity of his grower friends is menaced. In typical wild west fashion Buck breaks up the ring. While he is the center of the melodrama, and also the romance which involves Miss Coleman, comedy contributions give the show a pleasing humorous quality. It may be expected that the ranking western star's following will turn out in full force for this offering, while exhibitors seeking to attract additional business may announce it as a different adventure-action attraction that holds much entertainment for any kind of audience.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Overseas Previews

"The Rat"

(Imperator Prod.-RKO)

LONDON, Nov. 20.—This, the second Herbert Wilcox production made for Radio release, despite its exploitation of the personality and name of Anton—Prince Consort—Walbrook is disappointing. The wide public who warmed to the opulent canvas of "Victoria, the Great," is not likely to find the same satisfaction in this pasteboard and fancy dress variation on the outmoded theme of the Montmartre underworld. Walbrook, himself, sinuously moving through it in a closely fitting black silk shirt flashing his knife against those who break the code, protecting the virginal Odile and "rushing" a wealthy paramour, stealing valuable jewelry and living in a garret, which he invariably enters via the rooftops and an open window, scarcely succeeds in breathing life into a puppet-like role.

As "The Rat," terror of the underworld, who combines the characteristics of both Sir Galahad and Jack Diamond, Walbrook, to save his Odile confesses to the murder of her would-be seducer, but Ruth Chatterton, as his unalluring mistress, tells the world and an embarrassed court room that he spent the night in her boudoir. But "The Rat," turning his back on riches and romance, tells little Odile, angel child with the abbreviated frocks, that he will wait for her until her year in jail is finished.

That Walbrook does not shine is not to say he will not charm his fans, and that Miss Chatterton's polished performance produces no brilliance is a criticism of the material rather than the artiste.

Running time, 73 minutes. "A." FLANAGAN

Metro Sets British Production Schedule

LONDON, Dec. 2.—Metro has disclosed the continuance of British production with a January schedule which includes "Citadel," to be produced by Victor Saville, "Finishing School," to be produced by Michael Balcon, Hugh Walpole assigned to adapt "And So Victoria," and R. C. Sherriff doing the script on an air force film, "Shadow of the Wing."

It is reported that "A Yank at Oxford," the first Metro British production, was received well at a sneak preview. Al Lichtman sailed on the Normandie yesterday for New York, where he will arrive next Monday. It is said here that he plans to fly immediately to Hollywood. Also on the Normandie are Robert Taylor, who starred in "A Yank at Oxford"; Madeleine Carroll, Lionel Barrymore and Mrs. Ben Goetz.

Looking 'Em Over

"Prairie Thunder"

(First National)

The action doesn't drag in this western. Dick Foran tears about from one exciting and noisy situation to another as he pursues his duties as a scout in the days of the west when telegraph lines and railroads were being pushed across the continent. The dirty work he has to contend with is done by a gang of outlaws who are selling rifles and ammunition to Indians in order to monopolize the wagon train industry.

In the course of his performance Foran rounds up the culprits and delivers them to an outpost. The Indians attack the place and set the prisoners free, following a slam-bang pitched battle. Foran and Ellen Clancy are taken prisoners by the departing attackers. Miss Clancy is taken to a hideout and Foran to the Indians' camp. He expects to die by torture, but his pal frees him. They rescue Miss Clancy and are off again to warn a wagon train of an impending attack. The attack comes and for about 20 minutes the audience is treated to a collection of stock scenes with dubbed in sound and fresh incidents during which many Indians and pale faces do fierce battle. In due time the Umpty Ninth Cavalry puts in an appearance and routs the savages. Foran gets the gang leader, the Congressional Medal, the rank of colonel and Miss Clancy. They are last seen riding off while Foran chants a robust outdoor air.

The unfolding of the yarn will keep audiences keyed up and thrilled. Miss Clancy, one of the prettiest of western heroines, speaks her lines well. Foran is his usual manly and scrapping self. Frank Orth and Wilfred Lucas are also featured. B. Reeves Eason directed.

Kincey Buys Another

CHARLOTTE, Dec. 2.—North Carolina Theatres, Inc., headed by H. F. Kincey, has acquired the Criterion from the S. W. Craver interests. Purchase of the Criterion completes the 1937 expansion program of the circuit which recently took over the Broadway. The Criterion will take over the policy of the State which will close Dec. 31.

With the purchase of the Criterion the Kincey interests have control of every white film house in Charlotte except the Charlotte. However, two new houses are being built.

Berlin Finishes Seven

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2.—Irving Berlin has finished seven songs for the next Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers filmusical, "Carefree," formerly titled "Change Partners." The titles are "I Used to Be Color Blind," "Change Partners," "The Night Is Filled with Music," "What the Well Dressed Man Will Wear," "Let's Make the Most of Our Dream," "Carefree" and "You Can Be My Cave Man."

Mitzi Green will draw a featured role in the picture.

Order Intermissions

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2.—Considering that it is imperative for film patrons to rest their eyes at intervals, the local, municipal government has ordered theatres to provide three intermissions during every performance. Each of these rests must be of not less than five minutes and after there has been an exhibition for 90 consecutive minutes.

indicate that tax and legal problems on both the American and British ends of the deal are still of major proportions. In addition, the lining up of new producers, pertinent to United Artists future product supply, and provisions for financing whatever new producers may be brought into the fold, have grown within the past week to problems which rank in proportion with any other confronting the option holders. David O. Selznick's withdrawal from United Artists, Frank Capra's return to Columbia and William LeBaron's decision to continue at Paramount, all, are reported to have upset to some extent the Goldwyn-Korda plans in this respect.

Lawyers and tax experts are still hard at work daily, as are the principals in Hollywood, trying to overcome to the obstacles in the path of a formal agreement. Authoritative sources are agreed that while the deal may be salvaged as a result of these efforts, the work in hand cannot possibly be completed by the expiration date of the option.

Dallas Appeal Plan Finished by Lawyers

Interstate, in conjunction with Thomas D. Thacher, appeal counsel for the defendants, and Paramount attorneys. The work will be reviewed today by attorneys for all defendants who, at the same time, will make a final decision on whether or not a move will be made to obtain a stay of the Dallas decree until such time as the appeal has been decided. Indications now are that no stay will be sought.

Wright and Moroney plan to leave for Dallas over the weekend.

Seek Quiz in "U" Action

An examination before trial of Herbert J. Yates, Sr., president of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., and Ralph I. Poucher, vice-president, will be sought by John J. Tippett, Inc., before Justice Peter Schmuck in the N. Y. Supreme Court this morning. Tippett is suing Consolidated, Universal Pictures Corp., Eastman Kodak Co., Jules E. Brulatour, Inc., Jules E. Brulatour, Carl Laemmle, the Prince Stock Corp., and Maurice Fleckels for $600,000 for an alleged "conspiracy" to induce Universal to breach a five-year contract made in 1932 for the purchase of raw stock. The plaintiff alleges that large loans were made to Universal in order to induce the breach of the contract.

Drops Warner Action

Sanford Green, song writer, was permitted to discontinue his $5,250 breach of contract suit against the Vitagraph Corp. by Justice Timothy A. Leary in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday. Costs were awarded to the defendant. Green claimed that he was employed as a song writer under a one-year contract in November, 1936, and that he was discharged after nine weeks. Vitagraph admitted the discharge, but alleged that Green neglected his work. In the petition to discontinue the action Bernard L. Kamen, Green's attorney, stated that the plaintiff was in Hollywood seeking employment and is financially unable to make the trip for the trial.

Sues Over Vending Machine

Henny Leshay, owner of a candy store, filed suit in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday for a permanent injunction against the Tyron Amusement Corp., owners of the Loyal, on St. Nicholas Ave., and the Sanitary Candy Corp. to restrain the defendants from operating an automatic candy vending machine in the lobby of the house. The plaintiff claimed that her store lease granted exclusive rights to sell candy in the building and that the vending machine was operated in competition. Justice Louis A. Valente yesterday denied a motion for a permanent injunction pending trial. Both defendants filed affidavits that the machine was removed after the action was started.

Dismisses Color Film Suit

Judge Robert T. Patterson yesterday dismissed the suit of Emi Klamt and Ada V. Klamt against the American Natural Color Films, Inc., on the ground that the plaaintiffs and several of the defendants were "engaged in promoting an alleged process known not to belong to any of them." The defendants against whom the suit was previously dismissed are Bernhard Deltschaft, Albert Muller, Herbert Bertling, former Ambassador James W. Gerard and others. The action was based upon an alleged agreement made in Germany in 1934 between the plaintiff and Deltschaft, Muller and Bertling for the exploitation of an optical color film invention in the United States. Judge Patterson ruled that the plaintiff knew that the invention belonged to Stenger & Lehmann of Germany and refused to order enforcement of the 1934 contract.

Denies Union Case Dismissal

A motion of Local 306 of the M. P. Operators' Union to dismiss the second amended complaint brought against it, Allied M. P. Operators' Union and the I. T. O. A. by the Gotham Amusement Corp. and seven other independent exhibitors to enjoin enforcement of the January contract between the I. T. O. A. and the union was denied in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by Justice Edgar A. Lauer.

Two previous complaints in this suit have been dismissed. Justice Lauer found that the third was sufficient in law and ordered Local 306 to serve its answer. The union contended that disputes under the contract must be settled by arbitration but the court held that this was unnecessary. The plaintiffs claim that the I. T. O. A. had no authority to bind them to a contract with the unions and that the action was not ratified by the board of directors. A permanent injunction restraining enforcement of the contract is sought.

McKay Testimony Heard

Willard S. McKay, Universal general counsel, was queried yesterday in connection with the Moore & Rothenberg anti-trust suit against major distributors, the Maine & New Hampshire and M. A. Shea circuits. The taking of depositions in connection with the suit was adjourned thereafter, with plans for resuming this preliminary legal work here on Dec. 14.

File New Theatre Plans

Plans have been filed for a 525-seat theatre at 72nd St. & Broadway, on the site of Hotel St. Andrew. Approximately $100,000 will be spent on the project which will include stores. Jurale Corp. is the company behind the new theatre. Saurette Schumael is president and Altina Sanders, vice-president. Peter Copeland is the architect.

Forgetful

Mexico City, Nov. 30.—A curious case of a Municipal Government granting an exhibitor a tax-free concession to provide a town with films, then eight years later calling upon him to pay imposts amounting to nearly $40,000, has arisen in Pueblo City.

In 1929, the Municipality gave Jesus Cienfuegos a franchise to operate a theatre the city had built, tax-free for 20 years. A new civic administration claimed taxes for eight years, contending that it knows nothing about the contract. The exhibitor has obtained a temporary injunction.

Griffis Firm Gets Share in RKO Option

Hertz, partner in Lehman Bros., is a member of the Paramount board.

Atlas and Lehman two years ago acquired, together, $4,893,327 RKO debentures and 605,731 shares of RKO common from RCA, for $5,000,000. At the same time, they obtained the option which expires at the end of this month to purchase for $6,000,000 like amounts of RKO debentures and common stock from RCA, comprising the balance of that company's RKO holdings. The Atlas-Lehman individual holdings have, of course, been reduced now by the amount of the Hemphill, Noyes participation.

The indicated failure of the option holders to exercise the agreement in full at this time means that RCA will be given representation on the new board of directors which will be proposed in the near future for the reorganized company. This would not be the case if the option were exercized in full by Dec. 31.

File Objections to Alger Plan for RKO

hearing on Dec. 21 to decide whether or not to confirm Alger's ruling. The MacPherson objections assert that 500,000 shares of Class B stock were illegally issued to RCA in 1928 and that 1,740,000 shares later issued in connection with a bond issue were also illegal. The objections stated that the special master should have decided that RCA "dominated" RKO, a contention which Alger specifically rejected. The last day to file objections to the report is Dec. 16.

"Fargo" Trailer Is Made for School Use

Paramount has produced a special "Wells Fargo" trailer for schools. It runs approximately 10 minutes and gives a recapitulation of transportation and mail service from early Pony Express days to the current air mail method.

Actual scenes of the picture are shown in addition to introduction of characters at the end of the subject. Not only does the subject serve educationally, but it is an excellent advance for the feature when exhibited in institutions of learning. O.

Commonwealth Gets 4

Commonwealth Pictures has acquired distribution rights in United States and Canada on four 16 mm musical shorts, "Sing, Bing, Sing" and "Blue of the Night," starring Bing Crosby, and "Singing Plumber" and "Singing Boxer," starring Donald Novis. These were originally produced by Mack Sennett and released by Paramount.

Again Delay Fuller Suit

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—The suit of George Fuller, Pensacola, Fla., exhibitor against seven major distributors and Saenger Theatre executives has been postponed indefinitely.

Montreal Circuit in Marked Profit Gain

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—A marked increase in profits is shown in the annual financial statement, for the year ended April 30 last, of the Confederation Amusements, Ltd., which owns and operates six theatres in Montreal. Net income for the fiscal year, after depreciation, totaled $68,202, as compared with $42,943 for the previous year.

Total interest charges of $33,183 were earned more than twice over, compared with a ratio of 1.20 for the year 1935-'36 while net available for dividends was $28,891, equivalent to $5.29 per share on the eight per cent preferred stock. Only $5,380 was available for dividends one year ago. A dividend of 75 cents per share was paid last August, the previous and initial payment on this stock being 60 cents in December, 1936.

Loew's Reports Gain For 2 Canada Units

Marcus Loew's Theatres, Ltd., of Canada, reports a net of $111,730 for the year ending Aug. 26. This compares with a net of $81,795 for the previous year and equals $8.79 per share on the common after the preferred dividends.

Loew's London Theatres, Ltd., also of Canada, had a net of $15,597, equal to 46 cents a share on the preferred. This compared with a net of $11,105 in 1936.

Hummel said he planned to be gone about five months and visit Java, Singapore, New Zealand, China, India, Japan and Manila.

CEA Intends Action To Cut Competition

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The general council of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, at its next meeting, will consider what is described as a grave situation caused by the increase of free shows and radio competition, which has taken various forms.

It has been proposed that the exhibitor organization approach the various interests responsible for the competitive shows with a view to their elimination.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 24

(20th Century-Fox)

In its lead-off world events section Movietone News has four subjects—President Roosevelt starting his fishing trip, Vice-President Garner on a hunting trip, Mrs. Roosevelt at a charity dancing event, and the boy and girl winners of the 4-H health competition.

Apparently the President did not feel like posing. He is shown on the deck of the Potomac. This is followed by long shots of the departure of the vessel and then Marvin McIntyre and the newspapermen are shown at work at the Coral Cables Hotel. In the hunting sequence the Vice-President carries a deer on his shoulders and receives a pasteboard medal with Senator Guffey and the Polish ambassador looking on.

Lew Lehr introduces a bright note into the start of the six-day race, with a few trick camera and sound effects to give it punch. It's good.

Under an "Industry" caption shots are shown of telephone operators at work, "Information" doing her stuff, the time girl giving the hour, and the automatic switchboards operating. Very interesting. Instead of the usual style stuff, elaborate art toys of the former Czar are shown. The direction by Vyvyan Donner and comment by Helen Claire will interest women audiences.

Two kinds of aviation topics are shown—the Marines in formation at Quantico and sailors taking parachute jumps at Lakehurst. In the sports section natives sailing outrigger canoes provide some nice pictorial action, but men fishing for sharks fail to contribute any impressive footage.

The reel has plenty of variety.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 22

(M-G-M)

Smart editing of most of the topics of the latest issue of News of the Day puts life into some otherwise weak material. The President's departure from Miami is followed by a staged scene of Secretary Marvin McIntyre receiving an "important" wire at the Coral Gable Hotel headquarters. He rushes to a map to see where the President is—apparently the only man in the world who doesn't know—and the reporters pound madly at the typewriters when it is made known the President has caught a fish.

Mrs. Roosevelt is shown at the big charity party where the Afro-Cuban dancers did their voodoo stuff, a dance called "La Conga." Boy and girl winners of the 4-H health club contest are not exactly thrilling, and the manner of presenting the start of the six-day race is more or less routine.

Some clever work has been done, however, on scenes showing navy boys taking their final lessons in parachute jumping. Closeups of the youngsters sitting in the cabin of a blimp show how nervous they are. The camera follows them as they bail out, and other scenes, made from the ground, show the parachutes landing. This is good stuff for the men and boys. Aviation enthusiasts also will get a kick out of the Marine air maneuvers and bomb tossing at Quantico.

With football games ended, the sports department is taken care of by showing air views of the Rose Bowl, closeups of the principal players on the Alabama and University of California elevens, and cut-ins of some of the spectacular plays individuals have performed this season. Sport fans ought to like it.

Running time, 9½ mins. A.

Paramount News

No. 35

(Paramount)

A review of the football season certainly saved this issue. And while the resume on pigskin events is nothing new, the presentation and the idea behind it gives the compilation a refreshing slant. For instance, Pittsburgh voted the nation's number one team, Alabama to oppose California at the Rose Bowl, Fordham just misses the Bowl bid and then highlights of some of the season's unusual plays.

For the rest of the reel, Paramount presents skiing at Sun Valley, Idaho, with reindeer as pulling power for a few weary souls; Congress studying low-cost housing, with Senator Wagner discussing the benefits of such a bill, and the efforts of private interests in developing a "modern community" at Greenbelt, President Roosevelt is seen on his Miami vacation trip, while Vice-President Garner is pictured at St. Mary's, Pa.

A series of parachute jumps by Navy students at Lakehurst may provide a thrill for some patrons, but generally this issue is weak. Even the narrations were unexciting.

Running time, 9 mins. O.

RKO Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 39

(RKO)

The selection of players for the All-American team occupies first place. Chick Meehan is seen as well as portraits of the various individuals involved in Clem McCarthy's narration. It is good material and football fans should like it.

President Roosevelt sails from Miami and the White House shifts from Washington to the Miami Biltmore as the chief executive tries his luck in the waters of the Dry Tortugas. Father Maslov, dean of the Russian Orthodox Cathedral in New York, is seen repairing the roof of the church himself, due to lack of funds. The six-day bike races get under way and are vividly filmed. Vogue, in collaboration with the reel editors, presents the latest feminine fashions which are in order at the north and south vacation spots. The models are pretty and the sequence is tastefully photographed. A finely documented clip concerns the proposed large expansion expenditure by the N. Y. Consolidated Edison Co. There are excellent scenes of the metropolis at night and the workings of the power supply system. The Navy's parachute jumping class do their stuff and are filmed in their downward progress from a blimp. These scenes are particularly good, catching facial expressions and extremely exciting movement.

It's a nicely balanced newsreel.

Running time, 9 mins. P.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. 9, No. 620

(Universal)

The fact that 10 subjects are included in this 800 foot release will convey an idea of the variety of material to choose from when you start eliminating. None of the subjects is outstanding in any vital way and the editors are to be complimented on their recognition of this fact in holding most of the subjects to 75 feet or less.

The contents, in order of their appearance, are the President's departure from Miami on his current fishing trip; the President's wife witnessing a Rockefeller Center performance of what the reel calls "Afro-Cuban dancers"; the banning of C.I.O. pickets from Jersey City by the local constabulary; the take-off of the French flier, Codos at Le Bourget field, on his non-stop flight from Paris to Brazil; the winners in the 4-H health contest at Chicago; a small game hunters' "paradise" at Shelby, O.; coast storms in the Pacific Northwest; a barefoot football team at Lynchburg, Va.; the start of the six-day bike race in New York, and student fliers making parachute jumps over Lakehurst, N. J.

Radio Aiding Films, States CBS Official

production—and profits. The other side of the subject—just as important, by the way—can wait until you people come to visit us."

To prove his point that broadcasting was not keeping crowds from amusements he cited the Forest Hills sellouts and the fact that the Yale bowl filled its 78,000 seats and turned away thousands in spite of the biggest broadcasting hookups in history.

"You and I know that all has not been sweetness and light in the relationship of our two industries insofar as it has concerned listener vs. spectator interest," he continued. "I have never been able to understand this feeling—this conviction, on the part of some exhibitors, that radio keeps people away from the movies. There is only one thing that can keep able-bodied people away from the movies—or away from radio—and that is a bad program. 'What,' you may ask, 'would be the situation if all of us—movies and radio—were blessed with good programs?' My answer to that would be that 'there is a millenium devoutly to be desired.' Together the radio and moving picture industries can cooperate to attain that end.

Record Hollywood Talent

"There has been a greater use of Hollywood talent on radio programs during the past year than ever before in the history of broadcasting. And there has been greater activity on the part of box-office cashiers during this same 12 months than ever before in the history of moving pictures. Loew's, Inc., as you know, has already paid out $6 a share in dividends on its common stock this year, and this morning's papers announced that another will be paid before the year ends, bringing this year's total dividends to $7.50 a share.

"Do you suppose that here might lie, in part, the explanation of M-G-M's consistent refusal to get excited about how radio has cut into movies' box-office?

"How many here, I wonder, realize that if every seat in every moving picture house in every community in the United States were occupied at the same time, less than one-eighth of the American radio audience would be 'at the movies.' Whenever you hear an estimate as to the size of some specific radio audience, it is good to remember how big is the total of all radio owners before you decide that there aren't enough people left over to go to the movies. As long as people like variety in their entertainment—(and they always will)—and as long as people like to share excitement and pleasure together—(and they always will)—there will be no danger of radio—or television—supplanting your product in the hearts of our citizens."

After quoting figures on the growth of radio advertising and the kinds of products included on the list Lewis pointedly remarked that films were not included on the list.

"Though you people here are selling entertainment," he went on, "you continue to use newspapers, magazines and the outdoors as media for your advertising. Why? As advertising men you know that it is not because radio keeps your customers at home, but because radio and radio advertisers do your advertising for you in the one major medium best suited to your needs.

"There are those who say that radio has contributed slightly to the realm of popular entertainment; that radio has had to depend on the stage and screen for its creative brains and talent. I have heard it said that the steady increase in our activities on the West Coast is proof that advertising agencies and broadcasters have failed to produce and direct successful programs; that radio has failed to develop talent of its own. I can't agree.

"Radio first went to Hollywood to keep up with its own artists, for whom it had developed a large enough popular following to make them sure-fire timber for movies. Each year finds more of them engaged in film work. Eddie Cantor is frank to admit that the success of his movies is the result of the nationwide following he attained through radio, and Burns' and Allen's nonsense was entertaining millions before Shirley Temple was out of her cradle.

"We are both in the business of providing popular, large-scale entertainment. Beyond that, you cannot say that we are in competitive business. Because we are engaged in the same general work, and because we are not competing in the sale of of our products, we are in an ideal position to work together for the betterment of the particular entertainment each of us tries to produce. We have found, as you have found, that an interchange of talent is mutually beneficial. We want to continue to use Hollywood 'big names,' Hollywood stories, and Hollywood music. On our part we are glad to see radio talent given a chance at the movies. And we are particularly anxious that, through intelligent cooperation, we may improve the quality of the work that bot hof us are striving so earnestly to do."

Says Radio Helped Music

Lewis pointed out that radio popularized classical music and made available to films such stars as Lily Pons, Grace Moore, Gladys Swarthout, Leopold Stokowski, Lawrence Tibbett, Nelson Eddy and Andre Kostelanetz. He mentioned the names of producers who had been signed for film work and pointed out that radio was in a better postion to experiment with new type programs than is the film industry.

"Hollywood must have some tangible evidence of what the public wants before it takes on the expense of a film production," he continued. "Radio still has the facilities for experimentation."

"Must Use Established Names"

"But we also are faced with conditions under which we cannot afford to take chances in what we offer to our audience. We have commercial sponsors spending thousands of dollars weekly to attract large nationwide audiences. When it comes to airing a big program at big cost for a sponsor, we are in the same position as your producers. We must use established names. That is where cooperation is most needed in the relationship of radio and movies, insofar as it concerns us. In asking frankly for that cooperation, we in Columbia are able to promise that we shall continue giving as freely as we receive. It is not only more blessed

"CBS Day" at the Ampa yesterday brought out ranking executives of the national network. William S. Paley's absence in Chicago and Edward Klauber's visit to the coast prevented their appearance. In this photograph are Frank Stanton, manager of the CBS research department, and Frank White, treasurer of the company.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2.—The first tangible program for the removal of objectionable radio comments by purveyors of film gossip was voiced today by Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors' Guild, who told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that, should the attacks upon the industry—and particularly upon the personalities connected with it—continue, the guild will ask the entire A. F. of L. membership to boycott the products of the commentators who offend.

That the aid of other unions could be enlisted in such a move as that outlined by Thomson is not doubted, inasmuch as the guild is strongly intrenched in labor circles on the coast because of its various moves to aid other unions which asked assistance in the past.

Discusses Warner-Zanuck

Thomson entered the Zanuck-Warner statement exchange today with an expression of amazement that "Harry Warner has seen fit to announce that the Producers Ass'n does not speak for him. We hope that the Warner attitude is not influenced by the fact that he has one of these so-called commentators under contract. The attitude voiced by the association may not be that of Warner. However, we are certain that this campaign has the support not only of all actors but also of the great body of fair-minded and decent people of these United States."

Jimmy Fidler, who almost a year ago irked the Guild by stating erroneously that the Guild was going on strike against the producers, is now under contract to Warners for four films.

Produces Latin American Shows

British American Prod., Inc., are now producing four radio campaigns for Latin America. These will be transcribed series, released under the following titles: "Intimate Moments in Hollywood," featuring Alyce Shupper, Latin-American writer and film critic; "The Glacier's Secret," "Spanish-American Musical Caravan," and the "Gypsy Kiss." B. A. P. have secured rights to "Hollywood Reporter," with Carlos Borcosque as commentator.

Hear Fessenden Case Defense

WILMINGTON, Dec. 2.—John V. L. Hogan, New York consultant engineer, was an all-day witness for the defense in the Fessenden patent infringement trial against Radio Corp. of America in Federal Court here today. Hogan's testimony was technical and centered around the use of short wave lengths instead of long waves in long distance radio communication.

to do so. It is also plain good common sense."

One of the big laughs of the program was the introduction of "Lord" Oliver Wakefield as Lewis by Ralph Rolan. Wakefield started with an English accent and floundered through a half dozen incoherent sentences before the audience burst into a roar of laughter.

The program—all CBS talent—was varied. Rolan presented Ted Husing as master-of-ceremonies. He introduced L. W. Loman, vice-president in charge of operations; Hugh Kendall Boice, vice-president in charge of sales; Mefford R. Runyon, vice-president and director; Frederick A. Willis, assistant to the president; David Ross, announcer; Andre Baruch, announcer; Paul White, director of special events, and Al Pearce of the Ford program. Pearce took over the duties of master-of-ceremonies. He also presented Guy Lombardo to the assembled guests.

Among the entertainers were: the Symphonettes, with Hugh Marsh at the piano; Arline Harris, "the human chatterbox," who is on Pearce's program; Buddy Clark, who sang, with Walter Gross at the piano. "Lord Bilgewater" (Monroe Upton) was introduced.

Other CBS executives and personnel present were: Maurice Gaffney, trade editor; Bill Cohan and Davidson Taylor, music consultants; Frank White, network treasurer; Frank Stanton, manager of the research department; Helen Sioussat, assistant to Sterling Fisher of Columbia's talks and public affairs department; W. C. Gittinger; sales manager; J. J. Karol, director of research; William Ensign, assistant sales manager, and Vic Ratner, director of sales promotion.

Representing the Mutual network were Ted Streibert, vice-president; Fred Weber, general manager; Arthur Samuels and Adolph Opfinger of the WOR and Mutual program departments, respectively; Bob Schmid, sales promotion director, and H. C. McLaughlin, sales manager of WHK-WCLE, Mutual affiliate in Cleveland.

The cumulative total for the year thus far is $25,935,500, an increase of 25.1 per cent over the 11-month cumulative total for the same period last year, which was $20,734,795.

A. L. Alexander Will Resume Broadcasting

A. L. Alexander, who caused a radio furore with his "Good Will Hour" program last year when it was sponsored by Chase & Sanborn over NBC, and subsequently barred from the air because of action by the New York Bar Ass'n, will return to the networks, tonight, for True Story Magazine's "Court of Human Relations" series. The deal was completed last night. The contract is for 52 weeks.

"Court of Human Relations" is broadcast Fridays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. over the Red network, and in its present form it resembles somewhat the barred "Good Will Court." The first 15 minutes is based on a dramatization of a story taken from the sponsor's magazine. The final 15 minutes is devoted to a discussion of the action of the characters in the play by a jury selected from the studio audience. It is understood, however, that when Alexander assumes command of the program, it will undergo a radical revision in format, and that it will be patterned as closely to the banned "Good Will Hour" as is possible without running into legal complications.

Cook Agency Takes Period on NBC-Red

Thomas Cook & Son-Wagons-Lits, Inc., will sponsor "Travel Talks" by Malcolm La Prade over 11 stations of the NBC-Red network beginning Dec. 12. The contract is for 13 weeks, and the agency is L. D. Werthheimer Co., Inc.

THE PRESIDENT HAS THE FLOOR!

(Listen!)

An unsolicited letter from Charles W. Picquet, President of the Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina and noted Southern showman:

"We have given 'NAVY BLUE AND GOLD' the best booking possible and any further word of commendation from me is superfluous. However, I cannot refrain from stating that it is the finest college picture ever made. In fact, it is the only one which I have seen that measures up to what such a picture should be. That picture should certainly be shown in every theatre in America. I am sure every exhibitor who has had the fortune to have it dated will be grateful to you for making 'NAVY BLUE AND GOLD'!"

Buying Pool Being Talked In St. Louis

Hope to Keep Present Clearance Plan

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3.—Independents here are discussing a buying pool to "freeze" the present clearance situation and to handle insurance, accessory purchases and other expenses as well as film buys.

Clarence Kaimann of North St. Louis and about 50 others are said to be active in the movement. Walter Kalbfeld of the Pauline in the northwestern section of the city, Walter Thimmig of the McNair in South St. Louis and Vic Thein of the Palm on Union Boulevard are also reported to be promoting the idea.

It is reported that clearance is more of a worry than film rentals. The present clearance situation has been in effect for some time, but it is said that some of the larger companies are delaying in deciding the status of some of their houses, thereby upsetting current clearance arrangements for smaller exhibitors. These contend there should be no rearrangement of clearance at this time.

In addition to battling over clearance the combine will take care of the purchase of all theatre supplies with the hope of making savings.

Grainger Quits "U"; Contract Is Settled

James R. Grainger officially severed his affiliation as general sales manager of Universal last night. Grainger has no immediate plans. He is leaving New York shortly to attend the dinner for A. H. Blank in Des Moines on Thursday and then will proceed to the coast, but not directly to Hollywood.

His successor, of course, will be W. A. Scully, currently eastern district manager for M-G-M. The latter assumes his post Jan. 3. In the interim, Frank J. A. McCarthy, eastern sales manager for Universal, is assuming the general sales managership.

Erpi Contract Closed; Altec Is New Name

Transfer Involves 4,500 Service Accounts

The deal by which Altec Service Corp., headed by L. W. Conrow and other former Erpi officials, takes over the latter company's theatre sound equipment servicing and installation business was closed yesterday and is effective immediately.

Altec takes over from Erpi approximately 4,500 servicing contracts with theatres throughout the country under the deal. No cash consideration is involved in the transfer of the business, it was learned authoritatively. Erpi, however, will receive a percentage of the collections of the new company during the life of the contracts, full responsibility for the administration of which passes to the new company.

All of Erpi's emergency stock inventories will be under the jurisdiction of the new enterprise and will be maintained complete. Erpi is to be reimbursed for these, it was learned, on a consignment basis, payment for parts to be made by the new company as they are used. As reported earlier, however, a downtown group headed by Roswell C. Tripp and Howard P. Engels will participate in the financing of the new company. This financing involves provision for ample working capital.

"Although Altec is a separate corporate entity in which Erpi has no financial interest," Whitford Drake,

French Censor Adds Strict Regulations

Producers through the director of the censor board, Edmond See.

Approval will be denied without question to films: having a tendency to ridicule the army or damaging to its prestige; liable to shock the national sentiments of foreigners, thus possibly leading to diplomatic incidents; showing armed attacks and any similar criminal action which might have a harmful influence on youth.

In exceptional cases approval will be granted to war films, which have been on the increase recently, and all films based on military or police activities. It will be necessary for producers to submit scripts before production on all films planned which have reference to national institutions, defense and like subject matter.

American interests fear a considerable increase in the number of imported films which will be banned, while French producers are particularly disturbed by the new regulations, in the sense that they may have the effect of requiring pre-production censorship.

Graetz Says French To Make 150 Films

Film producers in France will make about 150 pictures next year, compared to 125 scheduled for this season, Paul Graetz, president of Paris Export Film, stated yesterday. There are about 30 independent companies working in France, he said, and the tendency is to make quality rather than quantity pictures.

Erpi Contract Closed; Altec Is New Name

Erpi president stated, "complete technical cooperation and engineering information will be extended by Erpi on a consulting basis."

Altec will make its headquarters in the Fisk Bldg., where the Erpi home offices have been located for many years. The deal completes Erpi's divestment of its theatre sound equipment activities, leaving the company solely as a licensing agency for Western Electric, and terminating at the same time A. T. & T.'s direct association with the theatre field.

In commenting upon Erpi's reason for divesting itself of sound equipment maintenance activities, Drake said, "The service function is vitally important to the motion picture industry and as Erpi is reducing its activity in the sale of sound reproducing equipment in this country, proper expansion of the servicing activity would be difficult, hence, it is believed the best interests of both the industry and our employees, is served by the creation of this new enterprise."

Roxy Fees Hearing Will Resume Today

Reade, independent circuit operator, testified that he had nothing to do with interesting 20th Century-Fox in the Roxy reorganization, as claimed by Erickson. The latter based his application for a fee on the contention that he had been instrumental in bringing Reade and 20th Century-Fox officials together on a reorganization plan.

The remainder of yesterday's session was given over to the claims of independent bondholders' committees for compensation for their services. The claims are being opposed by White & Case, attorneys for the principal bondholders' committee, on the ground that other committees contributed nothing to the reorganization and, consequently, are not qualified for allowances.

G. N. Revives "Wagons"

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3.—Grand National has revived plans for "Snow Covered Wagons," announced for the 1937-38 season as a color feature, but which probably will be made in black and white because of the failure of the Keller-Dorian color deal. Charles Logue has been assigned by producer Bud Barsky to write a new treatment and screenplay for it.

The story deals with the Donner expedition from Missouri to California, from the novel by Julia Cooley Altrocci.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wells Fargo"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3.—For years producers have been striving to build a picture that would embrace the epic qualities that made "The Covered Wagon" and "The Iron Horse" great. Frank Lloyd did it with "Cavalcade" and many think with "Mutiny on the Bounty." With the aid of advanced screen knowledge and technology he has attained that standard in "Wells Fargo," a typical American picture.

Bigger than anyone in it; bigger in its appeal to human emotions because of its story quality and the impressiveness of its vast production scope than words can express, "Wells Fargo" is the romance of stirring adventure, heroism and ambition. Through its characters it details the romantic visioning and development of sea-to-sea communication and transportation, empire building and the saving of a nation. It is also the romance of a great love story and the affection and loyalty that blossomed in turmoil and danger, founded on the rocks of internecine strife and a love that was triumphant when the country was again united.

Fashioned episodically, but held together by a strong continuity, the picture, blending fact with fiction, tells the story of Wells Fargo from the day it started out from Batavia, N. Y., through the years when it was the only solid banking house in San Francisco in the days of the gold rush madness to the time when, hearkening to the appeal of Abraham Lincoln, it transported bullion in the dark days of the Civil War to save the United States as an undivided country. It is potent in its power to stir patriotic sensibilities. This story, which has no villain, has for its companion quality the story of a man's love for a woman and a woman's love for a man, the human interest character of which is always close to the heart. It is devoid of any forced or artificial theatrics.

The simple and gripping story is expertly played by Joel McCrea, Bob Burns, Frances Dee, Henry O'Neill, Mary Nash, Ralph Morgan, Lloyd Nolan, John Mack Brown and Porter Hall, as well as by a long list of supporting characters. Under the guidance of Frank Lloyd it makes no stars, permits no one to monopolize the limelight, yet delivers just what people expect when they pay their money to see a quality show.

The story on which it is based was written by Stewart Lake. It not only evidences that patient research must have been made in quest of authenticity and detail but also a thorough knowledge of what American audiences expect to find in a semi-historic romance drama. In adapting it to screenplay form Paul Schofield, Gerald Geraghty and Frederick Jackson not only were careful to preserve the spirit and appeal of the original but to endow the theme with a movement and scope that made Lloyd's job of directing as well as the work of the players in interpreting it comparatively easy. While the work of the players carries the story, the quality of the musical score arranged by Victor Young and directed by Boris Morros, and the dramatic caliber of the photography directed by Theodor Sparkuhl and special effects supervised by Gordon Jannings materially enhance the various contrasting moods.

It is the kind of attraction that any exhibitor can be proud to offer his patrons. It may also be anticipated that if "Wells Fargo" is given the benefit of any kind of exploitation support, it will give any competition a strong run for popularity and money-getting honors.

Don Lee Plans New Television Program

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Practical television broadcasts directly from a radio studio will be started shortly after Jan. 1 by KHJ, Don Lee station here. The television broadcasts, according to Louis Allen Weiss, Don Lee general manager, are a result of the years of experimentation by Harry B. Lubcke, Don Lee engineer.

Lubcke has been sending television shows from his home since 1932 and has devised methods of transmission of live talent programs directly from radio theatres over a 20-mile radius, he said. However, no technical details of the Lubcke method are available at the moment. About eight months ago he invited radio amateurs to write to him for information on how to build their own television sets, and now there are about 100 sets in the 20-mile radius which Lubcke's present equipment covers.

Rights Reserved

At that time Lubcke issued warnings that no rights to the equipment to go into the home manufactured sets would be given the amateur set builders. It is understood that the Lubcke devices are mostly of his own invention and bear patents or have patents applied for. The cathode tubes employed in his sets, however, are RCA's.

The station to be utilized for the television is X6XOA, Don Lee experimental high frequency transmitter. The first program to go out by television may be George Jessel's "30 Minutes in Hollywood." The Lubcke television shows heretofore have been from films.

Lee has filed application with the F. C. C. for an increase in power of his television transmitter from 150 to 1,000 watts.

The former goes off the air Dec. 25, the latter Dec. 26.

KTSM to Join NBC in January

KTSM, El Paso, will join the NBC network some time in January instead of in April, 1938, as was originally calculated by NBC. The lines to the station are being completed much more rapidly than was at first thought possible, thus hastening the affiliation date.

Record Crowd Due At Allied Meeting

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5.—A record attendance is predicted for the three-day regional conference of Allied States exhibitor units opening at the Neil House here tomorrow, under the auspices of the I.T.O. of Ohio, due to the national and local significance attached to many of the subjects included in the meeting's order of business.

Among the principal topics listed for discussion or action are the introduction of legislation to ban or restrict Ascap's operations in Ohio, the Paramount sales policy, and the proposed earmarking by the state of admission tax receipts for poor relief. The latter is scheduled to be acted on by a special session of the state legislature now under way here. Begin Talks To Name New Board of RKO

Atlas-Lehman, RCA Will Have Majority Vote

RKO reorganization factors have begun discussions looking to the selection of a new board of directors for the reorganized company, authoritative sources disclosed on Saturday. The board will consist of nine members who will be designated to serve for an initial term of two years.

Although there is no official indication at this time of the manner in which representation on the new board will be apportioned, current reports indicate that the bulk of the representation will go to Atlas Corp., Lehman Bros. and RCA, which together control about 85 per cent of the RKO debentures outstanding and approximately 50 per cent of the outstanding common stock. A minimum of five of the nine board members is viewed as a possible representation for these interests.

Rockefeller Center, to which the RKO reorganization plan proposes to grant 460,000 shares of new RKO common in settlement of its $9,150,000 claim, is certain to receive a representative on the board. On this basis, unsecured creditors other than Rockefeller Center, and minority security holders would receive a maximum representation on the board of three members.

RKO management executives would be designated by the Atlas-Lehman interests and are expected to include Leo Spitz, president, and Ned E.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THIS is a success story in a capsule. It is the yarn, in a flash, of Monogram, which, one of these years, might well prove a modern illustration, anew, of the old one about big oaks and little acorns. A year ago, the company was not even active. Today, it has thirty exchanges across the country, its own selling crew, about 4,000 signed contracts, comfortably close to $2,000,000 in signed business and twenty negatives either playing theatres or reposing in cans waiting to pop out and meet release dates. . . .

It may strike you like another slice of the same, old baloney to tell you that this handsome accomplishment traces directly to W. Ray Johnston; that, as big a hulk of a man as he is, this slight bouquet, no doubt, will make him shrink a little under whatever impact it may have. The facts, nevertheless, cannot be contravened and they show clearly how successfully an operation, within the limits of its field, Monogram is. One of the Johnston assets is his knowledge of his niche in his own particular market. He does not aim to be a major producer. He knows the exhibitor must pay high for major product and he also knows Monogram must sell cheaply to average down the cost of the theatre operator's total film buy. He has cut, and is cutting, his own cloth accordingly.

One of his proclivities finds him spending a goodly number of hours each week, pencil in hand and yellow sheets of paper before him, fixing budgets months in advance. For instance, and as a marker of how well he snuggles to the line, there was his profit and loss statement for August. Doped out months ago, it reached within two per cent of his estimates. He also forecast—and accurately—a quarter of a year in futures what his income would be as it applied to the August conclusions. At the beginning of the season, Johnston told his franchise holders: "Monogram will give you entertainment. We can't compete in the name market. We will try to give you marquee titles and good stories that will please the patrons who buy tickets and, always, shows that you will not be ashamed to sell or exhibitors to play in their theatres." Four thousand exhibitors in this country very obviously agree. . . .

Sam Goldwyn has signed Jascha Heifetz. Paramount either has signed, or is flirting with, Jose Iturbi. It is known, of course, Yehudi Menuhin has rejected a contract from the same company. "100 Men and a Girl," while it may not have set out with such a purpose, not only is entertaining the public, but has struck out valiantly in the cause of classical music, winding in and out of the accepted Hollywood production formula. It is not rash to assume, therefore, that something new, and potentially very worthwhile, is stirring in and around the Hollywood hills.

However, and in this one instance anyway, London has beaten Hollywood to the punch. Lothar Mendes is around the town with a picture, self-directed, called "Moonlight Sonata," which is the name of a stirring and beautiful something, if you remember, written by a musical giant named Beethoven. In it and playing the theme song, which is a sacrilegious way of putting it, is Ignace Jan Paderewski, close to his eighties now and, of course, internationally renowned as a pianist. Paderewski also appears throughout the film as its central and motivating dramatic element in a pleasantry of love which almost goes astray until his lovely rendition of the sonata brings the misunderstood and misunderstanding lovers together. . . .

"Moonlight Sonata" is keyed to the quiet mood. It has no hysterics and it has no great climaxes. It is in the spirit of good music and it is performed in the subdued mood by Marie Tempest, who definitely is an actress; Queenie Leonard, for comedy; Eric Portman, for slight villainy; and Charles Farrell and Barbara Greene, for romance. Paderewski plays Rachmaninoff and Liszt, too, and is surprisingly at home as an actor. He cuts a venerable and patriarchal figure, charming and dignified. No one, naturally, can foretell how a picture of this calibre will go in America. It suggests, however, a world of ballyhoo, keyed to the proper restraining note. Available figures from radio sources on the increasing millions who listen weekly to the representative music broadcasts, such as the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Philharmonic of New York, the Ford and the General Motors hours suggest strong possibilities. Listening and looking are two different things, but there must be a hearty portion of that audience that might entertain the opportunity of seeing and hearing Paderewski in what no doubt, will be his only film effort.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Checkers"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5.—"Checkers" is a grand old title steeped in box-office tradition and Jane Withers is a fine young name rich in marquee value. Stuart Erwin and Una Merkel are manifestly suitable company. Customers putting the two and two together and shoving their money through the wicket in expectation of getting a spanking racetrack picture for it are as safe as if buying a ticket on War Admiral to show. The production is snugly, smartly and precisely in what swing musicians eloquently refer to as "the groove." It may bear little or no resemblance to the original "Checkers," but it looks exactly like sure-fire entertainment.

The screenplay is by Lynn Root, Frank Fenton, Robert Chapin and Karen de Wolf, from an original story by the first two of these, and direction is by H. Bruce Humberstone with John Stone carrying complete responsibility as associate producer. Just which of these persons the pleased patrons have to thank for the thorough knowledge of racing revealed is not, of course, clear to the naked eye. The whole group may have spent considerable time at Santa Anita, Del Mar or similar educational institutions. This is by way of saying that the story, unlike most committed in the interests of improving the breed, abides by the rules, customs, even the fetishes of the sport of kings. It is, in short, a swell job, a plausible story hewn out of common experience and pointing out, without pointing, that following the ponies is an exciting, but not particularly remunerative, occupation.

Not to spoil a good story by half-telling it, this version of "Checkers" presents Miss Withers as a young lady devoted to her improvident Uncle Erwin's race horse, which breaks its leg and is nursed back to health on a farm owned by Miss Merkel, who would marry Erwin if he would give up racing. Marvin Stephens is effective as a jockey who figures importantly in exciting events which turn out to everybody's satisfaction. Miss Withers is, naturally, the mainspring of the picture, but there is no coddling of situations to throw emphasis upon her and she accomplishes her objectives without resort to the prerogative commonly given juvenile stars. The picture may be safely billed as her best to date by a wide margin.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Lightnin' Crandall"

(Republic)

Here is another Bob Steele performance in a western melodrama that will effectively register with its proper audience. Steel gives his usual brisk characterization and actively engages in vivid action where he uses his fists and Colt to thrilling advantage.

The plot loses little time in setting forth that Steele is a well known gun fighter in Texas. He does not like the attendant notoriety. Settling down in Arizona appeals to his taste and he conveniently lets the appellation "Lightnin'" die. In his new environment he runs into a range war. Events become so annoying that he buckles on his holster and soon is his old self again. Following much riding, fighting and general fussing around the country the film reaches a noisy conclusion. Peace hovers over the valley again and Steele finally settles down with Lois January.

Charles King, Frank La Rue, Ernie Adams, Earle Dwire, Horace Murphy and Lloyd Ingraham lend capable support. Sam Newfield directed.

Running time, 64 minutes. "G."

Gable's Vacation Off

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5. — Switching plans at the last minute, which would have given Glark Gable a 10-week vacation in Europe, M-G-M has started shooting on "Test Pilot," in which Gable, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, and Lionel Barrymore have the leading roles. It had been supposed generally that the picture would be postponed because of Gable's desire for a vacation.

Westinghouse Dividend

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. has declared a dividend of $2 per share on the preferred and common stock, payable Dec. 21 to holders of record Dec. 7.

221 Date "Tovarich"

"Tovarich" has been dated in 221 situations for playing during Christmas and New Year's weeks, according to Warners.

Short Subjects

"Cadet Champions"

(Columbia)

Athletics at West Point are covered in this News World of Sports issue. The cadets are seen in various exercises and finally on the sporting fields. It has a lot of movement and manages to be interesting. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Rhapsody in Zoo"

(Universal)

In this Mentone number, "animals" sit in the gallery and watch the humans perform, but the "applause" of the audience is surely only a matter of politeness, for the most part. A series of vaudeville turns, occasionally fair, in a setting that is hardly clever. Running time, 16 mins. "G."

"Here's Your Hat"

(Vitaphone)

"Cookie" Bowers" mimicry easily tops the entertainment offered in this musical. It is one of those night club affairs and offers the usual singing, dancing and orchestral numbers, none of which stands out. There is a slight plot involving a hat check girl whose desire to see the floor show gets her into difficulties with the head waiter. It's fair. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Getting Your Money's Worth"

(Lenauer-International)

Here, for the consumer's benefit, laboratory tests on shoes and bottled milk are filmed, revealing, in the former, manufacturing substitutions, and in chemical tests on milk that grade A is no better than grade B. The two types are shown to have almost identical bacteria counts and butter fat content. Audiences should be stirred by the revelations. The Film and Photo League produced it. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Pictorial No. 4"

(Vitaphone)

Three interesting subjects are adequately covered in this reel. The last in color. A woman who draws with brush and pencil gripped in her mouth, a number of well known prize-fighters shown in their training camps doing various exercises and the manufacture of rubber dolls. The last sequence will be found engrossing. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Dumb Cluck"

(Universal)

This cartoon, in which an animated rooster demonstrates to Oswald his contraption for fighting fire, aided by a trained elephant on roller skates, is far more silly than it is clever and amusing, and emerges as a less than routine cartoon in consequence. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Screen Snapshots 17-3"

(Columbia)

The usual assorted clips depicting life in the film colony as the fans like to see it. In addition to the general run of material, Anita Louise is revealed as a harpist. She plays "The Rosary." Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Begin Talks To Name New Board of RKO

Depinet, head of the picture subsidiary. The proposed slate of directors may be in readiness for submission to Federal Judge William Bondy by the time of the next scheduled hearing on the reorganization plan, Dec. 21, or soon thereafter. In any event, the proponents of the plan must submit their board recommendations to Judge Bondy prior to court confirmation of the plan.

Other matters of major import to the reorganization which remain to be disposed of within the same time limitation are the ascertainment of the amount of working capital which the reorganized company will require and the designation of the value of the new securities to be issued to Atlas Corp. in connection with the latter's underwriting of the $1,600,000 financing proposal.

While the time by which the RKO reorganization plan can be confirmed by the court rests entirely with Judge Bondy's future procedure in conducting hearings on objections to the plan, conservative quarters estimate that it will be March or April before the company is free of court supervision.

stated that the Pound committee obstructed the minority group in its effort to get a better offer from 20th Century-Fox.

Barrow, Wade & Guthrie, certified public accountants, asked for an allowance of $13,434 and Howard S. Cullman requested $120,000 in addition to the $80,000 previously received. Joseph M. Hartfield, one of the attorneys for White & Case, admitted the value of Cullman's services but said that in view of the fact that the total of applications for fees is more than double the amount available for payment all will have to trim their claims and that Cullman will have to revise his request accordingly.

Proskauer, Rose & Paskus, Cullman's attorneys, asked for $50,209 in addition to fees previously received.

Judge Caffey reserved decision and requested all attorneys to submit briefs in support of their claims.

CBS Publicity Shift Make by Luther Reid

Luther Reid, recently placed in temporary charge of the CBS press division, has made a personnel revision of the department as his first major step to improve the CBS publicity setup. The changes are temporary, pending a test of the change.

Bruce Fouce and Wally West of the commercial and sustaining publicity divisions, respectively, have been detached from those duties and have been placed at the news desk. Holly Noble, formerly of the news desk, has been given a group of commercial and important sustaining programs. Jack Skinner, formerly handling commercial publicity, is now handling publicity of sustaining programs.

Bob Baral, formerly of Variety and more recently of NBC's publicity division, has been added to the CBS publicity staff to handle night assignments. Jack Slocum, formerly of the over-night staff, has been transferred to the day staff, where he will handle commercial assignments.

Quigley Urges Fight on Film Propagandists

Tells Carolina Meeting Organization Needed

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 6.—Members of the Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina were urged at the opening of their Silver Jubilee convention at the Carolina Hotel here today to resist vigorously the attempts to employ the screen for political, economic and social propaganda, in an address by Martin Quigley, president of Quigley Publishing Co., on "Radicalism—An Industry Peril."

"A strong, alert and vigorous organization is necessary," said Quigley, "to render successful defense of the motion picture and the industry—and the nation itself—against those alien influences which would infect us, our industry and our country with a plague which has brought untold misery to millions of men, women and children in other lands."

Pointing to the propaganda in other media of expression, Quigley said, "Among the great media of expression and among the great influences on public opinion there remains the motion picture which thus far has es-

No Hitch in Selznick-M-G-M Deal in Sight, States Whitney

"There are no hitches in the David O. Selznick deal with M-G-M and a contract will be signed in a few days," John Hay Whitney, chairman of the board of Selznick International, stated yesterday on his return from Europe. Under terms of the deal Selznick will make from seven to eight a year, each budgeted at $1,000,000.

Selznick will continue as a separate organization and will have call on all M-G-M facilities. It is now a matter of working out a few details before signatures are affixed to the pacts.

It was learned that the deal whereby Selznick will move to M-G-M was started about a year ago by Al Lichtman, vice-president of M-G-M, who returned on the same ship with Whitney.

Ratification Of Copyright Treaty Aimed

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Ratification of the copyright treaty before the end of the special session will be sought by Senator Duffy of Wisconsin, but the measure will not be brought up for the next 10 days, in order that the Senate may have an opportunity to dispose of more pressing legislation. An agreement has been entered into that the copyright treaty shall not be taken up before Dec. 15, but it is probable it will be called up at the earliest opportunity thereafter.

Ratification of the treaty, which

Lichtman Sets 5 More M-G-M English Films

By BILL ORNSTEIN

Pleased by the success of "A Yank at Oxford," first film to be made in England, M-G-M has lined up five more pictures for production in Great Britain, Al Lichtman, vice-president of Loew's, stated on his return yesterday from a seven-week trip to England, France and Budapest.

The next five productions will be "The Citadel," "So Victoria," "Good-Bye, Mr. Chips," "Finishing School" and "Shadow on the Wing." Elizabeth Allen's contract has been extended by the company and she will

No Para. Studio Changes, Says Griffis, Back from L.A.

No changes in the Paramount studio executive setup are contemplated by the company, Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee, said yesterday on his return to New York from the studio where, with Barney Balaban, Paramount president, Griffis spent the past three weeks.

The executive committee chairman denied current reports that a former executive of Paramount, now a producer for another major studio, would rejoin the company in a ranking studio capacity.

"No negotiations have been conducted with the person mentioned," Griffis said.

Griffis, who is a partner in Hemphill, Noyes & Co., when questioned

E. J. Mannix, Sam Katz, B. Thau Also Given New Pacts

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6.—Confirming information published exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY Nov. 27, Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., stated tonight that Louis B. Mayer has agreed to sign a new five-year contract as head of the M-G-M studios. Simultaneously, Schenck issued the announcement that new contracts have been negotiated with E. J. Mannix, Sam Katz and Benjamin Thau.

The five-year extension of the Mayer contract projects the producer's tenure through 1943. His current pact had a year still to run. Mayer, in an official statement, said:

"I am happy to say that rumors of my contemplated resignation are untrue. After discussion with Mr. Schenck I have decided to remain with the organization of which I am so proud and to continue my very happy association with Mr. Schenck. At no time has there been any question of friction between myself and any member of the executive staff and rumors of the same are without foundation."

The rumors referred to swept Hollywood on Sunday, following a reported conference between Mayer and Schenck at Palm Springs Saturday night in course of which, according to intimate associates, Mayer expressed dissatisfaction with the present

Weinberg to Decide On "U" Move Today

Lou Weinberg, circuit sales contact for Columbia, will make a definite decision today on joining Universal as assistant to William A. Scully, new general sales manager.

With the return of Abe Montague, general sales manager for Columbia, yesterday from the coast, conferences were held with Weinberg. Up to a late hour last night Weinberg had not made up his mind.

Neither Montague nor Weinberg could be reached for statements, although reports had been circulating that the latter would not leave Columbia for the Universal offer. No one at Universal would talk.

Paine Resigns from Post at Universal

Charles B. Paine, assistant to Robert H. Cochrane, retiring president of Universal, yesterday resigned his post, effective immediately.

Paine was one of the veterans on the executive staff of Universal, having been with the company in an executive capacity for 14 years. He declared yesterday that he has no immediate plans for the future, and declined to comment on the resignation, which took the form of a simple press release from the company's publicity department.

Paine joined Universal in 1923 as a member of the export department and eight months later was made assistant to E. H. Goldstein, then treasurer of the company. Paine continued as assistant treasurer through two more treasurerships, being finally elected treasurer in 1928 and continuing in this capacity until early this year when he accepted the post of assistant to the president.

Fight Blue Laws

Bellows Falls, Vt., Dec. 6.—This town and Windsor County are in the throes of an uprising against Blue Laws as a result of the arrest of an exhibitor for operating on Sunday.

Some men carried muskets, obeying the law for protecting their wives against Indians. Others raked their lawns and played golf. Some stores refused to sell tobacco. Food stores declined to make sales.

The laws date back to 1770.

Judge Caffey Speeds Action on Roxy Fees

In an effort to speed final adjustment of fees for attorneys and committees in the Roxy reorganization Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey yesterday announced that he was issuing a series of opinions dealing with each application for a fee, as he decided it. Two opinions rendered yesterday revealed that Judge Caffey "would resort to apportionment" because applications for allowances were more than double the amount available.

Exact figures which were revealed yesterday were $636,788 in applications with $287,000 on hand. The claim of Carl Erikson for brokerage fees amounting to $50,952 was formally expunged. Clarence Bonynge, official stenographer, was allowed $5,063 and Barrow, Wade & Guthrie, accountants, were allowed $6,934.

Decision was reserved on a request for an additional $6,500 by the accountants. A number of attorneys for bondholders' committees were allowed $1,763 as disbursements.

The meeting of the board of the M. P. P. D. A. which has been scheduled for tomorrow was postponed without date following the return of Will H. Hays from Hollywood yesterday. To take the epic sweep of "The Covered Wagon" add to it the flaming adventure of "The Texas Rangers," the thundering power of "The Plainsman" and top it all off with the poignant heart interest of Frank Lloyd's "Cavalcade," is a master achievement. Yet, critics and preview audiences alike insist that in "Wells Fargo," Frank Lloyd has done just this—has built an even greater triumph for himself than his glorious "Mutiny On The Bounty," his never-to-be-forgotten "Cavalcade"—has built for Paramount the greatest of all that historic sequence of mighty Western romances for which Paramount has been justly famous since "The Covered Wagon" first started its epic march into the hearts of America.

"Wells Fargo" will be released to the entire nation on December 31.

caped the blight of radical propaganda." He urged continued resistance for the "the attack is clever and determined."

Walter Vincent, president of Republic Pictures, said that Hollywood executives would never listen to advice from outside and do not know what the public wants in films.

"These Hollywood executives," said Vincent, "build a Chinese wall about themselves. They know only Hollywood, Palms Springs, Mexico, Honolulu and perhaps New York and London. This explains why so many pictures which do well in New York, die like a dog in Painted Post, which spot is so important to exhibitors."

A. F. Sams, of Winston-Salem, a charter member, spoke of the work the organization has done in preventing the enactment of bills in Washington and Raleigh which would have been unfair to the theatre owners.

Kuykendall Hits Radio

Ed Kuykendall, president of the M. P. T. O. A., and Vincent critized the radio programs sponsored by producers and the use of film stars on programs.

Said Kuykendall: "Most of the stars of pictures who appear on radio program are unfitted. Some of the singers sound like dying calves in a thunder storm. They seem to be eager to do anything for money."

Vincent declared: "Few picture stars are suitable for the radio. A few have added to their drawing power at the theatres but a much larger number, who do not have proper broadcasting talent and personality, have injured the pulling power of pictures in which they appear."

Kuykendall spoke at length against Government regulation of any sort and stated that during hearings in Washington when copyright regulations were being discussed by committees Rudy Vallee appeared and crooned songs while witnesses who had come great distances waited in the ante-room for the concert to cease. Chorus girls were also brought down to entertain the Congressional committees, he said. When Vallee was asked why he had appeared and if he was interested in the copyright laws he said that he had only appeared because he had been asked to sing for the statesmen.

Criticises Score Charges

The M. P. T. O. A. president said that the industry was not opposed to labor but that at present labor appears to be moving too fast and becoming too radical.

Score charges were declared unfair and on the way out by Kuykendall, who likewise predicted a modification in the forcing of the buying of short subjects.

Speeches at today's session were of such length that a number on the program were put off until tomorrow morning so that the golf tournament and tea for the women, scheduled for this afternoon, could be held.

The important speech by Montgomery S. Hill of Greensboro, N. C., on the intermingling of white and negro actors in films, will be made tomorrow, as will that of Ed Levy, general counsel of the M. P. T. O. A., on "What Is Congress Preparing for Us."

Charles W. Picquet, veteran president, was in the chair and Robert E. Denny made the address of welcome.

The two-day session will end tomorrow with the election of officers.

Others present were Milton C. Moore, Jacksonville; Roy Smart, Charlotte; A. F. Sams of Winston-Salem, and Oscar Lamb. The annual banquet was held this evening, with Harry Buchanan as toastmaster.

Text of Quigley Address

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 6.—Following is the complete text of the address of Martin Quigley on "Radicalism—An Industry Peril," delivered here today before the members of the Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina:

Two years ago I had the privilege of addressing the members of this association.

On that occasion I availed myself of the opportunity to communicate to you certain profound apprehensions which I then entertained. These apprehensions were relative to dangers confronting the motion picture at the hands of those who would employ it for political, economic and social propaganda—for its usefulness to them in their giddy ambition to remodel men and affairs according to their own particular notions.

Locale Appropriate

I am happy that I chose that subject for discussion with you men and women of North and South Carolina—you citizens of these states who are so thoroughly representative of those ideals of democracy upon which this nation became great.

I am anxious today to return to this subject because the events of the past two years have greatly emphasized the grounds for the apprehension which I expressed on the former occasion.

If next year and the year after we are not to be even more violently disturbed over the conditions that confront us then it will be only because men and women such as you have taken the trouble correctly to inform yourselves upon the trend of the times and then proceeded to do something effective about it.

Says Radicals Eye Films

There remains in the eyes of the radical propagandists one medium of expression and one influence upon public opinion which thus far vainly excites their envy. That medium is the motion picture.

They are doing very well with the stage. The Federal Government, for instance, at a current cost to taxpayers of a million dollars a month has permitted the Federal Theatre Project, which was originally described as being for the relief of unemployed actors, to be dominated by political extremists who have produced and presented to great numbers of people plays such as "Injunction Granted" and "Power," each of which partake of the essential character of Communistic propaganda.

They are doing very well with many of the newspapers, a fact we are reminded of when we note, for instance, that the Moscow correspondent of one of the great American press associations for six recent critical years is an enthusiastically professed Communist.

They are also doing very well even with certain segments of the church, a fact which is confirmed by the active assistance of several prominent churchmen to such an organization as the League Against War and Fascism, which is a league against war and fascism secondly, if at all, and is first and last a league for Communism.

And they have little to complain about relative to another great influence upon public opinion—Radio. Under the silly and unrealistic notion that Communism is just another political theory like state's sovereignty or woman's suffrage—and not a dream both delirious and vicious, the awakening from which would leave a ruined civilization—radio authorities lend their facilities to Red propagandists.

These authorities accept the argument that under the American principle of freedom of speech these propagandists are entitled to be heard even though adoption of the philosophy they preach means sudden death to all free speech. Communists assert that those who are devoted to the ideals of democracy are stupid. Perhaps in this they are right.

Calls Films Independent

Among the great media of expression and among the great influences upon public opinion there remains the motion picture which thus far has escaped the blight of radical propaganda.

This has not been easily accomplished. It will not be easy to make good the escape in the months and years ahead. The attack is clever and determined.

For instance, they will tell you that the entertainment film has failed in its mission. They admit that the entertainment film has indeed entertained but in keeping with their usual muddle-headed reasoning they still insist that it has failed in its mission. What they mean of course is that it has failed to adopt their mission as its own. They are bitter in their criticism because the entertainment film does not presume to be an educational medium. Their quarrel with this is that they know if the film once undertook to teach they would then get their chance to dictate what it would teach.

Seek Entering Wedge

They assert that the film should deal with the vital subject of modern life—with schemes and dreams of a political, economic and social character. Obviously they do not wish the screen to deal with these subjects along the established lines of American democracy. What they are seeking is a chance to muscle in, gain an influence over the production of the motion picture and then use it for the propagation of their own notions.

They want the film to be realistic—to deal with the facts of life in the raw. They are unhappy because the people are made happy in the theatres. They want the screen to shock and embitter patrons so that the ranks of the discontended will be enlarged, giving to them recruits in greater numbers to flock to their magical cures for what's wrong with the world.

They are against religion which they say is the opium of the people, meaning that it encourages people to be good citizens and not revolutionaries. They regard the entertainment film also as an opium because it generates contentment and happiness and not disorder and discontent.

There is here, gentlemen, a job for you to do—not only for the security and welfare of your business but for the security and welfare of the nation as well.

But you cannot do the job singlehandedly. You are opposed by a determined cult whose members are actuated with the fervor and zeal of a crusader.

Asks for Action

This twenty-fifth anniversary of your association is an appropriate occasion for a re-valuation of the needs and advantages of organization.

Within the industry for your protection and prosperity you need a strong, alert and vigorous organization—now and always. And only with that kind of an organization can you hope to render successful defence of the motion picture and the industry—and the nation itself—against those alien influences which would infect us, our industry and our country with a plague which has brought untold misery to millions of men, women and children in other lands.

Lichtman Sets 5 More M-G-M English Films

next appear in the leading role in "The Citadel," which Victor Saville will produce. "Finishing School" will have an all-English cast and a prominent British actor is now being signed for the main role. Hugh Walpole is now working on the screen adaptation for "So Victoria" and R. C. Sherriff has just completed the script for "Good-Bye, Mr. Chips," by James Hilton. The Royal Flying Corps is cooperating with M-G-M on "Shadow on the Wing," Litchman stated.

Litchman said that only three retakes were necessary for "A Yank at Oxford." The picture was previewed at a theatre in Luton, England, and he brought back with him 83 cards signed by patrons and expressing their opinion of the picture. The film will be released in America the end of January and in London in March.

"Citadel" Next Month

"The Citadel," second M-G-M British film, will not go into production until next month, Litchman said. The others will follow in the order named. Litchman said he found the English trade extremely cooperative and it welcomed the establishment of M-G-M studios in England. Although negotiations are under way for taking over a large studio there, nothing definite has been done. "A Yank at Oxford" was produced at Denham.

"Balalaika," currently showing in England, was purchased by Litchman and it will be produced by M-G-M as a pretentious musical. The M-G-M executive also closed a deal for A. J. Cronin's "Three Loves." "The Citadel" is by the same author who is now in Hollywood on a vacation.

Asked how many M-G-M will produce in England, Litchman said: "We are proceeding very modestly and slowly and feeling our way. There is no set number, but we are planning a continuity of production to build up our key organization there."

Talent from Hollywood will be sent over from time to time, he said, although no one is set to leave for England at the moment.

Conditions are very good in England, Litchman said, and picture theatres are doing a fine business. Generally speaking, he added, pictures which do business in the United States repeat in England.

Queried on theatre expansion plans, Litchman said: "We have a big circuit in England. There is the Empire, seating 3,200, and the Ritz, next to it, with 400 seats."

This was the Loew executive's first trip abroad in 15 years, he said, and he had a "marvelous time." Litchman left for the coast by plane last night.

Ben Goetz to Return For Holiday Season

Ben Goetz, in charge of M-G-M production in England, will sail from abroad Dec. 18 to spend the Christmas holidays here and also attend the wedding of his sister. His wife returned from abroad yesterday on the Normandie.

Jack Conway, Bob Taylor and Lionel Barrymore will sail tomorrow from London on the Queen Mary en route to Hollywood.

Madeleine Carroll Back En Route West

Madeleine Carroll returned from a vacation abroad yesterday on the Normandie and will remain in New York for about five days before proceeding to the coast. She has a five-picture contract with Walter Wanger, she said, the first slated being "The River is Blue," which will start in January. The second will probably be "Rupert of Hentzau."

Schiller in Central Europe for Columbia

J. Schiller, formerly district manager for Universal in Central Europe with headquarters in Prague, has been named to a similar post for Columbia, Joseph Seidelman, foreign head for Columbia, stated yesterday on his return on the Normandie. A. Stein is the new sales manager for France and Belgium with offices in Paris, according to Seidelman, Stein formerly held the same position with M-G-M.

New Columbia offices have been opened in Brussels, and Alexandria, Egypt, with managers to be named later in the week, it was stated.

No decision has been reached on Columbia's production plans in England, Seidelman said, because "we are waiting for the quota law to materialize and then see what we have to do." Seidelman believes that the Americans have let the English situation get out of control and it will cost them (Americans) a lot of money.

Seidelman spent three months in France, England and Italy.

Pact to Mayer Ending Report Of Resignation

setup and requested that he be released from his contract. Customarily reliable sources believe it was his intention, if released, to effect a purchase of Universal on terms which would give him complete charge of that company. Schenck was reported to have offered to tear up the existing Mayer contract if the production head were insistent and is further said to have invited Mayer and a third party not officially associated with M-G-M affairs, to sit in upon the discussions which were held in seclusion Sunday and which resulted in the meeting of minds indicated in today's announcement.

It could not be ascertained from either company tonight whether the renewal of the Mayer contract is to be taken as an assurance that the reported deal for the release of David O. Selznick productions will be consummated immediately. In this connection it is worthy of note that John Hay Whitney, chairman of the board of Selznick International, stated upon disembarking at New York today, "There are no hitches in the David O. Selznick deal with M-G-M and a contract will be signed in a few days."

It is understood here that the deal has been held in abeyance pending the outcome of the Schenck-Mayer negotiations.

Altec Closes Deals With 2 Companies

Altec Service Corp., the new company operating the former Erpi theatre sound equipment servicing and installation business, has closed agreements with National Theatre Supply and Motiograph, Inc., whereby those companies will act as agents in the selling of Altec service, L. W. Conrow, president and chairman of the new company, said yesterday.

Immediate expansion moves are planned by Altec, Conrow stated, and will include an increase in branch offices and supply stations to a total of 42. In addition, a new laboratory is being constructed at East Newark to conduct experimental and research work in sound reproduction and to serve as a liaison between the company's technical field force and the Bell Laboratories, whose technical aid is being made available to the new company.

In financial roles in the new enterprise in addition to Roswell C. Tripp, whose association with Altec was reported earlier, are W. J. Alford and Matthew Robinson. Tripp, formerly, was with Munds, Winslow & Potter, Wall Street investment firm, and is a director in numerous companies, among them Montreal Aircraft and Liquid Carbonic. Alford is secretary and general manager of the Continental Paper Co., Ridgefield, N. J. Robinson is on the directorate of a number of corporations, including the Greyhound Co. and Mississippi Valley Barge Line Co.

Tripp, Alford and Robinson are on the Altec directorate. Other board members are G. L. Carrington, vice-president and general manager; H. M. Bessey, secretary and treasurer, and H. W. Lloyd Sees Radio as No Menace to Screen

In the sense that radio is educating the public to a liking for better things in entertainment, the air medium is of assistance to the screen, rather than a menace to it, in the opinion of Frank Lloyd, veteran Paramount director, expressed from the depths of a Savoy Plaza easy chair yesterday.

The director, who is here for the start of a tour of previews on his latest picture, "Wells Fargo," which he considers the best picture he has yet done, declared his belief that producers will answer the complaint of exhibitors relative to the appearance of film stars on the air. That answer, in the personal opinion of Lloyd, will take the form of radio programs which will advertise the product of the screen to the fullest extent, but which will at the same time be entertaining.

Calls Program "Appetizer"

The radio program he described as what might be termed an appetizer, rather than a full meal. The film, he believes, does offer a full meal of entertainment. It is his belief that appearance on the air of established screen personalities, who were developed via the screen, does them no good, while players who attained their popularity on the air should continue to broadcast.

At the same time he presented an idea for the use of the radio as a means of advertising the screen product, which is his own. In essence, it is that the advertising program should consist largely of music, with brief interjections of comment, much in the manner of a descriptive rendition of the famous "1812 Overture." Such a program, short in length, he conceives as highly effective and offering valuable selling material. He pictured "Wells Fargo," for example, as a symphony, perhaps with a brief touch of the story in interlude fashion. Such an idea is now in work on the coast, but has not progressed as yet to the specific decision stage.

Another Lloyd radio idea for advertising is the use of the air by a studio perhaps once every two or even three months, with highlights, entertainingly presented, of that studio's leading pictures about to be released.

Lloyd sees more extensive use of tinting films, believes color should be used judiciously at all times, and in no case recommends that color and black and white be used in the same film, on the ground that too sharp a contrast is presented. He pointed out, for example, that the use of color would have resulted in scenic effects much too beautiful for the rugged type of story which "Wells Fargo" is.

Lloyd will leave here tomorrow morning to return to the coast, with preview stopovers planned at Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and other key cities.

Swing Authority

San Francisco, Dec. 6.—Mort Werner, KJBS "singing announcer," the west's outstanding "swing record" authority, will leave for New York Dec. 20, on the invitation of the Hot Record Exchange, to discuss possible sale of several rare copies dating back to the early days of swing. Werner's library of over 9,000 popular discs is valued at more than $15,000. One platter alone includes Ted Lewis, Fats Waller, Benny Goodman, Jack Teagarden, Joe Venuti and Eddie Lang.

No Threat Yet from Television—Whitney

John Hay Whitney, chairman of the board of Selznick International, returned from England yesterday on the Normandie and said that after making a survey of television, he believed "it is still in an interesting stage and will be no threat to theatres."

"The public in England is apathetic to television," he said, despite the two weekly broadcasts, "It is still in the development stage." Home sets, he stated are priced too high and run as much as $300.

Although he stated the main purpose of his trip was to make three appointments abroad, these will wait until after the M-G-M deal with David O. Selznick has been signed. It is planned to enlarge the Selznick International offices in Paris and London and Whitney will return to England in March.

Musicians Demands Shift Opera Plans

RCA's plans to sponsor the Saturday matinee performances from the Metropolitan Opera House over the Blue network were halted abruptly a few minutes before air time last Saturday when the Musicians' Union, Local 802, unexpectedly demanded full sponsored program rates for the musicians participating in the broadcast. As a consequence of RCA's refusal to meet the increased cost of sponsoring, approximating $3,000 per weekly program, the show was presented as a sustaining feature.

Pay to musicians for a commercial program amounts to $12 an hour for each man. The programs average three hours on the air, and the Met musicians' pit is usually occupied by approximately 80 men.

Last year RCA had a somewhat similar experience with the musicians' union for the same series of broadcasts, but a compromise measure was achieved then, permitting the programs to be aired under their aegis. The compromise called for a payment by RCA of $12 extra per man. This year, with the musicians tightening down on the radio industry, Local 802 refused to compromise, asking the full rate of $12 per hour.

Oddly enough, the American Guild of Musical Artists made no demands for extra compensation for the broadcast.

Court Upholds FCC On St. Louis Permit

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Orders of the F. C. C., granting a construction permit for a new station to the St. Louis Star-Times over the opposition of KSD of that city were affirmed today by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The court also upheld orders of the commission in a contest in Utah.

In the St. Louis case, it was contended by KSD that the commission should have considered its application for increased facilities, filed earlier, before considering an application for a new station. In its decision, the court held that priority of filing was not a sufficient reason for preferential treatment.

Commission officials pointed out following the decision that the case gave conclusive evidence that the F. C. C. is not attempting to restrict newspapers in the operation of broadcasting facilities.

Segal Is Suspended, Smith Freed by FCC

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Paul M. Segal was suspended from practice before the F.C.C. for two months, beginning immediately, and George S. Smith, his associate, was exonerated of charges of improper practices, in a decision rendered by the commission on Saturday in the first disbarment trial ever to be conducted by the Federal agency.

The decision followed consideration of testimony taken during a trial in October, which lasted more than a week, and which was featured by the disqualification of Commissioner George H. Payne.

The two attorneys had been charged with setting up "dummy" stations, allegedly to deceive the commission.

No Changes in Para. Studio, Says Griffis

concerning a story published by Motion Picture Daily to the effect that the investment firm had been given a participation in an option held by Atlas Corp. and Lehman Bros. to acquire the balance of RCA's holdings in RKO, observed, "Hemphill, Noyes has no interest in RKO securities."

Griffis reported that considerable study had been given in the course of the Hollywood sessions to methods of reducing studio costs to bring them more in line with currently lower receipts and that the study had resulted in "some reductions." He insisted, however, that no change would be made in the company's release schedule, as a result, and that none of the economies which has been instituted or was discussed involved a sacrifice of production quality.

Balaban Predicts 2 Big Ones Monthly

Hollywood, Dec. 6.—Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, entraining for New York today said: "As the result of viewing pictures already completed or in work I am convinced Paramount is in the position to assure two box-office attractions every month during the balance of the 1937-'38 season ending September, 1938."

Balaban added: "Productions viewed are proof to me that Paramount's last half of its releasing season will be even stronger than the first half. Starting with "True Confession" during Christmas week, we will release a program that includes such sure-fire attractions as "Wells Fargo," "Every Day's a Holiday," "Thrill of a Lifetime," "The Buccanneer," "Romance in the Dark," "The Big Broadcast of 1938," "Doctor Rhythm," "You and Me" and "Professor Beware."

"Mr. Zukor and Mr. LeBaron have planned a most ambitious program for 1938-'39," Balaban said. "And, reviewing these plans with them, I was convinced that the 1938-'39 program will enable Paramount to continue its upward progress in quality and box-office value."

Patterson Wins Suit Over Jungle Picture

An interlocutory decree in the infringement suit brought by Frederick Beck Patterson against Century Prod., Inc., Samuel Cummins, Empire Laboratories, Inc., Richard Fiedler and the Bob-Ed Theatres Corp. which held that the defendants infringed on the plaintiff's copyright was confirmed by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in a 10-page opinion by Judge Harris B. Chase yesterday.

Patterson claimed that he filmed 15,000 feet of wild animal scenes during a hunting trip in Africa in 1927. Later he copyrighted the film as a "motion picture in a photoplay" and exhibited the picture without admission charges to various private audiences under the title "Shooting Big Game with a Camera." The defendants were alleged to have used 1,000 feet of the film in their picture, "Jungle Killers."

Patterson's copyright was attacked on the ground that he failed to re-register with the copyright office after cutting the film into a photoplay and because the copyright notice appeared on only the first reel. Judge Chase overruled the objections.

No Stay Granted to Time, Inc.

Federal Judge John W. Clancy refused to grant a temporary injunction to Time, Inc., publishers of Life, to restrain the Ultem Publications, Inc., from continuing to publish a fan magazine under the title of Movie Life in the U. S. District Court yesterday. Judge Clancy stated "serious questions of fact" required a trial of the suit. Time charged that the use of similar color and type, together with the use of the word "life" on the cover tend to infringe on its trade mark. A permanent injunction is asked.

Urges Action

American producers and distributors should wake up and act on the proposed English quota laws before it is too late, Joseph H. Seidelman, foreign head of Columbia, stated yesterday. Actors' Guild Will Meet on December 17

Hollywood, Dec. 6.—The first meeting of the Screen Actors' Guild since the session at which announcement was made of the signed contract with the major studios will be held Dec. 17 at the Woman's Club of Hollywood.

The question to be discussed at the time will deal exclusively, according to Ken Thomson, executive secretary, with problems affecting free lance and day players.

Members will be asked to submit ideas for remedying conditions in the free lance and day players' ranks, to be taken up by the guild officers for consideration in outlining the program for conferences with producers, over the basic contract, as specified in the pact.

Hub Robbery Ruse Fails

Boston, Dec. 6.—John Carroll, manager of the Paramount, was kidnapped this morning by three men seeking to burglarize the theatre. Carroll was forced from his own automobile while driving home alone and was taken to a garage, where, at the point of a gun, he was compelled to reveal the combination of a safe in which lay $2,600 in weekend grosses. Carroll persuaded the bandits, however, that only a small sum of money was in the theatre and that the risk of getting even that was too great because of the night cleaners. He was finally released unharmed in the suburbs. He informed the police, who rushed a guard to the theatre.

Myers Urges Continued Use Of Litigation

Only Means to Hand, He Tells Ohio Meeting

COLUMBUS, Dec. 7.—Exhibitor pressure for industry reforms by legislation and litigation was urged today by Abram F. Myers, general counsel of Allied States Ass'n, in an address before the two-day annual convention of the I. T. O. of Ohio, in progress here at the Neil House.

Myers, in a lengthy address, cited the lack of success which he said has resulted from the various "point programs" which have been brought forward for the settlement of distributor-exhibitor problems, and said with reference to his proposal for litigation and legislation, "This does not mean that it is not worth while to attempt to marshal nationwide agreement on a program or to coordinate the efforts of all exhibitors in support thereof. But in pursuing what is at best a remote possibility, they should not in the slightest degree abate their efforts to secure relief by the only methods presently available."

He pointed out the problems to be

Decision Is Reserved in Perelman Case

Third Reargument Heard In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—Judges Joseph Buffington, J. Warren Davis and J. Whitaker Thompson in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today reserved decision at the conclusion of the third rehearing of the Perelman double feature case. The court gave no indication of when its decision will be handed down.

The rehearing was granted the attorneys for the six major companies who were defendants, Warners, Paramount, Fox, RKO, United Artists and M-G-M, so that they might introduce two points. Morris Wolf and Edward Weisl, representing the companies, claimed the clause in the contract restraining exhibitors from dual billing, claimed by the plaintiff to be illegal, was reasonable. They held it a protection for the industry and public and therefore not a violation of law.

The other point was that evidence had not shown the producers combined in violation of anti-trust laws to discriminate against exhibitors who ran duals. They argued that the six defendant companies had decided "individually and independently" to strive for elimination of duals. They de-

Agreement Near on RKO Option Renewal

Negotiations for an extension of the option on the bulk of RCA's remaining debentures and stock of RKO may be concluded by the investment syndicate headed by Atlas Corp. and Lehman Bros. within the next week, principals in the negotiations stated yesterday.

As reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of Dec. 3, the negotiations now in progress involve the acquisition of a small part of the RKO securities under option within the next few weeks and an extension of the option on the remainder for an as yet undetermined period.

Reports published in metropolitan newspapers yesterday that the option would be extended for six years, with one-sixth of the securities being picked up annually, were described by principals as "pure conjecture." While insisting that details of the extension

U. A. Option Agreement Is Reported Off

Tax and Legal Obstacles Given as Reasons

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Samuel Goldwyn-Alexander Korda agreement for exercising their option to purchase the outstanding three-fifths of United Artists common stock is "cold," it was reported here today in well-informed quarters on the eve of the oft-postponed United Artists stockholders' meeting in Hollywood.

Legal and tax obstacles to the deal on both sides of the Atlantic are given as the reasons for the apparent collapse of efforts to consummate the financing agreement for the exercise of the option. It was officially indicated that incipient efforts to negotiate an extension of the option beyond Dec. 23, its expiration date, have been discontinued and that the stockholders will be informed at their meeting tomorrow that there is little prospect of the option being exercised.

Unconfirmed reports hold that the option will be permitted to lapse and that efforts will be made later by Goldwyn and Korda to negotiate a new one in the event that the deal can be salvaged by extensive revising.

Clarify the Rule on Holding Ticket Stubs

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Regulations requiring theatres to retain for not less than three months the portions of admission tickets taken up by them were today interpreted by the Internal Revenue Bureau in such a way as to relieve certain exhibitors from that requirement.

The bureau rules that where a film theatre does not sell reserved seat tickets to cover particular seats or boxes; does not sell tickets to ticket brokers or speculators; does not sell any tickets for an amount in excess

Decision Reserved In Perelman Case

clared continuance of double features will bring about cut-throat competition and lead to undesirable films.

B. N. Golder, attorney for Perelman, contended the producers "got together" in illegal combination to drive the small exhibitors out of business, unless they discontinue double bills.

The Circuit Court first upheld Judge Welsh's ruling against the producers in a lower court on Jan. 16, 1936. After reargument the court reaffirmed the original ruling on March 4, 1937, but the next day "recalled" its decision, explaining it had been "filed by mistake" and ordered the reargument which was held today.

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News
Vol. 20, No. 25
(20th Century-Fox)

Another good, full-measure release in the lively and entertaining manner for which this reel is deservedly noted may be counted on in this.

The release leads off with some sensational shots of the shelling of Nantao during the capture of Shanghai, and the fleeing of civilians from the native quarter. The late arrival of more than 4,000 feet of this material prevented the inclusion of any great amount of it in this release, but what there is ranks high among the combat footage that has come from China.

The domestic news includes shots of principals and the events in the Miami All-American Air Meet; plane shipments of baby chicks from Florida to South America; William Green of the A. F. of L. and John L. Lewis of the C. I. O. following their recent "peace" meeting in Washington, and the successful trial of new deep sea diving equipment. The foreign news section brings the arrival of Ramsay MacDonald's remains in England; the escape from Palestine of the Arab leader; the arrival in France of large gold shipments from America, and Italy's facilities for minding babies left by working mothers.

The sports section includes shots of the Washington Redskins-New York Giants game for the eastern "pro" football title; the Southern California-U. C. L. A. game, and the opening of the skiing season in the Alps.

A good reel, well narrated, photographed and edited.

Running time, 10 mins. K.

News of the Day
Vol. 9, No. 23
(M-G-M)

News of the Day has taken a new tack in handling the Chinese war scenes and has concentrated on the poignant human drama involved rather than the broad spectacle. It's impressive. Weary and frightened Chinese cilivians rush through the barbed wired barriers of the French concession at Shanghai, heedless of the flailing sticks of the constabulary. Masses of men, women and children hold out their hands for food thrown to them. Young people half carry their elders. Young and old struggle impotently in the mud of a shallow creek trying to escape bombardment and fire.

These scenes will stand out in the memory of beholders.

The rest of the reel holds up in spite of this strong start. The Miami air races show planes swooping around pylons at extremely low altitudes, the wrecks which marred the meet, and a stunt man who is towed under a plane hanging to a rope before he drops with a parachute.

Adelaide Hawley, commentator, makes what might have been a commonplace shot something to think about with her description of a baby checking place in Italy. Her "sleep, bambino, while you may" reaches home.

Football shots close the reel, but interest in this sport is fading. The Redskins-Giants professional game and the Trojans-Bears college game in California are shown.

Running time, 9 mins. J.

Paramount News
No. 36
(Paramount)

Doings in the Balkans open the reel. In Yugoslavia, Prince Paul leads his nation in observing the 25th anniversary of the lifting of Turkish rule. Albania's King Zog attends military reviews and ceremonies on a national holiday. It is a fair lead.

The meeting of William Green and John L. Lewis in Washington is cleverly presented. The labor leaders both announce as they emerge from conference that they have reached no conclusions. A page boy gets real tough when two cameramen attempt to enter the sanctum. It seemed like the real thing.

News flashes offer funeral scenes for Ramsay MacDonald, Mayor LaGuardia pinning Congressional Medals on members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition and Federal agents studying the mystery of the stolen mail sacks which were found in the river by an eel fisherman.

Last Sunday's exciting professional football game between Washington and the Giants is adequately caught by well-placed cameras. In Los Angeles, a 70-yard pass by Southern California is a highlight in its games with U. C. L. A. But they lost by a score of 19-14.

It is an average reel.

Running time, 8 mins. P.

RKO Pathe News
Vol. 9, No. 40
(RKO)

A fast moving and interesting issue, this number of the RKO Pathe reel is all-American, with no clip devoted to anything outside the United States. It opens with Roosevelt's fishing trip.

Called exclusive is the clip picturing the capture of 20 members of a narcotics ring in New York by Federal agents, with the audience urged to join in the manhunt for three leaders who escaped. Their pictures are displayed by a Federal man. Excellent scenic effects are achieved in the shots of the drilling through the Sierra Nevadas in California for a new tunnel.

Ex-President Hoover is seen visiting the growing World's Fair in New York. The labor chieftains, William Green of the A. F. of L., and John L. Lewis of the C.I.O., meet for potentially important discussions and the wreckage of two planes is seen at Miami's air races, while Army fliers make spectacular designs in the sky with smoke. The sporting division includes skiiers coming down from the rafters in the Boston Garden, and some cracking football material as the Washington Redskins hand the N. Y. Giants a beating.

Running time, 9 mins. A.

Universal News
Vol. 9, No. 621

The all-American air races at Miami and the Redskins-N. Y. Giants pigskin game in New York hold a quota of thrills and excitement to keep the newsreel fans in a happy frame of mind. Another sports event is the indoor ski jumping at Boston.

Other clips include New York's sturdy policemen developing their mechanical skill by repairing Christmas toys for unfortunate children in the local area. Then there are shots of Santa Claus arriving at Miami via the aquaplane method.

A sad note is injected with the funeral of Ramsay MacDonald. President Roosevelt is shown leaving Miami for a visit to his dentist and the subject winds up with the nip and tuck New York Giants-Redskins football fracas.

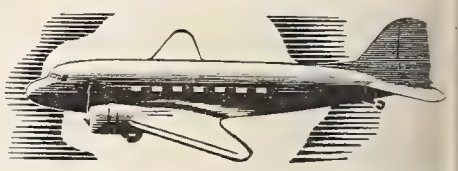
Five Composers Quit Song Writers' Ass'n

Jerome Kern, Oscar Hammerstein, Dorothy Fields, Sigmund Romberg, Gus Kahn and many other songwriters now in Hollywood have tendered resignations to the Song Writers' Protective Ass'n, it was learned yesterday.

The reason for the resignations is said to be a protest against a meeting called for today by the S.P.A. to amend the bylaws so as to make the assignment of synchronization and recording rights to the organization for 25 years instead of perpetuity. The coast writers feel, it was said, that if the assignment is made valid by the amendment they will not be permitted to work for film producers.



Irving Caesar is president of the S.P.A.

Jack Harris Slated As Fox's Successor

Jack Harris, district manager for Skouras Theatres in Long Island, is slated to be appointed to succeed Matthew Fox, film buyer and booker, when the latter leaves in two weeks to become executive aide to Nate J. Blumberg, new president of Universal.

Tom Saris, manager in one of the Astoria houses in the circuit, is now acting as district manager for the Harris group of theatres. Lou Hart, who was formerly with Skouras and resigned, is now back at the Broadway, Astoria.

The appointments are expected to be made official upon Fox's departure from the circuit. He is now winding up several deals with Harris sitting in.

A striking appeal was made by Montgomery S. Hill of Greensboro, N. C., for handling Negro presentations on the screen with a greater knowledge of the problems involved and more consideration for southern traditions.

Hill declared: "We are glad to see Negroes portrayed in sympathetic roles, but object to showoff characters and wish heartily to condemn the scantily-clad Negro persons in dance scenes, especially with white performers. Sex appeal suggestions should be strictly taboo."

A resolution, adopted at the conclusion of Hill's address, was identical with that adopted by the Theatre Owners of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee two months ago.

Ed Levy, general counsel of the M.P.T.O.A., outlined the national legislative situation in a lengthy prepared paper.

Milton C. Moore of Jacksonville, president of the Southeastern Theatre Owners Ass'n, started the only argument of the convention when he sought support for a resolution of his organization favoring Federal regulation by the appointment of boards to consider the complaints of exchange men and exhibitors.

H. F. Kincey of Charlotte: Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., and Levy all protested against any sort of Federal regulation.

Kolorama Shows Its Television System

Kolorama Research Laboratories, Inc., yesterday exposed to the eyes of newspapermen its progress in television, developed under its own patents. The demonstration took place in the company's studio in Irvington, N. J.

Televised on a 4-ft. x 5-ft. screen in regular black and white were clips from News of the Day, Pathe, and brief scenes from standard film in which Anita Louise, James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Katharine Hepburn, Grace Moore and Fred MacMurray participated.

Kolorama employs a mechanical system of its own invention whereas most other systems use the cathode ray tube. Kolorama claims to be able to blow up a picture to any size with its system, whereas the cathode ray definitely limits the size of the picture. The company officials, however, would not explain the features of its system, stating they are not yet ready. Also refused was information bearing on the number of lines it uses to make visible the picture. RCA and most other companies now employ the 441-line definition.

Kolorama's pictures were rather imperfect when compared to what some other companies have shown. The films lacked detail in most instances, had a pronounced flicker, and faces, especially in closeups, were somewhat distorted. The black and white colors were shallow. —B.

New Timing Offered On St. Louis Shows

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8.—Fanchon & Marco have offered three alternate timings for programs to the public in page newspaper ads. Patrons are asked to indicate their preferences.

The plans are:

No. 1. Designed for patrons who prefer to leave the theatre early and yet arrive late enough to see the main feature. The feature under this schedule would start between 9:30 and 9:45 P.M., and be preceded by 30 minutes of short subjects.

Under this arrangement a patron who prefers the shorter show could arrive as late as 9 P.M., see the newsreels, the short subjects and the main feature and leave by 11 P.M. In this plan patrons wishing to see both features should plan to arrive prior to 8 P.M.

No. 2 is similar to No. 1, but is based on the idea that a majority of patrons prefer the second feature to short subjects. Under this schedule the main feature would start at 9:45 P.M. and be preceded by the second feature, which would start about 8:30 or 8:45 P.M. On this program the short subjects would go on at 8 P.M.

No. 3 would attempt to satisfy the two groups, those who wish to leave early, and those who can stay later and see a double feature program. Under this program the main feature would go on at 9:15 P.M., to be followed by the second feature. The replies will be studied for future guidance.

Georgia Chain Tax To Receive Hearing

ATLANTA, Dec. 8.—A special tax on theatres patterned on the chain store tax passed by the Legislature in the regular session last spring will not come up for final consideration in the House of Representatives until a public hearing has been held. This was decided when the House granted a request from Representative Booth of Barrow, author of the bill, that it be sent back to the Ways and Means Committee for a hearing.

Spyridon D. Skouras Departs for Greece

Spyridon D. Skouras, son of Demetrious, who operates two theatres in Athens, Greece, yesterday sailed on the Normandie for home after a nine-month vacation here. On the same ship were Wesley Ruggles, Paramount director; Paul Graetz, head of Paris Export Film; Jean Levy Strauss, producer of "Carnet de Bal," French film; John Loder, G. B. actor, and his wife, Micheline Cheirel, who appeared in "Carnival in Flanders."

Ruggles said he was going on a three-month vacation on the Continent and at the same time would look for talent and stories. He stated that the most important thing in pictures today is realism, which is coming back in full force.

Graetz said he completed several deals for releasing independent product in France and would return to this country next March.

Strauss, who came over with Julian Duvivier, new M-G-M director, could not get together with M-G-M on a contract and said he prefers making his pictures in France.

Emil Ludwig, prominent author, canceled his trip the last minute. His baggage had to be taken off the boat a few minutes before it pulled out. One trunk could not be moved out in time and is now on its way to Havre.

Sophie Stewart, who appeared in "The Scarlet Pimpernel," sailed yesterday on the Aquitania.

Union Judgment on Sherman Confirmed

Supreme Court Justice Samuel Hofstadter yesterday confirmed the report of Referee George Brokaw Compton awarding Local 306 of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union a $150,961 judgment against Harry Sherman, former president of Local 306. Also $12,500 for legal fees and $491 for disbursements were allowed to Irving Schleifer, William Greene and Harry Sherl, members of the union who brought the suit in a representative capacity.

The union opposed the allowance on the ground that the judgment was uncollectable and that no benefit had been derived by the union by such an allegedly uncollectable judgment. As a result of the action, said the court, Sherman had resigned his office as president. The suit was brought in 1934 while Sherman was still president and alleged that funds of the union had not been accounted for. Tabershaw and Hirsch were the attorneys who were awarded the $12,500 in fees.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Larger Than Life"

(First National)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.—"Larger Than Life" presents as its top name Frank McHugh in his Caspar Milquetoast characterization, which is a plain, unvarnished way of saying that the picture is crammed full of laughs, aimed not at that section of the film-going public which likes to be termed sophisticated, but to the fans in ordinary circumstance who comprise the bulk of theatre business.

Based on a play by Joseph Schrank and a short story by Norman Matson, the screen play of Schrank and Robertson White is a well-molded frame for the talents of McHugh, who as a clerk defies gangsters, a senator's threat, the plot of a mother and her daughter to ensnare him in marriage, and his boss who fires him because of the inadvertent publicity McHugh obtains through his desire to keep a statue of his "ideal."

A neighborhood house audience, completely sans studio claque, was captivated wholly by the farce. Others in the cast, all of them contributing ably to the developments, include Berton Churchill, Jane Wyman, Ferris Taylor, Diana Lewis, Cora Witherspoon, Raymond Hatton, William Haade and Tom Kennedy. Lew Seiler draws the credit for capable direction of the piece, a Bryan Foy production.

McHugh, in love secretly with the daughter of a senator, buys at auction a statue for which she has posed, to the disgust of scheming Miss Wyman and her mother, Miss Witherspoon. The senator, Berton Churchill, who is conducting a campaign against nudity, attempts to buy back the piece, which is slightly undraped. Then gangsters attempt to steal it, but McHugh evades them, has them arrested, and marries the senator's daughter.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Partners of the Plains"

(Harry Sherman-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.—The customary accoutrements of a "Hopalong Cassidy"—action, adventure, gun, fist battles and comedy—are present in "Partners of the Plains." Those who have played the Harry Sherman features starring William Boyd know how effectively the ingredients are combined. In this one, however, a radical departure is made. Important as the other elements are and as necessary as they are in a picture to satisfy the series clientele, they are, in this case, secondary to romance.

The technique follows the "Taming of the Shrew" pattern. A dominating woman, determined to be the boss, manages everybody until she meets Boyd. Two strong wills clash. The sparks that fly in action, dialogue and characterizations make for interesting amusement. The result is the inevitable. Boyd winds up in control of all affairs either those that have business significance or romantic import.

Like all the "Hopalongs," "Partners of the Plains" is well mounted and staged. Dialogue and action are balanced to assure action and movement. Harrison Jacobs' screenplay and added dialogue preserves the spirit of the Clarence E. Mulford "Bar 20 Days" story on which it is based and Lesley Selanders' direction keeps thing moving.

As usual, Boyd and Russel Hayden are up to standard and Gwen Gaze creates a strong character as the determined woman who surrenders to manly charm. Harvey Clark, replacing George Hayes, accounts for the comedy. Character roles are filled by John Warburton, Hilda Plowright, Al Bridge, Al Hill, Earl Hodgin and John Beech.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Title Laurel and Hardy

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.—Laurel and Hardy's forthcoming Hal Roach vehicle has been definitely titled "Swiss Miss."

Short Subjects

"The Woods Are Full of Cuckoos"

(Vitaphone)

The community sing radio broadcast is subjected to hilarious burlesque in this color cartoon. Even the parent production company is a target. Practically every big name on the air is used and their drawn equivalents are made to do highly amusing things. The Hollywood Hotel program concludes after many funny events unreel. Louella Parsons is also to be seen and heard. It should go over anywhere. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"The Mysterious Jug"

(Universal)

As Oswald and his dog visit the city dump, and come upon a magician's trunk, an opportunity for really clever and entertaining cartoon material is offered, but it cannot be said that the most is made of the chance. A tiny genii pops out of a bottle, and his antagonist comes off the label of a can of deviled ham. Oswald wins the ensuing battle. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"He Done His Duty"

(Columbia)

Andy Clyde in plenty of vivid slapstick comedy—the type that certain audiences find highly amusing. Clyde is a sheriff running for reelection. He ultmiately gets there, but not until he captures a pair of confidence racketeers after a thrilling automobile chase. Running time, 17½ mins. "G."

"Community Sing No. 4"

(Columbia)

A barber shop is Gene Morgan's setting this time. He, Robert Paige and Deane Janis urge the audience to sing "Smiles," "Oh, What a Gal Was Mary," "Some of These Days" and other numbers. A quartet helps out. It is fair. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

"Oh Say Can You Hear"

(Universal)

Against a supposed night club setting is performed the usual group of unexciting vaudeville bits. The alleged comedy is supplied by Doug Leavitt and Ruth Lockwood, doing a sketch of a deaf couple, which is considerably less than amusing. Among the acts are the Loria Brothers, Mexican youngsters' band, who are clever. Running time, 15 mins. "G."

"Danger—High Voltage"

(Vitaphone)

Another of Floyd Gibbons' "Your True Adventures." It is grimly thrilling, realistically enacted stuff that should attract a good audience. The story concerns a Wichita man who was given up as dead after he had come in contact with a charged wire while repairing a power line. The embalmer sees a spark of life flickering and the victim is revived after a great deal of suspense. The man who underwent the experience is on hand to get his $250 check. Running time, 14 mins. "G."

Church Film Group Urged in Australia

SYDNEY, Nov. 18 (By Air Mail, via London).—Advocating the presentation of talking pictures in churches, the Archbishop of Brisbane, Dr. Ward, is urging the formation of a Religious Film Society on the lines of a similar organization in England.

"We need to stir the imagination of Australian church people," he said, "and the churches will do it." Czech Independents To Make 60 in Year

Independent film producers in Czechoslovakia will make about 60 pictures this year as compared to 36 last year, Leo Berger, sales manager for M-G-M in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, stated yesterday. Berger has been with M-G-M for 11 years and this is his first trip to America. He will leave for the coast the end of the week with stopovers at various sightseeing points.

The producers in Czechoslovakia are aided by the Government to the extent of 10,000,000 crowns a year, Berger said. There are 1,800 theatres in the country, all wired for sound, and with about 800 operating irregularly. These 800 houses are in educational and military sections. After a three-year lapse, all major distributors have offices in Czechoslovakia except Warners and Columbia.

During the past two years, M-G-M has distributed 50 films a year. The annual number usually does not run this high, but due to inactivity for three years a number of films accumulated.

Universal would not control the company, he said. If the pictures possessed merit they would be released in the United States by Universal.

Chauvel said that he was planning an ambitious picture dealing with the operations of the Australian Light Horse. This could be made cheaply in Australia but would cost a great deal more in Hollywood, he declared

New Timing Offered On St. Louis Shows

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8.—Fanchon & Marco have offered three alternate timings for programs to the public in page newspaper ads. Patrons are asked to indicate their preferences.

The plans are:

No. 1. Designed for patrons who prefer to leave the theatre early and yet arrive late enough to see the main feature. The feature under this schedule would start between 9:30 and 9:45 P.M., and be preceded by 30 minutes of short subjects.

Under this arrangement a patron who prefers the shorter show could arrive as late as 9 P.M., see the newsreels, the short subjects and the main feature and leave by 11 P.M. In this plan patrons wishing to see both features should plan to arrive prior to 8 P.M.

No. 2 is similar to No. 1, but is based on the idea that a majority of patrons prefer the second feature to short subjects. Under this schedule the main feature would start at 9:45 P.M. and be preceded by the second feature, which would start about 8:30 or 8:45 P.M. On this program the short subjects would go on at 8 P.M.

No. 3 would attempt to satisfy the two groups, those who wish to leave early, and those who can stay later and see a double feature program. Under this program the main feature would go on at 9:15 P.M., to be followed by the second feature. The replies will be studied for future guidance.

Graetz said he completed several deals for releasing independent product in France and would return to this country next March.

Strauss, who came over with Julian Duvivier, new M-G-M director, could not get together with M-G-M on a contract and said he prefers making his pictures in France.

Union Judgment on Sherman Confirmed

Supreme Court Justice Samuel Hofstadter yesterday confirmed the report of Referee George Brokaw Compton awarding Local 306 of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' Union a $150,961 judgment against Harry Sherman, former president of Local 306. Also $12,500 for legal fees and $491 for disbursements were allowed to Irving Schleifer, William Greene and Harry Sherl, members of the union who brought the suit in a representative capacity.

The union opposed the allowance on the ground that the judgment was uncollectable and that no benefit had been derived by the union by such an allegedly uncollectable judgment. As a result of the action, said the court, Sherman had resigned his office as president. The suit was brought in 1934 while Sherman was still president and alleged that funds of the union had not been accounted for. Tabershaw and Hirsch were the attorneys who were awarded the $12,500 in fees.

The statement was obtained by MOTION PICTURE DAILY while the directors' meeting was still in session with all members or their representatives present and proceeding to dispose of other business held in abeyance since November 10 in anticipation of the Goldwyn-Korda option being exercised. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

(First National)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.—"Larger Than Life" presents as its top name Frank McHugh in his Caspar Milquetoast characterization, which is a plain, unvarnished way of saying that the picture is crammed full of laughs, aimed not at that section of the film-going public which likes to be termed sophisticated, but to the fans in ordinary circumstance who comprise the bulk of theatre business.

Based on a play by Joseph Schrank and a short story by Norman Matson, the screen play of Schrank and Robertson White is a well-molded frame for the talents of McHugh, who as a clerk defies gangsters, a senator's threat, the plot of a mother and her daughter to ensnare him in marriage, and his boss who fires him because of the inadvertent publicity McHugh obtains through his desire to keep a statue of his "ideal."

A neighborhood house audience, completely sans studio claque, was captivated wholly by the farce. Others in the cast, all of them contributing ably to the developments, include Berton Churchill, Jane Wyman, Ferris Taylor, Diana Lewis, Cora Witherspoon, Raymond Hatton, William Haade and Tom Kennedy. Lew Seiler draws the credit for capable direction of the piece, a Bryan Foy production.

McHugh, in love secretly with the daughter of a senator, buys at auction a statue for which she has posed, to the disgust of scheming Miss Wyman and her mother, Miss Witherspoon. The senator, Berton Churchill, who is conducting a campaign against nudity, attempts to buy back the piece, which is slightly undraped. Then gangsters attempt to steal it, but McHugh evades them, has them arrested, and marries the senator's daughter.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Partners of the Plains"

(Harry Sherman-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.—The customary accoutrements of a "Hopalong Cassidy"—action, adventure, gun, fist battles and comedy—are present in "Partners of the Plains." Those who have played the Harry Sherman features starring William Boyd know how effectively the ingredients are combined. In this one, however, a radical departure is made. Important as the other elements are and as necessary as they are in a picture to satisfy the series clientele, they are, in this case, secondary to romance.

The technique follows the "Taming of the Shrew" pattern. A dominating woman, determined to be the boss, manages everybody until she meets Boyd. Two strong wills clash. The sparks that fly in action, dialogue and characterizations make for interesting amusement. The result is the inevitable. Boyd winds up in control of all affairs either those that have business significance or romantic import.

Like all the "Hopalongs," "Partners of the Plains" is well mounted and staged. Dialogue and action are balanced to assure action and movement. Harrison Jacobs' screenplay and added dialogue preserves the spirit of the Clarence E. Mulford "Bar 20 Days" story on which it is based and Lesley Selanders' direction keeps thing moving.

As usual, Boyd and Russel Hayden are up to standard and Gwen Gaze creates a strong character as the determined woman who surrenders to manly charm. Harvey Clark, replacing George Hayes, accounts for the comedy. Character roles are filled by John Warburton, Hilda Plowright, Al Bridge, Al Hill, Earl Hodgin and John Beech.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Bans Cleveland Games

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—Police Chief George Matowitz issued an order banning Beano, Banko and Bingo in Cleveland theatres, effective immediately. Bank Night and Movie Sweepstakes were not included in the order.

Add "Fields" Bookings

Loew's has set additional New York bookings on "Green Fields," Yiddish film produced by Collective Film Producers, Inc., and distributed by New Star Films, Inc., following earlier local bookings. RKO also has taken the film for three houses.

Form New Schine Firms

COLUMBUS, Dec. 8.—Among corporations listed here during the week are the Schine Kent Improvement Corp., Schine Kent Theatre Corp., Schine Ravenna Improvement Corp. and the Schine Ravenna Theatre Corp.

These corporations cover the Kent theatre at Kent and the Ravenna theatre at Ravenna, formerly owned and operated by B. C. Steele.

Title Laurel and Hardy

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.—Laurel and Hardy's forthcoming Hal Roach vehicle has been definitely titled "Swiss Miss."

Short Subjects

"The Woods Are Full of Cuckoos"

(Vitaphone)

The community sing radio broadcast is subjected to hilarious burlesque in this color cartoon. Even the parent production company is a target. Practically every big name on the air is used and their drawn equivalents are made to do highly amusing things. The Hollywood Hotel program concludes after many funny events unreel. Louella Parsons is also to be seen and heard. It should go over anywhere. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"The Mysterious Jug"

(Universal)

As Oswald and his dog visit the city dump, and come upon a magician's trunk, an opportunity for really clever and entertaining cartoon material is offered, but it cannot be said that the most is made of the chance. A tiny genii pops out of a bottle, and his antagonist comes off the label of a can of deviled ham. Oswald wins the ensuing battle. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"He Done His Duty"

(Columbia)

Andy Clyde in plenty of vivid slapstick comedy—the type that certain audiences find highly amusing. Clyde is a sheriff running for reelection. He ultmiately gets there, but not until he captures a pair of confidence racketeers after a thrilling automobile chase. Running time, 17½ mins. "G."

"Community Sing No. 4"

(Columbia)

A barber shop is Gene Morgan's setting this time. He, Robert Paige and Deane Janis urge the audience to sing "Smiles," "Oh, What a Gal Was Mary," "Some of These Days" and other numbers. A quartet helps out. It is fair. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

"Oh Say Can You Hear"

(Universal)

Against a supposed night club setting is performed the usual group of unexciting vaudeville bits. The alleged comedy is supplied by Doug Leavitt and Ruth Lockwood, doing a sketch of a deaf couple, which is considerably less than amusing. Among the acts are the Loria Brothers, Mexican youngsters' band, who are clever. Running time, 15 mins. "G."

"Danger—High Voltage"

(Vitaphone)

Another of Floyd Gibbons' "Your True Adventures." It is grimly thrilling, realistically enacted stuff that should attract a good audience. The story concerns a Wichita man who was given up as dead after he had come in contact with a charged wire while repairing a power line. The embalmer sees a spark of life flickering and the victim is revived after a great deal of suspense. The man who underwent the experience is on hand to get his $250 check. Running time, 14 mins. "G."

Patrons in Holland Prefer Melodramas

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 29.—Melodramas were the majority preference of 35,000 patrons of the Rex, theatre in The Hague, who were polled by the management. The second choice was comedy, with thrill films third. Historical pictures were accorded a large vote, as well.

Church Film Group Urged in Australia

SYDNEY, Nov. 18 (By Air Mail, via London).—Advocating the presentation of talking pictures in churches, the Archbishop of Brisbane, Dr. Ward, is urging the formation of a Religious Film Society on the lines of a similar organization in England.

"We need to stir the imagination of Australian church people," he said, "and the churches will do it." Supporting the move, another speaker advised the interested organizations "not to start full of enthusiasm, then buy cheapest stuff and expect to get the people in. People will pay to see the ordinary pictures, but they'll put less in the plate at a cheap church show."

Sabin Carr Due Today

Sabin W. Carr, partner of Jed Buell in production of "Harlem on the Prairie," with an all-Negro cast, will arrive here from the coast today to negotiate distribution of the film.

Czech Independents To Make 60 in Year

Independent film producers in Czechoslovakia will make about 60 pictures this year as compared to 36 last year, Leo Berger, sales manager for M-G-M in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, stated yesterday. Berger has been with M-G-M for 11 years and this is his first trip to America. He will leave for the coast the end of the week with stopovers at various sightseeing points.

The producers in Czechoslovakia are aided by the Government to the extent of 10,000,000 crowns a year, Berger said. There are 1,800 theatres in the country, all wired for sound, and with about 800 operating irregularly. These 800 houses are in educational and military sections. After a three-year lapse, all major distributors have offices in Czechoslovakia except Warners and Columbia.

During the past two years, M-G-M has distributed 50 films a year. The annual number usually does not run this high, but due to inactivity for three years a number of films accumulated.

Australian Claims "U" to Aid Finance

SYDNEY, Nov. 18. (By Air Mail via London)—In a lecture to the Royal Empire Society on his return from Hollywood, Charles Chauvel, Australian independent producer, said that Universal had agreed to come into his company and provide one-third of the capital and much valuable equipment. Universal would not control the company, he said. If the pictures possessed merit they would be released in the United States by Universal.

Chauvel said that he was planning an ambitious picture dealing with the operations of the Australian Light Horse. This could be made cheaply in Australia but would cost a great deal more in Hollywood, he declared

Universal home office officials stated that the financing deal referred to by Charles Chauvel is a cooperative measure instituted for the purpose of providing for Universal's Australian quota production requirements.

Exhibitors Join in Federation Campaign

Local exhibitors met yesterday at the Hotel Astor and formed a committee to support the New York-Brooklyn Federation Campaign to rase $6,250,000. Another meeting will be held next Wednesday at the Astor theatre.

Among the speakers at yesterday's session were Judge Algeron I. Nova, Paul Moss, David Bernstein and Harry Brandt. At next Wednesday's meeting speakers will include Albert Warner and Jack Cohn. Joseph M. Schenck and Leo Spitz are scheduled to talk if they are in town.

Kennedy as an Envoy Arouses Film Interest

British Trade Pact and Quota Vital Problems

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The impending appointment of Joseph P. Kennedy as Ambassador to Great Britain, which is reported in authoritative quarters here, is of special interest to the film industry in view of Kennedy's motion picture background and the current progress of Anglo-American negotiations for a reciprocal trade agreement.

The industry pins its hopes for equitable trade relations with England in the future on the successful consummation of a trade treaty between the two nations. Such an agreement, film executives feel, would have a bearing on the new Quota Act.

Kennedy's association with the industry dates back to the old F.B.O. days, the company which he purchased and headed until he sold his controlling interest to RCA. The company was thereupon reorganized as RKO. Kennedy later headed the Pathe Exchange and was producer of the Gloria

Quota Discussions In Commons Heated

By AUBREY FLANAGAN

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A fierce discussion marked today's session of the Films Act Committee of the House of Commons, in its continuing consideration of the separate quota proposals for incorporation in the new Films Bill. Adjournment brought the group apparently no closer to a decision than they had been when the day's discussion opened.

Sir Adrian Baillie, urging the amendment, said the only hope for the future of the industry lay in its adoption. He protested against a loophole in the income tax act which, he said, had allowed the American interests to take £8,000,000 out of the country untaxed. He said there was no objection to American producers.

Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, objected to the adoption of the separate quota proposal, declaring that it would help some producers, but damage others. He said it marked the abandonment of an attempt to put British production on a world basis and cause it to turn to a small monopolistic British market. He

Blank Dinner Is Milestone In His Career

Miss Pickford Cites Her Aid Given UA Deal

Goldwyn Also Publishes Option Statement

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—Statements resulting from the abandonment of efforts to purchase the United Artists option were issued here today by Mary Pickford, United Artists partner, and by Samuel Goldwyn who, with Alexander Korda, had negotiated to purchase the shares of Miss Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin.

Miss Pickford summed up the failure of the purchase negotiations in "two words." In her first statement since the options were given the two producers last May, Miss Pickford said:

"Mr. Fairbanks and I have conscientiously cooperated with our partners, holders of the option, to effect a successful consummation of the deal, even to the extent of making two drastic concessions from the original agreement. In the first instance we agreed to take $1,500,000 in stock instead of all cash and in the second to take $500,000 less in cash and no stock. I take definite exception to printed

Korda to Continue On a Normal Basis

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Following the report here of the abandonment of the option deal for purchase of United Artists by Samuel Goldwyn and Alexander Korda, officials of London Films, the Korda company here, declared today production will continue on a normal basis.

They also expressed the hope that the same financing as heretofore will be available for the future program at the Korda Denham studio. There was a report here of some alternative move by Korda, but there were no details available.

Kennedy at London

By MARTIN QUIGLEY

NEWS of the President's intention to appoint Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy the American Ambassador to Great Britain is a development of especial interest to the industry of motion pictures.

It was as a motion picture executive that Mr. Kennedy first attained national prominence. Although his career previously had been markedly successful in a narrower field it was only when confronted with the intricacies of the business of motion pictures and its attendant possibilities that he had ample opportunity to demonstrate those capacities which have attracted widespread attention and which have brought to him increased responsibilities in the affairs of industry and government and which now have won for him the most important designation in American diplomacy.

In addition to the satisfaction personally which Mr. Kennedy's appointment will bring to the many persons in the industry who had contact with him during his career as a film company executive there is an additional significance of genuine importance.

According to State Department announcement there is now in the process of negotiation a reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Great Britain. This development has been received with high approval by the motion picture industry because of the indication involved that Anglo-American film relations would be viewed in the broad light of international relations, thus divorcing them from certain narrow concepts that otherwise might conceivably leave the American trade interest in a disadvantageous position.

As work on this treaty progresses it obviously will be of major importance that the American ambassador be a person with something more than a casual interest in and indifferent knowledge about the motion picture business. It will be fortunate indeed if Mr. Kennedy, equipped as he is with a thorough knowledge of the motion picture business, is at the Court of St. James's when the treaty document is given final form so that it will give effect to those considerations which are essential to the welfare of the domestic motion picture business and are not without real influence upon many national interests.

Mr. Kennedy's appointment, therefore, will have both sentimental and practical interest to the motion picture business.

It will also afford to his many friends in the industry renewed pleasure in observing this brilliant career go brilliantly on.

Kennedy as an Envoy Arouses Film Interest

Swanson pictures, released through United Artists. With the acquisition of Pathe by RKO, Kennedy retired from the industry in 1933. After organizing and serving as the first chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission, Kennedy was recalled to the industry in the late spring of 1936 as a special adviser to the Paramount board of directors. In that capacity he made a study of the company's operations and submitted it to the Paramount board as a critique of company policies and management, together with recommendations for executive and operating reforms.

At that time, Kennedy's name was widely mentioned in connection with the presidency of Paramount. Unofficial reports held that he would not accept the post if it was offered to him, inasmuch as his name was being mentioned at the time in Washington as a likely appointee to the Court of St. James's. Although the appointment did not materialize at that time, Kennedy was recalled later to Government service as organizer of the Maritime Commission, a post in which he is now concluding his duties.

No official word of Kennedy's reported appointment as Ambassador to Great Britain has been received by his New York office and no information beyond what has been carried in the metropolitan newspapers has been received here, an office attache said yesteray.

"However," the Kennedy aide commented, "there must be something to it because we have not been authorized to make any denials."

J. W. Gerard Talks Before Ampa Group

James W. Gerard, former American Ambassador to Germany, was guest of honor at the Ampa yesterday and recalled the days of 1917 when he wrote "My Four Years in Germany," following which he appeared in the film version for Warners.

Aside from his opinion of Germany today, Gerard held that the film industry is one of the three great media of public expression today, radio and the newspapers being the other two. He said that these media can make or break a government.

Matthew Woll, vice-president of the A. F. of L., took a bow, as did Dr. Herbert Edwards, who is assisting Mayor LaGuardia in the local tuberculosis drive. Wallace Ford tried hard to get over a few gags and finally admitted that Ampa was a tough audience. Marshal Montgomery, ventriloquist, entertained briefly.

Paul Lazarus, Jr., who acted as chairman in the absence of Ralph Rolan, who is en route to the coast, announced that there would be no Christmas luncheon. Efforts previously put behind the annual luncheon will be diverted to Film Daily Relief Fund. Arrangements have been completed for a raffle in behalf of the drive on Dec. 23.

Four A's Revamping Advanced by Council

Reorganization of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America into a single A. F. of L. performers' union for the entertainment field was brought a step nearer with progress being reported on current plans following a meeting of the Four A's council yesterday.

Now composed of numerous independent performers' unions, such as the Screen Actors' Guild, the American Federation of Radio Artists, Actors' Equity Ass'n, the American Guild of Musical Artists, Chorus Equity and others, the Four A's organizational structure will be simplified to such an extent, upon the completion of the plans now in work, as to make the parent organization, in effect, one large union covering the entertainment field.

Vol. 20, No. 26
(20th Century-Fox)

The exodus of Chinese natives from Nantao following the fall of Shanghai and a more or less panoramic camera story of the ensuing military operations in Nanking and Shansi Province contribute the material of greatest consequence in this release. There are good shots, additionally, of Shanghai streets flooded by the overflowing Whangpoo River and the new suffering visited upon the war-tried populace, in consequence.

Moscow's military and civil observance of the 20th anniversary of the Soviet is pictured. There are some spectacular shots of Sydney, Australia, and environs, caught by the camera from a height of four miles. The balance of the reel is "filler." It includes pictures of Shirley Temple at play in Palm Springs; animated Christmas doll exhibits from French craftsmen, preparations for the opening on Christmas Day of the Santa Anita racetrack, and Lew Lehr's valiant effort to make something comical of a waterbicycle race by Long Beach, Cal., bathing beauties.

News of the Day

Vol. 9, No. 24
(M-G-M)

Diversity of material gives this issue of News of the Day a lively pace and entertaining quality that has no origin in the news value of the individual subjects.

Shots of Chinese refugees fleeing Shanghai following the capture of the city are the outstanding contributions to this release. The selection of material, photography and narration all contribute to excellent pictorial reporting of the war incidents. Construction work on New York's Sixth Ave. subway line receives attention and should be of general interest besides informing numerous New Yorkers who have wondered just how a subway is constructed beneath a busy thoroughfare without interruption of traffic.

The arrival of ice covered freighters in Chicago from the Great Lakes is pictorial if not eventful. The beginnings of the holiday mail rush at the Santa Claus, Ind., postoffice and attendant observances within the community is timely. Other subjects completing the release include shots of the observance of the Soviet's 20th anniversary in Moscow; the Ice Carnival at Madison Square Garden, New York; the training of thoroughbreds for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in California, and the human interest story of Jessie Simpson, magazine illustrator's model, who, after suffering the loss of both legs in an accident, overcame her handicap to win success in a chosen field.

Paramount News

(Paramount)

Paramount jumps the gun on newsreel reviews of the camera high spots of the year by devoting this entire release to its résumé of the world news events of 1937. Competitive reels are wondering now what Paramount will do for a Christmas week release and whether it will issue another review reel in the event another Hindenburg disaster occurs between now and the end of the year.

The review is a good one, however, and its cumulative effect is somewhat sobering, in spite of, or because of, the fact that the outstanding news events of the year, to the Paramount newsreel editor's mind, at least, depict American doing the Big Apple, holding Legion conventions for overgrown juveniles and batting rubber balls attached to a paddle while the rest of the world smarted under dictatorships or writhed beneath the horrors of modern warfare. Labor pains as provided by or upon the C. I. O. and the Ohio Valley floods of the early part of the year temper the aforesaid impression to some extent, however.

The reviewer's general impression of this survey of the world's camera news events of 1937 was that 1938 could provide much more pleasant material for the next record without half trying.

Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 41
(RKO)

Eight subjects, two of which claimed to be exclusive, are incorporated in the latest Pathe issue. The first exclusive puts Washington on display at night under the title of Washington Working Overtime to shake off business recession. The second exclusive is the invention by a Rutgers University scientist of a camera which telescopes months of plant growth into a few seconds of film.

Andre Baruch narrates five of the eight clips with Erik Rolf handling the balance.

Brief interviews with business leaders such as President Lammot duPont of E. I. duPont de Nemours; President Charles Hook of American Rolling Mills; President George Houston of Baldwin Locomotive, and Board Chairman S. Clay Williams of Reynolds Tobacco, on opinions of the nation's business; science marshals every resource to track down the microbe which resulted in the death of 11 Chicago babies; the Colorado River tapped near Yuma, Ariz., for feeding an irrigation canal in the Imperial Valley; the latest Soviet plane in a test flight near Baltimore; Russia's military forces in review at Moscow in celebration of the Soviet's 20th anniversary and skiing at Mt. Rainier top off the reel.

Nothing exciting, but nevertheless interesting.

Universal News

Vol. 9, No. 622
(Universal)

Universal comes through with a series of latest war scenes showing Japanese troops and planes firing on Chinese sampans and munition forts at Shanghai. The plight of the Chinese in all its horror is depicted as well as the unfortunate killing of George Stephans, New York Times correspondent. Norman Alley and George Krainukov can thank their lucky stars they are alive after making those shots. The scenes are another feather in their caps.

In addition to the warfare, Universal claims four exclusive clips. They include the shots of workers completing a turret dome for a 200-inch telescope at Mt. Palomar, Cal.; reaping of a holly harvest at Bridgeville, Del.; Batista announcing a new three-year plan for Cuba at Havana, and mermaids introducing a new game of rumdrum on the beach at Venice, Cal.

Something new in skiing is the development of a mechanical device to haul jumpers up Mt. Rainier, Wash. There also are scenes of Russia celebrating its 20th anniversary of revolution at Moscow, and France's new army planes in test flights at Villacoublay, France.

Short Subjects

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 44"

(Universal)

A rather interesting collection of oddities is presented in this number of the series, featured by the prisoner in Ohio State Penitentiary whose earnings from story writing go as retribution for his misdeed; the Kansas youngster who is the district school's only pupil; the clever decoy duck making of Joel Barber, and the Oakland, Cal., candy store which is patronized by youngsters entirely on the honor system, even to making their own change. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Brokers' Follies"

(Columbia)

A stock broker's office is the setting. The ensuing entertainment is a collection of passable acts that range from Campbell's Royalists, a singing act, to the Seven Loria Brothers, a Latin-American child orchestra. It also has fairly clever comedy material. Running time, 10½ mins. "G."

"Porky's Hero Agency"

(Vitaphone)

The highly entertaining cartoon character appears all too briefly here in a comedy adaptation of that Greek myth involving the Gorgon's Head. It has been ingeniously executed. There are modern comic slants and laughs every few seconds. It should get advance billing. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Silver Threads"

(Columbia)

One of John Hix's "Strange As It Seems" shorts, this concerns the degeneration of Hart Danks, composer of "Silver Threads Among the Gold," when success arrived. It is feebly acted and tear-jerking in type. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 42"

(Universal)

Two widely diversified exhibitions of skill feature this number of the Lowell Thomas series. Able jewelry workers in California fashion tiny replicas of all sorts of things in gold to adorn women's wrists on chain bracelets. The second sequence pictures the capturing of turtles in the Bahamas, showing the native divers as they swim below and emerge with the snappers for food and byproducts. An interesting subject. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 41"

(Universal)

An interesting and informative subject in this series, assisted admirably by the quiet, descriptive narrative of Lowell Thomas. The short pictures, with touches of beautiful scenic photography, the daily activity of the Quinault Tribe in their Washington reservation, set aside for their exclusive use by treaty. The men hunt for food and sport, and salmon fishing in the teeming waters makes the community highly prosperous. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sergeant Murphy"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 9.—The entertainment and commercial potentialities of this picture stem from the adventures of a horse who plays the title role. Too tough for the artillery, he is transferred to the cavalry, whence, despite the excited agitation of his pal, Ronald Regan, he seems destined to become dog food. Between times, he makes things embarrassing for Colonel Donald Crisp during a review. But Regan, who loves Sergeant Murphy greatly, and who also is romantically inclined towards the colonel's daughter, Mary Maguire, saves him. He trains the Sergeant to be a jumper, the horse sweeps all American competition. Then Regan enters him in England's great racing-jumping classic, the Grand National. Although forced to travel with a shipload of mules and having to swim ashore, Sergeant Murphy wins.

Supplementing the sequences devoted to the horse's experiences and the romantic interludes in which Regan and Miss Maguire indulge, Crisp provides some amusing comedy, and the reproduction of the artillery review and insertion of clip shots from authentic Grand National races make for spectacle.

Other than the players mentioned, the supporting cast has little to do. Produced by Bryan Foy and based on an original by Cy Bartlett which was adapted by William Jacobs, the picture was directed by B. Reeves Eason. The review and race shots reveal his best work. The film will probably prove most popular with juvenile audiences.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Colorado Kid"

(Republic)

Strictly routine in all departments, this western probably will prove satisfactory for the youngsters and the adults who like their western action material on the screen as long as there is a quota of riding, shooting and scrapping included.

Bob Steele is the hero of the piece, which was directed by Sam Newfield from an original story by Harry F. Olmstead, and is supported by Marion Weldom, for the romance, Karl Hackett, supplying the menace, and Ernie Adams as Steele's buddy, who helps him out of his difficulties, but who otherwise adds little to the film.

Steele is unjustly accused of murder, and escapes from jail after being sentenced to death, bent on bringing to book the actual murderers of his friend and former employer. He suspects Hackett, and in the course of his pursuit of the murderer and his henchmen, becomes involved in a fight between Hackett and Miss Weldon's father. Steele of course makes good his promise to bring the murderers in, and at the same time assists the girl's father and finds romance with her.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

"The People of France"

(Contemporary Amusement Corp.)

This film was produced as straight election propaganda by the Communist Party of France in an effort to seat the Popular Front Government. It is a documentary treatment of labor conditions, anti-Fascism and Communist procedure in telling converts of the advantages of the party and a verbal exposition by prominent leaders of Marxian theories as they are practiced in Russia.

The production enlisted the talents of prominent French players who contributed their talents, as did technicians and studio workers. The leaders of the Communist Party of France are also to be seen on the debating platform and in their offices. Jean Renoir directed.

Running time, 63 minutes. "A."

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp. yesterday filed a general denial in answer to the amended complaint of Henry Rose against it, M-G-M Pictures Corp., M-G-M Distributing Corp., Loew's, Inc., Culver Export Corp. and Frank Dolan.

Rose claims that his copyrighted play, "Burrow Burrow," was infringed in "Man of the People." He asks a permanent injunction and an accounting. M-G-M, in its answer, also attacked the constitutionality of the copyright law which gives the protection of copyright to unpublished manuscripts. The answer demands a dismissal of the complaint with costs and attorney's fees.

Musso Here to Aid U S-Italy Relations

G. D. Musso, president and owner of ICI, described as the largest film company in Italy, located in Rome, and the distributor of Universal product there, is in New York in an effort to clarify the situation between American and Italian film interests, particularly with relation to the frozen capital problem in that country. With Musso is Edward Fenton, general manager of ICI.

The prime purpose of Musso's visit to this country, according to Fenton, is to cement relations between the two countries on film matters. The two have bought 28 American films for distribution in Italy next season, and brought with them three Italian films, "Cavalleria," "Contessa di Parma" and a special, "Dr. Antonio," starring Maria Gambarelli.

The company plans to bring over eight films a year for distribution here. Negotiations are now under way for a distributor. It is also planned to use 30 American pictures a year in Italy. A New York office will be opened.

The two will leave here Friday for Hollywood, where they plan to remain for one week. They will return to New York and will sail Jan. 5 on either the Conte di Savoia or the Rex.

Looking 'Em Over

"Merlusse"

(French M. P. Corp.)

A poignant and realistic drama of provincial school life is offered in this French film which was produced by Marcel Pagnol. Continental newspaper notices have rated it above the memorable "La Maternelle" but only in rare moments does it reach the heart-appealing level of that film. It has finely handled situations that are compelling as they unfold with genuine artistry. The picture should have average reception with its proper audiences.

Briefly, the story concerns a school teacher and his problems with the student body which is composed of young boys. Their torments and his reaction have given him a notorious reputation as a fierce and strict overseer. He is also up for promotion, being senior member of the faculty. On Christmas Eve he is assigned to look after a number of youngsters whose parents did not call for them and those who have none at all. He minds his flock with his usual characteristics and sees them to bed. The next morning they all find little gifts in their shoes and they see Merlusse in a new aspect. He, too, is touched by their reciprocity and the film closes on a more cheerful note. He also gets the promotion in addition to the esteem of the boys.

The title role is very well portrayed by Henri Poupon. Marcel Pagnol directed.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Railway Express in "Wells Fargo" Tieup

Alec Moss and Hal Danson of Paramount have effected a tieup with Railway Express, starting Christmas, whereby two and four-sheet posters will be plastered on approximately 10,000 trucks throughout the country on "Wells Fargo." In addition to these posters there will be special 25 in. x 33 in. window cards in color advertising the film for display in the express company's offices.

Several million giveaways have been printed for distribution at Paramount exchanges and will be available to exhibitors free. Railway Express will mention the picture in all of its national newspaper advertising and special publicity will appear in The Express Messenger, house organ distributed to railway passengers. The January cover of the monthly magazine will feature a special design on "Wells Fargo."

Sawed House Up Again

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 9. — The now famous "sawed house" case has bobbed up in U. S. District Court again. Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., and other defendants, have filed a motion to strike the plaintiff's amended petition from the files and to grant judgment for the defendants.

In the original suit for libel asking $25,000 damages, $15,000 actual and $10,000 exemplary, Mrs. Fern Chadwick, widow of an Oklahoma City chiropodist, charged that Universal newsreels showing the sawing in two of her home by a loan company had ruined her reputation, credit and social standing by suggesting that she had been evicted from her home and was in dire financial straits.

Miss Pickford Cites Her Aid Given UA Deal

statements that I am responsible for the failure of Korda and Goldwyn to exercise the option.

"The statement that I might trade my franchise of six pictures annually to the detriment of United Artists is absurd and utterly without foundation. Creation of United Artists originated with me and it has been my constant aim to maintain its high artistic standards since its organization 19 years ago, and I certainly would be the last to mar either its glorious past or its potentially brilliant future.

Asked No Discrimination

"It was part of the deal that I should have the right to release six pictures annually. United Artists distribution contracts contain the 'favored nation' clause and I simply requested continuation of the old contract. At no time was the suggestion made by me that I should be entitled to better terms than other producers.

"Despite innumerable and varied statements that have been given the press, the true reason for the so-called 'flop of the option' has never been printed, but I leave it to the imagination of the picture industry and I sum up the situation in 'two words.'"

Goldwyn pointed out that his connection with United Artists is through its distributing corporation, and that he is sole owner of his producing company, Samuel Goldwyn Prod.

It was believed in some quarters here that Goldwyn's pointed reference in the statement to the fact that United Artists owns no part of his producing company was an indication that he might withdraw his product from United Artists release.

Clarified "Misapprehensions"

The statement was preceded by an explanation that is was issued to clarify any misapprehensions arising out of the decision not to exercise the U. A. purchase option. The statement said:

"United Artists is a distributing corporation. My only relationship with United Artists is that I own one-fifth of this corporation and am distributing my pictures through United Artists at the present time. United Artists does not own any part of Samuel Goldwyn Prod. I am sole owner of my production company and have been for the past 15 years, during which I have produced pictures independently."

Blank expressed his deep appreciation for the honor, cited the loyalty of his employes, and said:

"The theatre has always held for me a tremendous fascination. Doubtless this fact has colored my viewpoint tonight. I am glad I chose to entertain the public as my official job. To be proud of the motion picture industry means the deep appreciation of the men who make that industry.

"I have understood fine promises make friends—but it takes performances to hold them—to call all present my friends warms my heart with satisfaction and pride."

Business Meeting Held

All Tri-State managers and exhibitors met with company officials for a business meeting at the hotel this morning, when Freeman discussed better cooperation between distributors and producers. The Blank Silver Anniversary contest started by Tri-State theatre managers three months ago, ended with presentation of the prizes at the banquet. Quota Discussions In Commons Heated said it is absurd for producers to write to the press saying the present difficult times were due to the quota. Capt. Cunningham Reif claimed that under the present quota system the distributors threw in British pictures like so much tea. Stanley appealed to the committee to speed up its consideration of the legislation.

IATSE Assessments To End on Saturday explained by I.A.T.S.E. leaders as the creation of a fund for organizational activities. The levy of the two per cent tax on members' earnings was a sore point with certain members and intramural factions of locals here ever since its adoption.

The return of autonomy to the four locals now run by International officers remains a moot question as officers of Alliance here are silent except to announce the dropping of the assessment. The autonomy move and assessment dropping demands were subjects of the recent legislature committee investigation and figured in two civil suits brought against International officers by members of the union.

event were first shown the transmitting equipment and offered an explanation of how the Peck system operates and later read the news as it flashed across the ground glass screen of the receiving machine in Dempsey's.

Stripped of its technical verbiage, the system operates in the following fashion: The messages are typed onto a cellophane ribbon at the Hotel Lincoln, and the ribbon is spun into the transmitting machine, where photo electric cells pick up and send out the message.

The present line definition of Peck Television is not known at the moment, the company at present being unwilling to divulge the information. However, they promise that the 441-line definition will be achieved very shortly.

"Times" Type of News

The messages are in black and white, and the letters are approximately four inches high. The messages are of the pointed, high spot variety such as are flashed on the New York Times screen, and are quite legible on the Peck receiver. Because the company has not yet received a Government permit, it is operating on a channel up to 30,000 cycles.

With Dempsey's as the nucleus, the company, according to a spokesman, expects to have approximately 200 clients within six months. In six months it expects to be selling its receivers on the open market for about $250 per set.

The service such as is now in operation at Dempsey's is leased for $35 to $45 per month. Peck will maintain news service to the clients for 18 hours a day. A company spokesman said that a permanent news agency will be selected shortly. Peck's news television can be received at a distance of 72 miles from its transmitter, it is claimed.

New Shows on the Air

"Your Hollywood Parade"

The third venture into radio by a film studio was instituted Wednesday when the Warner-American Tobacco "Your Hollywood Parade" moved into the microphone. For the record: The first trial was Paramount's, ill-fated and quickly over; the second by M-G-M, still current and improving after a vacillating start. Of the two film studio programs now on the air, Warners' is by far the best.

Headed by Dick Powell, a mike-proved and sure-of-himself em cee, the list of players assembled for the first broadcast included Gary Cooper as guest; Leo Forbstein's orchestra; Rosemary Lane; Rufe Davis; Bette Davis, Olivia de Havilland, Basil Rathbone, Eric Blore and Patric Knowles in a radio version of the film "It's Love I'm After."

The program was entertaining throughout and was soundly if somewhat familiarly produced. Wisely not attempting for a spectacular effect such as M-G-M strove for and which made its first shows so confusing, "Your Hollywood Parade" adhered to a straightforward variety pattern and thus succeeded eminently in its mission of pleasing listeners.

Dick Powell does much to make the hour enjoyable. As em cee he succeeded in keeping the proceedings moving smoothly at top speed, and as a vocalist he is pretty near tops in his field. Forbstein's orchestra is rather weighty, but good; Gary Cooper's monologue titled "The Girl of the Golden West" was a highspot; Rufe Davis contributed amusing ditties and some of his inevitable animal imitations; the dramatization was completely satisfying.

"Hollywood Parade" is offered Wednesdays over the NBC-Red from 10 to 11 P. M. BANNER

Warners Plan 16 - 20 Films For England

Word Comes from Talks Held on the Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—Warners will make from 16 to 20 pictures in England next season, it was indicated yesterday at meetings being held at the studios by Harry M. and Jack L. Warner, Sam E. Morris, head of the company's foreign activities, and Irving Asher, London production head.

Joseph Hummel, foreign manager, had been sitting in on the conferences. He sailed Wednesday on the Mariposa for Sydney, Australia, and other foreign ports.

Warners have been aiming for 20 pictures a year, although it was planned to make 16 next season. Four pictures with a world wide scope have been added to the program. The studio's contract players will be sent to England to appear in the films designed for world distribution.

Asher will remain here until after the holidays and will then return to don. His wife, Laura La Plante, may

Ask Ascap's Gross In Nebraska Fight

LINCOLN, Dec. 10.—Attorney General Hunter of Nebraska went before the U. S. District Court here today and asked for the complete gross receipts of Ascap since 1920, in connection with the Ascap action against state officials to prevent the enforcement of the anti-Ascap legislation enacted last spring. Ascap has obtained a temporary injunction.

In addition, Hunter presented to the court a list of 137 other questions, 63 of them aimed at Gene Buck, president of Ascap.

LAKELAND, Fla., Dec. 10.—Florida's Citrus Commission, which recently contracted for a 26-week series of broadcasts by Emily Post over CBS, meeting yesterday in Lakeland, considered the advisability of canceling the last half of the contract because of the possibility that its efforts might be nullified through the shipment of fruit damaged by cold weather earlier

Film Finance Is Problem of French Trade

Law Governing Industry Expected Shortly

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Dec. 1.—The greatest problem facing the French film industry is that of finance, it is generally conceded, as plans move forward toward the introduction in Parliament of a new measure which is expected to embrace legislation virtually governing the activity of the industry. The bill is the work of Jean Zay, Minister of National Education, who said recently that in the near future he would "present before the Parliament a complete bill which would constitute a real statute of the cinema industry in France." Zay has already begun to consult trade leaders on the subject.

As the situation now stands with respect to production financing, there are

Stanley Statement Stirs Speculation

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The trade was speculating today on the statement of Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, yesterday that the Films Act Committee of the House of Commons at a later date will present an alternative plan to the separate quota proposal which has been advanced.

Although in some quarters the statement is interpreted as indicating an adjustment in the constitution of the proposed Film Council, to permit reconstruction of the whole matter after a given period, others in informed circles are inclined to see the statement as merely a tactical move to accelerate the committee discussions.

Friendly Gesture

London, Dec. 10.—A gesture of cordiality from British officials to American distributors will be made by Lord Mountbatten, who has invited eight distributors, mainly American, to attend a dinner next Tuesday at Mountbatten House to discuss a supply of films for 200 British warships.

The Duke of Kent will be present, and the distributors have been invited to meet the chiefs of the Royal Naval Film Corp. and the Admiralty Board for a discussion of the problem.

A. H. Blank Denies Retirement Report

DES MOINES, Dec. 10.—Somebody lacked a sense of humor at the banquet in honor of A. H. Blank last night and reports were wired out that Blank was retiring from direction of his film enterprises. He denies this emphatically.

The report was caused by one of the banquet stunts—a special edition of a local paper which was misunderstood by a reporter.

Blank said today that he was so unhappy after selling out in 1929 that he will never quit the business again. In refuting the retirement story today he pointed to his talk last night during which he said:

"I will take a vacation trip given me by my organization, as I feel I have the finest organization to be found and can go away for an indefinite period, realizing that Ralph Branton and H. M. Weinberg will do an even better job than if I were present. The loyalty and cooperation of men working with me has been one of my greatest satisfactions for the past 25 years."

Blank dinner at Des Moines Thursday arrived here last night.

U.A. Move to Hold Selznick Is Indicated

His Plans Halted Sale, Is Belief Here

A determined effort to retain David O. Selznick in United Artists producer ranks will be made by the company, it was reported in well informed quarters here yesterday.

Although there are official indications that Selznick has reached an agreement whereby he will release through M-G-M, it is pointed out here that no deal has been signed yet and there is every indication that United Artists will offer the best possible inducements to retain him.

Selznick's determination to withdraw from United Artists in the event that the Samuel Goldwyn-Alexander Korda option for the purchase of the Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford stock was exercised, is believed in financial quarters here to be the real explanation of the collapse of the deal. One account which is credited in responsible quarters is that Goldwyn and Korda were not convinced that Selznick would

Academy Committees On Awards Named

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—The awards committee for the Academy Awards, which will be announced at the annual banquet on March 3, will be headed by Frank Capra, president, and Howard Estabrook, vice-president, for the Academy.

Others include: Actors—Alan Mowbray, Larry Steers and Regis Toomey; Directors—George Cukor, Roland V. Lee and Irving Pichel; Producers—David O. Selznick, Jack Warner and Darryl F. Zanuck; Technicians, Bernard Herzbrun, Major Nathan Levinson and Victor Milner; Writers—Claude Binyon, Oscar Hammerstein, II, and Dwight Taylor.

For the technical awards such as photography, art direction and the like, there is a possibility craft groups outside the Academy Technicians' Branch may be invited to join. Plans for such awards are being worked out by committees which will report to the Capra committee at a meeting Dec. 21.

It is estimated that under the new system, which for the first time will throw the awards balloting open generally to all industry workers, 15,000 will join in the voting. The awards publicity again will be directed by Hal Hall, who did the work last year. Various voting methods still have to be worked out.

Preliminary figures on earnings of Loew's for the first quarter of the fiscal year ended Nov. 25 indicate a net of $1.70 to $1.75 a share on the common. Last year for the corresponding 12 weeks, the net was $2.14 a common share.

An executive of the company yesterday stated that the books for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31 have not yet been closed and therefore it cannot be estimated at this time the earnings during that period. It was estimated to be $9.

Film Finance Is Problem of French Trade

a number of small French companies, very few of which produce more than one or two pictures annually. New capital must be obtained for each film, which usually absorbs all money in production. If the film is a success, the producer gets no return on his money for many months.

It is reported that of the 120 films which will have been produced by the end of 1937, about half have been financed by English money. It is pointed out that French production received its greatest impetus this year from the $3,300,000 loaned by Lloyds of London to French producers.

It is contended that if the French Government is desirous of regulating the industry, it must supply the needed 100,000,000 francs for next year's production. One method of assistance suggested calls for the reduction of the industry's tax burden, which is estimated at 40 per cent of the annual receipts.

Production Cost Jumps

Official figures reveal that the cost of French production, on the average, has increased from 1,850,000 francs per film in 1935 to 2,650,000 francs in October, 1937, a gain which is attributed chiefly to the generally higher costs in the country and new legislation which has increased labor costs sharply.

It is understood the proposed film legislation will regulate, within limits, the type of individual who may produce, with respect to criminal record, will protect the staffs of producers from salary holdout, will regulate distribution and exploitation, regulate special showings, impose a special tax on foreign film dubbing, probably amounting to 22 cents per foot, and require censor approval of scripts prior to production.

The measure also is said to provide for virtual Government regulation of the entire industry, with the creation of a "Chamber of the Cinema," whose membership would include representatives of the industry, labor and the government, and the creation of a central film fund, which would govern all trade operations and financing.

Anti-Trust Appeal Is Filed in Dallas

since all papers had to be signed by him in Brownsville. This was done yesterday and the papers were returned here today. Deadline had been set for Dec. 13.

The appeal is based upon two premises although the appeal is taken from the court's entire decision. The first premise is that each distributor defendant acting independently of any other distributor defendants as owner of a copyrighted film has the legal right to contract with a first exhibitor providing that certain pictures shall not be subsequently shown at admission of less than 25 cents nor as part of a double bill.

The second premise is that there was no evidence showing an agreement, understanding or conspiracy between the several distributor defendants to make such contracts with the exhibitor.

The appeal goes direct to the Supreme Court and will be set down for hearing within 40 days and likely be heard in March or April. U. S. Assistant District Attorney John Erhard said the Government will ask a hearing before Judge Atwell Saturday regarding a statement filed with the appeal. No supersedeas writ has been asked yet but still may be, it is understood.

Reduction on Rialto Assessment Affirmed

The Appellate Division of the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday unanimously affirmed a $300,000 reduction in the assessment of the Rialto Theatre for the years 1935 and 1936, and ordered taxes paid on the basis of the higher assessment returned with interest. Rialto Times Square, Inc., lessees of the theatre, with a 20-year lease as of October, 1934, had asked that the 1935 assessment of $2,825,000 and the 1936 assessment of $2,700,000 be reduced to $1,400,000 each.

Supreme Court Justice Ernest Hammer reduced them to $2,525,000 and $2,400,000, respectively, on April 22. The Commissioner of Taxes and Assessments appealed from the order granting the reduction.

Monogram Charges Infringement

Monogram Pictures Corp. yesterday filed suit in U. S. District Court against Screen Attractions Corp. and M. Kleinerman, who does business as Exhibitors' Film Exchanges and Star Safety Laboratory, for alleged infringement of their picture, "The Girl of the Limberlost." The complaint states the picture was produced in 1934 and the 16 mm. rights were sold to Walter O. Gutlohm, Inc., on Dec. 3, this year. It is alleged that the defendant has been infringing by producing 16 mm. copies of the picture. A permanent injunction, damages and an accounting of profits are asked.

Principal Case Settled

Judge William Bondy in U. S. District Court yesterday approved an out-of-court settlement of the $5,000 breach of contract suit brought by Principal Film Exchanges against Julius Kendis, who operates as Jay Dee Kay Prod. The suit arose out of an alleged contract made in July which granted the plaintiff exclusive distribution rights to "Crusade Against Rackets." It was alleged that the picture was exhibited at the Gaiety in violation of the contract. Details of the settlement were not disclosed.

Approves Weisman Lease

withdraw until E. H. Lever, British financial representative in the deal, was on his way back to London to close the agreement which had been reached here. When the information reached London, according to the account, Casenove, Akroyds and Greenwood & Co. withdrew their offer to advance $4,500,000 cash for the exercise of the options.

With the deal having collapsed and Dr. A. H. Giannini having been reelected president of United Artists, informed sources here believe that Selznick, once more, is open to renewed negotiations with United Artists.

Call Merger Reports False

Financial executives associated with both Paramount and RKO declared yesterday that coast reports that United Artists might be merged with either of those companies were "without any foundation in fact, whatsoever." The positions of the officials who were queried are such that no merger discussions of the kind reported could occur without their being consulted.

Goldwyn's own plans are the subject of widespread conjecture here. Responsible quarters, however, appear to be without definite information as to the producer's attitude.

U. A. Talks Dividend

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—Directors of United Artists in an all-day session today resumed discussions which had been deferred by the Goldwyn-Korda option negotiations. Among the important questions involved was that of dividends for owner-members. No definite action was taken and the matter will come up again at tomorrow's session. The option purchase situation was not discussed.

Next Monday, stockholders will hold an annual meeting at Wilmington without the president. It will be the first meeting he has missed in many years. S. Charles Einfeld, publicity and advertising director, will leave for New York after the first of the year. He has been here for some time reorganizing the studio publicity department.

Crawford Predicts Restriction on Air

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Representative Fred L. Crawford (Rep. Mich.) has predicted a drive against freedom of the press which, if successful, will be extended to radio. He cited the preference of Administration officials for the radio as against the newspapers, because broadcast addresses are "uncontaminated by coincident editorial comment."

In an extension of remarks in the Congressional Record, Congressman Crawford referred to recent criticism of the newspapers by Postmaster General Farley and other officials and to the current efforts of the National Labor Relations Board to interrogate editors as to the source and reason for adverse comment on its activities as indication of a growing resentment in the Administration against newspapers.

The Federal Government has a closer grip on the radio stations than it has on the newspapers, he pointed out, referring to the limited license term and the necessity of securing F. C. C. approval of all alterations and improvements, and broadcast facilities could be readily controlled.

WGNY, Newburgh, today filed with the commission an application for a change of frequency from 1,210 to 1,220 kilocycles and an increase in power from 100 watts to 250 watts, while WBRY, Waterbury, Conn., filed application for a change in power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts.

Competition For Holidays Will Be Keen

Broadway Spots Booking Strong Attractions

Competition will be unusually keen among Broadway houses during Christmas and New Year's weeks with all theatres, except the Rialto, having lined up big attractions for the holiday bills. Arthur Mayer has not completed his bookings for the Rialto, but will probably get set in the next day or so.

Rodgers Undecided On Scully Vacancy

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M, today told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he has not definitely decided on a successor to William A. Scully, eastern district manager. Scully is not present at the district managers' meeting which got under way yesterday at the Palmer House. However, E. K. (Ted) O'Shea, who has been reported as the likely successor, is here.

Rodgers added that he might not announce the new eastern district manager at the local sessions. He also stated that the meetings here are "merely routine and nothing special is planned either in announcements or policies." Sales problems of various kinds will be discussed, he said.

CBF, Canada's 50,000-Watt Unit, Started at Montreal

MONTREAL, Dec. 12. — Canadian Broadcasting Corp. stepped up into the front rank of North American radio systems with the inauguration Saturday of the new 50,000-watt station here, CBF.

This new outlet, operating on 910 kilocycles is the most powerful to date in the Dominion, but will share that honor with a Toronto station when new equipment is inaugurated there Christmas Eve. CBF is to be an all French-language station, but will draw from both Red and Blue networks of NBC for material.

Inaugural ceremonies here Saturday were officiated at by C. D. Howe, Federal Minister of Transport and Ernest Lapointe, Federal Minister of Justice. H. Rooney Pelletier, former Ottawa newspaperman and director of the corporation station CBM here, will also take charge of CBF.

Steady progress is being made in establishing a chain of powerful broadcasting stations for the commission across the Dominion. The beginning was actually made last February when the new 10,000 watt station was opened at Vancouver. It is expected there will be two such stations for the Prairie Provinces and one for the Maritime Provinces will be built soon.

Up to date the corporation has been handicapped in providing an efficient service to the Canadian listeners because of lack of stations of sufficiently high power to compete with interference from certain stations in the United States and across the Mexican border. Another drawback has been

General Move On Economies Is Discussed

Problem May Be Raised At Hays Meeting

Industry conferences on cooperative moves designed to bring current production and distribution costs into line with decreasing grosses are looked upon favorably by numerous ranking industry executives, it has been learned by MOTION PICTURE DAILY, and are looked upon by some of these as essential at this time.

Rising costs and decreasing income are an industry-wide problem, peculiar to no one company, influential officials are agreed. Cooperative action to cope with it is necessary, they state, as individual company action can serve at best as a stop-gap which could not survive a continuing business recession.

Current executive sentiment appears to favor action on the problem, or, at least, generous discussion of it, within the M.P.P.D.A. member ranks. Indications are that the subject may be brought to the fore at the quarterly

Chicago Men Asked To Accept 1% Tax

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The City Council has asked theatremen to agree on a blanket charge of one per cent of their gross receipts in place of the present sliding scale for license fees which is being charged according to the number of seats in theatres.

City officials state this assessment is not unfair and will do much to increase the revenue from theatres to meet a $3,000,000 budget deficiency. Theatre men will report Monday regarding their attitude.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"She's Got Everything"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—Save for a quintet of names with marquee significance, "She's Got Everything" gives showmen little to work with or talk about. The five who wear them—Gene Raymond, Ann Sothern, Victor Moore, Helen Broderick and Parkyakarkus—add nothing to their lustre in this aimless retracing of well worn comedy grooves, and it remains for Solly Ward, listed far down in the cast, to reward the payees with their single substantial return on the ticket investment, a hypnotism sequence that is genuinely funny. Unhappily, the picture is stopped in its tracks immediately thereafter to accommodate an extraordinarily dull night club passage, and it never gets going again.

Raymond is again the rich young man, a coffee king, and Miss Sothern is an impoverished socialite whose creditors finance her through a romantic campaign by which she attracts his interest while working as his secretary. She's without guile in it, but he doesn't know it, and the usual estrangement is ultimately patched up in the incredible fashion incredibly favored by producers, directors, writers (or somebody) this season. (Even more incredible is somebody's belief that there's comedy in the spectacle of a girl repeatedly drinking herself into nausea.)

Fabricators of this singularly regrettable venture are Albert Lewis, producer; Joseph Santley, director; Harry Segall and Maxwell Shane, screen playwrights; all of whom, no doubt, would be pleased to forget the whole affair. The song, "Sleepy Time in Hawaii," by Leon and Otis Rene, may be all right—no tune would have a chance in this setting.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"You're a Sweetheart"

(Universal)

Thoroughly lively and entertaining musical fare has been made of "You're a Sweetheart," with George Murphy and Alice Faye emerging as a first-rate song and dance combination which combines youth, appearance and ability. Miss Faye's singing offers a good voice and top personality, while Murphy turns off a few dancing tricks which impart additional pep to the film.

The film is a trifle long, but has been produced with attention to detail, considerable elaboration and high grade production values. It is fast-stepping from the start and David Butler, director, and Buddy De Sylva, producer, have seen to it that the pace is maintained throughout. The support cast is strong, featuring Ken Murray, Oswald, Andy Devine, William Gargan, Charles Winninger and Donald Meek. Monte Brice and Charles Grayson, who did the screenplay, have written a speedy show, from the novel original by Maxwell Shane and Bill Thomas, while the music, by Harold Adamson and Jimmy McHugh, should keep feet tapping and send audiences out humming.

It is a picture the showmen should have no problem in selling, and which, he may be assured, will please his audience. The gay high spots include a dance routine by Murphy and Miss Faye, the comedy of Devine and Winninger, and an entertaining mock courtroom scene in which Miss Faye is charged, via song and dance, with the murder of "Maggie"—by imparting swing to the old folk song.

Murphy, writer, gives Producer Murray a publicity idea for putting over his musical show, which includes buying out the house for a week, posing as an oil man from Oklahoma—since the show's title is "Oh, Oh, Oklahoma," and pretending to fall in love with the star, Miss Faye. But the love idea really works, and along with that arise the usual financial problems in production. The ruse is discovered, everything almost collapses, but the success of the show saves the day for the producer and the romance for Miss Faye and Murphy.
